The man who led the newcomers at the polls — Ken Soden — spoke only briefly, as did most of the candidates, winners or losers.

Conceded Alderman Frank Murray: "It's a great responsibility to have this job and it's one I will try to carry out to the best of my ability in the coming term."

Thant's Illness Delays Efforts For UN Accord

By CARMAN CUMMING
UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN General Assembly entered its second week today in final fall session today with no indication that negotiations over the crisis on peacekeeping finances had left dead centre.

Informed sources said the negotiations were being delayed by the illness of Secretary-General U Thant, in hospital suffering from gastritis and possible peptic ulcers.

Thant has been sidelined since last Thursday with what was first described as a cold and fatigue.

The sources said Thant, on his return, will probably act as a sort of moderator in resumed talks between the U.S. and the Soviet Union over the Soviet refusal to pay peace-keeping assessments levied by the General Assembly.

Hoist by His Own Petard?

A U.S. engineer has been charged with damaging government property, by shooting at military jet planes passing near his farm on takeoff from a nearby U.S.A.F. base. The F.B.I. says he shot at, and hit, at least five planes.

There is nothing surprising about the incident. Jet planes make a lot of noise, and engineers who move to farms usually do it for the peace and quiet.

Lots of people nowadays feel persecuted by machines making too much noise, taking their jobs, and generally disturbing a planned or accustomed pattern of life. Sabotage on British naval ships a few years ago was traced to seamen who resented the machines that could do their jobs better than they could themselves. Small towns on highways put up speed limits to slow the highway traffic passing through their centres, and, when the towns grow, some downtown businessmen and the public complain about traffic congestion and the lack of parking.

Some, but not all, of these complaints are justified. If the engineer, for instance, bought the farm after the air base was in operation, (and the air base is not new), he should have known the base was there. He may even have bought the farm at a low price because of the field.

Some of the seamen who sabotaged the naval equipment probably joined the service after the equipment was installed, and certainly most small towns complaining about traffic on highways were built where they stand just because of those highways. Similarly, the downtown businessmen who complain of traffic congestion and lack of parking are in business downtown just because of the heavy traffic in that area.

The Jurists and Fanny Hill

The Ontario Appeal Court has ruled that "Fanny Hill" is fit for the public to read.

If we have no quarrel with that decision, it is because we do not believe that it is possible to write anything unfit for an adult to read.

Readin- leaves few scars. If it were otherwise we would all be perverts, sadists, murderers, thieves and rogues.

We must add, though, that if "Fanny Hill" does not come within the Criminal Code's definition of obscenity, we are at a loss to understand what does.

Chief Justice Dana Porter said: "Read as a whole, the book has not that aura of morbidity or the degree of suggestive pruriency which might render it obscene within the meaning of the (criminal) code."

This is probably good law. There is nothing morbid about the book; Fanny was thoroughly enjoying herself. Nor was there much, if anything, which could be called suggestive within the usual meaning of that word; a full statement of facts can hardly be called a suggestion.

Still, if morbidity and suggestive pruriency are necessary for a remark to qualify as obscene within the meaning of the criminal code, then the poor wretches who appear in magistrate's court charged with uttering obscenities while drunk are as innocent as Fanny. Their language, too, is lively and to the point.

And just as uninteresting.

That, of course, is the trouble with Fanny Hill. Reading it involves a criminal waste of time.

The Other Barbarians

Daily the barbarity of the Congolese rebels is flashed across the headlines of North American newspapers.

We read of their atrocities and state to one another that these inhuman acts are the works of savages, and something peculiar to the Congo.

How short our memories are. World War Two ended nearly twenty years ago and in it some of the greatest atrocities man ever inflicted upon man, death chambers, death marches, starvation prison camps—were carried out.

Disgraceful as the barbarity of the Congolese rebels has been, we, the so-called civilized peoples of Europe and North America, can not condemn too loudly. Twentieth century man wears too thin a mask over his primitive side.

Graham Greene hunts down fear wherever he can find it, in all his novels, in order to discover the point of courage in people, the point where they will not break. The author is a kind of surgeon of the spirit. How strangely (he notices) pity and cruelty consort together. How incompatible are pity and love. How close are terror and courage. Such themes are to be found in all his serious books.—Author V. S. Pritchett speaking on the BBC.

To Your Good Health
Fast Living, Not Illness, College Student's Problem

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 19-year-old nephew has mononucleosis. H. is on bed rest but he thinks after he is allowed up, he can continue his teenage activities. These, unfortunately, during his year in college included much drinking and partying. What is the cure needed for recuperation? Does alcohol have a bad effect on a person who has this disease? — Mrs. L. M.

Infectious mononucleosis has a notorious tendency to result in lapses if the patient does not give it time to be fully cured.

Alcohol has no particular effect except as a depressant and possible irritant of the liver. Poor diet, too little rest, and a number of other obvious violations of the rules of healthful living can be harmful too.

The real problem for this 19-year-old boy isn't the question of how long it takes him to recover from his mononucleosis. The question is whether he will have the good sense to curtail what the partying and the alcohol are going to do to him, and to his school career. These habits are going to be worse for him than the mononucleosis.

Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor says I have probably glycosuria instead of diabetes because I only "throw sugar" after several heavy meals, and I do not have any of the "classical symptoms." What is the difference between H and diabetes? I am 60 and have no family history of this trouble. Is Cautions me to watch my weight and says I do not need medication. — M. T. Glycosuria is sugar in the urine) can occur after meals containing large amounts of sugar and starch and is then called alimentary or intestinal glycosuria.

We know from experience that many individuals with this condition are mild diabetics or may become diabetics.

The question is whether the sugar content of the blood also becomes abnormally high, and a sugar tolerance test (series of blood sugar tests) will determine whether diabetes is present.

Thus, in your case, if you do not have diabetes, you will be wise to follow your doctor's advice. Watch your weight. It is one of the most important steps in warding off diabetes.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is "retroversion of the uterus." What causes it? Will it have any effect on my health later on. I am 21 and single. — Miss D. R.

The uterus normally tips forward and is held in place by ligaments. If these are relaxed, stretched or (perhaps just because of some defect in development) the uterus may tip backward. This is "retroversion of the uterus."

It occurs in about 15 percent of all women, and in a great many cases it causes no trouble and warrants no treatment or worry.

It will not affect your health. The problem, in severe cases, is that this backward tilt can make pregnancy difficult. Surgery can correct the condition.

At your age and single state, I would wait and see whether surgery is advisable. A good deal depends on the degree of retroversion — what did your doctor say about it?

Long Parliament
Vancouver Province

Significantly enough, the present session of the House of Commons is becoming known as the "long Parliament," for it has had and squabbled longer than any in Canadian history.

There was a "long Parliament" in English history that was finally told: "You have sat here too long. In the name of God, Go!"

This expresses the exasperation of many Canadians with the chronic fumbling going on in Ottawa.

Strictly Personal
Parishioners Attracted By Ritual

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In his interesting new book, "A Time for Christian Candor," Bishop James A. Pike of the Episcopal Diocese of California points out that the three essentials of religion are Creed, Code and Cult.

But while Creed and Code are the more important elements in the religious life, he goes on to say, "for most churchgoers, Cult is the religion."

The Creed of the church and the Code of the church "are slowly sort of what is talked about in the services — with little bearing on attitudes and decision — making throughout the week." For many, he says, "their religion is the Sunday service and rites that touch the family life."

As an amusing and pathetic example, Bishop Pike cites the case of a rector who introduced the custom of having an acolyte carry the American flag in the procession which opened the service, the flag then being placed in the sanctuary.

After his retirement, the new rector discontinued the custom, for reasons of no particular consequence. "But this change" aroused the flock, "brought about a great contention in the parish, in the home meeting, a large vowed the they would not return to worship in the church until the flag was restored to the procession."

No theological or liturgical grounds were given for their position. Rather, "in addition to thinking the rector unpatriotic" — and perhaps under some Communist influence — they undertlied the assertions that 'the flag has always been used in the service,' and that 'it is done everywhere else.' Actually, both statements were deliberately untrue.

At the same time, the new rector, in preaching, lapsed into heresy after heresy: he preached Gnosticism on the Trinity, Pelagianism on Salvation, Adoptionism and Apollinarianism on Christ, and so on. "None of this caused so much as a ripple," comments Bishop Pike. "But the flag issue split the congregation, several versus modern hymns, and "the nature, number, form and indispensability of various sacraments and rites," are what upset and disturb parishioners. These things, to them, are the core of religion, and not the theological creed (which they scarcely comprehend) or the code of ethics (which is considered too stringent to take seriously in daily practice).

Figures on growing church attendance have been cited as evidence of a "religious revival" in American life. But if Creed and Code are subordinated to Cult, if carrying the flag seems more crucial than living the faith, such figures are meaningless, or even ominous.

Ottawa Offbeat
Canada Hits the Big Time, Called a 'Potential Aggressor'

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Could it be that Canada is getting itself into the big league internationally? Despite the public attitudes of the Honorable Oom Paul Martin?

Could be!

And, strange to say, if we are, a lot of the credit will have to go to Oom Paul.

He is the man that Opposition members find so frustrating during question periods in the House because he can reply to a 10-word question with 200 words without ever answering the question.

Frustrating this may be to Tory members of Parliament, but maybe it works a different way around the international diplomatic circles he travels.

At any rate, he must be at least half responsible (the other half going to Prime Minister Pearson) for the recent gathering here of delegates from 23 smaller nations within the UN.

For a week, in relative privacy, they discussed the possibility of establishing some sort of co-ordinated international military force to act for the UN in the event of brush-fire wars anywhere in the world.

Considering the fact that none of the nations represented (particularly Canada) has either the defence or means of launching war on anybody, the response of Russia was strange. Maybe even amusing.

Russia called Canada "a potential aggressor" for being host at the meetings and voiced suspicion of all other nations represented.

AGGRESSOR?

Perhaps there is fair enough reason for Russia to be suspicious, particularly under new rulers who may want some brush-fire wars — but to call this country a "potential aggressor" is another matter.

In the past, such a title has always been handed to the United States and Britain — when Russia was in the mood to hand out titles.

Could it be, then, as we suggested, that Canada has really been recognized in the big league?

Such prestige! Such a gain in recognition!

And we owe it all to Oom Paul. And Lester. Or do we?

What was actually being put forward was an extension of activities which Canada has been taking part in since the time of the Suez crisis — and those activities stemmed entirely from the efforts at the UN of Mr. Pearson, who was then Canada's external affairs minister.

His efforts then are responsible for the fact we still have forces patrolling the Gaza Strip between Israeli and Egyptian armies.

The extension of those efforts accounts for the presence of other Canadian forces in the Kashmir, Indo-China, the Congo and Cyprus.

In all these places Canada has taken the part of peace-maker (albeit by means of rifles, machine-guns and armored cars in some cases).

The intent has been to keep hostile groups from shooting up each other and, by and large, it has worked.

IT WORKS

If it has worked in those places because, mainly, of Canadian influence, how much better might it work in other places because of the influence of 23 nations — or more?

The idea batted about at the Ottawa meetings was to provide airborne and seaborne troops, plus limited naval and air power, available on almost a moment's notice at the call of the UN, to intervene in brush-fire wars anywhere in the world.

The talks must have reached some point of agreement and of success, for it's known how Oom Paul answers in private meetings!) because Canada has already started along the path towards such a force.

Aircraft are on order which are capable of delivering troops and equipment to any point in the world and the government has established a 3,000 - man force of specially-trained troops dedicated to UN use.

They are to be based at Camp Petawawa, 100 miles northeast of here, and an airfield will be built at the camp to handle the special aircraft.

Perhaps other of the 23 nations who met here are doing the same thing at present and that means the meeting was a success.

Perhaps also, then, we shall have to give Oom Paul some credit, for such forces may well save the world from major war someday.

But we must not forget that Canada has also won the status of "potential aggressor" in official Russian eyes — a promotion, indeed. Thanks, Oom Paul.

If we are in such a class, it provides better reason to say some sort of new flag really is needed.

The financial position of the city of Belleville is rated among the best in the Province of Ontario, City Comptroller told the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon. "Industries will locate here because while industry looks for low taxation, it is also interested in low taxation for employees."

The city, he concluded, covered an area of 1,800 acres with 55 miles of street and 80 miles of concrete sidewalk. On the streets 730 cubic yards of cinders are used besides 30 tons of salt. Snow and ice removal costs usually amount to around $8,000 annually if violent storms do not occur. Approximately $10,000 yearly are spent on city streets.

On Wednesday of this week two wedding anniversaries were observed in this city; Mr. and Mrs. S. Schryer of Richland Avenue, observed their 40th anniversary, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Belleville Girl Recruiting Civil Rights Workers After Summer in Deep South

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — A pretty, quiet-spoken Canadian girl who spent last summer as a civil rights worker in Mississippi has come home to talk to Canadians and persuade them to help.

Diane Burrows, 22 - year - old native of Belleville, Ont., spent her first year after graduating from the University of Toronto working at a girls' reform school in Jamaica under the Canadian University Students Overseas organization.

Back in Canada, Miss Burrows read about volunteer projects proposed for Mississippi. On her own initiative she got in touch with the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC) and went to Biloxi, Miss., for the summer.

What she wants from Canadians is awareness and involvement.

"I'm always asked: 'Why bother? It's an American problem. Why don't you stay in Canada and work for the Indians and Eskimos?'"

She says that someday she might find a way to apply what she is learning in Canada but "Meanwhile, discrimination is a world affair; you can't circumscribe a human problem."

Miss Burrows, who worked last summer among whites trying to persuade them to take a stand against segregation, plans to go back to the South at the first of the year.

SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

Until then she will be working for the SNCC — a group of young people in Canadian soil. She has spoken to student and church groups in Kingston, Ont., Belleville and London, Ont., and plans to go to Ottawa and Montreal.

She also had word that people in Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver are interested, Miss Burrows says.

SNCC supplies background literature and films to support groups. And the 72 - member Toronto group has a seminar planned for next fall.

Such activities foster awareness and understanding and help shape outside opinion which will have its effect in the United States, Miss Burrows says.

She says she is not actively recruiting Canadians but if they say, "I'd love to go to Mississippi, how do I go?" I tell them. They can write to the SNCC office at 84½ Raymond St., Atlanta, Ga.

But even those who don't intend to go themselves can help. Money and supplies are needed for volunteers, who work without pay, and for victims of violence—bombed-out families or families whose wage-earner has been killed, injured or jailed.

TARGET SURPASSED

They are needed also for freedom schools, Miss Burrows says.

The schools are organized and staffed by volunteer teachers who teach remedial work to fill out poor educations, teach Negro history, political science and creative writing to encourage a new self - expression among Negroes.

The goal was to set up 20 schools but there was so much response that 35 have been established, attended by about 2,100 students daily, Miss Burrows says.

The schools were often the target of violence.

"The school in Vicksburg, Ont. was destroyed recently by an 8,000-volume library was wiped out."

She says the money she has raised so far in Canada has been negligible. But with financing her own work at first on a part-time job but now has some help from SNCC and has free time to get to other cities.

Besides speaking, Miss Burrows says she is helping to arrange a money-raising tour for a group called the Freedom Singers. The six-girl, two boy will give a series of concerts in January, probably in cities from Windsor, Ont., to Montreal.

Diane says that when she returns to the U.S. she would like to teach in a freedom school, possibly in another state. "They are hoping to extend these projects across the so-called black belt in the south."

Freedom schools are encouraging Negro adults to become politically involved, to go to school themselves and to work as volunteers in freedom projects, she says.

"They are not just summer projects now. They are still going on, and at considerable sacrifice."

Ann Landers

This Problem Has No Place for Outsiders

DEAR ANN LANDERS — A few days ago I witnessed an incredible scene. A hulk of a middle-aged man, about 60 pounds overweight, was sprawled across the form of his critically ill mother as she lay semiconscious in a hospital bed. The man was sobbing uncontrollably, begging his mother to try to remember what she had done with her will—the one leaving everything to him.

ANN LANDERS

The other members of the family were outraged by his indecent display of avarice. Suddenly he pulled himself together and bellowed, "I hope you have good hospitalization insurance, Mother. These lingering illnesses can cost a fortune."

His brothers and sisters want nothing more to do with him and he has asked me to patch things up. He said his mother loved peace and harmony and that she would be unhappy about the trouble in the family.

I believe they are justified in drumming him out of the tribe. What shall I do? — THERE.

* * *

DEAR THERE — Stay out of this meat grinder. Whatever truce you might negotiate would be short-lived at best. This is their problem and it should be settled by them.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a married woman with two teen-age children. Five years ago I became involved with a bachelor and became pregnant. My doctor told me I had a tumor — until I was seven months along. You can imagine my shock when he told me I would have a baby within eight weeks.

The little boy is almost three years old, and unfortunately, is a carbon copy of my bachelor friend. No one has said anything but a person would have to be blind not to see the resemblance.

Should I tell the boy who his real father is as soon as he is old enough to go to school? I'm afraid if I don't tell him soon, one else will and I'd hate to have the child hurt that way. I need your advice. — VIRGO.

* * *

DEAR VIRGO — Many look-alikes are not related. Because of your guilty conscience you probably are exaggerating the resemblance in your mind's eye.

Don't tell the child — or anyone else — that your husband is not the boy's father. And for heaven's sake, get another doctor ! ! !

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My wife is one of the sweetest girls in the world. Delores has given me a fine family and we have just about everything we could ask for.

The problem is that whenever we go to a party Delores passes out cold at a mackerel after two cocktails. The poor girl gets into arguments and says insulting things to her best friends. When she begins to remember what she said and did she goes into a depression.

I know Delores is not an alcoholic because she never drinks at home — only when we go out. Moreover, if she were an alcoholic she'd be able to hold more than two drinks, wouldn't she?

This has been going on for two years. Every time it happens Delores takes an oath on her mother's life that she will never touch another drop of alcohol but when she gets out of my sight at a party she's as good as passed out. What can I do to help her. — D.F.L.

* * *

DEAR D.F.L. — Your wife's form of alcoholism is unusual. And she needs help. It's useless, however, to try to force help on people who do not believe they need it. When (and if) she expresses the need for help, suggest A.A.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 25c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

University Women's Club Holds Annual Christmas Dinner Party

On December third, members of the University Women's Club of Belleville and District met in the Pinnacle Room of the Quinte Hotel for their annual Christmas dinner party. The diners were seated at festively decorated tables for eight, with a member of the executive as hostess at each table. Conveners-in and fellowship were enhanced by a change of seats between courses. The guests were warmly welcomed by the president, Mrs. R. E. Barrett, and Mrs. R. G. Walsh gave the grace.

Following the traditional turkey dinner, carol singing was led by Mrs. J. Boyd with Mrs. V. L. Lewis at the piano. Mrs. W. C. Pryor, accompanied by Miss Lamoine West, gave a solo performance of "A Christmas Story," some of the lyrics being of her own composition.

NEW MEMBERS

Mrs. P. Harris, membership chairman, was in charge of the introduction of new members. Mrs. R. Clark, Mrs. Belinda Erickson, Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Mrs. T. J. Lally, Mrs. H. W. S. Lebel, Mrs. F. H. McCall, Mrs. W. H. McMillen, Mrs. H. V. Parley, Mrs. K. F. Wormwald and Miss Sandra Saunders were welcomed warmly by various members with a brief life story. Some of those, which has become the custom, were in verse. Mrs. Barrett expressed the regret of the club at the imminent departure of Mrs. T. H. McQuaid for Toronto and wished her happiness in her new home.

SEASONAL THEME

The program continued on the seasonal theme with piano selections by Mrs. V. L. Lewis, Mrs. J. Boyd, accompanied by Miss West, sang two solos. Carol singing concluded the pleasant evening. Mrs. Barrett thanked the members at large, Mrs. R. W. Case and Mrs. L. D. Read for their well-planned and executed arrangements for a most successful and enjoyable Christmas party and wished everyone a happy holiday season.

Susanna's Family Fare

PARTY PITFALLS

Dear Susanna: We have only been married 4 weeks and are planning our first dinner party for guests. This is to include my husband's employer and his wife.

I am not in the least worried about the preparations, but I am terrified that the conversation will suddenly die or there will be other awkward moments.

How do those scintillating hostesses one reads about overcome such pitfalls? — Ambitious Wife

Here are three rules — I can give you many more — but these will set you through the party.

(a) Brief yourself beforehand on a few suitable topics of conversation. Generally, a current sports event, a controversial play, movie or book, or the political situation in some other country (local politics can get hotter than the special horse radish you prepared for the spare rib) qualifies. Try to be informed about some project favored by each guest, then you are ready to switch the conversation at the drop of a harsh word.

(b) Really care about each person in your party. Let their interests and feelings predominate your thoughts — and in this respect do watch out for the slow eater. See that he is not left alone — at all alone — but keep a goodly portion of food on your own plate with which you can match him mouthful for mouthful until he has finished his last asparagus spear.

(c) Lastly, buy yourself a ledger to record the likes and dislikes of your guests — this includes food, beverage, work, recreation, allergies, families, etc. — and build it up over the years to come. Happy holidays. — SUSANNA

SLIP, ZIP

Dear Susanna: I am simply exasperated trying to wrestle with stuck snow boot zippers. These aren't old rusty ones, mind you, but fairly new (just this year).

By the time I have three young ones ready to go outside, I'm ready to go back to bed!

Do other women have this much trouble trying to lodge stubborn zippers? — Exasperated!

In the first place, an old shoe lace doubled and threaded through the metal zipper tab gives one something to which to tug and is sure a lot easier on the fingernails.

Secondly, since a slippery added zipper slider is quicker, try rubbing a piece of soap up and down each side whenever trouble starts.

I have even seen a shoe store salesman do this when fitting children's brand new boots. Or a drop of clear household oil now and then is helpful, being careful of course to blot up any excess. — SUSANNA

Natural Winter Setting Theme At Wellington UCW Bazaar

WELLINGTON — The United Church centennial parlor and church hall was the scene of activity as the UCW held their annual Christmas bazaar and tea. Mrs. H. Ebert was responsible for the decorations using a natural winter setting with Mr. Snowman dominating the scene.

Receiving the many guests was the UCW president, Mrs. Clarence Hicks, assisted by Mrs. Treax, wife of the minister of the church.

Miss Viola Vallesu supervised the tearoom which was appropriately decorated with Mr. and Mrs. Snowman atop the piano singing Christmas carols. Small tables in the centennial parlor had white cloths, a base with candles, and Santa centered in each. An impressive winter scene was arranged with a reflector and a church building.

POURING TEA

Pouring tea were the four unit leaders, Mrs. C. Cleave, Mrs. S. Foster, Mrs. H. Pierson (for Mrs. C. Campbell) and Mrs. C. Burr.

Mrs. B. Cronk and Mrs. P. Elliott were hostesses in the tea room with Mrs. G. Taylor and Mrs. Struthers assisting. Other members prepared and served the delicious sandwiches, cakes and tea. Mrs. G. Parks was ticket convener.

BAZAAR ITEMS

In the church hall tables displaying the bazaar articles were set up. Mrs. B. Head and her committee looked after the bake table; Mrs. R. Pine and assistants attended the salads and supper dishes at the delicatessen table; Mrs. R. Boyce and Mrs. J. McNeil covered the candy table. A collection of Explorer crafts was displayed and sold by Mrs. R. Andreau and Mrs. K. Hubbard.

An attractive collection of Christmas candles and decorations constituted the table convened by Mrs. H. Ebst and her assistants.

Aprons were displayed by Mrs. N. Allison and fancy work by Mrs. W. Jackson and their committees. A fishpond entertained the children, with Mrs. E. Maybee and Mrs. F. Marshall attending this booth.

Appreciation was extended to all who assisted in any way to make this a successful event.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

A bridge marathon, sponsored by the ladies of St. Thomas' Church, came to a successful conclusion on Monday afternoon in the form of a party.

Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon and Mrs. Irene Trudeau captured the first prize, with Mrs. Jean May and Mrs. Hazel Pugh gaining second place, in the marathon play. Mrs. A. S. McConnell and Mrs. Norman Edwards won the consolation prize for the marathon.

Winners for the day, were Mrs. Kay Clarke, 1st; Mrs. Gordon Vince, 2nd, and Miss Lorna Riggs, consolation. There were two lucky draw prizes, which were won by Mrs. Ruth Anderson and Mrs. Erma McElrath.

The prizes were presented by Mrs. Reta Lawrence, who expressed much appreciation to the ladies who supported the marathon, and to Mrs. O. Hales and Mrs. M. Davison who so ably organized this event.

Successful Living

Religious Evolution Perturbs Churchgoer

DEAR DORIS — My husband, who is a good Christian man, has not attended any church for years. He studies his Bible, prays and offers grace at meals, but his views and the average church views differ and he cannot conscientiously attend.

Now I know he should have a Christian burial when his time comes, but who could I ask to preside at the service or grave?

I have been a member of a church for about four years but am thinking of leaving for various reasons. Their new curriculum does not appeal to me as I believe in the Bible as the story of the Adamic race and I believe in the miracles which the church is discarding. — SENIOR CITIZEN.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR SENIOR CITIZEN — The New Curriculum, with its undertaking to reconcile the Bible with modern science, is a stumbling block for some. Perhaps it would surprise you to know that this is far from the first time in church history when those advancing new scientific theories were condemned as heretics.

Who would now consider that to say the world is round is denying the Bible?

Looking for help for you, I discussed your letter with a theologian and scholar who has served the United Church for 50 years. He is Dr. Howard Outerbridge, President Emeritus of Kwansei Gakuin University, Kobe, Japan.

As a result he has written a letter explaining things. In part he says: "Both science and the story of the Bible are revelations which God has given us, and both are true." The points he makes are convincing.

I am sending you a copy of his letter, which is entitled "The New Curriculum, The Church, and Science." Anyone may have a copy by writing in and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I'm going with this fellow and he's from Europe, and he's been here now for four years. What I want to know is, does he or doesn't he have to take out his Canadian citizenship papers when five years are up?

He says he doesn't have to, as he has property in the old country and if he takes out Canadian papers he won't be able to go there and take care of the property; he goes every summer.

We want to get married but this is causing our problems. He says he will take your advice. — M.E.J.

DEAR M.E.J. — When a European migrates to Canada, it is a matter of choice whether he takes out citizenship papers. Most people want to. He should discuss his situation with the nearest headquarters of the Citizenship Branch, Department of Citizenship and Immigration.

Surprise Party Marks 25th Anniversary

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson of Corbyville were pleasantly surprised at their home when approximately 45 guests were present to mark the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary which will occur on December 25th.

Mr. John McInroy was master of ceremonies for the evening and invited the guests to seats of honor. Mr. George Bound of Campbellford, groomsman at the wedding read an appropriate address previous to the presentation of a four-piece bridge set, a Kroehler rocker, a painting, a leather footstool, a silver bonbon dish, an aluminum sandwich plate and a number of beautiful cards.

During the entertainment portion Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Carr of Campbellford showed slides of their trip to the West Coast last summer which were thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

A tasty lunch was served complete with beautifully decorated anniversary cake, a gift of Mrs. George Bound who attended the "bride" at the wedding.

Present for the occasion were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howes, the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Harry Thompson of West Huntingdon and their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have two children, Mrs. Ted (Carolyn) Parks of Bramalea, Ontario and Keith of Kingston who arranged the event. Also in attendance were three granddaughters - Lorraine, Charlene and Kimberly Parks and a great nephew and niece, Randy and Tracy Jacobs; also Mr. and Mrs. George Bound, attendants at the ceremony 25 years ago.

Mother's Helper

ONE EFFECTIVE way to divert a child's attention from a minor bump is for you to pretend to put the hurt on yourself, brush it off, and step on it. The youngster's wails usually give way to an active interest in helping to stamp out the thrown-away hurt.

SIDNEY SOUTH W.I.

The Christmas meeting of Sidney South W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Sutherland with a good attendance.

During the business period Mrs. Ken Bush stated that 16 members are taking the course on "Focus on Finishes" with next meeting to be held at her home on January 8. Mrs. Ken Jones gave pointers on buying electric shavers, doll carriages, Christmas cards and chemistry sets as noted in the Consumer's Magazine.

Mrs. M. Nobes introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Connie Richardson, who gave a demonstration on Tri-Chem, a fascinating hobby in painting or lapid embroidery. After showing the ladies many pieces of painting she gave each member the equipment to produce a picture of her own.

Mrs. Ted Alkens thanked Mrs. Richardson for her interesting demonstration of a product new to this area.

An exchange of Christmas gifts among the members followed and Christmas gifts were given to inmates of a mental hospital. Lunch was served by Mrs. Sutherland and her assistant hostesses and a social half-hour enjoyed by all.

Argyll Chapter IODE Makes Plans For Season

The regular monthly meeting of the Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. took the form of a pot luck dinner held in the home of Mrs. A. S. McConnell.

Following a sumptuous meal the Regent declared the meeting open for business and after the opening prayer the colors were brought forward.

The members presented their gifts to be given to the mental society and also Christmas cards and stamps for the Country Home.

Reports from several conveners were given. Plans for Christmas gifts and treats to the adopted school were finalized by Mrs. H. G. Birkenshaw, Mrs. A. Duffy reported on plans for welfare.

Mrs. K. D. H. Willcocks, convener of the Boxing Day tea, made her arrangements for assistants. Tentative plans were also made for the annual Winter fantasy to take place late in January.

Volunteers were solicited to assist at the blood donor clinic to be held in Education Hall B.G.H., December 17th.

Allocations of funds were discussed and donations made to the different departments — Lucy Morrison fund; Second War Memorial fund; Services at Home and Abroad; Provincial Representative fund; Film Board; Commonwealth Relations fund; Overseas Relief; Korean fund; National Shipping fund; Peace Gardens; National Employees Pension fund; Centennial fund. Included with these are the local commitments, bursaries, welfare, I.O.D.E. calendars, royal photographs, etc.

Four of us — just everyday family — sat around the dining-room table with a chafing dish steaming over a flame. At my bidding they were pretending they were standing around a buffet party table where this chipped beef rare bit was being served.

I had doubts about its popularity but they were all dispelled.

CHIPPED BEEF RAREBIT
(serves 4 generously — double to serve 8 or 10):

Notes: 1) This was designed for chafing dish service, but of course may be made on top of the stove. 2) Stand your chafing dish pan over low heat on top of stove to start this unless you have plenty of time and lots of sterno.

2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons chopped Spanish onion, 4 oz. chipped beef, torn apart (see below), 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ½ cup sliced canned or 1 cup fresh sliced mushrooms, 1 cup grated old Cheddar cheese, 1 cup dairy sour cream.

Gently saute the onion in the butter in chafing pan of ch-fing dish until onion is transparent. Stir in the flour until it is blended with the butter, then stir in the milk until thick. Pull the paper-thin slices of chipped beef apart — each roughly into 4 pieces or a little, smaller. (My chipped beef came in a plastic wrap and cost 53c) Add to pan. Add also the mushrooms, cheese and sour cream. Heat through, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted and rarebit is very hot. If raw mushrooms are used this cooks them sufficiently.

I was in a hurry and in addition wanted to try some dairy case "sweetmilk biscuits". So I baked the biscuits as package directed at 475 deg. Fahr. and split the luscious things and served my rarebit over them. This is a terrific idea for career girls who want to entertain on the run.

See next Wednesday, December 16th, for Meat Balls Stroganoff which may be made in your chafing dish also.

sion of municipal terms and franchises, and other local issues.

APPROVE FLUORIDATION

Fluoridation of water supplies as a preventative for tooth decay won approval in Oshawa and Belleville, with a few other results on the issue expected today.

Sunday movies were voted in at Smiths Falls, Stoney Creek, Peterborough and Tilbury, but rejected in Orillia and Brantford. Sunday sports were approved in Ottawa, Peterborough and Woodstock.

Liquor votes were split in results reported Monday night with Lancaster, 14 miles east of Cornwall, approving the sale of beer and wine in the community while the vote failed by a narrow margin in Wallaceburg, near Chatham, to vote in liquor and dining lounges.

On municipal issues, Belleville residents voted for a reduction in the number of councillors from 14 to 10. That city elected seven councillors this year, while the mayor and the other seven were elected last year for two-year terms. Peterborough voted for an extension of the franchise to residents of a year or more standing.

Money bylaws for a municipal swimming pool in the small community of Verner near North Bay and for an artificial ice rink in the Ottawa Valley atomic community of Deep River were turned down. But voters in Thedford in western Ontario voted in a $32,500 bylaw for street reconstruction and paving.

WANT STAGGERED TERMS

Deep River approved staggered two - year terms of office for council members.

In Tilbury, on the border of Kent and Essex counties, daylight time was approved by a narrow majority. Essex County stays on standard time during the summer months.

Upset mayoral defeats were registered in Niagara Falls and St. Thomas. In Niagara Falls, Mayor Franklin Miller, who had held office for six years, lost to Councilman Robert Kaplan. Mayor Vincent Barrie, seeking his fourth consecutive two - year term, lost in St. Thomas to Alderman Donald Stokes.

But Mayor Richard Beckett of Brantford, whose first two terms were won by acclamation, won a third at the polls over former Alderman Kenneth McColeman. And in Chatham Garnet Newkirk won his seventh term as mayor — coming back after a year's retirement — by defeating incumbent Metro Sass.

A second radio station owner running Monday, Dr. Elmer Emard of Cornwall, defeated Cornwall Mayor Nicholas Lanch after losing to Mr. Kaneb in two previous elections.

CHAMP LOSES

In other contests, former mayor Wilbur Cramp of Orillia lost in a bid to become deputy reeve. Last week a grand jury returned three true bills against him in connection with Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company stocks. A judge will rule Dec. 14 on a defence motion to quash the bills.

In Port Elgin, Mayor W. A. Davey, who fought with his council over the dismissal of the town's police force, was re-elected to - fourth term while two councillors who sought re-election were defeated, leaving the town with a new council. The results came on the eve of a hearing by the Ontario Police Commission into the dispute.

In the 20 city elections, including Eastview in Ottawa, mayors were elected in 14. Besides Sarnia, there were mayoralty acclamations in Galt, Woodstock, Oshawa and Orillia, and one contest this year in Belleville. Hamilton and Welland held elections last week and London votes next Monday. The other Ontario cities are in an off year because of the two-year term.

Liquor Control Act Condemned By Lawyer

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto lawyer condemned Ontario's Liquor Control Act and the province's bail procedures Monday and believes a one-man royal commission on civil rights.

The lawyer, William Horkins, said many provisions of the Liquor Control Act are repugnant to legal principles and the concept of liberty of the individual.

A section that allows police to search any building merely on the suspicion that liquor might be kept there for sale was termed an astounding piece of legislation.

Mr. Horkins told the commissioner, former chief justice J. C. McRuer of the Supreme Court of Ontario, there is no reason why a policeman cannot obtain a search warrant if he thinks there are reasonable and probable grounds to believe an offence is being committed.

Yet, without a search warrant, a policeman can search anything at all on the contention that he is looking for liquor. Mr. Horkins called this "unjustifiable and inherently dangerous."

MUST PROVE INNOCENCE

He said another section of the Liquor Control Act puts the onus on a suspected bootlegger to prove his innocence. The prosecutor has only to allege that an offence had been committed.

Under this section, Mr. Horkins said, a policeman "could force his way into my home at any time, could seize liquor, could charge me either with illegal possession or with keeping it for sale, and the onus would be upon me to demonstrate my innocence."

Mr. Horkins also criticized the practice of keeping persons in jail overnight on charges such as impaired driving.

Many of these persons are responsible citizens in trouble with the law for the first time. Yet they are treated like ordinary criminals unless someone arrives with bail for them.

A second brief dealing with bail was submitted by the John Howard Society, which asked for an easing of bail restrictions especially in the case of minor offences.

The society urged the setting of bail "at the minimum sum consistent with a reasonable probability that the issue will appear for trial." It said a far greater number of accused persons should be remanded by the courts on their own recognizance.

For some married men with children even $50 bail is far too much, the brief said. Yet a suspected bank robber might be able to provide for large bail from his loot, then forfeit the bail.

bounced back from the canvas several times in three decades of municipal scrapping.

LOSES IN UPSET

Around the suburbs the major upset was scored in North York — second largest of the Metropolitan Toronto area municipalities — where a two-elected Reeve Norman Goodhead was overthrown by James Service, a 39-year-old lawyer and former councillor.

Two women heads of suburban governments were re-elected — Mayor Beth Nealson of Leaside and Reeve Irma Davidson of East York. Police are investigating the throwing of a bomb - type missile that blew a small hole in the roof of Mayor Nealson's opponent, Lloyd Dickinson, Monday night. No one was hurt. Leaside was the only one of the 13 metro municipalities to register an average - size vote of better than 40 per cent of the electorate.

Other women picked up miscellaneous offices. Mrs. Alice Summerville, widow of the former mayor, won an alderman's seat in Ward 8 in Toronto and Mrs. Margaret Campbell, a lawyer and Queen's Counsel, made it to the four-member board of control after narrowly missing in 1962.

But another woman — redhaired Phyllis Clarke, Metro chairman of the Communist party—was an also-ran in the board of control race, though she polled 39,284 votes and beat out two tail-enders. Her vote was down from 16,245 in 1962. No others of a scattering of Communists got anywhere.

Another board of control aspirant was 37 - year - old Harry Bradley — lost cheerfully in his 36th unsuccessful bid for civic office. His program inc-des a Canada - United States common market and he has promised to run "until the undertaker gets me."

Three sitting controllers—the fourth was Mr. Lamport—were returned. Fourth - term controller William Dennison, 59, headed the poll, which automatically made him vice-chairman of city council and budget chief. The others were Herbert Orliffe, 59, and William Archer, 65.

SUGGESTS OVERHAUL

OTTAWA (CP)—A Commons committee reported Monday that values placed on surplus defence department equipment are "frequently unrealistic" and suggested an overhaul of the department's accounting techniques in this field. In a report tabled in the Commons, the standing committee on public accounts said the defence department maintains only physical inventory quantities for surplus items.

most astute campaigners in the area. He hasn't lost an election since he entered the civic field 10 years ago, serving six years as an alderman and four years on the board of control.

In 1963 he ran the federal campaign that elected Liberal Lloyd Francis in west - end Carleton, ending a Conservative hold on that riding that began with Confederation.

Miss Whitton conceded the election 24½ hours after polls closed and said, a good job of hiding her disappointment.

"I have given the best I could and the best had not been good enough," she told her cheering supporters. "I do love this city, but it does not love me or want my services."

PLANS BOOK

Asked about her future plans, the spinster mayor told a reporter:

"I am going to write the most terrific book about the Ottawa Valley . . . and believe me, I can come back as mayor of Ottawa or I can take a federal seat on the strength of that book."

Miss Whitton also reminded her campaign workers that "it's only 24 months until the next election.

"Charlotte's down but not out," shouted one of her backers.

Congratulating Mr. Reid, the defeated mayor dominated the cameras and microphones at Mr. Reid's headquarters with a running commentary on civic conditions.

"Don, I'm handing you over a city that's in A-1 shape," she said.

Mr. Reid, when he could get a word in edgewise, thanked Miss Whitton "for an extremely clean campaign."

CROWD LAUGHS

His remark brought a roar of laughter from the crowd around them. The campaign had featured a flood of bitter personal exchanges by the three major candidates for the $15,200-a-year mayor's post.

During the campaign he promised to bring dignity and efficiency to city hall and criticized the mayor as unco-operative and hot-tempered. He will take office Jan. 1.

Mayor Upheld In Battle With Council

PORT ELGIN, Ont. (CP)—Mayor W. A. Davey, who fought with his council about the dismissal of this town's police force, was re-elected Monday to his fourth one-year term while two councillors who sought re-election were soundly defeated.

The election results come on the eve of a hearing here by the Ontario Police Commission into Port Elgin's police troubles.

The six-member town council had voted at various times during a two-month period earlier this year to fire the town's police chief and its two constables.

Former chief Charles Riley was subsequently reinstated on a temporary basis as a constable until the police commission hearings are completed, but has announced he is taking legal action against the town.

Mayor Davey defeated Dorothy Bowden in a two-way contest. The question of the police force played a prominent role in the election campaign. All six councillors elected Monday will be serving for the first time.

Jobless Now Regional Problem

Brightest Year for Employment

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Jobs increased at a rate faster than the growth of the labor force and unemployment showed a steady decline during 1964, despite the continuing march of automation.

It was a record that may prove tough to beat in 1965, although the federal labor department is optimistic.

During the first 10 months of the year the number of unemployed in a labor force of close to 7,000,000 averaged 4.9 per cent, compared with 5.7 per cent in the same period of 1963.

In every month unemployment was down from the corresponding month of last year.

All told, it was the brightest year for employment since 1957 when the start of an economic recession sent job-making into a long skid. In 1958, and again in 1960 and 1961, unemployment averaged seven per cent or higher.

The economy turned upward in mid-1961 and the job picture has been improving ever since.

Although the situation still is not back to the relatively full employment of the late 1940s and early 1950s, Labor Minister MacEachen says unemployment has become a regional problem rather than a national one.

ATLANTIC AREA HIT

The Atlantic provinces remain the hardest hit, their jobless rate averaging 8.3 per cent in the first 10 months. Last spring 13 out of every 100 workers in that region were hunting for jobs.

This situation is in sharp contrast to the Prairie provinces where unemployment has been running under two per cent in recent months. Ontario at the same time had less than three per cent out of work.

Nationally, the best sign was the drop in seasonal unemployment.

Sharpest improvement occurred during the January-to-March period, always the peak for unemployment in Canada. Average unemployment in the three months fell to 6.9 per cent from 8.4 in the same months of 1963.

Much of the winter job gain was credited to the house-building boom triggered by the federal government's offer of a $500 cash bonus to owner-builders or first owners of homes built substantially during the cold-weather months.

Some builders now predict that the bonus will see 60 per cent of houses built this winter. This would create a steady level of employment in the construction industry, wiping out the seasonal ups and downs that once contributed heavily to mid-winter jobless totals.

WINTER WORKS BOOM

The municipal winter works program, under which Ottawa pays half of the labor costs for approved projects, had its biggest year in the 1963-64 season.

But a third program, designed to subsidize the hiring of unemployed workers 45 and over, didn't have nearly as much success. Fewer than 2,000 workers got jobs under its provisions, despite an expensive promotion campaign.

No new ventures in direct job-making were launched by the government this fall. Labor officials were confident that the continuance of existing programs, plus the economic upswing, would keep unemployment on the decline.

One trouble spot that hasn't been cracked is unemployment among teen-agers which hasn't been dropping nearly as fast as the adult rate. Youths 14-19 without special skills are finding fewer job opportunities each year.

The emphasis here has been on prevention, drumming the message into parents and youngsters that education is vital in today's sophisticated labor market. More than $600,000,000 has been poured into new training schools during the last five years.

As an example of the teen-age problem, unemployment dropped to 258,000 from 265,000 between October, 1963, and October, 1964, but the number of jobless teen-agers rose 2,000 to 58,000.

IT'S AN ILL WIND . . .

KAITLANOVO, Yugoslavia (AP)—The earthquake that destroyed the city of Skopje in 1963 is credited with improving the spa here. Doctors report that since the quake the waters have warmed up two degrees and now have higher curative powers.

Some Congo Mercenaries Came for Adventure, Some For Pay but All Full of Fight

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Some came for adventure and some for pay. Some came for a chance to serve the cause of a peaceful Africa, as they see it.

These are the men the world calls Premier Moise Tshombe's "white mercenaries" — several hundred volunteers spearheading Tshombe's drive against the rebels in The Congo.

Although most don't speak a word of French, they prefer to be called by the term Les Mercenaries—it seems to add class to their trade.

What are they like?

Take Lieut. Jeremy Spencer, 25, a scion of a rich north of England family.

Pay meant next to nothing to him: Adventure did and he died with a rebel bullet in his head as he sat in the front line in a deckchair, languidly directing the battle with a sword.

Grizzled and tattooed veterans of many wars, whose every second word is a curse, still go misty-eyed when they talk of him.

They miss the way this tall, slender Englishman gave orders. They miss, above all, his ice-cold nonchalance in the face of danger.

SOME DISAPPROVED

Yet there were groans of disapproval when he was first promoted to Lieutenant at the mercenary training base at Kamina in North Katanga province. Among many who had joined because they were civilian misfits, Spencer seemed the most misfit of all.

The last month of fighting their way 600 miles to Stanleyville, capital of the rebel Congolese People's Republic, has thinned mercenary ranks down to a lean, mean residue.

For almost every one of the 200 or so soldiers from South Africa or Rhodesia still in The Congo, a would-be mercenary fighter has been put aboard a south-bound plane for home or has deserted without waiting for his pay.

"There were drunks, drug addicts, coffee shop cowboys, homosexuals and even a coward," says Maj. Michael Hoare, the tough chief of Tshombe's English-speaking men.

There still are some unlovely specimens among his men: Killers of unarmed civilians and looters.

"Let's face it," says Hoare. "If we had only hired angels, we'd have never got together the later recorded for this sort of job."

Hoare, 44, a veteran of wars behind the Japanese lines in Burma and in Tshombe's once-secessionist state of Katanga, has little more than his own personality to back up his orders. The Congolese army's disciplinary code is almost non-existent.

ANSWERS WITH FISTS

Said Lieut. John Peters, a former British paratrooper from Leeds: "If any of my men answers back, I take him into the corner and use my flats."

Peters is second in command of 57 mercenaries, a collection of near-throwouts who these days usually get chosen as the spearhead on dangerous missions because of their cool disciplne under fire.

Their commander, Capt. Ian Gordon, a Briton who now lives in Johannesburg, South Africa, never raises his soft voice. His men will follow him, as another officer says, "through the front door of hell and out the back way."

Gordon, like several of Hoare's most trusted officers, fought for Tshombe in his secessionist days. He then formed the small auxiliea who recruited the others through advertisements in South African and Rhodesian newspapers.

Men flocked to sign on for base pay of £130 ($390) a month as volunteers. Officers earn up to three times that amount. Mercenaries also are paid about $16 a day danger money when they are in battle.

Only half of their pay is in foreign currency sent to their banks at home. The rest is paid in Congolese francs which cannot be taken out of the country.

GIVEN TWO WEEKS' LEAVE

Each man is entitled to two weeks' paid home leave at the end of his contract. Mercenaries also are paid about $16 a day danger money when they are in battle.

Only half of their pay is in foreign currency sent to their banks at home. The rest is paid in Congolese francs which cannot be taken out of the country.

Each man is entitled to two weeks' paid home leave at the end of his contract.

Each man also has a life insurance policy for $20,000 payable to his family. There are about 20 families of Hoare's men already have qualified.

For almost seven months, Hoare's men were paid nothing. A political row between Premier Cyrille Adoula and Belgian army technical assistance officers over pay and the money used to pay for the recent battle for rebel-held Stanleyville.

Hoare's men deserted in disgust. To earn their pay, the white men must brave not only the rebel bullets but also a frightening lack of doctoring if they are wounded or fall sick.

The mercenaries can be brutally frank about themselves. They don't laugh about the looting, especially bank vaults blown up with some of their ammunition's capsule of explosives.

"Don't damage the dynamite you are sitting on," said one South African to this correspondent as we drove through three night ambushes on the road to Stanleyville. "We're going to need it when we come to a bank."

Actually, one of Hoare's first moves when he captures a town is to place armed guards on the banks.

But his task is complicated by the fact that his men are not keen on what they find lying around for their few comforts in the battle zone. The most common denominators in the field, he lets his men take things they can use immediately and he divides them to take anything away.

Nearly Out Of Speakers

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — A weary Commons walked today for the Conservatives to reveal strategy in their attempt to win a national plebiscite on the flag issue.

The Tories Monday fielded their 40th speaker since the beginning six sitting days of debate on a committee recommendation for a single red maple leaf design for a national flag, and party spokesmen indicated there are only a few more speakers on the list.

Before the list runs out Opposition Leader Diefenbaker must decide between opposing views within the party on whether to halt the debate or continue.

Diefenbaker was absent since last Thursday because of a cold and his office said it is expected he will return Wednesday or Thursday.

However, Conservative House Leader Gordon Churchill said in an interview the opposition leader might return today and would speak if he did.

RAP LIBERALS

Inside the Commons the controversial debate has split Liberal members for silence on the flag issue, with Alvin Hamilton (PC — Qu'Appelle) terming the government members "gutless wonders."

Outside the Commons, Gerald W. Baldwin (PC—Peace River) said Mr. Hamilton also a frightening lack of doctoring if they are wounded or fall sick.

The mercenaries can be brutally frank about themselves. They don't laugh about the looting, especially bank vaults blown up with some of their ammunition's capsule of explosives.

At the same time he rapped the government for raising the flag issue when the Diefenbaker Government decision until the country is ready for action anywhere in the world.

The House of Commons approved without a formal vote Monday night a Conservative opposition member's motion for United Nations reforms, including the creation of a peacekeeping force.

The resolution noted the "faults and successes" of the UN and the view of Secretary-General U Thant that, if it is to have a future, the world body must assume some of the attributes of a state. This included, in particular, the means of acting in "areas of actual or potential conflict."

The resolution also called attention to the need for reforms in the UN, in particular by the "creation by like - minded states," as suggested by Pearson, of a small peacekeeping force on a permanent basis.

STUDIES WAYS

George Thomson, minister of state for foreign affairs in the Labor government, told the House the administration is closely studying ways in which Britain can give help, "with particular emphasis on logistic support."

This apparently meant that British weapons, equipment and transport would be available to a UN peace-keeping force.

Thomson said in answer to a question by R. A. Butler, former Tory foreign minister, that this would not mean British contingents on permanent standby duty.

Several countries, including Canada and the Scandinavian nations, have so earmarked troops and Thomson said these men are "not mercenaries but crusaders."

Reuther Has Spot Removed From His Lung

DETROIT (AP)—The condition of President Walter P. Reuther of th. United Auto Workers union was reported satisfactory at Henry Ford Hospital today after an operation Monday for removal of what was described as a "small spot" on his right lung.

"An official statement from the UAW reported after the operation that the lung spot was "successfully removed." The statement gave no further details except to term the operation a "conservative surgical procedure" and report the 57-year-old Reuther's condition satisfactory.

A union spokesman, saying the statement spoke for itself, declined to answer a question whether malignancy has been found.

British Back Pearson's Police Plan

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Britain has thrown its support behind Prime Minister Pearson's plan for an international police force ready for action anywhere in the world.

Wilson-Johnson Talks Start Of Going-Over for NATO

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One major point about the discussions begun Monday between Prime Minister Wilson and President Johnson is that this is just the start of an intensive going-over for the aches and pains within the Atlantic Alliance.

Decisions are going to be made but not right away. The timing and the decisions themselves will depend on the dialogue within NATO and with the other allies.

Meanwhile, the two-day meetings in Washington bring together two of the main Western leaders who have just recently survived elections. Wilson wins by a hair as Johnson a landslide.

How they get along will have a lot to do with the future shape of things.

There are no strangers. Wilson visited Johnson last May when it seemed he would be a big winner over the Conservatives in the election to come in October.

Now each is a leader.

The physical disparity is great. The round-faced Wilson stands more than half a head under the six-foot, three-inch Texan. But they have certain things in common.

NEITHER BORN RICH

Neither was born rich or bf the upper middle class. Each is self-made politically and each survived a long, arduous struggle to get there.

Each stepped into leadership stoes made vacant by death after a long wait in the political under room.

Finally, each of these men is a figure to be always wanted to be and each intends to stay as long as possible.

But Wilson is regarded as a hard bargainer, tough - minded and incisive. He does not charm easily.

SOME DIFFERENCES

There are substantial differences between them in political philosophy, national goals and other areas.

Wilson probably knows more about the outside world than Johnson.

Johnson thinks of the new deal of the 1930s in as far left as he wants to go. Wilson is not as left-leaning as some years ago when he was lumped with Aneuran Bevan's Labor party group. But he is a more left-wing, for example, than his predecessor, Hugh Gaitskell.

There are serious differences in the kinds of problem each has and in national aims. The United States wants Germany to have a nuclear role of some kind—before it goes ahead and builds its own nuclear weapons as France persists in doing.

Britain, against nuclear arms for Germany in principle, is much more interested in East-West accord and in expanding disarmament.

Britain is in trouble economically and would like to trim military costs as much as possible. As a world trader who needs to sell more to live, she is selling to China and Cuba when she can despite U.S. attempts to create trade blockade.

What happens will be spelled out in general terms perhaps in the concluding communique Tuesday night.

That will also indicate perhaps how the two men got along.

Safe Driving Week Ends With 60 Deaths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada recorded at least 60 highway deaths during the seven days of Safe Driving Week which ended at midnight Monday.

The figure was two more than last year's total and the second highest in the last five years. Highest was in 1962 when 70 persons were killed.

Quebec, Ontario and Alberta registered higher numbers of fatalities than last year.

In a survey by The Canadian Press only Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick were relatively free during the seven-day period. Last year, P.E.I. alone was without a highway death.

Ontario led the provinces this year with 26 deaths compared with 17 last year. Quebec had 22 compared with 18 and Alberta registered five compared with three for the previous year.

British Columbia recorded three highway deaths, while Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan had one each.

There were three fatal accidents in all of Canada during the first day of Safe Driving Week last Tuesday, six Wednesday, 10 Thursday, 13 Friday, seven Saturday, 13 Sunday and six Monday.

There were 57 deaths in 1963 and 49 in 1961.

Parliamentary Wing of PCs Under Pressure by Executive To Wind up Flag Debate

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—The parliamentary wing of the Progressive Conservative party is under strong pressure from the party's national executive, to wind up the flag debate in the Commons, reliable sources said Monday.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was reported to have been informed by President Dalton Camp that the party executive is 2-to-1 in favor of MPs discontinuing their fight against the single-maple leaf flag design proposed by a Commons committee.

Debate on the recommendation went into its sixth day Monday. The previous flag debate on the government recommended design of three red maple leaves lasted 22 days before the committee was handed the task of finding a design.

One source said that when the party executive met during the weekend reports from the provinces heavily favored ending the flag debate, now being carried almost exclusively by Conservative speakers.

MAKES PLEA

However, when the 100-odd party officers called on Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, the Conservative leader made a plea for support for continuing the debate.

The source said that at a subsequent session Mr. Camp was instructed to advise Mr. Diefenbaker that the executive was still overwhelmingly in favor of ending it.

A number of the party's MPs have gone on record publicly along the same line, including at least one of the Cabinet MPs. The latest move in this direction came Monday in a statement by Gerald Baldwin, MP for Peace River.

Mr. Baldwin called for a decision on the flag but urged that after the decision the government delay implementing it until the Canadian constitution has been brought fully within the control of Canada and Parliament and legislatures.

Auto Insurance Rates May Be Up 15 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP)—Auto insurance rates will rise in most Canadian cities next year and drivers are mutally brooding about a welter of classifications that will cost them varying amounts of money.

The Canadian Underwriters Association said increases across Canada will average 15.3 per cent. But some individual drivers might end up with a small reduction, an increase of as much as 25 per cent, or anything in between.

"It all depends on who you are, where you are and how much you drive.

For instance, assuming a driver owns a six-cylinder medium-priced 1964 car and he wants $100,000 third-party liability; $100-deductible collision; comprehensive .ire, damage and theft protection; and medical coverage—here's what he'll have to pay next year if he's a "class 33 driver" in some major Canadian cities:

In Toronto, insurance will cost him $114 a year, up from $88. Halifax drivers will pay $123, up from $106. Montreal carowners will face $108, up from $178. In Winnipeg the rate will rise to $92 from $83. Edmonton's rate will rise to $102 from $84. And in Vancouver, drivers will pay $123, up-from $101.

Insurance companies class 33 drivers, however — pleasure drivers who drive fewer than 10 miles a day to work, but driving no male driver under 25 years old operating the vehicle and having no more than two drivers using it all. This is the largest classification.

LUCKY GROUP

A3 drivers get off easiest. In Toronto, these folk who do not drive to work; who are over 35 and married; and have nobody under 25 using their cars will pay $88 instead of the former $76 for the same coverage as the B3 rates.

In Halifax A3 drivers will pay $107, up from $106, and in Montreal $113, up from $148. The new rate in Winnipeg will be $74, up from $71, and in Edmonton $81, up from $72. Vancouver drivers will pay $96, a rise from $84.

A teen-aged driver using the family car in Toronto would force the rate up $34, with a proportionate increase elsewhere.

Pity the B1 driver. He's over 25 and have to pay the highest—a whopping $315 in Toronto compared to the old rate of $260.

Average rates in Newfoundland will drop 2 per cent. Increases in other provinces will average six per cent. Ontario 15.7 per cent; Quebec 15.8; New Brunswick 10.6; Nova Scotia 8; Prince Edward Island 6.5; Manitoba 9.8; Alberta 12.7; British Columbia 20.

In a survey by The Canadian Press only Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick were relatively free during the seven-day period. Last year, P.E.I. alone was without a highway death.

Former Mayor Loses Bid to Be Re-elected

ORILLIA (CP) — Former mayor Wilbur Cramp, 58, was defeated Monday night by more than a two-to-one majority by incumbent Louis Francox in a bid to become deputy reeve in the Orillia municipal elections.

Last week a grand jury returned three true bills against Mr. Cramp in connection with Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company stock. A judge and jury here Dec. 14 on a defence motion to quash the bills.

Deputy Reeve Howard Kelly of Orillia has asked that the true bills be quashed, claiming the editorial in the Orillia Packet and Times last week may have influenced the jury. Mr. Kelly also asked Judge Colin Bennett of Owen Sound to file the newspaper for contempt of court.

The final vote for deputy reeve showed Mr. Francox with 2,763 votes and Mr. Cramp with 1,174. Isabel Post was elected mayor by acclamation earlier.

Quebecers Cast Thirsty Glances Across Borders

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebecers cast thirsty glances across their borders Monday as negotiations in an effort to end a strike of some 3,000 employees of the Quebec Liquor Board.

Union and management, it was understood, were meeting to discuss the strike which started Friday night and closed all liquor stores and warehouses in the province.

The employees, whose union was affiliated with organized labor this year, are seeking higher wages, improved pensions and job security.

Many Montrealers began consulting road maps to measure the distance to Cornwall and Hawkesbury, Ont., and the United States to the nearest points across the provincial boundary where take - home liquor can be had.

One radio announcer announced train times to Cornwall, without mentioning the strike.

Eastern Quebecers could also look to New Brunswick.

IT'S ILLEGAL

But Josaphat Brunet, director of the provincial police, said if evidence to carry on prosecution of liquor across the provincial boundary.

He warned, too, against buying from bootleg sources saying that bootleggers could speed up their processes and sell at increased demands. This could make the alcohol "extremely unsafe."

Although government outlets were closed, restaurant and cocktail bars continued to operate as usual. Most had stocked up well in advance although some reported that if the strike went on to Christmas they might run out.

The strike does not affect sales of beer, sold through grocery stores in Quebec.

At Hull, Quebec, police began checking cars coming over the bridges from Ottawa. A spokesman was unable to say what charges had been laid yet anyone found with Ontario liquor would be charged with illegal possession.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Will Bobby Hull reach the heights of goal-scoring glory with a new record this year—or have the early-season predictors put the whammy on him?

Rockey Richard, who holds the current record of fifty net-smuggled pucks with Hull and Boom-Boom Geoffrion, came out flat-footed with the statement the other day that the Chicago star would crack the 50-mark this year—and perhaps go on to rack up 60.

BOBBY HULL

National Hockey League experts have predicted the 50-goals record would be smashed in the very near future—and obviously had the Hawks' brilliant winger in mind when they went out on the limb.

Now with hockey's Babe Ruth smashing pucks into opposing nets almost one a game they feel they're more or less safe in predicting 60 or more goals this year for the native of Point Anne.

Hull has been selling a blistering pace thus far (he has 29 goals in 21 games) and is well ahead in production as compared to his 50-goal stunt in the 1961-62 season. But he is behind the Rocket and ahead of Boom-Boom when they scored their half centuries.

Anti-Hull scoffers—and there are some of them in this district—will curl a disdainful lip at the fact that Hull, at his present rate of production could very well notch up a 65-goal record over the 70-game season.

Bobby cares little about what his critics say. Their mouthings roll off him like the proverbial aqua pura off the feathers of a mallard. Meanwhile, he is going out there and racking up goals with one of hockey's fastest and most accurate shots.

In other years Bobby has always been a slow-starter in the goals-production field. In 1961-62 when he tied the 50-goals record he had only 13 in his first 31 games. Last season when he checked in with 43 he had 15 in his initial 19 games but slumped badly at the end of the season.

His lifetime record up to the start of the current season reveals that Bobby has been a better marksman at home than on foreign ice. Up to this year his mark was 136 scored at home and 84 away.

Up to now seven of his 29 goals have been scored on foeman ice. Last year he only had four goals in his first 18 racked up in outside arenas.

Hull critics maintain, probably through eyes tinted with that jealousy green, that he is getting more ice-time than any other player—and is concentrating on shooting rather than passing to a team-mate when a scoring opportunity presents itself.

An interviewer asked him recently, "You've complained in the past that Rudy Pilous did not give you enough ice time. Under Billy Reay you get the extra time. Do you feel that the extra duty will tend to shorten the long run?"

Bobby replied: "I know a guy by the name of Gordie Howe who has played 30 to 40 minutes a game throughout his career. And I don't think it has hurt him. I believe that I'm strong enough—and if I keep myself in good physical condition I won't hurt me."

Some critics say that Hull's brilliant scoring efforts thus far, is partly the reason the Hawks as a club are in a slump and headed for the league's janitor's quarters. They say his team-mates are not playing good hockey because of this.

That is so much balderdash. That has been proven in other years. The Hawks family is not just playing the hockey of which it is capable. They'll snap out of it some of these days and I believe the slightest doubt the Chicago club will be up there in the top four come playoffs time.

And I don't believe Bobby is speaking from a family viewpoint when he predicts younger brother Dennis will become a National League star. "He's big and tough," says Robert, "and he's a real good skater. He can shoot the puck hard and if he continues to keep his nose clean I think he'll become a top professional player because he has all the natural ability to do it."

Rough Riders Reject Purchase Bids

Two Offered

BY STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—At least two bids to purchase Ottawa Rough Riders were rejected at the eastern football club's annual meeting Monday night.

"Several offers were made but we decided not to entertain them at this time," newly-elected president Hal Emerson said after the closed-door meeting.

Emerson, 72, who played as a linebacker, centre and full-back for Ottawa clubs for 25 years, was named to a one-year term as president. He succeeds Barry O'Brien who steps down after a six-year term. Sam Berger was named vice-president.

O'Brien and Berger had been reported ready to buy control of the club at the meeting. Emerson and wealthy Ottawa contractor Robert Campeau also were said to be ready to make offers. Two of the seven directors said last week they would sell.

Berger said the directors agreed not to discuss bids and said none of the offers submitted mentioned purchase prices. Mr. Campeau also said ready to start bidding at about $350,000.

UNANIMITY COMPLETE

A prepared statement by the directors said there was "complete unanimity" among them.

"A thorough discussion of all our affairs was held. We have been associated for many years in the past and hope to be associated for many years to come," said the statement.

There had been some public bickering among the directors. J. P. (Jimmy) McGaffrey said Berger and O'Brien were "fronts" for a Toronto group wishing to buy the club. He also found fault with the signing of head coach Frank Clair to a three-year contract.

"But that's water under the bridge," Emerson said.

"Too many statements were given to the press. We can't fight among ourselves and build a football club at the same time.

Berger said assistant coach Bill Smyth probably will sign a new three-year contract with Riders shortly. He and Emerson also praised general manager Red O'Quinn who had done "a helluva job" since coming here two years ago.

Napanee Shades Trenton

TRENTON (Special) — Napanee Legion scored the only goal of the third period to squeeze past Trenton Apple Kings 3-2 in an OHA Eastern Junior puck battle in Napanee last night.

The game was a nip and tuck thriller all the way. Trenton led 2-1 at the end of the first period but the Legion crew knotted it 2-2 after forty minutes of play and scored the winner in the third.

Napanee scorers were R. Van-Alstine, Jim Stinson and Earl Smith, in that order.

Forwards Les Genereaux and Ross Quigley fired the Trenton markers.

Apply King boseman Howard Weese said this morning that he will be meeting with Trenton Mayor James MacDonald this afternoon to discuss the ice problem.

The Trenton team hopes to complete arrangements for a new contract for ice time in the Community Centre here or else move home games to another town.

Trenton's home game this Wednesday, against the Gananoque Islanders, will be played in Napanee.

Flyers Win Hoop Squeaker

RCAF Flyers edged Belleville Lightfoots 69-67 in a Bay of Quinte Basketball League cliff-hanger played at the Quinte Secondary School gym here last night.

The league continues to have trouble as far as definite playing dates are concerned. Yesterday's game here was not confirmed until noon, too late to inform the public.

Cobourg may play here Wednesday but Lightfoot spokesman Don Smith said this morning that this game was also "just a possibility" at this time.

Belleville led last night's thriller 42-36 at half time and the stiff-contested was the largest of the night.

The clubs were even most of the way in the 69-67 win with 12 seconds left to play and Lightfoots had a shot from the foul line. They missed, in order to stop the clock, Lightfoots also fouled but Flyers made their point and held on during the final six seconds to snatch the win.

The victory for RCAF evened the score for an earlier 69-66 win by Lightfoots at the air station.

English Cup Play

Amateur Club Lines Up With Pro Teams

LONDON (Reuters)—For the first time since 1950 an amateur club will line up with the professionals in the first round of the English Football Association Cup next month.

Enfield and Barnet, both from London's amateur ranks, meet in a replay tonight to decide who will qualify for the honor of joining the big clubs.

Their match last Saturday was in the finest cup tradition —three penalties, eight goals and breathtaking excitement from kickoff to final whistle.

Whoever wins tonight will carry the good wishes of the entire English soccer population. The Englishman's love of the underdog is nowhere more manifest than in soccer.

Not since Tooting and Mitcham almost beat Nottingham Forest, the eventual winners, in 1956, on an ice-covered field, has an amateur team been in the cup spotlight.

But the history of the competition is sprinkled by the feats of these non-paid heroes—from the great Corinthians of the past to more modern teams like Dulwich Hamlet, Walthamstow Avenue, Norton Woodseats and Blyth Spartans.

ODDS HIGH

The odds against an amateur team winning the cup are about 1,000,000 to 1, but their entry into the competition from the qualifying stages in September fascinates the fans.

The chance that a little-known team will beat a big, well-paid one has always been part of the excitement of the FA Cup.

There are many examples, provided by professional as well as amateur teams.

But probably the most famous of all giant-killing acts was performed by Walsall in 1933 when it beat the famous London club, Arsenal.

Arsenal, which won the league title five times in the 1930s, was at the peak of its glory and so accursed of third-division Walsall that it didn't see several of its star players. But the Walsall ground has a tricky slope and it proved to be Arsenal's downfall. Arsenal's 2-0 loss was one of the greatest upsets in modern football.

Nobody knows who this year's giant killer will be, but all eyes will be on Enfield or Barnet tonight. The winner meets Preston North End Saturday in the third round.

Crozier Still Tops In Vezina Race

Hull Behind Rocket Pace

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks is way ahead of the scoring pace he set in 1961-62 when he tied the National Hockey League record of 50 goals in a season.

Official NHL statistics released today show Hull has scored 30 goals in 21 games, including three in the last week, while he didn't score his 30th until his 44th game three seasons ago.

Hull trails the pace set by Maurice (The Rocket) Richard who scored 34 goals in his first 21 games in the 1944-45 season and went on to set the NHL record of 50 goals. Richard now predicts Hull will score 60 goals this 70-game season.

The season had only 30 games when The Rocket set his record.

Hull leads individual scorers with a total of 26 points, one more than Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings whose points are made up of 11 goals and 14 assists. Stan Mikita of Chicago is third with 23 points, including a league-leading 16 assists.

Camille Henry of New York Rangers is fourth with 20 points on 10 goals and 10 assists while Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens and New York's Phil Goyette are next with 19 points.

RED WINGS LEAD

In team standings, the first-place Red Wings have 28 points, Montreal and Toronto Maple Leafs are tied for second with 25, New York is fourth with 24, Chicago fifth with 18 and Boston Bruins remain in the cellar with 14 points.

Despite Detroit's 10-2 defeat by Toronto last Saturday, Red Wing goalie Roger Crozier leads the Vezina Trophy race with a goals-against average of 2.26.

The same number of goals also have been scored against Montreal but Detroit has played one more game. Crozier also leads in shutouts with three.

Toronto defenceman Bob Baun is the most - penalized player with 78 minutes followed by veteran Ted Lindsay of Detroit with 67 and Carl Brewer of Toronto with 64.

The Maple Leafs are also the most penalized team with 423 minutes, 183 minutes more than New York which has served the least time in the penalty box.

Nicklaus, Palmer

Suggests Cup Format Change

KAANAPALI, Maui, Hawaii (AP)—Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, who went home with the Canada Cup trophy, would like to see a change in the format of the international tournament.

"There's too much emphasis on the individual and not enough on the team," said Nicklaus, who rallied to beat out Palmer for the individual crown by two strokes Sunday.

"It should be strictly a team event—we are playing for our country, not ourselves."

"I agree," said Palmer. "I've played in four of these tournaments, enjoyed them all, but I have always considered it strictly a team match and have subordinated the individual part of it."

Nicklaus won the individual title for the second straight year with a 72-hole score of 276. Palmer, leader for the first three days with rounds of 68, 67, finished second with 278 after shooting a 78 on his final tour of the par-72 Kaanapali club course.

Nicklaus and Palmer won the team trophy—the fifth straight for the United States with a combined total of 554.

The Canadian pair, Al Balding and George Knudson, both of Toronto, ended in seventh place among the teams and in a three-way tie for 17th place in medal play.

Jockey Club Adoption

Computers For Racing

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The Jockey Club gave the thoroughbred horse industry its first glimpse at a new, speedy statistical service Monday.

"This will be a great thing," said Leslie Combs II, a prominent thoroughbred breeder.

"It is one of the first steps toward constructive research," said John R. Calnet, owner of Gainesway Farm.

Briefly, the Jockey Club, with the facilities of Spindletop Research and the magazine Thoroughbred Record, is putting racing and breeding information into a computer that will spit it back at the touch of a button.

It an industry that lives on past performances, this could be a significant development.

NEILSON INJURED

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Neilson, defence star of New York Rangers, suffered strained ligaments of the left knee in a National Hockey League game with Chicago Black Hawks Sunday, the club said Monday. He may miss Wednesday night's game with the Hawks here.

Midgets Nudge Wellington

Belleville bantam and midget Oddfellows scored OMHA victories in Wellington last night.

Belleville's A.C.T. juveniles were also scheduled to play in Picton but no result was turned in on this game.

Neither was a scoresheet available for the bantam game but Belleville trounced Wellington 17-0 according to an unconfirmed report.

The midget game was a thriller.

Wellington moved ahead of the Oddfellows 2-1 in the first period and led 3-2 going into the final period when the Belleville boys took charge.

They knotted the score and with about six minutes left in the game, Larry Moore triggered the winning marker. It was his second goal of the game. He also had one assist.

John Holgate got a goal and an assist for Belleville. Dale Duvall and Ted Schwager also scored, Ray Summers earned two assists and Dave Muir had one.

For Wellington, Lavender was the individual star. He scored all four of the losers' goals. Campbell, Blower and Hicks drew one assist apiece.

Three OMHA games are scheduled for Memorial Arena here tomorrow night. Napanee and Rollins peewees meet in a battle for first place at 7.00 p.m. Wellington bantam and midgets pay return visits to the Belleville Oddfellow teams at 8.00 and 9.00 p.m.

Creates Sports Committee

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert Shaw, deputy world's fair commissioner, announced creation of a sports committee Monday to set up a national and international amateur athletic program "of the highest order" for the 1967 world's fair in Montreal.

Members of the committee are Lionel Lemay, director of University of Montreal student affairs; Bob Lebel of Montreal, former president of the International Amateur Hockey Federation and Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and R. L. Jack of Vancouver, former president of the Amateur Swimming Association and manager of the Canadian swim team at the 1960 Rome Olympic Games.

The committee will advise the entertainment branch of the world's fair on the type, scope and financial feasibility of amateur sports activities to be presented. Mr. Shaw said in a press release the entertainment branch itself will deal with professional sports events.

You Don't Lead This Nag To Water

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—Three times while racing at the royal track at Windsor, Sir Francis Cassell's horse Raphael dived into the River Thames, which runs alongside the track.

And three times Cassel, a concert pianist, thought of selling Raphael.

Cassel decided to give Raphael one more chance to prove he likes racing as much as swimming. He entered the horse in a two-mile handicap hurdle race at Birmingham Monday. Raphael won at betting odds of 100 to 8.

Said Cassel: "He's certainly earned his reprieve."

There is no water near the Birmingham track.

"When somebody asked me, off the record, I said Y. A. doesn't even discuss such things with me," Mrs. Tittle said in an interview.

"The only thing on his mind now is football," she said. "I can't even talk to him about taking a vacation until the end of the season."

Y. A., who has given way to rookie Gary Wood in the last two New York Giant National Football League games, was not available for comment.

Defends Winnipeg Games Site

WINNIPEG (CP) — James Daly, executive director of the Pan American Games Society, said Monday he does not think a Toronto track and field official who questioned Winnipeg's ability to stage the Games in 1967 "knows what he's talking about."

Daly was referring to comments made during the week-end by Ken Twigg, former track and field chairman for the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Twigg, speaking on the CBC national youth radio program Sportspage, said Sunday Winnipeg was not ready for such an undertaking.

"You can't very well class Winnipeg as a tourist area," Twigg said. "This means Winnipeg people themselves will be depended on to support the Games," he said.

Daly said Twigg was "a little young" to remember the British Empire Games in Vancouver in 1954 "which were very successful."

At that time Canada didn't have any officials to speak of that were qualified in international track and field rules.

"But since then Canada has grown tremendously in track and field and there now are a great number of people across the country qualified in this field," Daly said.

Daly pointed to provincial government statistics that showed 1,400,000 tourists passed through Manitoba in 1963.

Behavior Code Issued For Soccer

LONDON (Reuters) — The English Football (Soccer) Association council Monday issued a "code of behavior" which points to much heavier penalties for misconduct on and off the field.

The recommendations for a tougher approach to offenders were made by a joint standing subcommittee and approved by the disciplinary committee and the full FA council at meetings here.

In a report headed "disciplinary procedures," the FA council threatens heavier penalties for misconduct until a current wave of disorder on the playing field ceases. It also reminds managers and coaches that they must not "coach" from the touchline.

The council suggests the use of plainclothes policemen to stop rowdyism in the crowd.

The report states "it is not conducive to good order if clubs are openly critical of decisions of referees, of the governing bodies or of the disciplinary committee."

PETES LOSE HERRIMAN

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series have lost left winger Don Herriman with a shoulder separation suffered in Sunday's game with Kitchener Rangers. Herriman, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., missed six weeks' action last season because of a blood disorder. He expected to be out of action until late January.

Smythe Offer Stands

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, said Monday his proposal to build up an $8,000,000 sports collseum in Vancouver still stands and that the matter now is in the hands of that city's ratepayers.

Commenting on a Vancouver report which quoted him as saying "the deal is off" if the council insists that he cannot build a hotel or other facilities within zoning regulations, Smythe said:

"The council has nothing to do with it. The matter will be decided in a plebiscite this week."

College Teams To Play Off

TORONTO (CP) — For the first time the four top teams in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League will play off for the championship next March, the league's athletic directors announced Monday.

Normally the team finishing first automatically wins the Queen's Cup. In 1962, a playoff between the eastern and western divisions was adopted but was dropped last season when the two divisions merged.

The season, through expansion of the league to nine teams with the addition of the University of Toronto and Guelph, and l'niversity of Guelph, it was felt several teams should be involved in the struggle for the title, the announcement said.

The playoff will be staged March 5-6 either at Varsity Arena here or in Montreal's McGill Winter Stadium. Montreal will be chosen only if three of the four teams are from Quebec.

The first-place team will play the fourth-place team and the second-place team will play the third-place team. The winners will meet for the championship the following day.

The directors also voted to expand the Senior Intercollegiate Basketball League to 10 from seven teams, the additional universities being Laval, Guelph and Montreal.

Gordie Howe's Hockey

By GORDIE HOWE

My dad laughs about it now but at the time he was a little mad about the shooting practice routine I followed as a youngster. I broke shingles galore on the side of our porch in Saskatoon.

Many of the homes in the Saskatchewan area were wood frame. Ours had a shingled porch. I practised shooting at it by the hour.

I saw my sons Mark and Marty practising the same way recently. I was smart enough to buy them a couple of nets so there's a minimum of damage from their practice routine.

As a youngster I had my little ice patch at the side of the house. When there wasn't anything else to do, I'd practice shooting. If I didn't have a small patch of ice to shoot from I'd get a small sheet of plywood.

Because of the limited shooting area, I gave the blade of my stick almost touching the puck. From this position, without pulling the stick back, I used to try to get the shot away.

At first it was very awkward. And it wasn't very interesting. But I kept at it by the hour, developing my timing. I also developed power with the shot. I'd give myself a pat on the back when I got a shot away with sufficient speed and accuracy to break one of the shingles.

Eventually one side of the porch was pretty barren where my constant hammering at the shingles split them, caused them to fall off.

This is one of the exercises we use in trying to get youngsters to develop their wrist shot in hockey schools.

In contrast to the slap shot, the puck should be practically on the stick.

Alex Delvecchio has one of the finest wrist shots in the National Hockey League. Another one to watch is Jean Beliveau. If he is facing off left-handed, looking at the goaltender, you'll see him try to shoot the puck at the net on the face-off.

Beliveau's tremendous reach and strength enables him to win many faceoffs if he wins a clearcut decision on the face-off he's likely to test the goalie.

Bills Tops In Three Departments

NEW YORK (AP)—When Buffalo Bills lost their second game of the season Sunday in Oakland, they dropped to second place in total defence, yielding the lead to San Diego.

The Bills still maintain the lead in total offence with an average of 383.6 yards in their first 12 games. Buffalo also is first in both rushing offence and rushing defence.

San Diego's pass defence is responsible for its total defence lead. The Chargers have allowed only 175.1 yards a game through the air.

Houston Oilers, idle last week, continue to show the way in passing offence with a 263.3-yard average.

Vancouver Wants Mann Cup Series

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Inter-City Lacrosse League will ask next month to have the 1965 Mann Cup series brought back to the West Coa't.

The last three East-West playoffs for the Canadian senior championship have been held in Eastern Canada to assure better attendance for the matches.

Tom Gordon, commissioner of the Inter-City League, said Monday night the request will go before the Canadian Lacrosse Association at its meeting Jan. 23-26 in Ottawa.

Last year Vancouver won a seven - game series against Brooklin, Ont.

Public Utilities moved one point ahead of Public Works after a pair of games in the Interdepartmental Hockey League last night.

Utilities, behind until late in the game, roared back to defeat the Ontario Intelligencer by an 8-4 score.

Meagwhile, the Works were held to a 6-6 stalemate by the Police Department.

Utilities now lead the loop, one point in front of Works with the Police third and the Intelligencer fourth.

Can't Cook, Let Her Play Golf

LONDON (AP) — You've heard most of the jokes about golf widows.

Now get ready for a crop of new ones—about golf widowers.

Reason: The British divorce in mid-November for a husband who complained that his wife was spending too much time on the golf course.

He told the judge he had to cook his own breakfast and eat out for some other meals.

A golfing official estimated that about 300,000 British women, most of them married, now play golf.

One golfer, Mrs. Betty Lockhart, explained her system:

"I play on Sunday afternoons," she said. "My husband plays on Sunday mornings. He leaves the car engine running on his return. And off I go to the golf course after leaving his meal on the table."

Giants' Webster Retiring

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Webster, 33-year-old New York Giants fullback, is retiring.

"This is the last year for big Red," said the one-time North Carolina State star.

Webster made the announcement at a party for the Giants Sunday night.

The six-foot-three, 230-pound redhead is winding up his 12th year in pro football. He played two years in the Canadian Eastern Conference with Montreal Alouettes and the last 10 with the Giants. Big Red played on six Eastern Conference championship teams and one National Football League championship squad.

One golf widower, who naturally asked not to be identified, mumbled: "Let her play. She can't cook anyway."

Game and Panel Shows Not High in New Ratings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The dust kicked up by the new Nielsen report Monday had not even begun to settle when ABC announced a plan to shake up its week - day afternoon schedule starting Dec. 28.

Two game shows will be removed in reshuffling ABC's time spots and adding a new soap opera called Flame in the Wind, plus so-called "selected re-runs" of old Donna Reed shows.

Both shows are out of the prolific Goodson-Todman packaging shop, but neither has been an outstanding hit. They are Get the Message and Missing Links.

The last few months have not proved propitious for the game and panel shows.

NBC recently knocked out Merv Griffin's Word for Word, while ABC abandoned the evening edition of The Price Is Right.

Password, a healthy CBS daytime show, has become something of an invalid in its nighttime program, stuck in an awkward Thursday night spot opposite the extremely popular Bewitched on ABC. It is expected that CBS will shift Password into another position, probably in early evening.

HAD DAYTIME GRIP

There was a time when it seemed that all of daytime television was preoccupied with variations of parlor games, played for prizes. But since the big success of ABC's twice-weekly, evening soap opera, Peyton Place, all networks have been looking at soap operas with renewed interest.

Television's method of measuring audience size by using estimates by the A. C. Nielsen research organization is often criticized, but after Monday's excitement inside the three networks there can be little doubt that the findings are accepted as valid. At any rate, all three seemed relieved to find that, in Nielsen's eyes, they were practically tied for audience favor.

Some new programs, however, received low ratings. In the report, among them NBC's The Rogues and Man from U.N.C.L.E., CBS' Slattery's People, The Reporter and The Entertainers, and ABC's 12 O'clock High, Bing Crosby Show and Valentine's Day.

Not one of them reached an 18 rating, the magic minimum figure to be considered on moderately safe ground for a renewal next season.

Most programs continue despite low ratings, including NBC's Telephone Hour and CBS Reports. But they are considered class items which give the network prestige.

Recommended tonight:

That the Jack Paar Week That Was, NBC, 9:30-10 EST—with David Frost and Phyllis Newman, satirizing current events; Telephone Hour, NBC, 10-11—with Maurice Chevalier, host, and Lily Pons, Jacques de Paris and Stanley Holloway.

Confident Connie Stevens Enjoying Best Season

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The one person who has never doubted that Connie Stevens would be a star is—Connie Stevens.

She has a way about her, a kind of sunny confidence that sweeps all doubt away.

In plain fact, she is enjoying her best season. After a faltering start, her television show with George Burns, Wendy and Me, seems to be in the safe column. This has left her tired but exhilarated.

"It's great that the show is going so well, especially since we had the toughest competition in television," she commented. (The ABC show faces Lucille Ball and Andy Williams). "Nobody is going to take Lucy off the air. I'll fight them if they try—and it's hard to beat the only weekly musical-variety show on TV. But one of the recent ratings showed we were ahead.

"It's fun to be carrying a show, but boy, is it work! I know now what Laurence Olivier meant when he said the most important factor for success as an actor as not talent but energy. They had to move my dressing room next door to the stage so I could save the walk."

WORKS CHEERFULLY

Connie's cheerful attitude toward her work is in contrast to her years with Hawaiian Eye. Then she was in frequent skirmish with the Warner Bros. brass.

"No their approach is entirely different," she said. "When I go to ask to be Perry Como show in April, the wheels start turning. They give me a percentage of the profit which has never happened at Warners before. And all my outside salaries. That's no small concession, because I can earn 10 times my studio salary by doing a guest shot on another show."

On the personal side she still seems honeymoony over her year-old marriage to actor Jim Stacy.

"We've adjusted to the fact that my career is a step ahead of his," she remarked. "But those things change. Jim is up for a television series of his own, and I hope he'll be getting the break he deserves."

Our Expansion 'Well-Behaved' Says Bank Head

MONTREAL (CP)—G. Arnold Hart, president of the Bank of Montreal, said Monday that Canada's current period of economic expansion has been "remarkably well-behaved, in the sense that few of the typical signs of an over-heated economy have emerged."

He told the bank's annual meeting that while consumer prices have risen slightly, wholesale prices on the average have shown little tendency to rise.

"In fact," he added, "most recently published figures indicate that wholesale prices are running below those of a year ago."

The supply situation "has been generally easy and there has been little evidence of excessive inventory accumulation."

JOURNALISTS TO STRIKE

ROME (AP) — The National Journalists Union announced Monday a week-long strike to halt publication of Italy's newspapers in a contract dispute will begin Thursday. The announcement said it was first decided to start the strike Wednesday but Labor Minister Umberto Delle Fave asked for a day's postponement in hopes of bringing the union and publishers together for a last-minute accord.

Chance Tops A. L. In ERA

BOSTON (AP)—Dean Chance, 23-year-old Los Angeles Angels right hander, posted the lowest average in 21 years in winning the American League's earned-run average in 23 years in winning the American League's earned-run championship last season, the official figures disclosed today.

Chance yielded 31 earned runs in 278 innings for a 1.65 mark, the best since Spud Chandler of New York Yankees finished with 1.64 in 1943. Chance was named winner of the Cy Young Trophy as the majors' outstanding pitcher in 1964 last month.

The Angels' star also pitched the most shutouts, 11. Five of his 20 victories were by 1-0 scores, tying a major league record.

Joel Horlen of Chicago White Sox was second in the E.R.A. competition with 1.88. He was followed by Whitey Ford of the Yankees, a two-time former king, 2.13.

Al Downing, the Yanks' southpaw fireballer, was the strikeout leader with 217. He also issued the most bases on balls, 120.

Income Tax Explained

By C. A. MILLER
Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department

Taxpayers who have annuities fall due and are payable to them are often not certain to the amount that should be reported on their income tax returns. We are referring to annuities which the taxpayer has purchased and has been paying for for a period of years. The cheque he receives each month are known as blended payments, being composed of both a return of capital and earned interest. It is only the interest portion that is taxable income.

In the year the annuity falls due the taxpayer will receive a T5 Supplementary slip, showing the amount that is tax-ble in the year for interest received and the amount taxable in all future years.

There are certain exemptions on government and like annuities depending on the year they were purchased. If purchased before May 26, 1932, the exemption is $3,000. If purchased before June 25, 1940, the exemption is $1,200. If purchased after June 25, 1940, the interest is taxable in full.

Should the taxpayer have more than one annuity purchased before June 25, 1940, he should check with his income tax office as to his exemptions because certain limits apply.

Annuities paid by the department of labour are all tax le in full, as many employees have their employees pension plans through this branch of the government. Department of labor annuities are paid to widows paid to workers who have reached retirement age.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems, please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope and add 25 cents in coin for each questions, you wish answered.

QUESTION: I have an annuity which I purchased in 1942 coming due this year. Is this taxable income?

ANSWER: Part of it is taxable. You should receive a notice from the people who issued it, advising as to the taxable portion.

QUESTION: I have a government annuity coming due this year. I purchased it in 1940 and will receive a hundred dollars a month. Is this taxable?

ANSWER: No. You have an exemption of $1,200.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort at once and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvements." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to soundly shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

Carol Festival Much Enjoyed By Large Crowd

PICTON (Staff) — More than 1000 persons turned out to enjoy Picton's first Carol Festival, Monday night. The festival, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Picton, featured many of the county's choirs, eight in all. The choirs represented were Bethany Christian Reformed Church, Bloomfield; St. Barbara's Chapel, Picton Heights; Salvation Army, Junior choir, Picton; Picton United Church, senior choir; St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church, Junior and Intermediate choirs; Cherry Valley United Church, senior choir; First Baptist, combined choir, Picton; and Wellington United Church senior choir.

Each of the eight choirs provided two carols. The large audience in attendance participated also between choir selections in singing the more popular carols. Music was provided for the audience participation by the Salvation Army Band from Belleville, under the direction of Bandmaster J. Green.

Dr. LaRoy Hall, President of the Picton Kiwanis Club stated that he hopes that the Kiwanis Club will continue to carry on this project in the future and make this festival an annual event. Judging from the wonderful reception the festival received there is no doubt but that the program was a success and that it will continue in the coming years. Following the evening of Carol singing the Kiwanians were hosts to the visiting clergy and the choirs for sandwiches and coffee in the church auditorium. The full program of Carols was taped by C.J.B.Q. Radio and will be heard over this station on Sunday next.

Missionaries Tell of Killings In Stanleyville

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Hector McMillan of Avonmore, Ont. was shot to death by Congolese rebel soldiers while another rebel opened fire on 3 women and children huddled on the floor of a house just outside Stanleyville last month, a Canadian missionary said Monday.

Olive Bjerkseth of Three Hills, Alta., a missionary in The Congo for 17 years with the Unevangelized Fields Mission, described her experiences in an interview here.

Mr. McMillan, 40, and a second missionary, Robert McAllister, were taken outside the house to be shot. Mr. McAllister, however, was only stunned by a bullet that grazed him.

"I saw Hector grab himself and knew he had been shot," Miss Bjerkseth said. She is in Toronto visiting her sister.

SONS WOUNDED

Two of Mr. McMillan's sons, Paul, 16, and Kenneth, 17, were wounded by the bullets fired into the group of nine women and 14 children in the mission, five miles from Stanleyville.

Another Canadian missionary, Viola Walker of Vermount, Ont., told Monday how Dr. Paul Carlson, a United States medical missionary in The Congo, was killed in Stanleyville minutes before Belgian paratroopers arrived.

Miss Walker was also at the Unevangelized Fields Mission home outside Stanleyville. A number of Belgian and U.S. citizens, including Dr. Carlson, were taken from the mission and imprisoned.

On day the Belgian troops arrived, the rebels marched the 250 whites held in captivity into a line against a wall. Miss Walker said that when the first shots were fired several missionaries fell, others ran and many died.

Dr. Carlson reached a wall and another missionary had almost pulled him over it when he was hit.

Army Drives on Nerve In Cyprus Mountains

By ALAN WALKER

NICOSIA (CP) — Slim roads and weird drivers make Canadian Army safe-driving awards doubly difficult to win on Cyprus.

Goats manage well on most island roads but navigating an army truck between holes and boulders along mountain ridges calls for special skill — and nerve.

Some alleged roads even have gouges every few yards where hunks of shoulder have slipped gracefully into the gorge hundreds of feet below.

Switchbacks and hairpin turns abound and you never know when a Cypriot truck will greet you with blaring horn and shrieking brakes.

So much for country driving. Even more thrills and possible spills await the man incautious enough to attempt town roads.

Some are so narrow that an army truck will pass with less than six inches to spare. Competition is fierce for those inches. Sidewalks are scarce so pedestrians, bicycles and sheep try to slip in where they can.

"You not only have to think for yourself but for the other fellow as well," said Pte. Joseph Pelletier, 19, of Sprague, Ont., when he received his award for driving 5,000 miles here without an accident.

The Royal Canadian Army Service Corps driver was given a gold, red and white plaque reading: "5,000 miles — safe driving Cyprus 1964."

'DEFENSIVE DRIVING'

Pte. Pelletier and Cpl. Alexander McNeil, 32, of Dominion, N.S., were the first to receive the awards since the Royal 22nd Regiment (Van Doos) was replaced as Canada's contribution to the United Nations peacekeeping force here by the Canadian Guards in September.

Cpl. McNeil, also a service corps driver, said he thought the only way to cope with Cyprus roads and drivers was to practise "defensive driving."

The island's accident rate is unusually high, officials confess with some chagrin. In 1963 for instance there was one accident for every 11 drivers on Cyprus.

Cyprus is noted for its Byzantine lethargy — its preference for never doing anything today that can be put off until tomorrow. But this doesn't go for driving.

"Put a Cypriot behind the wheel and he wants to get to where he's going instantly," a traffic department spokesman said. "And if the batteries wouldn't run down too fast, I'm sure the average motorist here would cheerfully blow his horn all the way."

In 1963 there were 55,600 licensed drivers here and 63,559 vehicles. Together they produced 5,370 accidents.

Pte. Pelletier and Cpl. McNeil were due to return to Canada on their pluques were hurriedly painted at Canadian Contingent headquarters by Capt. Mike Marks, 31, of Oromocto, N.B. Among other duties, he serves as contingent driver safety officer.

The awards were made shortly before the two drivers flew home.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONDAY, Dec. 7, 1964

The Commons started its second week of the current debate on a red maple leaf flag recommended by a Commons committee.

Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) said the red leaf denotes Canada's First World War dead and should not be used.

Frank Fane (PC—Vegreville said red maple leaves are almost dead and a green leaf should be used.

Jack Bigg (PC—Athabasca) said the flag issue had become a political football and only a plebiscite could resolve the issue.

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) said discarding the Red Ensign could set a precedent for resolutions to tamper with other minority rights.

TUESDAY, Dec. 8

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to continue the flag debate. The Senate stands adjourned until Dec. 14.

Two Cabinet Ministers Give Details Of Furniture Purchases To Stop Rumors

Both Deny Receiving Any Gifts Or Dispensing Any Favors to Firms

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Two cabinet ministers bared" details Tuesday of their furniture purchases in an avowed effort to squelch what they called rumors and false insinuations.

State Secretary Lamontagne and Immigration Minister Tremblay denied receiving any gifts or dispensing any favors.

Mr. Tremblay said his purchase was made late in 1962 or early in 1963 from a company in which Max Sefkind had a part interest.

He also said Mr. Sefkind had an interest in another firm which obtained a $600,000 or $700,000 loan after Mr. Tremblay, as Quebec deputy industry minister, and two other provincial deputy ministers sanctioned it.

He said he paid for the furniture with a $3,341 cheque made out to the Bank of Montreal Feb. 25, 1964, after the furniture firm went bankrupt. A second cheque as final payment was made out to the bank March 2, 1964, for $240.

WAITS FOR LOVE SEATS

He said he still is awaiting delivery of part of the furniture order, including two love seats.

Lamontagne said he began buying $6,056 worth of fur-

SAYS REPORTS FALSE — State Secretary Lamontagne said today published reports concerning his personal furniture purchases in 1961 and 1963 include insinuations of improper dealings which are false. He is interviewed by reporters following yesterday's meeting of the cabinet. He told them he intends to "state all the action needed to protect myself." The reports stemmed from a question on the Commons order paper, asking whether any cabinet member of Parliament had received campaign contributions from a Montreal firm now in bankruptcy proceedings.

November Unemployment Lowest in Eight Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment at mid-November was at its lowest November level in eight years, resisting the usual seasonal rise to remain at the October figure of 258,000.

A joint report issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the labor department reported employment at 6,694,000, about the same as October but a whopping 136,000 above the level of November, 1963.

The jobless total represented 3.7 per cent of the labor force, compared to 4.5 per cent a year earlier and 5.3 per cent two years ago.

Seasonally adjusted, the rate was 4.3 per cent. The seasonally adjusted rate at mid-October was five per cent.

The job picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	Nov.	Oct.	Nov.
Labor force	6,952	6,952	6,799
Employed	6,694	6,704	6,496
Unemployed	258	258	303

"The stability of employment and unemployment during the month resulted in part from the recall of automotive workers who had been on layoff in October owing to a shortage of parts," the report said.

"In addition, there has been some evidence of a continuing improvement in the job situation."

Reduce Council: Official Vote Makes It 3-1

Official tabulations of Monday's city election shows an even higher vote in favor of reducing council than the first overwhelming returns indicated.

In all 3,815 voted for the smaller council with 1,091 against — almost a clear 3-to-1 majority.

The parks board plebiscite showed a final count of 1,818 voting for abolition with 3,184 opposed.

Fluoridation also was less heavily approved than first counts showed. A total of 2,522 voters approved the proposal against 1,786 opposed.

In the aldermanic count, H. Jack Allin traded places with T. A. Carruthers. Monday night's tabulations had Alderman Allin in sixth place behind Mr. Carruthers.

This is the official order in which winning candidates were placed at the polls: with votes in brackets: Davis (2,225); Murray (2224); Sedea (2,196); Deacon (2,072); Allin (2,062); Carruthers (1,967); Lally (1,

Soviet Military Budget Cut Over Half Billion Dollars

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei Kosygin announced today a cut of 500,000,000 rubles ($555,000,000) in the Soviet Union's military budget for 1965 and called on other major powers to follow suit.

Kosygin told the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet Union's parliament, that the Soviet cut and an expected reduction of military spending in the United States "constitute a definite positive step toward reducing international tension."

He said the Soviet Union attaches great importance to the further reduction of the military budgets of the big nations.

Kosygin also promised the Russian people more consumer goods, bigger incomes and increased industrial and agricultural production.

The new Soviet premier said the military budget next year will total 12,800,000,000 rubles, or 12.9 per cent of all government expenditures, as against 14.5 per cent in 1964.

The military budget in 1964 totalled 13,300,000,000 rubles and was 800,000,000 rubles less than 1963. Western officials contend that much Soviet defence spending is disguised under non - military items in the budget, and some Western military analysts think total military spending this year is well over twice the budgeted figure.

The official value of the Soviet ruble is $1.11.

Kosygin spoke at the opening of the first Supreme Soviet session since the ouster of Nikita Khrushchev Oct. 14. Acting on a motion by Leonid Brezhnev, Khrushchev's successor as first secretary of the Soviet Communist party, the parliament approved Khrushchev's replacement as premier by Kosygin.

Although still a member of the Supreme Soviet, Khrushchev did not appear for the session.

Kosygin reaffirmed Soviet devotion to Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence and said:

"We are in favor of the development of relations with the United States. There have been some developments in that field, although they have not been great."

But he denounced the "aggression of the Americans and the Belgians in The Congo" and repeated Soviet pledges "to render the necessary assistance" to North Viet Nam and to Cuba "if the aggressors dare to raise their hands against them."

Survey May Bring Govt. Aid For Research by Industries

OTTAWA (CP) — Depending on the outcome of a survey now in progress, the government is reported ready to pour more funds into the encouragement of industrial research in Canada.

But no decision will be made until the industry department completes a study of 1964 Canadian research and technological development programs. This is to determine how much effect a tax-incentive program, begun in 1962, has had on research and development this year.

Under the five-year program, which former Conservative finance minister Donald Fleming called "a new and powerful incentive," Canadian firms can deduct from taxable income 150 per cent of their increased spending on scientific research. The increase is calculated from a 1961 base, when Canadian industry spent $115,000,000 on research.

But it was only $5,000,000 higher than the 1956 figure.

An earlier study by the industry department established that research spending in the first year of the tax-incentive program increased by 10 per cent.

Sources said Tuesday that the government is unlikely to be satisfied with a similar increase in 1964, and unless there is a sharp jump further new measures could be expected, probably in Finance Minister Gordon's next budget.

30th Day Of Flag Debate

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—With 12 talking days left before Christmas, the Commons today enters the 30th day of the flag debate in an atmosphere of rising tension.

Exactly half of the 96 Progressive Conservative MPs now scare started their say phase of the deadlocked debate and the party is believed to be nowhere near the end.

When this happens, the Conservatives either will introduce an amendment or a plebiscite to come to a vote or seek to introduce a sub-amendment.

If accepted by the chair, a sub-amendment would open the way for the 48 Conservatives who have spoken in the last seven days to make a second speech of up to 40 minutes.

Both the Conservatives and Liberals were expected to discuss their caucus at private meetings today. Reports circulated that some cabinet members favor the use of the notorious closure rule to cut off the debate arbitrarily and force an early vote.

Prime Minister Pearson and several of his colleagues have promised flatly that a distinctive Canadian flag will be approved before Parliament. Works Minister Deschatelets repeated the pledge Tuesday to a delegation of Civil ins Montreal French-speaking businessmen.

'ELECTION NEXT YEAR'

Finance Minister Sauve told the same group that an election will be called next year. "Come back next year," he said. "We will then have a new distinctive flag and a new government—a majority government."

Leon Balcer, the Conservative's Quebec leader, said in a Montreal speech the debate should end by Friday. He again came out in favor of the maple leaf design recommended by the special flag committee.

In the Commons, a string of eight Conservatives repeated arguments for a flag plebiscite to coincide with the next federal election.

Steel Union Ordered to Pay $1,747,645 to Gaspe Firm

QUEBEC (CP)—The United Steelworkers of America (CLC) union was ordered today to pay $1,747,645 in damages to Gaspe Copper Mines Limited of Murdochville, Que., as the result of a seven-month strike in 1957.

The union also was ordered to pay five-per-cent interest on the $1,747,645 from Dec. 31, 1957.

The decision was made in favor of the company in a 90-page judgment by Mr. Justice Antonio Lacourciere of Quebec Superior Court.

The company had sought $5,300,000 damages from the union" saying it was responsible for loss of profits and for damages the company claimed it suffered in the violence-marked strike.

The union had taken the position that the company had provoked the strike by its attitude during the union's organizing of the miners, particularly by the dismissal of Leo Gagne, president of the Steelworkers' Murdochville local.

Mr. Justice Lacourciere said the strike, which involved 900 workers, violence took the place of law.

He said:

"Those principally responsible are not the workers of Murdochville, but those who directed them, that is the representatives of the United Steelworkers of America.

"Not only did these latter do nothing to prevent other human beings from being the victims of acts which were less than human, but they also encouraged them, while themselves scrupulously to arouse public scorn for the police forces whose duty it was to maintain order and to protect individuals and property."

The judge said the strike was fomented, organized, sustained, directed, financed and prolonged by the union's United States headquarters and its agents. He said the strike was illegal, in violation of the labor relations law.

Picketing of the suit lasted two years. Some 350 witnesses were heard.

Living Costs At New High

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada rose to a record high in November with the consumer price index increasing three-tenths of a point or one-fifth of one per cent to 135.9 from 135.6 a month earlier.

The bureau of statistics said Tuesday that the index for the early part of November was 1.4 per cent higher than in November, 1963, index of 134. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Six of the seven main components of the index showed increases, with the transportation index unchanged.

The index of average weekly wages and salaries was 264.9 in September, compared with 263 a month earlier and 196 a year previous.

The November food index rose four - fifths of one per cent to 132 from 131 in October. Prices were higher for eggs, lard, beef, oranges, potatoes, tomatoes, celery, dairy products and honey. Lower prices were reported for sugar, grapefruit, bananas, apples, lettuce, cabbage, onions, canned fruit and vegetables and fresh and cured pork.

HOUSING INDEX UP

A rise of one per cent in the housing index increased it to 139.3 from 139.2. Both the shelter and the household operation com ponents increased fractionally.

The clothing index rose slightly to 120.9 from 120.7, reflecting higher prices for some items of men's and children's wear, footwear and laundry and dry cleaning services. Prices for women's winter wear and cotton and wool dress material were lower.

The health and personal care index advanced to 131.1 from 170.4. Higher prices for prescriptions and other pharmaceutical were not sufficient to move the health care component but the personal care component advanced as a result of increased prices for personal supplies, men's haircuts and women's hairdressing.

Higher prices for motion picture admissions and film for cameras increased the recreation and reading index to 132.3 from 131.1. These increases outweighed lower prices for bicycles and sports equipment.

The tobacco and alcohol index rose to 121.6 from 121.4. Both the tobacco and alcohol components increased with higher prices for cigarettes and tobacco in some cities and higher liquor prices in Manitoba.

THE WEATHER

In southern regions mainly sunny skies are expected today followed by cloudy and milder weather tonight and Thursday.

Security Council Debate Expected To Bring Blowup

Ireland Unveils Plan For 'Two Chinas' in UN

By CARMAN CUMMING

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Smouldering differences inside the African bloc at the United Nations were expected to flare up today when the Security Council launches debate on The Congo.

The first sparks may fly when the council gives the floor to Liberia and Nigeria, who were planning to speak. Both defend the United States and Belgium against charges by other African nations that the American-Belgian rescue mission to Stanleyville was a flagrant act of interference in The Congo.

A blowup was considered certain when Congo Premier Moise Tshombe arrives Saturday to tell the council of massacre and mutilation by the Congolese rebels and to accuse several African states of aiding the rebellion.

A number of African governments have denounced Tshombe for using white mercenaries against the rebels and have demanded him of seeking Western intervention is bolster his government.

MAY BRING STORM

His appearance before the council was expected to bring protests and denunciations reminiscent of the storm touched off by his attempt to attend an African unity meeting in Cairo several months ago.

Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, who will represent his government in the debate, also was expected to be the target of bitter attacks from many members of the 34-nation African bloc.

But some of the African nations who called for the council meeting to air their charges against the U.S. and Belgium were said to be having second thoughts in view of recent developments.

Since Belgium, as promised, has pulled out the paratroops flown to Stanleyville in American transport planes to rescue foreign hostages, the Africans may find it difficult to generate much heat over Belgian involvement.

Instead they have furnished Tshombe a platform from which to repeat his accusations that Algeria, the United Arab Republic and others have been aiding the rebels with arms and money.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A plan to bring Communist China into the United Nations was put forward by Ireland Tuesday—along with a warning that the Peking government would have to live up to UN standards.

Ireland's external affair minister, Frank Aiken, said China, as the world's fifth nuclear power, should be given a permanent seat on the 11-country Security Council along with the U.S., Russia, Britain and France.

But he said it would be intolerable if this were done by denying UN membership to Nationalist China, which now holds the permanent Chinese seat on the council.

Ireland voted last year against seating the Peking regime and Aiken's plan appeared to reflect an increasing feeling at the UN that little progress could be made on disarmament with one member of the nuclear club absent.

The seating of Peking representatives is expected to be rejected at this assembly as it has been for the last 14 years, but there is a belief among many Western delegations that next year will see the Communist regime admitted, provided the Nationalist government on Formosa is allowed to retain membership.

Peking has insisted so far that it won't enter the UN until the Nationalist "clique" has been expelled.

Ireland's initiative on the China question followed so-far unsuccessful attempts from many quarters — including the Canadian government and the secretary - general, to bring China into consultation with the older nuclear powers.

Canada is expected to vote against seating the Communist regime again this year, despite a stronger British position for admission. The Canadian position apparently is based mainly on concern for the fate of Formosa and a desire not to leave its U.S. ally out on a limb.

But an eventual change in the Canadian attitude appeared to be foreshadowed in External Affairs Minister Martin's statement to the assembly Tuesday that universality of membership "must remain our ultimate goal."

Britain, U. S., to Consult Allies On New Nuclear Force Approach

WASHINGTON (CP)— American and British officials in the United States will start urgent consultations this week with other NATO allies on a possible new approach to the organization of a nuclear weapons force in the Atlantic alliance.

The step was agreed on by Prime Minister Harold Wilson and President Johnson in a two-day conference which ended last night.

Wilson is due to leave for Ottawa at noon to meet Prime Minister Pearson.

Johnson and Wilson were reported to have stopped short of trying to agree on a formula embracing the new, broader approach. But officials said they had reached accord on the general guidelines to be followed in the consultations.

Why Was Airliner's Stabilizer Pointed Down?

MONTREAL (CP) — One thorny question, put to several expert witnesses, remained unanswered Tuesday when an inquiry into Canada's worst single plane disaster ended public hearings after six sitting days.

The question was: What caused a giant DC-8F airliner, that appeared to be normal in all respects, to go into its fatal dive north of Montreal Nov. 29, 1963, killing 118?

Experts drawn from the department of transport, the National Research Council, the Douglas Aircraft Company and elsewhere said they were able to establish that there was nothing seriously wrong with the plane's structure, engines or flight control systems at the moment of impact.

They ruled out the possibility of large-scale fire or explosion aboard the aircraft prior to impact and said there was no reason to suspect illness, psychological disturbance or intoxication on the part of the crew.

The plane had been in the air five minutes—plus or minus 15 seconds—after taking off from Montreal on a flight to Toronto.

A number of witnesses referred to, or were asked about, the fact that the plane's horizontal stabilizer was found to be in a nose-down position—that is, set in such a way as to give the aircraft a nose-down attitude of about 1.8 degrees.

In this respect, the Air Canada disaster resembled a DC-8 crash earlier this year in Lake Pontchartrain north of New Orleans, which also occurred shortly after takeoff.

Orville Dunn, 47, chief of aerodynamics in the Douglas Company's heavy transport division, testified that in both cases the stabilizers were set at "something approaching full nose-down position" of two degrees.

The Douglas Company subsequently modified its DC-8 stabilizers to give a maximum nose-down attitude of one-half degree, he said.

Mr. Justice George S. Challies of Quebec Superior Court, who conducted the inquiry, said in concluding hearings that any interested parties are welcome to make written submissions until Dec. 30.

He said he and his technical advisers will meet early in 1965, probably Jan. 4, to deliberate and prepare a report.

Planning on County Basis Is Growing in Importance

Municipal planning on a county or area basis is destined to become increasingly important in this country as urban populations continue to spill over urban-rural boundaries.

And one of the big questions is whether counties can be the effective body in dealing with many of the things now being carried out by local municipalities.

This was the thought expressed to members of Hastings County Councillors yesterday as they were addressed by John Pearson, representing the planning branch of the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs.

Mr. Pearson suggested that planning on an area or county basis was the only feasible method of planning to assure economical development.

This was being done to a large degree in European countries, in the United Kingdom and in the United States where county budgets in many instances were larger than those of the cities.

DOZEN TAKE ACTION

The speaker said that at least 12 counties in Ontario were taking actign toward the setting up of a county planning board.

Proper planning, he said, was not just patching up today's headaches, but preparing sanely for the future.

To carry this out effectively on a county basis, professional help was needed by the county, together with a high spirit of co-operation between the county and separated towns or cities.

Area planning would serve to ease the headaches of annexation.

Mr. Pearson said that nearly everyone admitted that with today's booming urban development, cities must annex, but in prevent annexation rural areas must be preserved to service lands for factories and other development. Usually these costs are too much for the rural area.

But annexation in itself is not sufficient, he said.

A question and answer period following Mr. Pearson's talk indicated interest on the part of councillors, while Warmora Reeve William Shannon noted that shread there was good example of co-operation between Hastings and the City of Belleville.

As examples he pointed to joint operation of the Hastings county home; the new county administration building and more recently joint ownership of Belleville General Hospital.

A meeting of the Hastings and Land O'Lakes Tourist Region No. 11 Council was held at the Hegton Hall in Stirling on Monday evening, with Mr. Jim Holt, president, in charge.

Mr. Holt announced that the Stirling Chamber of Commerce were sponsoring a school for business people and others interested in the tourist business.

Mrs. Verna Morrison, director in charge of Permits, Department of Highways, King-ston, and Mr. Overtilman, Regional Traffic Engineer attended the meeting and explained to members the reasons for the charge that is made to operators for signs erected on their own property. Any sign in excess of 250 feet from where the business is being done is considered field advertising, and there is an annual fee for the permit which can be refused if the sign is an eyesore. Arrangements were made for signs at the intersection of No. 41 and No. 506 Highway, and the Department was asked to erect some signs at the lakes on the highways in Tourist Region No. 11.

The meeting was informed that if the Municipality or Township will supply them with the names and number for Township roads that intersect the highway they will erect signs, giving the road name, of the township and concession.

Furniture Firm May Not Open Following Fire

DESERONTO — Loss in the Baywood Manufacturing Co. fire in Deseronto yesterday will not be known for several days, company manager Bill Gifford said today. All company records were destroyed in the fire, he said.

The building, sold to Baywood Manufacturing by the town early this year for one dollar, is a total loss, Mr. Gifford said. Machinery worth between $5,000 and $10,000 was destroyed, but Mr. Gifford thinks insurance will cover most of this.

The firm, which employs 12 people making furniture on a contract basis for institutions and commercial users, may not resume operations, Mr. Gifford added, if operations are resumed, he said, he is not sure where they would be located. He expects to have decided by next week whether the firm will continue or not.

Mr. Gifford complimented the Deseronto Fire Department on its work during the fire. The firemen had no chance to save the building, he said, but they were able to save some of the equipment in the finishing department, near the back of the two-storey section of the building.

No indications have been found, he said, of where or how the fire started.

SEPARATIST ACQUITTED

MONTREAL (CP)—A school teacher who admitted he is a follower of the Quebec separatist movement has been acquitted of culpable possession of 220 dynamite caps, it was learned Tuesday. Michael Costhier was given the "benefit of the doubt" by Judge John O'Meara when he told the court he believed the package he was carrying when arrested contained printing supplies for propaganda purposes.

Four Ships Caught In Shutdown

TORONTO (CP)—Four ships caught in the Great Lakes by the Dec. 5 shutdown of the St. Lawrence Seaway may be forced to return to Toronto for the winter.

Lawyers, ship agents and embassies of the countries involved were deluging the transport and external affairs department in Ottawa Tuesday in a bid to have the seaway reopened to free the ships, trapped outside the Iroquois lock 30 miles west of Cornwall.

The vessels are the Orient Merchant of Greek registry, the Olau Gorm of Denmark, the Vanfu of Nationalist China and the Flying, independent of the United States. All are owned or chartered in the U.S.

Agents have obtained berths for the ships in Toronto harbor, but were awaiting final word on the efforts of the diplomatic representations to the government.

Says Friction Between Depts. Ironed Out

TORONTO (CP) — William H. Hogg, newly - appointed director of news and public affairs for CBC's English-language television, said Monday friction between the two departments has been "ironed out."

News and public affairs, previously separate departments, were linked under Mr. Hogg's direction in new appointments announced earlier Monday in Ottawa. Mr. Hogg was chief news editor.

He confirmed reports of conflict between news and public affairs, notably involving the staff of the public affairs program This Hour has Seven Days and said members of the news staff had filed a grievance.

Planning for the administrative changes began last April and thus predated the trouble in the fall, Mr. Hogg said. The two departments would continue to operate apart under Reeves Haggan as general supervisor of public affairs and Donald J. MacDonald as chief news editor.

Provincial Police from the Brighton detachment say the Latour car "picked up" a piece of board from the roadside, after the car had been in collision with a car driven by Samuel Arley Tompkins of Picton. The board penetrated the front of the Latour car, Tompkins' car was damaged to the extent of $50 and neither driver was hurt.

Police Will Search Record Of Held Man

TRENTON — A touch of Beatlemania was introduced in magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday when the court was told that Clifford Kenneth Renoff, of no fixed address, had produced a Beatle wig from his luggage, when brought to the station early in the day. Renoff, charged with carrying a hunting knife, told the arresting officer he "wore the wig to keep his head warm." He said he carried the knife as protection when he slept out-of-doors. Also found in his luggage were several items of ladies' underwear.

Picked up back of Carr's Electric on Front street, Renoff said in court he was only passing through Trenton on his way to look for a job.

"I'm not looking for trouble," he said.

"Well, I'm afraid you've found it, anyhow," said Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Renoff was remanded until Dec. 15 while police search his record.

TRENTON — Some time before 12.45 a.m. today thieves broke a window at Mac's Esso Service Station at 44 Dundas St. E. gaining entry to the building and stole a small wall safe. Clifford Ross, alias Clifford St. Louis pleaded guilty in magistrate's court yesterday to the theft of a parking meter from Murphy St. The court was told that a friend of the accused had literally "uprooted" the meter from its moorings on Nov. 14 and that the two men had loaded the mechanism aboard a light truck and made off. They were stopped by police on Front St.

Ross told the court he had been drinking at the time of the incident and "couldn't remember putting the meter on the truck."

He was fined $25 and costs.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TUESDAY, Dec. 8, 1964

The Commons spent its seventh day on the current flag debate, defeating a Conservative motion to adjourn to other business.

Jack Horner (PC—Acadia) moved that the House adjourn the flag question and allow the question period to be resumed.

The motion was defeated by a vote of 139 to 68, four Quebec Conservatives voting with the government and one Liberal against it.

Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe) said debate totalled 1,257,800 words on the flag, indicating "all madmen are not locked up."

Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) said Mr. Gregoire wanted to gag the Conservatives.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) said he is one of many veterans who don't share the Royal Canadian Legion view of keeping the Red Ensign.

PRICE COMES HIGH

A Trenton man, Carl Anderson, 23, found the retail price of a beer room glass and ash tray slightly exorbitant yesterday when he was fined $25 for breaking these items in the Quinte Hotel on Nov. 28. The court was told Anderson had broken the items after he found the bar closed. Actual value of the ash tray and glass was 34 cents.

13,000 Acres Under Control Of Conservation Authorities Chairman Informs Council

With over 13,000 acres now under its control, the long range objection of the Moira River Conservation Authority is to own 100,000 acres for reforestation and other purposes. This was told to Belleville city council last night by Alderman George Wishart, chairman of the Moira River Authority who said the above objection should be reached within the next ten years.

Alderman Wishart said that although the Moira Authority had a comparatively low budget, it had the largest acreage of any authority in Ontario. The reason for this was because cheap land was available.

Mr. Wishart reviewed the year's activities of the Authority noting that the major project in 1964 had been the construction of a low weir dam at Dunray's rapids near the foot of Moira Lake.

Purpose of this dam was to control the summer level of water in Moira Lake and would be of considerable value to summer cottagers at the lake.

Improvements had been made at the Authority's three conservation areas at Vanderwater Park near Thomasburg, at O'Hara's Mill, and at Price's Park at Actinolite.

The next big project for the Authority would be construction of a dam on Deer Rock Lake on the upper Skootamatta River which would hold 50 per cent as much water as Lingham Lake north of Madoc.

Such reservoir dams were important in maintaining the summer flow of the Moira and the worth of the Lingham Lake and Skootamatta Lake dams had already been proven.

Up to 40 cubic feet of water per second had been fed into the Moira system from the two dams during last summer's low water period, he said.

A major Authority project proposed for some time in the future was what is known as the Big Bend Dam west of Moira Lake.

WOULD HELP SUPPLY

Mr. Wishart said that construction of this proposed dam would mean that an additional 170 cubic feet per second could be fed into the Moira during the summer period.

Construction of the Big Bend dam could change the entire complexion of the Moira watershed ,the alderman said.

He asked that when the time came in ten years or so for serious discussion on the Big Bend dam project, that the city give it a good hard look.

The city of Belleville is the major municipality in the Moira Watershed and as such contributes a big share towards its annual tax budget.

A Minority Chooses Wisely

We hope the majority of Belleville citizens approve of the results of Monday's election.

Theoretically, elections reveal the opinions and choices of the majority. There is, however, no guarantee that Monday's results here reflect majority opinion, because only one-quarter of the qualified voters went to the polls.

This was unfortunate, but those who did not vote have no right to complain about the results. They had their opportunity to register their opinions and failed to do so.

From our viewpoint, the decisions made by the conscientious minority which went to the polls were excellent. It was a surprise, but a pleasant one, to see fluoridation of the city's water supply receive endorsation by such a wide margin. The City Council and the Public Utilities Commission should proceed to implement this decision promptly, wasting no time listening to any protests.

The electors' decision to reduce the size of the City Council was a sensible one, while the retention of the Parks Board also meets with our approval.

As for the voters' choices for the seven vacant seats as aldermen, we think Ald. John Deacon, re-elected, said it well, the voters "had a good slate to choose from." We elected able men, but because the slate was good some candidates whom we are sure would have made good aldermen have been left at home. Our advice to them is to try again next year. In politics, municipal, provincial or federal, opportunity rarely answers the door on the first knock.

In Defence of Small Cars

Results of a survey by the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory shows that fatal injuries are about 50 percent higher among small-car passengers than among big-car passengers in accidents, according to recent news story. A spokesman for a foreign car manufacturer described the researcher's findings as "a statistical smorgasboard."

Without a complete copy of the survey report, it is impossible to make specific comments. But some points are obvious.

First, there is the comment that the report, apparently, did not consider the chances of a small car getting into an accident, compared with the chances of a big car. This may be more important than the big-car driver appreciates — extra manoeuvrability, often better braking ability and usually an extra appreciation of the dangers of accidents can make a big difference. The big-car driver may not realize this but he has had ever an occasion to slopflight in a sports car and looked out the window and seen only the hub cap of a large truck, he would appreciate what we mean.

There is another factor, too. Almost all sports cars are small, and the people who get killed trying to prove that their new toy will do better than 150 mph are classified as small-car fatalities. This is one hazard that does not apply to most small-car drivers.

Whatever the facts, U.S. traffic surveys always seem to show that the big, heavy, high-priced vehicles are the safest machines to travel in. To an extent, this is undoubtedly true. Anyone driving a tank would be perfectly safe in Belleville traffic.

There is the fairy tales that a car must be heavy to hold the road, that heavy cars are more comfortable and that heavy cars necessarily skid less on ice and snow are nonsense. Most grand-prix cars weigh much less than a ton, often less than half a ton, and they hold the road well at speeds up to 200 mph. Some small cars are among the most comfortable in the world and most of the best cross-country vehicles in the world—cars than can cross snow, swamps and muskeg are light.

All of which proves nothing more than the Cornell survey did. Our defence is that this did not take two years, (as did the Cornell survey), to complete. Maybe we can come up with a conclusion of value though. Let us suggest that you do not buy traffic safety in a showroom, you buy it with your driving habits.

It would be nice to be able to present the great composers as great romantics, rushing to get on paper the elusive melodies inspired by a glimpse of their loved ones. This may have been true of a few, but almost certainly the great love in the lives of the majority has always been quite simply—music! You can hear them captivated by a series of notes, a harmonic progression, or lost in the wonder of the changing colors of an orchestral score.—Clarinetist Jack Brymer speaking on BBC "Woman's Hour."

"Workers of all kinds are needed. More comforts for the Services are required than ever before in our history. For the first time since the outbreak of war, we have a whole Canadian army in the field, and the winter will be very long, very cold and very wet. . . Our Navy grows constantly and needs more and more warm woolens if it is to accomplish its tren.endous task . . . Pregnancy Requires Doctor in Early Stages

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss toxemia of pregnancy or pre-eclampsia. Would a person be more apt to have this trouble after once losing a baby prematurely? — Mrs. J. K.

Pre-eclampsia is one form of toxemia of pregnancy. The cause is not known, but it seems that women vary in their tolerance of salt during pregnancy.

Pre-eclampsia is featured by albumin in the urine, sudden weight gain, elevated blood pressure, headache, and decreased urine output. In more severe cases, with convulsions, the condition is called eclampsia.

These toxemias can result in kidney damage; the patient is more vulnerable to trouble in a subsequent pregnancy. Pre-eclampsia, however, does not of itself mean that there will be a recurrence of the same problem in later pregnancies.

Obviously these toxemias are dangerous, and should be stopped at the earliest possible moment — this usually can be accomplished if treatment is started at once.

This, indeed, is one of the major reasons for seeing your doctor as soon as a pregnancy is known or even suspected. The women who lose babies do not realize the need for pre-natal care, and think they don't have to see a doctor until shortly before the child is born.

These tests which are regularly used in pregnancy include watching and controlling the amount of weight which is gained, running alert for sudden weight increase, observing the blood pressure periodically, and testing for any sign of albumin in the urine.

Restriction of salt is ordered immediately if danger signs appear, and moderate salt restriction is recommended routinely for all pregnancies by many obstetricians.

Rest, sedation and proper diet are the principal safeguards if there is any reason to suspect toxemia.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 30 and have always loved coffee. I am bothered with my heart now, but not bad. I've been told by friends that coffee is hard on the heart, especially on an empty stomach. I seem to be somewhat run down, and in the morning a cup of coffee seems to pep me up so I feel more like eating breakfast. Would a cup of coffee do me too much harm the rest of my short time? — J. B.

• • •

I can't answer that because I don't know the extent or type of your heart trouble. But instead of relying on what you have been told by friends, ask your doctor.

He won't forbid coffee unless he has a real reason for doing so. The caffeine in coffee (or tea, for that matter) is a stimulant and thus puts extra stress on the heart. In some cases this stress can be harmful. In others it isn't.

If your doctor says no, then try one of the caffein-free coffee substitutes.

English Say Noel Well

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Our favorite Senator, the Hon. Jean-François Pouliot, has raised a point which some may consider trivial. Senator Pouliot, like the late comic-strip character, Andy Gump, wears no man's collar. He has changed his official party label, in recent years, from "Independent Liberal", to plain "Liberal", but his reasoning and conjuring mind continues to follow its own original lines of security. He is constitutionally incapable of being dull or boring.

During the question period in the Upper Chamber, Senator Pouliot raised the question of how to pronounce the word "Noel". When Senator Pouliot listens to radio broadcasts, he listens with a critical ear. He wants to know why it is that the announcers on the English-language network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation pronounce it "Noh-el", while the announcers on the French-language network pronounce it "Nwa-el".

"If I ask anyone of my English - speaking colleagues how the word 'Noel' is pronounced, he will say 'Noh-el', and he will speak of 'Noh-el' the great feast of Christmas. I then ask a French colleague, and the commentators pronounce it 'Nwa-el'. It is a French word which is correctly pronounced by all Englishmen, and always mis-pronounced by French over the CBC and the other stations. It is unfortunate because there are many announcers over the Christmas sales, yet they speak of 'vente Noh-el'. It is silly, and they are ill-mannered and pretentious."

It may seem a small point in itself, but we are cheered by the discovery that someone is listening with a critical and bilingual mind to the two networks of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. There has been too much of a tendency to split the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's network right down to their roots; the emphasis has been on cleavage between English-language and French - language programs, so that most Canadians hear one, but never the other. For the past two years there have been recurrent suggestions, which probably could never be either proved or disproved, that the payroll of the CBC's French - language networks came to some of the more rabid of Quebec separatists. The complete divorces between the two languages in items of the CBC gives occasion for such nonsense, and we do not there is any truth behind them.

Senator Pouliot's alert observation reminds us again that the CBC fell on its face when it failed to make CBC in Toronto a bilingual station, and instead insisted on an all - French, no-English policy for it. A bilingual station could promote bilingualism. The rigid one-or-the-other policy promotes cleavage.

Buddhist Doctrine Explained

By CLAUDE MAIGRE in UNESCO Features

"The King named Milinda approached Nagasena at Sagala.

In the incomparable city, like the Ganges the ocean.

To him, the eloquent, the torch-bearer, dispeller of darkness, the king drawing near.

Asked many abstruse, questions about correct or faulty conclusions.

The solutions to the questions likewise were given over to profound meanings, . . .

Going to the heart, pleasing to the ear, wonderful, astounding.

Plunging into Further-Dhamma and Vinaya, deliberating the sat of the Suttas, Nagasena's talk was varied with similes and in the method.

Aspiring to knowledge herein while gladdening the mind,

Hearken to the abstruse questions, dissipating occasions for doubt."

The Pali Canon, oldest and most complete collection of the Buddhist scriptures, is divided in the Tipitaka into three sections: the Vinaya, rules governing the lives of monks; the Sutta, teachings of Buddha; and the Abhidhamma, a group of which were drawn up in their definitive form at the Council of 245 B.C.

Besides these official texts, Buddhism has produced a large number of works whose purpose is to provide moral teaching rather than to convert readers. Among these is a text of exceptional interest entitled Milinda's Questions which is translated by the verses quoted above. A new English translation of this important work has just been published by Unesco in its collection of representative works of Buddhist literature.

• • •

After Alexander the Great's invasion of the Panjab, Chandragupta founded the Maurya Empire which included the river basins of the Ganges and Indus and which his son Bindusara succeeded in consolidating. Asoka Indi.a. Chandragupta's grandson, Asoka the Pious, began his turn to wage wars of the conquest but, horrified by the massacres which occurred during the conquest of Kalinga on the east coast of India, he renounced violence in any form.

The gentleness and compassion of Buddist teachings inspired him to devote the rest of his life to spreading this doctrine, making his empire the first Buddhist nation whose missionaries found their way to Ceylon, Burma, Syria and, even, perhaps, to Macedonia.

• • •

The Maurya Empire did not survive Asoka's death. Northwest India once again fell into the hands of the Greeks whose rule, though they were converted in the Buddhist faith, some of them even being converted. One of these, Menander (Milinda), who ruled over Bactria from about 125 to 95 B.C., called to his court to seek succor Nagasena, to whom he put many questions on the nature of Buddhism.

These conversations, recorded in Milinda's Questions, owe their interest not only to what the character of the two protagonists and also to the combination of events which led to their meeting.

In the last century of the pre-Christian era, Buddhism had not yet become the popular religion formulated later by eminent thinkers who added to Asoka's sacred writings the treasures of oral tradition accumulated from generation to generation. Still less was it the vast and infinitely varied movement which different branches spread throughout the Far East. Nagasena was the representative of a primitive doctrine, narrow but pure, based on the teachings of the Buddha himself and the starting point for all studies of Buddhism.

Milinda was a layman. His questions are those which anyone might ask. "What is samsara (reincarnation)?" "What is the relation of karma (individual action)?" "Does everyone discovered or referred to in Milinda's Questions leave no Buddhist theme untouched.

• • •

Perhaps Milinda was better informed than he revealed, and doubtless when the account of his conversations with Nagasena was written down at the beginning of the Christian era, a number of questions were added. But the importance of the document is that, through Nagasena's answers, a complete explanation of Buddhist doctrine is put forward in a form which is clearer than the canonical texts and far simpler than more complete works.

What makes this account particularly interesting to Western readers is that Milinda is not just a layman questioning a master: Milinda is a Greek and through him the West is interrogating the East on universal themes.

Historians report that Nagasena answered the questions put to him by the king so pertinently and with such profundity that he succeeded in converting him.

Though this is not the effect generally anticipated, readers of Milinda's Questions will find in the answers a coherent and harmonious whole, the viewpoint of a religion which for the past 25 centuries has demonstrated its continuing vitality in al. the fundamental spheres of human suffering.

Milinda asked: "What is the reason that men are not all the same, some being short-lived, some long-lived, some wealthy, others comely, some poor, some rich, some being weak in wisdom, others having wisdom?" And the answers given to him by the monk in Sagala, "the incomparable", are of universal concern to all mankind.

Expectation Can Create Improvement

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In one of the conversations with Eckerman, Goethe said: "When we take a man as he is, he makes him worse; but when we take a man as he ought to be, we advance him to what he can be."

Only three dozen words—and a complete working philosophy of what we modestly pretentiously call "human relations." More than a century later, we still know anything about depth-psychology, Goethe had anticipated the whole point of what we mean by the theory of fulfilled expectations."

This theory states that what ever we expect of good or bad of someone tends to become fulfilled by our mere expectation. It is our attitude that helps determine, to a large extent, how that person behaves in a given situation. It has been verified, time and time again, in all forms of human relationship, from game-playing to child-rearing.

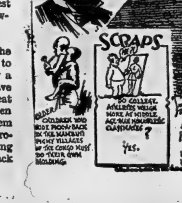
If we take a trivial instance, if an expert bridge player finds himself in a tournament partner who is a complete dud, he does not take the partner as he is; but takes him as if he were already what he ought to be—and this faith and confidence often inspires the partner to what he can be.

Those who are tempera mentally inclined to doubt this find soon enough that they have made their partner worse; for fear of getting a scolding and the ensuing criticism, inhibits the partner's best efforts. Conversely, the lack of support, or anxiety, the child who is taken only as he is, whose potentiality is ignored or slighted, remains where he is, or even slides backwards. But the child who is treated as if he is already what he should be often begins to show the most startling progress to what he can be.

A child treated as dumb stays dumb; treated as clever, grows clumsy; treated as delinquent, becomes even more delinquent. We react to what we expect from us, we find a sort of security (spurious though it is) in conforming to the opinion of those around us. For the opinion is a major factor in shaping our behavior, and what is true of a child hood and in later life.

The "self-fulfilling prophecy" can be most important in a marriage relationship. If one of the partners has doubts about other, and shows little faith, hope or charity in the relationship, the other will begin to behave in a way that justifies the prophecy. Our attitudes toward what happens can modify and determine those happenings; and this is one reason why applying animal behavior cannot tell us a great deal about human behavior in any critical sense.

Lovers see one another as they "are meant to be," not as they actually are; and that we say that "love is blind." But it is not that; blindness is a kind of vision of what we can be and what we want to be?



Purple Passage

Fort William Times-Journal

A student who tried the Grade 13 examination last June wrote for one paper, "The dainty violets were peeping through the leaves as a glistening white seagull dirtied its on the soft breeze and pounced on a dead fish with its intestines hanging out." The department of education bulletin does not say whether he passed but he sure attracted attention.

Six Inches Of Snow Fall On City

Six inches of snow fell on Belleville and the Quinte area yesterday, and about eight inches around Tweed. Snow in the north end of the county was generally lighter than around Belleville but was still heavier than at the same time last year.

Remember last year? We had one-half-inch of snow on the ground in Belleville once year ago. One-and-a-half inches of snow had fallen by the end of November last year, but a rain just 306 days ago wiped most of it away. Trenton did a bit better, with about two inches of snow one year ago. Trenton now has about six inches of snow on the ground.

Most lakes north of Highway Seven in the county were frozen during the first two days of December but some still have open patches and none are safe to walk on, the Department of Lands and Forests warns.

Quinte Emergency Measures Organization will be collecting weather information from the QEMO rates this winter, QEMO co-ordinator Col. Angus Duffy said today. The information, to be gathered over the QEMO radio network, will be of value if the organization has to go into action. Getting the information, Col. Duffy said, will also provide a daily check of QEMO's communications system.

Short Session Closes Year For Council

Belleville city council held one of its shortest sessions of the year last night as the only major item on the agenda — finalizing of the proposed input levy on undeveloped land — was again tabled for two weeks.

Mayor Jack Ellis named a committee of Alderman William Leach, Jack Deacon and Frank Murray to enquire into the validity of the city imposing the impost against sub-divisions already started.

He said the question had been raised by Alderman Murray a week ago at an informal meeting held with local builders to discuss the proposed impost.

Two of three new aldermen elected in Monday's municipal election were in attendance at the meeting in a "get acquainted" capacity. Aldermen Kenneth Soden and Thomas Lally were invited inside the bar.

OFFERS CONGRATULATIONS

Mayor Ellis congratulated the aldermen-elect and also members of this year's council who were re-elected.

At the same time he expressed his appreciation to the three council members who will not be back next year.

Alderman George Wilhart who did not offer himself for re-election this year, yesterday was attending his last meeting of council.

Under general business he outlined the activities of the Moira River Conservation Authority and stressed the importance of conserving national resources.

The firm publishes The Star, The Star Weekly, and Canada Weekly. Hastings Manor New Name for Home for Aged

The name of the Hastings County Home for the Aged is to be changed.

Yesterday, county council on the last day of its final session of the year voted to change the name of the county home to "Hastings Manor."

The name change was proposed by Deputy-reeve Sidney Fitzgerald of Tyendinaga township, a member of the county home for the aged committee, and was suggested by the provincial department of welfare.

There was also a suggestion that the name change would tend to remove much of the stigma which might be attached to the name "Home for the Aged."

But Reeve Vern McMurray didn't see anything wrong with calling a spade a spade.

"Why try to fool the people," he asked.

And the same attitude was taken by several other councillors who felt the present name should remain.

Warden Thomas Burnside said the name change was an attempt to change the old line of thought under which the home for the aged was often considered as the "poor house."

It was pointed out that today this is all changed with the vast majority of residents in the home for the aged now paying their own way.

The motion to adopt the name "Hastings Manor" was approved by a narrow majority

Proposal to Raise Skating Rates at Arena Is Tabled

How much is a two-hour Saturday evening skate at the Belleville Memorial Arena worth to the average adult?

The recreation and arena committee thinks it should be worth 65c but city council as a whole is not so sure.

At yesterday's meeting of council a new schedule of admission rates for skating was proposed by the committee. The proposed rates would see the rate for adults increased from the present 35 cents to 65 cents, and children under 15 from 25 to 35 cents.

The new rate schedule was tabled for a further report.

Alderman Don Whalen said the arena committee proposal was not unanimous as he has opposed. He said public skating was not unanimous as he was present rate.

He approved of the arena effort to increase its revenue but did not feel this should be done at the expense of skaters.

The alderman said the arena was a public service and that public skating should be encouraged, not discouraged.

Mayor Ellis had a somewhat similar opinion and doubted that the suggested increase was justified.

Alderman Eons David moved for the matter to be tabled, but the mayor felt the question should be decided one way or the other.

But Alderman William Jarvah did not feel this was the proper action.

"I would like to know the reasoning behind the rate increase proposal", he said.

Successful Living

Roving Daughter Needs Stable Homelife

DEAR DORIS — At 17 my daughter married. It did not work out and she got a divorce. Now at 21 she moves from job to job, and from boy friend to boy friend, never settling down.

DORIS CLARK

I ask her what she plans to do with her life and she says she'd like to meet someone who'd be understanding and make a home and family. I haven't got a home established. I visit my cousin when I'm not working and she comes there a couple of times a year. She knows she is welcome to come there on a holiday.

I put her through a hairdressing course but now she doesn't want that. I can't turn my back on her because I'm all she has. — WIDOWED MOTHER.

* * *

DEAR MOTHER — Just as long as she sees herself as an unattached girl waiting for some wonderful man to relieve her of all responsibility, she'll be unhappy.

Why not provide the "settling down" she needs, by establishing a home for her? You need each other. You could swing it, together. It could mean everything to both of you to have times when you were alone in your own home — even a one-room apartment — where you could discuss the things nearest to your hearts.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — My girl friend and I have thought of writing to boys in the armed forces. We're normal teen-agers and we're quite sure there are several boys who get lonesome and might appreciate getting a friendly letter now and then. Do you think we're being foolish? — PEN HOLDERS.

* * *

DEAR PEN HOLDERS — The army wouldn't even try to pick the right pen pals for you. But if any soldier or sailor or airman want to write in through me, I'll send his letter on.

* * *

Confidential to BEWILDERED — Join in gaily in activities at the new school. One of these days another dreamboat will begin to look at you with interest.

* * *

Confidential to A FRIEND OF SUE'S — Doubt if F would go out with "just someone to help him get over Sue." He likes you and wants your companionship. Let it go at that.

* * *

Confidential to VERY DISTURBED — If you want a reply to your question, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat it.

Mrs. Dorothy Reilly rendered two delightful solos and was thanked by Mrs. Mona Robinson.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Miss Cora Bailey, primary supervisor of Peterborough schools, and past president of FWTAO, was introduced by Mrs. Lenna Phillips.

Miss Bailey said that it was impossible to measure a teacher's worth or the quality of her teaching but that the quality should be up-to-date. It is not what children think but how they think and make their own decisions that concerns us. Their attitude too is important and to have proper attitude toward school we must have a good environment in which to teach, that is—good libraries and films available, beautiful school-grounds, and well-equipped classrooms. She closed by giving a number of "Commandments" for the teachers to consider.

Miss Estella Burkett expressed the thanks of the association to Miss Bailey for her inspiring address.

Snow Queen Crowned at Annual Event

TWEED — The annual "Snow Queen" dance was held at St. Carthagh's hall on Friday evening. Changes were made this year in the Snow Queen contest. More Gifts Needed to Supply All Patients at Mental Hospital

Although the people of Belleville have been generous in response to the appeal by the Canadian Mental Health Association for Christmas gifts to give to the patients in Cobourg hospital, the quota of 510 gifts has not been reached. Friday is the last day donations can be made. On Monday afternoon and evening volunteers will meet at the home of Mrs. W. N. Hurst, 240 Church Street, to sort and wrap the gifts and attach tags with a description of the contents.

Some gifts of money have been received and Mrs. Hurst is using these to purchase suitable gifts.

This hospital is just for women, so gifts should be of a feminine nature.

Until Friday night parcels may be left at Leslie's Shoe store, Front Street, or at Barton's Pharmacy, North Front Street. Donors are requested not to give anything in glass containers, such as perfume or eau-de-colonge, but wearing apparel is appreciated, lingerie, gloves, scarves, blouses, aprons, purses, handbags, candy, cards, puzzles, slippers, stationery, etc.

These gifts should not be wrapped as they all have to be opened and a fair distribution made, so each will have as nearly equal contents as possible.

OTTAWA (CP) — Three of the four biggest women's church organizations in the country lost members during the last year on the basis of figures published by the women's bureau of the federal labor department.

The Presbyterian Missionary Society listed its 1964 membership at 45,509, down 632.

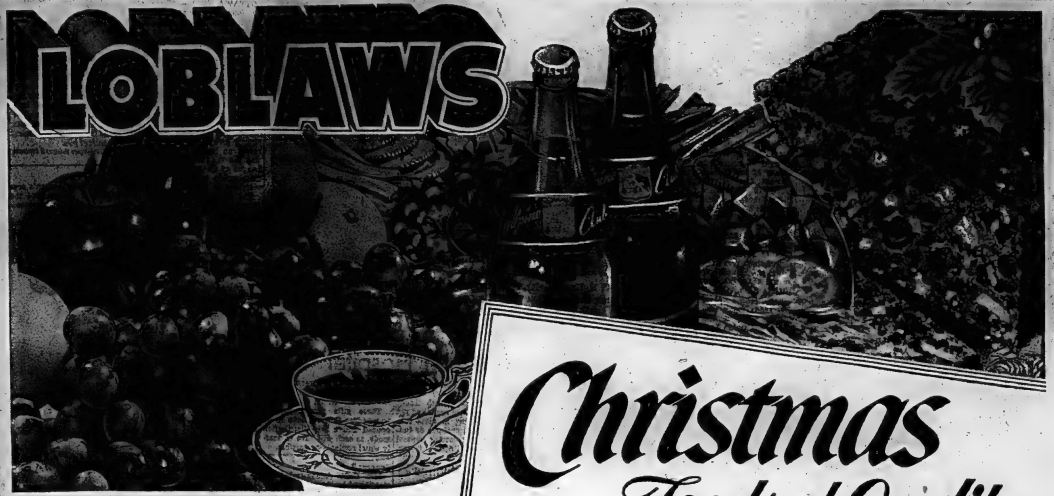
PRINCESS INJURED

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Anne, 16-year-old daughter of the Queen, was taken to a hospital with a hand injury Tuesday night after a pony-riding accident near her school at Benenden, Kent, southeast England. The princess crashed a bone in the little finger of her right hand after catching it in a rein.

Prince Charles Not Kept Short of Pocket Money

LONDON (Reuters) — Buckingham Palace has denied a report in a North American news magazine that Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip keep their son Prince Charles short of pocket money.

The denial, sent to the editor of the magazine, referred to a report in Time magazine about the disappearance of an essay book belonging to the heir to the throne, who attends the Gordonstoun boarding school in Scotland.



In a letter to Time, the palace press secretary, Cmdr. Richard Colville, also denied that the prince, 16, had sold the book to a classmate.

The letter, published in the latest edition of Time to reach London bookstalls, said:

"My attention has been drawn to your report (Nov. 27) entitled The Princely Pauper. There is no truth whatever in the story that Prince Charles has sold his autograph at any time. There is also no truth whatever in the story that he sold his composition book to a classmate. . . .

"The suggestion that his parents keep him so short of money that he has to find other means to raise it is also a complete invention."

Scarf Catches on Fence, Tot, 4, Is Almost Strangled

WELLINGTON (Special) — Four-year-old Timmy Hewton is alive today thanks to the prompt action and first-aid knowledge of two villagers.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hewton of this village was playing in the back yard. He climbed a fence, fell, and his scarf caught on a nail. His mother chanced to look out the window and saw his predicament. When she reached him, he was blue-faced and unconscious.

She picked him up and ran out to the street calling for help. Bill Greer and Gerry De Voer heard her call and came to her assistance. They rushed the boy to the office of Dr. R. A. Thompson, but found he was out on a call.

They used their first-aid knowledge and after a lengthy period of time succeeded in bringing the youngster back to consciousness.

Timmy was later attended by Dr. Thompson who stated that the prompt action of Greer and De Voer had saved the life of the boy.

Turkish Delight Is Pretty Sight

By MARY MOORE

This remembered confection appeals to those who crave a candy but want a sugary morsel that is not too sweet.

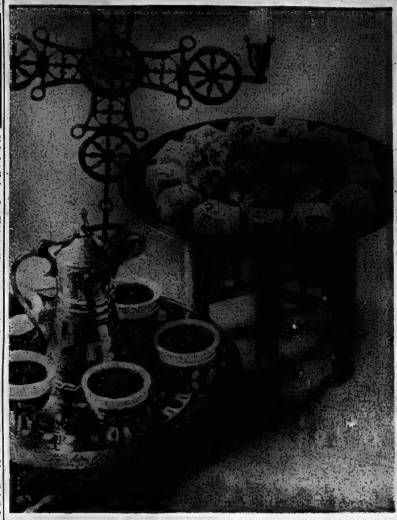
You do not require a candy thermometer to make this Turkish Delight so this will attract scores of you who make candy once a year at Christmastime.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chipped Beef Rarebit (see Tuesday); Bright Green Brussels Sprouts; Shoestring Carrots; Sliced Cucumber and Tomato Salad; Fruit Cup; Thumbprint Cookies (see Monday); Coffee.

PINK PEPPERMINT TURKISH DELIGHT:



2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) plain gelatine, 1½ cups granulated sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups water, 12 drops (no more) red food coloring, ¾ teaspoon (no more) peppermint extract.

Mix together gelatine, sugar, and salt. Add water, let stand 5 minutes, then heat, stirring, until gelatine is dissolved and mixture boils. Reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat, skim off scum, add coloring and extract. Rinse an 8 x 4" loaf pan with cold water, pour in mixture, but do not scrape sides of pan with spoon or rubber scraper for you may dislodge sugar crystals and some remaining scum. Let stand in cool place — not refrigerator — overnight. Loosen edges with wet sharp knife, cut into 1" squares and roll each in fine granulated sugar; roll in sugar again when first coating has clung. Store in tightly covered container between single layers of wax paper, each sprinkled with additional granulated sugar. Do not try to keep this Turkish Delight more than 3 or 4 days.

COFFEE WALNUT TURKISH DELIGHT:

2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) plain gelatine, 1¼ cups granulated sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups strong coffee, 1 tsp. spoon vanilla, ½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans.

Mix gelatine, sugar and salt in saucepan. Add coffee, let stand 5 minutes then bring to boil. Stir until gelatine is completely dissolved. Lower heat and simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat and skim off scum. Add vanilla. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in walnuts. Rinse 9 x 4" loaf pan in cold water, then pour gelatine mixture into pan. Place in cool place, not refrigerator, and let stand overnight. Loosen candy around edges of pan with wet, sharp knife. Pull out on board lightly dusted with granulated sugar. Cut into ¾" cubes and roll twice in granulated sugar. Makes about forty ¾" cubes. This should be used within 2 or 3 days.

Turkish Delight is a sweet that amateurs can produce with confidence. Exact cooking time must be observed but a thermometer is not necessary. Mary Moore gives two variations for once-a-year candy makers to try.

A.O.T.S. Men's Club Holds Ladies' Night

RAWDON—On Saturday evening Rawdon AOTS Men's Club entertained the ladies in Mount Pleasant Rawdon Church hall with an attendance of 100 people. Yuletide decorations were used and the ladies of Carmel UCW catered for the turkey banquet.

Guests were in attendance from Springbrook, Foxboro, Madoc, Stirling, River Valley and Burnbrae.

President Kenneth Tompkins presided and Rev. W. G. Fletcher gave the invocation. Jim Pollock gave the toast to the ladies and Mrs. Robert H. Hoard replied. Mr. and Mrs. Craig Watson were in charge of the assembly singing and Mrs. Watson was piano accompanist for various numbers. Robert Merrick was sergeant-at-arms and Hugh Lyons gave the fellowship report.

Two couples who had celebrated their silver anniversaries recently were congratulated by the group. They were Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sharpe and Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAdam.

William McAdam expressed thanks to Carmel ladies for the delicious meal and Mrs. Clayton Stapley, president of that organization replied.

Ralph Jeffs introduced the head table guests which included the immediate officers of the AOTS and their wives.

Robert H. Hoard conducted the devotional based on the Christmas theme after which he was the recipient of his past president's badge.

Jack Dunham presided over the varied program. Mr. Arden Lewis, Foxboro, contributed accordion selections. Miss Kathy Burnside of Madoc rendered vocal solos. Mrs. Percy MacMillan gave two readings based on Christmas. Judith and Sally McAdam contributed a vocal duet. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Richardson rendered two vocal selections. The ladies' quartet composed of Mrs. Jim Pollock, Mrs. Frederick Beckett, Mrs. Gerald Clancy and Mrs. Lorne Watson contributed a variety of Yuletide selections.

President Tompkins thanked everyone and those who had assisted with the program. The pastor officially closed this special function.

Ann Landers

Ignoring Hubby's Actions Will Put an End to Them

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband has started to do little things which annoy me no end. Please tell me how to cope before I flip my wig.

If he puts on a shirt and a button is off he drapes it over a lamp or rolls it in a ball and places it on my breakfast plate.

If the kitchen stencil drawer (strictly for odds and ends) should become disarranged he pulls out the entire drawer and leaves it in the middle of the living room floor. If the sugar bowl needs refilling he leaves it on top of the TV.

ANN LANDERS

Last night we ran out of milk and he put the empty milk bottle in my bed. These not-so-subtle hints that I'm not doing my job are driving me crazy. Why doesn't he come right out and tell me I'm a lousy housekeeper instead of being so doggoned cute? Any suggestions? — SLOW BURN.

DEAR BURN — Register no response to his precious gimmicks and he'll cut them out.

Drawers do become disarranged and sugar bowls do get low, in the best of families. These are not legitimate signs of sloppy housekeeping. But about those shirts, Babe — I'm with him. A man who puts on a shirt and finds a button missing, has a right to blow his top. When you get this needle, Lambie-Pie, run some thread through it and start sewing.

• • •

DEARA NNLANDERS — My wife's brother robbed a small store and got $18. It was his second offence and he was on probation because of his age. My wife was worried sick that this time he'd end up in jail. She begged me to go to the station and say I did it. I love my wife very much and agreed to do this foolish thing to make her happy.

When my father heard about it he came down to the station and told them I must be taking the rap for somebody because he and I were at the ball game together at the time of the robbery. When my father showed them the ticket stubs they let me go and arrested my wife's brother.

Now my wife is mad at me. She says her brother will have to serve time and it's my fault for not denying my father's story. I'm afraid she will leave me and take the children. What can I do? — CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED — It sounds like you married into a great little family.

You can't do much about a wife who'd rather send her innocent husband to jail than her guilty brother.

Enlist your clergyman's help. Maybe he can get through her thick skull.

• • •

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Fear", enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women Protest Against Scanty Bathing Costumes

By ROBERT COLEMAN
Canadian Press Correspondent

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australia's notoriously fickle summer has arrived with an unexpected storm — a blast from angry matrons protesting against scanty bathing costumes on Melbourne's bayside beaches.

The first thunderclaps came from an organization representing 18,000 Roman Catholic mothers who asked 19 councils controlling various city and nearby beaches to ban bikinis.

Since then the controversy has been blowing hot and cold as the women, young and old, have their say and the men, for the most part, keep a respectful silence.

The first hot weekend brought Melbourne residents flocking to the beaches in the thousands. Monday had hardly arrived before the Victorian Federation of Catholic Mothers' Clubs demanded: "We want bikinis banished from our beaches to protect the morals of our youth."

With the backing of the federation's 18,000 members, the secretary, Mrs. C. Hamilton, said they were concerned over the advertising of "even more abbreviated bikinis."

"We believe there is absolutely nothing—or just a mere covering—to the tops of these bikinis," she said. "We also believe abbreviated bikinis could lead to immorality in teen-aged boys and girls."

So far only a couple of councils have replied to the letters. They have passed the buck to sub-committees.

The controversy raged through daily newspapers for days, and now everybody seems to be having a say.

Letters - to - the - editor columns have been crammed with the bikini controversy.

TWO VIEWPOINTS

The anti-bikini-ists claim they degrade womankood, corrupt young men, promote exhibitionism, expose "ugly" parts of the body and lead to girls being molested. Some say young men's costumes are even more offensive.

The pro - bikini forces say there is no evidence that bikini-wearers have been the victims of assaults and that new trends are always considered bad by older people who cannot wear them. Many bikini supporters say there is something wrong if people have to rely on clothing fashions for their moral standards.

Wrote one correspondent: "The male youth of today is an unkempt, long - haired, untidy, unruly, undisciplined, unmanly and thoroughly ungentlemanly group. Clean them up first and leave the lovely young women alone."

Manufacturers of women's bathing costumes said nothing. They were too busy turning out new-season bikinis. One manufacturer alone has sold 25,000 so far this season.

Wife Preservers

For a Thanksgiving Day centerpiece, line a squat red clay bulb pot with shower moulding, fill with fresh fall fruit or gourds. Use a pair of "turnpost" clothespinnners for end clay pots instead of candles.

STICKY SKILLET

Dear Susanna: If you are having trouble with food sticking to your skillet this may be because detergents have dried out every single deop of oil and fat. They can do this, you know.

To remedy the trouble I reseason the pan. To do so, heat it thoroughly with a small amount of fat or oil just as you would with a new skillet. — Dietitian Dinah

The next time you bring out that beautifully re-seasoned skillet to prepare scrambled eggs, and you get a touch of the "tired of the same old thing blues," add a little rosemary and see if you don't think it is rather a pleasant flavor change. — SUSANNA

Dear Susanna: Many women set their plants in water in the bath or laundry tubs before taking off on a trip. This is a perfect idea and keeps the plants from drying out. However, I have another reason for setting my plants in the tubs.

About once every two weeks I lay them out, fill my laundry clothes sprinkler with water and give them all a good spraying.

You see, instead of trying to dust the leaves one by one, I clean them this way and consequently keep my plants looking as fresh as after a spring rain. — Mrs. S. Dietriet

These plants can't help but be beautiful with their own built-in shower power! — SUSANNA

CHRISTMAS-IN-A-BASKET

There have been so many attractive Christmas decorations on sale at the bazaars in town that probably everyone has bought one by this time. But just in case someone wants to make her own, here are instructions for a traditional Christmas arrangement which came to this desk from Malak of Ottawa.

First of all, these are the materials suggested: a Fibbsh brand basket, approximately sixteen inches long; one-inch thick styrofoam cut to fit the inside of the basket; plasticene or florist's clay; tall tapers; evergreen; artificial holly with berries and other artificial Christmas accessories; oasis available from a florist; spray paint if desired; and fresh-cut flowers.

The method is simple: With a sharp knife shape the styrofoam so that it will fit snugly into the basket. Mark evenly-spaced spots in which you wedge the tapers (an odd number — three or five look the most effective) and secure them with plasticene or florist's clay at the base. At the extreme ends of styrofoam place a block of oasis, each approximately two by three inches. Oasis is a most thirsty, water-retaining substance and it should be well-soaked before placing on the styrofoam. Don't worry about the florist's clay or oasis showing for it will be completely covered with evergreen. Scotch pine boughs, spruce, boxwood or cedar are some of the interesting evergreens available at this season. Break off the evergreen into varying lengths from six to fourteen inches. Starting at the centre, insert the broken end of bough into the styrofoam in a free-form fashion until you have a graceful display of greenery on all sides of the tapers.

Now for the magic ingredients of Christmas-in-a-basket. Select brilliant red carnations, shaggy white Shasta mums or dainty pompons from your florist's display and arrange the posies carefully as you insert the stems in the oasis. Oasis will keep the flowers fresh for several days if you water it carefully. For additional magic arrange in a peripatetic style throughout the evergreens, holly and ivy, artificial tinsel sunbursts, cherry clusters or pine cones. If you wish, your arrangement can have additional sparkle if you use a gentle flick of a finger with gold or silver spray paint.

This effective yet inexpensive arrangement is ideal for placing on a sideboard, tea wagon, dining room table, coffee table, hall chest or on a chest of drawers in a guest room. If you don't have a suitable basket, a china entree dish, a large deep flat-bottomed ash tray or a wooden bowl would be good containers.

Church Groups

RAWDON Y.P.U.

RAWDON — Approximately 20 members of Rawdon circuit Young People's Union gathered in Wellman's United Church on Thursday evening for the Christmas meeting.

The president, Barbara Williams, conducted the devotional based on the Advent and Nativity of the Christ Child. She was assisted by Lyle Couch and Sharon Graff. Two Christmas selections were read by Brenda Williams and Brenda Campbell.

Rev. W. G. Fletcher outlined the new plan of the United Church for a Young People's Union. It was decided that as of January 1st, 1965, that the Union would be called the Rawdon Hi-C.

The new executive is as follows: president, Lyle Couch; co-president, Mary Dracup; past president, Barbara Williams; secretary, Nancy David and pianist, Jean Sharpe; lunch committee, Freda Graham, Jean Jeffs; recreation, Kenneth McConnell, Charles Nix.

A special installation service is being held early in the new year.

The annual Christmas party will be held in Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Church hall on Thursday evening, December 17th.

"Mom, can you read that someplace else?—I'm trying to get some sleep."

Two Cabinet

niture in 1961—before he was elected to Parliament—from a firm headed by Max and Adolph Sefkind. He received a bill for that amount Jan. 21, 1964, paid $1,000 and offered the balance at $200 a month.

Mr. Tremblay gave the first details of the purchases at a press conference shortly before the 2:30 p.m. EST opening of the Commons. He said later in the day he talked about the matter with Prime Minister Pearson during the course of the afternoon.

At the dinner hour, Mr. Pearson said when asked for comment "I make no statement until I have all the facts, in contrast to allegations and innuendos. When I have all the facts, I'll make any statement that is appropriate."

About 9:30 p.m. EST, Mr. Tremblay told reporters he had not remembered earlier in the day exactly when the purchases were made. But he had checked and they were made after he left the Quebec government service. Deliveries were made between Nov. 15, 1963, and Jan. 10, 1964. He entered Parliament in 1963.

Mr. Pearson said in a letter to his cabinet ministers a week ago with respect to the federal public service:

"In order that honesty and impartiality may be beyond doubt, members of ministers' staffs, equally with ministers, must not place themselves in a position where they are under obligation to any person who might profit from special consideration or favor on their part, or seek in any way to gain special treatment from them.

"Equally, a staff member, like a minister, must not have a pecuniary interest that could even remotely conflict with the discharge of his public duty."

WASN'T GIFT

Mr. Lamontagne said in an interview about his furniture purchases:

"There was never any question of a gift of any sort. Mr. Sefkind never received any favor through me from the government."

Mr. Lamontagne said he told Prime Minister Pearson about his furniture purchases after a question appeared on the Commons order paper Nov. 27.

The question by Donald MacInnis (PC—Cape Breton South) asks:

"Arising out of the investigation into bankruptcy frauds now in progress in Montreal, has the government secured any information showing that the records and documents connected with bankruptcy proceedings by Max and Adolph Sefkind and/or their companies disclose contributions for campaign purposes to any cabinet ministers or other MPs and, if so, to whom and in what amounts?"

Mr. Tremblay said at the press conference he discussed the matter with Mr. Pearson but, when asked the date, said his talk had been with Mr. Lamontagne and that Mr. Lamontagne had spoken to the prime minister. Mr. Tremblay said Tuesday night he talked with Mr. Pearson about it during the course of Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Lamontagne said a 1961 purchase was to furnish a house in Ottawa before he was elected to Parliament. Another was in December, 1963, when he rented a Montreal apartment after he entered the cabinet and was elected to represent Montreal Outremont - St. Jean in the Commons.

Mr. Lamontagne said he had long been a friend of one of the Sefkind's who "never received any favor through me from the government.

"If we are not allowed to buy furniture we may as well go back to igloos."

Mr. Sefkind had told him in 1961 there was no pressure to pay but it was clearly understood the furniture was not a gift and would be paid for.

Mr. Tremblay said he made his purchases after seeing furniture in the home and office of a friend of 20 years, Gerard Levesque, who had acted on behalf of one of Mr. Sefkind's interests, Rec - Stone Corporation, in obtaining a loan from the municipality of Ville d'Anjou.

The loan application was investigated by three Quebec government departments and approved for those departments by Mr. Tremblay and two other deputy ministers.

He said he met Max Sefkind at Mr. Levesque's home and "Max was there" at the furniture showroom when he visited it.

Mr. Tremblay said he got a new bill as each new piece of furniture was delivered but he was waiting for the rest of the order with the full bill to make payment.

He showed reporters Tuesday night a series of invoices dated Nov. 15, 1963, to Jan. 10, 1964.

"I'm still waiting for two love seats."

Horner (Acadia), completed a speech he started Monday night and moved the adjournment of the debate. He said the House should turn to the labor code and other government bills and revert to the daily question period.

Mr. Horner's motion was voted down 139 to 68. Twelve New Democrats, eight Creditistes and four Quebec Conservatives joined the Liberals in opposing the adjournment. Ralph Cowan (York-Humber), the lone Liberal Red Ensign supporter, and Bert Leboe (SC—Cariboo) sided with 96 Conservatives in support of the motion.

Common standings are Liberals 129, Conservatives 96, NDP 18, Creditistes 13 and Social Credit nine, for a total of 265.

Mr. Leboe said he favors a plebiscite because every citizen knows as much about the flag issue as MPs.

DISCOUNTS TV POLL

Douglas Fisher, NDP deputy leader, called for quick approval of the red maple leaf flag. Using up only eight of his 40 allotted minutes, he said the Conservatives are putting too much confidence on straw polls conducted by a television program ("Teipoll" on CFTO).

Although such a poll had indicated that a majority of voters in several big cities favor a flag plebiscite, he did not have much faith in the "accuracy of such public opinion sounding."

He said he is one of many veterans who disagree with the pro - ensign pro - plebiscite views of the executive of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe) said the Conservatives are guilty of a flagrant abuse of freedom of speech. Eighteen of them had spoken three times and two had made four flag speeches, repeating the same arguments over and over like madmen.

Auguste Choquette (L—Lotbiniere) accused the Conservatives in an interjection of degrading Parliament with "systematic and disgusting obstruction."

George Nowland, former Conservative finance minister, said if the maple leaf flag is approved it will not be flown universally in many parts of Canada. The Liberals' argument that a plebiscite would disrupt national unity was "tommyrot."

Elsion Woodliams (PC—Bow River) said the flag issue could be the foot in the door leading to destruction of the Crown, the federal government's powers, the position of the governor-general and many other institutions.

"Good Reason to Approach the New Year with Confidence"

"Trends within the economy may be more varied and increases in output more moderate than in 1964 but, in general, economic conditions should continue to be favourable," said J.P.R. Wadsworth, President, addressing the 98th Annual Meeting of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

We meet today at the close of a year that has been favourable for Canada in many respects. Economic conditions within our country have been generally good with each major region continuing to participate in the general prosperity. Total Gross National Product in 1964 is now expected to exceed $46 billion, an increase over last year of some 6 per cent in volume and approaching 8 per cent valued in current dollars. This is the fourth year of steady growth achieved without marked pressures on labour and materials and within a framework of comparatively steady prices. It is a good record of sustained expansion.

The strong rise in output this year has been achieved primarily through a sharp increase in export sales and a substantial rise in private capital investment.

Exports

On the export side, strong demand from the United States, the United Kingdom and other overseas customers has resulted in high volume sales of Canada's major traditional export items including wheat and flour, newsprint and pulp, lumber and plywood, and various semi-processed non-ferrous mineral products. In addition, there has been a sharp rise in shipments of iron ore and concentrates, and there have been substantial sales of aircraft and parts, semi-fabricated steel, industrial and farm machinery and various consumer products. Exports from the secondary manufacturing industries have shown encouraging gains in volume and variety, and the delivery of a substantial portion of the 250 million bushels of wheat sold to the Soviet Union has been a major supplement to the usual flow of exports. The total value of merchandise exports from Canada is estimated at $6.3 billion for the first months of 1964, an increase of about 23 per cent compared with the corresponding period last year.

Capital Investment

Capital investment has also been the source of substantial stimulus to the economy. The estimate of total outlays for private and public investment including housing is $10.8 billion for this year. If this projection is accomplished it will mean an increase in outlays over last year of about $1.5 billion, by far the largest increase since 1956.

The sharp rise in capital investment in the business sector has resulted from a combination of developments. World demand for the products of our mines and forests has increased and in a number of the basic resource industries to an extent that warrants further expansion of capacity. The development of extensive energy resources is going ahead following the consummation of agreements for the sale of power to the United States.

Industrial Production

The general pattern of industrial activity has reflected the stimuli from exports and capital investment as well as the strength of domestic demand. Industrial production rose sharply during the latter part of last year and has moved gradually higher in a saw-tooth pattern through 1964. The strength level of industrial production in the first eight months of this year was 9 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of last year.

Agriculture

The outstanding development in the agricultural sector has been the very high volume of wheat exports in the crop year ending July 31, 1964. Wheat and flour exports amounted to nearly 600 million bushels, almost 80 per cent higher than in the previous year and almost double the average for the preceding ten-year period. The dollar value of wheat exports in the last crop year was more than $1 billion and the major export market for Canadian wheat was the Soviet Union which purchased about 40 per cent of total export shipments.

The wheat crop this year is estimated at some 600 million bushels, 17 per cent below last year's record harvest but still the fourth largest on record.

Consumer Sector

Personal expenditures advanced markedly during the last half of 1963 and the early part of this year. The rate of spending for durable goods was especially strong, paced by record purchases of automobiles. Outlays for imported goods and for travel abroad increased quite sharply, following the pattern of previous business expansions. In the second quarter of this year consumer expenditures increased only slightly but the year-over-year increase was still almost 7 per cent.

Personal income has followed a similar pattern, rising sharply in the fourth quarter of 1963 and the first quarter of this year.

Government Sector

In the first seven months of the current fiscal year, April to October, the Federal budgetary surplus was $451 million compared with a deficit of $128.6 million in the corresponding period of 1963. In the seven-month period this year expenditures were $7.5 billion and revenues were up $655 million, which suggests there is some possibility of balancing the Federal budget in the current fiscal year.

Employment

The advance in economic activity this year has been accompanied by some increase in employment. The total number of people at work in September was estimated at 6,754,000, an increase of 189,000 over a year earlier. Unemployment was estimated at 218,000 in September 1964, some 32,000 under a year earlier.

The employment picture, in terms of the utilization of the labour supply, is the most favourable since 1957 and in some regions there are increasing indications of considerable pressure on the supply of certain types of labour.

Balance of Payments

Canada's balance of payments for the first half of 1964 showed a deficit in the current account of $318 million compared with a deficit of $432 million in the corresponding period last year. Exports and imports were up substantially in volume, each gaining over 20 per cent. Merchandise exports for the six months' period amounted to $3,927 million and imports were valued at $3,767 million; the resulting favourable balance on merchandise trade was $160 million, up $12 million from a year earlier. At the same time, the continuing deficit on non-merchandise transactions increased from $600 million to $678 million, chiefly the result of larger deficits in the travel account and the interest and dividends account. In total, the current account deficit increased by $66 million.

In this connection it is important to note the very sharp increase in the deficit on current account transactions with the United States built up principally as the result of the much larger inflow of merchandise imports although there was also some increase in the deficit on non-merchandise transactions.

Outlook for 1965

It is from a record level of economic activity in the final quarter of this year that we move on into 1965. The levelling out which appeared in some areas of the economy around midyear turned out to be temporary and the strong upward trend in total output was resumed in the fall. The economy still appears to be functioning in good balance, inventory-sales ratios in manufacturing are satisfactory by historical standards, the volume of unfilled orders is substantial and competition is keeping a tight rein on prices. Strength is continuing to flow from many sources.

There are indications that the surge in capital investment will continue through next year although the increase in volume may be somewhat less than this year.

The climate for Canadian exports may not be quite as favourable next year. Assessments of the economic outlook for the United States in 1965 indicate a somewhat slower rate of increase in economic activity than this year. Overseas there has been some slowing down in growth rates in a number of countries which provide substantial quantities of Canadian products.

Consumer expenditures and government outlays for goods and services, the other two major sectors of final product demand, have provided first support to the economy through this year. Changes in detailed patterns of expenditure in these areas are to be expected as demands change in response to shifting income flows, population groupings and various special influences. However, there does not appear to be any reason to anticipate marked changes in the general trends of demand in these two sectors.

During the coming year, the economy will continue to be affected by events and changes in policy at home and abroad that are difficult, if not impossible, to foresee. With this important proviso in mind, there is good reason to approach the new year with confidence. Trends within the economy may be more varied and increases in output more moderate than in 1964 but, in general, economic conditions should continue to be favourable.

Saving and Investment in the Canadian Economy

There has recently been a good deal of discussion in Canada about the extent to which Canadians are themselves providing the necessary financing for their economic development.

The large and growing flow of savings, and hence of investment funds, is from the retained earnings and depreciation allowances of business enterprises. The most important use of these funds is to finance additional real investment in Canada covering new construction, new machinery and equipment including mining equipment and inventories. The source of these savings for investment funds is personal savings.

The savings derived from the business and personal sectors of our economy should normally be more than adequate to finance the real investment required by the private sector. This, however, is not the whole story. The public sector of the economy must also draw heavily on the savings of the community, and the net borrowings of the government sector have the effect of reducing the amount of savings available for investment in the private sector of the economy. The extent to which the volume of domestic savings flows part of the achieved level of investment, both private and public, is also the measure of our net import of foreign capital. If the problem is examined in these more fundamental terms, there are two courses of action, each of which could help to reduce the gap between the actual volume of domestic savings and the volume required to meet the demand in Canada for private and public investment. The first approach is to try to encourage a greater flow of domestic savings; in this connection, taxation policies are obviously of great importance. The second is to reduce the net diversion of investment funds to all levels of government, leaving a larger portion of present savings available for productive employment in the private sector.

Canada Pension Plan

The Canada Pension Plan now before Parliament will have an important influence on the flow of savings and the pattern of investment. It is important to consider what the impact of the plan will be on the availability of investment funds for use in the private sector of the economy as well as its effect on the over-all rate of growth in Canadian productive capacity. Much will depend on the ways in which the funds are used by the responsible government authorities and on the relative availability of these funds tends to encourage increased government expenditures.

Another aspect of the problem is the way in which savings are mobilized and made available to those requiring them to finance economic activity. As already indicated, the private enterprise may use its own savings directly for investment purposes, but its ability to do so frequently depends on the availability of working capital from the chartered banks. Insurance companies and pension funds also play a very important role in the process of bringing together savings and making them available in an economical and effective way for a wide range of economic activities. An important factor is that these institutions operate in the market process so that borrowers, whether private or governmental, have to compete for funds on a price basis, and lenders obtain a return which corresponds to the value placed on their funds in a free market.

Role of Chartered Banks

The chartered banks, of course, have a crucial part to play in the whole operation of the capital markets. As a major depository of the savings of the community they are also a major source of financing for business, personal, and governmental operations. The funds entrusted to the banking system, whether as savings deposits, demand deposits, or other types of liabilities, are in no sense idle funds. They are constantly at work in the form of loans and investments in every branch of economic activity in Canada.

The Chief General Manager has dealt with two of the major restrictions in the present Bank Act which inhibit the employment of bank funds. The ceiling on lending rates and the prohibition against taking conventional mortgage security serve only to reduce the availability and increase the cost of credit in certain important areas of financing. The removal of these arbitrary limitations would mean that the funds entrusted to chartered banks could be used even more broadly and more effectively in ways which could provide an added stimulus to the Canadian economy.

William M. Currie, Chief General Manager, reviewed the balance sheet, highlights of which are summarized:

The Bank's 98th Annual Statement reflects a growth in assets of approximately $255,000,000 to a total and new peak of over $3,500,000,000. The pace of the economy was reflected not only by an increase of $188,000,000 in total deposits but also by an increase of $286,000,000 in commercial and other loans.

Deposits with other banks increased by $24,000,000, Government of Canada direct and guaranteed securities were reduced by $78,000,000, and call and short loans to investment dealers and brokers were lower by $47,000,000.

The liquid position of the Bank continues to be strong with quick assets of $2,560,000,000, equal to 48.99 per cent of the Bank's total liabilities to the public.

The growth in commercial and other loans of almost 14 per cent was widely spread over the full range of the Bank's lending business.

Bank Premises shows a net increase of $3,600,000 after depreciation. During the year 62 branches were opened and 11 closed, to bring the total number of branches and banking offices to 1,334, of which 1,302 were located in Canada and 32 abroad.

Total deposits, up $188,000,000 to $4,971,000,000, reflect an increase of $123,000,000, or 3.6 per cent in personal savings deposits, and a substantial increase in the total number of savings bank depositors. Other deposits increased by $110,000,000; included are other Canadian deposits on demand and payable after notice and deposits in foreign currencies.

Throughout the Bank there were gratifying increases in the total number of current and personal chequing account customers during the year.

Turning to the statement of undivided profits, the net profit of $21,402,602 represents an improvement of $1,017,543 over last year. Earnings per share were $3.07 as compared with $2.93 in 1963. Total dividends of $15,678,000 were paid at the rate of $2.25 per share, leaving $5,724,602 which, together with the balance of $2,364,265 in undivided profits carried forward from 1963, made up a total of $8,088,867 from which $5,000,000 was transferred to Rest Account. The balance of $3,088,867 was carried forward to the 1965 fiscal year.

Paid-up Capital, Rest Account and undivided profits totalled $277,768,867, and the Bank's shareholders increased by 1,282 to 27,699.

Growth in loans and deposits is perhaps the best evidence of the part played by the Bank in meeting the credit requirements of Canadians in every walk of life. The chartered banking system could finance a much wider range of Canadian needs. Two of the restrictions imposed by the Canadian Bank Act, the six per cent ceiling on loan interest and the prohibition against loans secured by conventional mortgages, prevent the banks from competing effectively with other financial institutions to an extent that would be lower if faced with chartered bank competition. Large segments of the public thus are forced to pay higher rates than they would if the banks were permitted to compete in these fields.

During the past two years data processing centres were opened in Montreal and Vancouver and this year a second computer has been added to the Toronto centre. Presently, the bookkeeping of over 200 branches in these three centres is largely done by this electronic equipment and the number of branches within the system is steadily increasing. Cheques processed in the Toronto centre alone have been increasing at a rate of 10 per cent per annum and the annual volume is now in excess of 100 million individual cheques. Modern electronic data processing eliminates much of the tedious hack work and releases personnel for more challenging and constructive work.

Important as these installations are, Canada's need for wide and diversified financial services extends to the smaller banks. In most cases chartered banks, including many of this Bank's 1300 Canadian branches, provide the only financial services available in such points, bringing to these areas facility available in the largest metropolitan centres.

Such services are costly to maintain and reasonable charges for the many services performed are justified. The banking system provides these services at uniform cost, regardless of location or the volume of business handled at individual branches.

As an example, customers providing cheques drawn on other banking points receive immediate credit and can use the funds immediately, as though they had been borrowed for the time being, notwithstanding that the negotiating banks may not receive settlement at one of the central clearing points until some time later. The organization required to perform the clearing functions is a complex one, only a few of which centre around the clock.

Opportunities for rapid promotion in a satisfying career in the Bank are offered to ambitious individuals. While planned, on-the-job training is the primary means of equipping personnel with basic knowledge and special skills, there are in addition widespread training facilities designed to assist officers of both sexes to equip themselves for increased responsibilities. A Staff College in Toronto and Career Centres in four major centres across the country provide instruction in a wide range of subjects. Men and women are encouraged to participate in the Fellow's Course in banking, and scholarships awarded annually present an opportunity to acquire a full university education. Officers of the Bank regularly attend executive development programs at Canadian and other universities. In recent years an increasing number of the women have been promoted to senior positions of responsibility encouraging them to advance to positions of senior responsibility.

The progress of the Bank during the year could only have been accomplished by men and women confident of their role in our future progress, devoted to the ideals and objectives of the Bank and willing to put forth a full measure of thoughtful effort. To all members of the personnel I extend the thanks of General Management and our compliments on a job well done.

The full text of the President's and the Chief General Manager's addresses may be obtained by nothing to the Secretary, Head Office, Toronto.

FARMHOUSE FIRE KILLS FIVE — A smoldering shell is all that remains of a farmhouse near Schomberg, Ont., after fire claimed the lives of five children Tuesday. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Sparks were trapped by the rapidly-spreading flames. The parents and several other children escaped. (CP Wirephoto)

Fire Kills Half a Family Of Ten Near Schomberg

SCHOMBERG, Ont. (CP) — Fire killed half a family of 10 near here Tuesday when five boys ranging in age from four to 12 were trapped in their 103-year-old farmhouse home.

The children of Mr. an dMrs. Wallace Sparks were trapped on the upstairs floor of the two-storey brick home and died within the one hour from the time Mr. Sparks was awakened about 5:30 a.m. to the time firemen arrived about 6:30 a.m.

Dead are: Donald 4, Michael 6, Patrick 11, Ricky 14, and Dale 23.

Both parents escaped. They were sleeping downstairs at the time with Danny, 2. Mr. Sparks later ran upstairs and managed to rescue Maureen, 12, and Karen, 9.

Earlier it was believed that a sixth child, Terry, 18, had also died. But late reports said he was in nearby Schomberg, A daughter, Wendy, 21, was staying with a friend.

The old farmhouse, part of the estate of the late Dr. William Brydon, was about seven miles from here. Schomberg is about 32 miles northwest of Toronto.

Mrs. Sparks said an explosion awakened her.

"There seemed to be a flash of light outside. I ran into the hall and saw the place was on fire."

Mr. Sparks ran into the smoke-filled hallway.

"I heard the children crying upstairs. I called to my wife to grab the baby, Danny, and get out as fast as she could. Then I ran upstairs.

"I saw Maureen first. She was petrified and sobbing that she couldn't see for the smoke. I guided her down yelling for the others to get moving.

"When I went back the second time, the smoke was so thick I could barely breathe, but I found Karen."

Flames shooting through the floor prevented Mr. Sparks from rescuing any more of the screaming children from inside.

He got a ladder, propped it to a second-storey window and smashed it with a bathroom scale he had carried out.

"I could hear them gasping inside but they weren't talking anymore."

Shortly after, the second floor of the 10-room home collapsed. Firemen arrived 45 minutes later.

Both Nobleton and Schomberg fire departments were called, but were powerless to stop the fire with their two fire trucks and one tank truck.

There was a 45-minute delay in getting a fire department on the way because of confusion in jurisdiction. But Schomberg Volunteer Fire Chief Walter Thompson said regardless of the delay, no fire department could have done anything.

COULD SEE FLAMES

"It was pretty terrible," he said. "You could see the flames from Highway 27 (about two miles east). When we got there there was just nothing we could do.

"There were flames and smoke coming from just about every window and the flames were leaping 30 feet in the air.

"We couldn't even get near the place—no nearer than 20 feet. We got three hoses on it. By then the house was gutted and all that was left was a wall."

Mr. Sparks is unemployed and has been receiving municipal relief. He is also receiving workmen's compensation because of a back injury in August of last year.

Why all the hullaballoo about the Russian national hockey team meeting Canadian professionals for the first time in that puck-chasing hedge-podge that opens the Soviet tour in Montreal Friday night?

Six members of the Quebec Aces, top-slot holders of the American League eastern division, will bolster the cellar-dwelling Junior "A" Montreal Canadiens in what is being ballyhooed as the Reds' first clash with Canadian pros.

Somebody's memory has slipped a cog or so. It will not be the first time Russian hockey players have crossed sticks with legally-designated Canadian professional players.

A year or so ago a Russian team toured Canada. The pre-tour Red propaganda said the club would use some of the players of the Soviet nationals.

Whatever they were, they whomped the hell out of five or six Canadian clubs, meeting with a lone defeat at the hands of the Windsor Bulldogs by something like a 9-1 score.

During the tour they tangled with the Hamilton Red Wings' fellow "A" squad. The youthful Red Wings holstered their forces with nine or ten players from the Detroit farm system including a couple of subs from the Detroit Red Wings themselves.

And the Soviets clobbered this pro-junior outfit by a 9-3 score and dominated play so impressively the professionals could hardly believe it.

What the Russians will contend with for the first time in Friday night's Canadian inaugural, is National Hockey League goaltending. Gump Worsley will be in the Canadian nets and will get his first taste of the Russian close-in sharpshooting.

Other Canadian pros who will face the Red squad are Doug Harvey, Red Berenson, Jimmie Morrison, Billy Sutherland and Leon Rochefort.

Harvey, a 17-year National Hockey League star with the Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers, appears to be taking the Russians lightly.

He says he "can hardly wait for the Russians. I have only seen them play on television so I don't know how really good they are. But I can tell you one thing, whenever the five of us are on the ice we will outscore the Russians. I can't speak for the junior Canadiens. I don't know their strength."

Harvey says he is not impressed with the Russian speed. "How can anyone possibly outskate Red Berenson? If somebody on their club can it's time I hung up my skates. I might get run over out there."

He says the Springfield Indians use the short passing play similar to that used by the Russians, "and we have beaten them consistently this year."

Harvey could be selling the Russians short. There is no hockey team extant that uses the short precision-like passing of the Soviets. And playing under International rules where body-checking is legal only in the defensive zones, may make a difference.

And Harvey should remember he is not the hockey player he was a few years ago. If he wanders too far into Russian territory he may connect with a bodycheck that will jar his aging frame. For these Reds are not averse to throwing well-muscled torsos at any foeman who invades their territory.

It should be quite a battle. The Russians who hope to meet a National Hockey League club in the not too distant future will go all out to win this game.

If their performance against the Hamilton junior-pro squad of a year or so ago can be judged a criterion, their main obstacle will be the "Gump" in the Canadian nets.

Out front they will give Harvey and company plenty of trouble and none knows that better than Red Berenson. In fact the optimistic Harvey and his confreres may be called upon to make up any goal deficits incurred when the Baby Habs are on the ice.

I think, and hope, the Canadians will win it—but I'm not looking for any two-figure scores. One or two, perhaps.

Laperriere May 'Out-Harvey' Harvey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The expression "there'll never be another Doug Harvey" is heard less frequently in Montreal these days as a young defenceman named Jacques Laperriere dazzles Forum fans and crunches Canadiens opponents.

Now they're saying 23-year-old Laperriere, Rookie of the Year last season, may be even greater than Harvey—a player named the league's top rearguard six times and an All-Star on 10 occasions with Montreal and once with New York.

Laperriere's sparkling play last year, which sparked Montreal to a National Hockey League title, caused NHL president Clarence Campbell to remark:

"In all the years I've been associated with hockey, I have never seen a first-year man take over and lead a team like Laperriere did this last season."

Laperriere is constantly improving. His puck-carrying and passing are weak but getting better, he is antiepating moves and going down to block them, and his body-checking is fast becoming phenomenal.

Fans are still talking about the check he delivered to Chicago's Stan Mikita in Montreal's 5-3 victory last Saturday, a jolt that sent Mikita's stick and glove flying in opposite directions and left him "finished" for the rest of the game.

Montreal coach Toe Blake feels Laperriere falls down in handling the puck, which was Harvey's method of controlling a game almost single-handedly. But the coach agrees he's "stronger and more aggressive" than Harvey.

'LONG WAY TO GO'

"But Jacques has an awful long way to go before anyone can compare the two of them. I always considered Harvey the best defenceman I ever saw in hockey. You say could do everything."

Time will tell, of course, and Laperriere already has the jump. He was named an All-Star last year at 22, while Harvey didn't make the dream team until 27, his fourth year in the NHL.

Laperriere will be in action tonight at Toronto when the Canadiens face the Leafs in a head-on clash to decide second place. Both teams are tied with 30 points, three behind leading Detroit.

The other game scheduled sends Chicago Black Hawks to New York for a renewal of their feud with the Rangers, who lead the fifth-place Hawks by six points in the standings.

Frank Mahovlich, out for 13 games with a mysterious ailment, may see action with the Leafs. He wants to play and coach Punch Imlach says he'll get the chance.

Glenn Hall, however, won't be in the Chicago net. He's taking a three-game rest at his own request and will be replaced by Denis Dalrody, called up from Buffalo of the American League.

Carabins Trounce Laval 7-4

QUEBEC (CP) — Jean Cusson and Pierre Lacoste each scored twice to lead University of Montreal Carabins to a 7-4 victory Tuesday over Laval University, Route et Or in intercollegiate hockey action.

The victory lifted Montreal into a first - place tie with the University of Toronto Blues.

Other Carabin goals were scored by Jocelyn Cote, Ghislain Delage and Gilles Lafortune. Laval's goals were scored by Claude Desmarais, Yves Paquet and Michel Roy.

No Talk About Quitting
Injury Retards Moore Comeback

TORONTO (CP) — Dickie Moore's comeback attempt with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League appears to hinge on whether he can recover from a back injury suffered two weeks ago at New York.

The 33-year-old left winger, picked up by the Leafs for $20,000 on waivers from Montreal Canadiens last spring was hurt when he was bounced into the boards backwards.

He managed to conceal the injury—a bruise to the base of the spine—until late last week when he could no longer skate.

Moore said in an interview Tuesday night he has definitely not thrown in the towel on his attempt to pick up where knee injuries forced him to leave off with the Canadiens more than a year ago.

He said he had "tried to skate out" the back injury but finally gave in to medical treatment. A shot of cortisone didn't affect him, he said, and now the doctors have ordered rest.

Leafs gave him permission to return to Montreal to look after his business interest there.

"I was going to go Tuesday morning," he said, "but I decided to go back to see the team doctor. I may see him again before I leave. I haven't said anything about quitting to anyone."

Leaf manager - coach Punch Imlach hasn't given up on him either.

"He was supposed to see King (Clancy) today but didn't show up," Imlach said in an interview Tuesday. "I'm sure he had a good reason.

"He hasn't said me he's quitting and anyway, I wouldn't accept it. He's under contract for the season and I've said more than once, he's got until March to get in shape if he needs it.

Moore has said he feels he is taking money from Leafs under false pretenses but denies emphatically that his legs would permit him to play in the National Hockey League.

"There's nothing wrong with me that a goal or two won't cure," Moore told reporters a few days ago.

He will finish college in May and report to the Rldors July 1.

Colts, Browns Dominate All-Stars

Unitas, Brown Tops

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Baltimore Colts and Green Bay Packers each placed five men on the annual all - National Football League team selected today for The Associated Press.

The selections were made by 42-man committee of three from each of the 14 league cities.

Quarterback Johnny Unitas of the Colts and fullback Jim Brown of Cleveland Browns were near-unanimous choices for the offensive team.

Johnny Morris, Chicago Bears' record - breaking pass catcher, was an overwhelming choice for flanker back. Lenny Moore, Baltimore's big touchdown punch, scored decisively as the running back.

Frank Clarke of Dallas Cowboys took over the split-end job, won by the ailing Del Shofner of New York Giants in the previous three years. Mike Ditka, the Bears' powerful tight end, was one of seven repeaters.

Dick Schafrath of Cleveland and Forrest Gregg of Green Bay again were the offensive tackles, although Gregg moved to guard in mid-season when Vince Lombardi shuffled his Packer line.

Jim Parker of Baltimore, a hardy perennial, was an All-Star guard again but Ken Gray of St. Louis Cardinals took over the other guard job, held for two years by Jerry Kramer of Green Bay, who recently underwent surgery.

GETS CENTRE JOB

Mick Tingelhoff, signed by Minnesota Vikings as a free agent in 1962, took over the first-string centre job from Jim Ringo of Philadelphia Eagles.

Green Bay put four men on the defensive unit, Willie Davis at end, Henry Jordan at tackle, Ray Nitschke at middle linebacker and Willie Wood at safety. Glou Marchetti, veteran Baltimore end who came out of retirement before the season started, and Bob Boyd, a corner back, were the Colts' contribution to the defensive team.

Bob Lilly, Dallas giant who is regarded by many as the best lineman in the NFL, made the sixth at defensive tackle.

Joe Fortunato, the consistent Chicago left linebacker, and Maxie Baughan, who had a fine year for Philadelphia, were the corner linebackers.

The only rookie to make the first team was Paul Krause, Washington Redskins' fine safety whose 12 interceptions led the league. Pat Fischer, at 5-foot-9 the smallest man to play regularly, won the other corner-back job on his great season as a pass interceptor and defender for the Cardinals

The repeaters from 1963 were a vote.

White Sox Sued For $500,000

CHICAGO (AP) — A $500,000 damage suit, claiming the club was negligent in failing to warn patrons of the possibility of being struck by batted and thrown baseballs, was filed Tuesday by a woman fan against Chicago White Sox.

The suit was filed in circuit court by Rose.marie Karaklewics of Chicago, a doctor's secretary, who claimed she was struck by a ball which broke her glasses during batting practice in a White Sox - Washington Senator game last May 23.

The suit contends the woman suffered facial cuts and bruises and injury requiring removal of her right eye. Vision in her left eye also was impaired, the suit stated.

Ulf Sterner Now With Clippers

Swedish Star Is Making Good

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ulf Sterner took a year to learn what every North American boy knows—unless you're a Bobby Hull or Dave Keon, the best way to make the National Hockey League is through the minors.

Sterner, a former centre with the Swedish National team, turned down a professional contract with New York Rangers last season and returned to Europe rather than play with a Ranger farm club in semi-professional ranks.

But this season Sterner returned to the Rangers' camp and agreed to be shipped out to St. Paul Rangers of the Central Professional Hockey League.

Last week Sterner graduated to the Rangers' American Hockey League farm club at Baltimore and proved he is adapting rapidly to the North American style of play by scoring two goals as the Clippers trounced Springfield Indians 7-2 Tuesday night.

Quebec Aces defeated Cleveland Barons 5-2 in the other scheduled game.

Sandy McGregor, Ted Taylor, Ron Ingram, Gordon Labossiere and Dave Richardson got the other Baltimore goals. Jim Anderson got both goals for Springfield.

Leon Rochefort, Terry Gray, Guy Rousseau, Rod Seiverson and Bill Sutherland counted one goal each for Quebec as the Aces increased their eastern division lead to nine points over idle Hershey Bears.

The Aces, who went undefeated in their first 10 games of the season, now have 20 wins and 2 ties in 27 games.

Bob Ellet and Bill Hicke were the Cleveland marksmen.

OFF DANGER LIST

GLASGOW (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Leask, 33, was taken off the danger list in Glasgow's Royal Infirmary Tuesday—and that's real progress. She had been pronounced dead five days ago.

Legless Gridder Honored

NEW YORK (AP)—Why sit in the corner, even if you don't have feet?

That is the question 17-year-old Jack Rice, defensive guard for Barrackville, W. Va., High School, asked Kyle Rote, Southern Methodist and New York Giant great, at the National Foundation's Hall of Fame football banquet Tuesday night.

Rote, one of 10 men inducted into the Hall of Fame at the annual meeting, presented a plaque to Rice who lost both legs between the knees and ankles in a railroad accident eight years ago.

Despite the handicap, young Rice won three letters in football at Barracksville, a town of 2,000. The first two years he was a middle guard on defence only but during 1964 he played guard on both offence and defence.

Rice, a B-plus student, wears plastic sleeves on the stumps of his legs. Rubber feet are attached to the sleeves.

Although his agility is impaired, Rice was mobile enough to scoop up seven fumbles during the 1964 season. A year ago Barracksville had a 7-2 record; this year it slumped to 2-6.

Venturi Golfer Of Year

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Ken Venturi, who made one of golf's greatest comebacks with a victory in the U.S. Open, was named Player of the Year Tuesday night by the Professional Golfers Association.

Lloyd Mangrum and the late Ed Dudley were elected to the PGA's Hall of Fame in ceremonies at the association's annual banquet staged this year at the Sahara Hotel.

Minor Hockey

High-scoring midget games, close novice contests and a penalty-ridden juvenile contest were played in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association here last night.

NOVICE

Hawks nipped the Wings by a 3-2 count. John Sprackett trigered two Hawk goals and Wayne Warner got the other. Robert Kirk scored both Wing goals.

Rangers and Leafs played to a 1-1 deadlock. Stewart Boardman was the Leaf marksman. Andy Ricketts provided the Ranger scoring play.

Barons won a 3-2 decision over the Canadiens. Baron marksmen were Gary White, Larry Wright and Joe Muldoon. Terry Hunt and Peter McCabe fired the losers' goals.

MIDGET

Leafs outlasted the Canadiens 5-3, behind the high-scoring efforts of B. LaRue. LaRue pulled the trigger on six of the Leaf scoring plays. W. Storms had a goal and three assists, R. Geen the other goal and two helpers and W. Garrison one helper. T. Dorsa scored three Canadien goals. S. Lee had a goal and assist. Lapenotte a goal and F. Martin an assist. Nicholson and Bruce, of the losers, drew misconduct penalties.

Elks' Hawks shaded the Red Wings 8-4. T. Herrington and J. Cole potted two Hawk goals each and J. Beatty got the odd one. D. Middleman had an assist. K. Allen scored twice, R. Lloyd and P. Vinkle once each for the Wings. E. Long, E. Hancock and Lloyd had assists. Wellesley, of the winners, got a misconduct penalty.

JUVENILE

Comets downed the O.S.D. Wolves 4-1 but also picked up the lion's share of the penalties.

J. Harvey scored twice, D. Muldoon and J. Muldoon once each. S. Turner, M. Fahey and J. Smith had assists. M. Mooney fired the O.S.D. goal, assisted by Cripps.

Included among the Comet penalties were majors to M. Fahey, D. Muldoon and R. Chappell, plus two misconducts to Shakell and one to D. Muldoon. Rusty Clarke, of O.S.D., was assessed a major.

Generals Dump Petes

Fading Flyers Lose Again

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers are still in second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series but the margin has become razor-thin.

St. Catharines Black Hawks handed the fading Flyers a 6-2 defeat, their fourth in five starts, Tuesday night and left two contenders breathing down their necks, just one point behind.

Peterborough Petes missed a chance to dethrone Niagara Falls as runners - up when the, took a 5-2 beating from Oshawa Generals, who joined them in a third - place tie.

Brian MacDonald scored three times for the Hawks and loop-leading goal - getter Ken Hodge came through with two goals. The other goal went to Gary MacMillan. Marksmen for the Flyers were Gilles Marot and Bill Goldsworthy.

Ron Buchanan played a standout game for Oshawa, scoring one goal and assisting on four others. The other scorers were Bobby Orr, Chris Hayes, Bill Little and Bill Bannerman. Pete's marksmen were Andre Lacroix, the league's top point - getter, and Don Grail.

Flyers meet Hamilton Thursday and Toronto plays Peterboro gh.

TENNIS COACH DIES

LONDON (Reuters) -George Worthington, 36, lawn tennis coach to British Davis Cup and Wightman Cup teams, died here Tuesday after a long illness. Before turning professional in 1935 he represented Australia in the Davis Cup from 1950 to 1952. In 1955, he reached the men's doubles semi-finals at Wimbledon in partnership with Mervyn Rose of Australia.

LOSE SECOND PLAYER

VICTORIA (CP) — Victoria Maple Leafs have lost their second defenceman in four days. Barry Trapp, 23, quit the Western Hockey League Club Tuesday to return to his home in Balcarres, Sask. He follows Fred Hucul, who quit the team Saturday rather than act as a bench-warmer. Trapp was in his third year of professional hockey.

WIL SHOW DEFICIT

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Pan American Games to be held here in 1967 will show a $3,077,813 deficit, it was reported Tuesday. A budget summary prepared by the Pan American Games (1967) Society estimates cost at $5,062,813 and income at $1,985,000. Federal, provincial and municipal governments will shoulder the deficit.

Giardello Will Tell Judge Why

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — A Superior Court judge ordered Joe Giardello Tuesday to show cause why he should not be restrained from fighting Stanley (Hurricane) Carter for the middleweight boxing championship Monday in Philadelphia.

The order was signed by Judge Morris Pashman on the request of the promoters of a fight in Atlantic City last year in which Giardello won the title from Dick Tiger.

Giardello's lawyer, Mike Del Collo, said neither he nor Giardello has been officially advised of any legal action.

The plaintiffs contended that Giardello signed an agreement with them on Sept. 11, 1963, giving them exclusive rights to promote all his future championship fights if he defeated Tiger.

Carter and Giardello were scheduled to meet in a championship bout in Las Vegas Oct. 23. The fight was cancelled when Giardello pulled out because the promoters could not provide a financial guarantee.

Braves May Be Replaced

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Chicago businessman was quoted Tuesday as saying he expects a Milwaukee civic group to set a date to meet with Philip K. Wrigley, owner of Chicago Cubs in an attempt to help Milwaukee replace the Braves with another team in 1965.

The Milwaukee Journal said Gilbert Hilton Scribner Jr., a partner in a real estate firm that operates a number of Chicago's major buildings, had seen Wrigley about a week ago and that Wrigley told him he would be delighted to see the Milwaukee people.

Scribner was quoted as saying he made the initial contact for the Milwaukee people, but "the rest is up to them."

The league has given the Braves permission to move to Atlanta in 1966.

Are you the one person in three who might benefit from a low-cost Seaboard Mortgage Loan?

Borrow up to $10,000- as long as 10 years

What is a Seaboard Mortgage Loan? It is a low-cost loan for people who own, or are in the process of buying a home. The money you have invested in your property is excellent collateral for a Seaboard Mortgage Loan. And this means you get one of the lowest rates of interest to be found anywhere, because real estate offers such excellent security. A Seaboard Mortgage Loan has the added advantage of letting you borrow up to 80% of the value of your property, as compared to approximately 66⅔ for most conventional mortgages.

When should you take out a Seaboard Mortgage Loan? Only when it's to your advantage. This can be worked out between you and your Seaboard Manager. You and he may find that a Seaboard Mortgage Loan can help you, as it has other people:

- To reduce your monthly mortgage payments.
- To pay off high-cost charge accounts and loans for furniture, car, clothing, etc. Often articles which you think you are buying at a saving are actually costing you an unnecessarily high price because of the variety of service and interest charges.
- To put your children through university or to make home improvements.
- To help you purchase a new or older home if you are having difficulty in raising the necessary mortgage money.
- To assist you in selling your home if a prospective buyer has difficulty in raising cash to your mortgage.

How much can you borrow? You can take out a Seaboard Mortgage Loan up to $10,000 or 80% of the fair valuation of your home. What's more, monthly payments can be planned to fit your budget and leave you with extra cash each month.

How about monthly payments? You can take up to 10 years to repay your Seaboard Mortgage Loan and monthly payments can be arranged to suit your budget. Interest rates are low—approximately 12% a year computed monthly on the unpaid balance. This means that each payment you make reduces the amount of interest you pay.

What special benefits do you receive from dealing with Seaboard?

- Your contract can be renegotiated anytime.
- Special low-cost life insurance available that pays your contract in full in the event of death.
- Contract can be repaid at any time.
- No brokerage fees.
- No "balance" or "balloon payments".
- Minimum registration, appraisal and legal fees.
- All terms fully explained so that you completely understand your contract.
- Seaboard's years of experience in the mortgage loan business.

Phone or write for all the details about the low-cost Seaboard Mortgage Loan. Or, better still, call in for a personal interview with your Seaboard manager. Evening appointments can be arranged.

Film Star Thirty Years But Fonda Feels Insecure

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Here I've been in this town 30 years and hell, I'm just as insecure as the day I arrived," says Henry Fonda.

The fact that he was celebrating three decades as a movie star didn't faze him—"it sure doesn't seem that long."

He bears his years (59) well. His figure remains spare, his face like that of a country boy who has been in the city a few years.

His years of success have been unable to erase the nag of impending failure. He laughed as he recalled a recent plane trip with his long-time buddy, Jimmy Stewart.

"I had just finished a picture and I was depressed," said Fonda. "I told Jimmy that every time a movie was over I was struck by terrible doubts that nobody would ever hire me again. And he said, 'You too?'"

Within the space of 30 years he has had star billing in 57 movies and eight plays and a television series. He was never without work for more than three months.

Fonda first came to Hollywood in 1934 at the behest of Walter Wanger, who had spotted him in New Faces on Broadway. He recalls:

"I remember listening in astonishment as Leland Hayward talked Wanger into paying me $1,000 a week. I had been telling Leland that I was a stage actor and didn't want anything to do with pictures."

"But $1,000 a week! I had just left a summer theatre date in New York where I was getting $35 a week. I was convinced."

After signing with Wanger, Fonda returned to New York to appear in Farmer Takes a Wife. Fox borrowed him for the film version the following year and he became a star.

His film career has had two interruptions, once during his wartime navy service, again starting in 1948 when he returned to the stage. The lure was irresistible—the part of his lifetime in Mister Roberts—and he remained for Point of No Return and Caine Mutiny Court Martial.

"I get my kicks on the stage, but it was a mistake to stay away from films so long," he commented. "I was gone nearly seven years, and memories are pretty short out here."

Fonda has devoted the past few years to films and at present has three unreleased: Sex and the Single Girl, The Rounders and In Harm's Way.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Monique Van Vooren, Belgium's blonde gift to show business, finds that occasional and carefully selected appearances on television have a tonic effect on her career.

Her favorite TV appearances are panel or game programs—she'll be back on Farewell Christmas Eve.

"Television chews up material fast," she said. "If you are a singer playing the clubs, you can't expect the public to pay to listen to the same performance they have already seen for nothing—on television."

On the other hand, she has found that the public likes to see in person the performers they've seen on television.

"So the panel show is perfect," she continued.

The average professional signed for five day-time game shows usually gets $1,000. A one-shot guest appearance on a night-time show pays the same amount.

PAYS LESS

The Tonight Show with Johony Carson pays $320.

But performers welcome invitations to appear with Carson.

The big, full dress variety shows like Hollywood Palace pay around $7,500 for a guest appearance.

"It is the kind of show that does a performer some good," Miss Van Vooren explained.

Recently, she said, it cost her almost $22,000 to build an act for a Manhattan supper club engagement.

"We didn't make a cent," she said. "The act went well and once it was set, we used it in other clubs. But television helped open all those doors."

Maurice Chevalier, looking perhaps a little older, was back exerting his ageless charm in a delightful telephone hour on NBC Tuesday night.

The show—which was live—was a dandy and full of musical contrasts, from Pete Fountain's clarinet to Stanley Holloway's music hall songs.

Given Term For Hanging Dog to Tree

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — Convicted of killing a cocker spaniel by hanging it from a tree, 38-yearold Keith Brennan of Pembroke was sentenced Tuesday to three months in jail by Magistrate S. C. Plaxton of Renfrew for the act as a "terrible, inhumane offence."

Michael Neville, 64, of Douglas, Ont., testified with the same offence, cannot be located, reported Crown attorney John Moloney, who said the man was committed to an Ontario Hospital some time ago. Brennan, testifying in his own behalf, said Neville became annoyed with the dog when it bit him. He said Neville was responsible for the hanging. But one of his neighbors said he saw Neville try three times to hang the dog before Brennan finished it off.

Will Question Trustees Behind Closed Doors

OTTAWA (CP)—A Commons committee decided Tuesday to open its questioning of the federal maritime union trustees behind closed doors Thursday morning.

The steering group of the 35-member committee held private sessions Tuesday to discuss the trustees' stand that there are some matters which shouldn't be made public because of possible harm to the five unions involved.

Committee Chairman Bryce Mackasey (L —Montreal Verdun) said the committee wants to know what these matters are before deciding on the future course of the hearings.

The three trustees were appointed 14 months ago to take control of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) and four smaller unions in a bid to end labor violence on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Last Friday Mr. Justice Victor Dryer resigned as chairman of the trustees, effective Dec. 15, but will appear before the committee. The other members of the trusteeship are Charles Millard, retired national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and Judge Rene Lippe of Montreal.

BANCROFT — In spite of poor weather conditions there was a good attendance at the annual Christmas tea and bazaar of the United Church Women of St. Paul's United Church, held in the Christian Education Building last Friday

Highlighting the large room in which the tea and bazaar were held was the beautifully appointed tea-table, centred with an arrangement of poinsettias flanked by candelabras.

The Christmas theme extended from the Santa Claus cutout which stood at the head of the stairs to greet the visitors to the decorated Christmas trees and garlands of pine boughs, which surrounded the hall. A large Christmas tree stood on the stage. The tea-tables were decorated with wreaths of holly and brightly-colored candles.

The decorations were executed by Mrs. H. Hough and her committee.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. Robert Stringer, Mrs. Joseph Lake, Mrs. Harry Strudwick and Mrs. George Davy. Other ladies of the group assisted with the serving and kitchen duties.

The bazaar table, presided over by Mrs. Mary Sargent, was filled with many articles made during the year by members of the Fisher-Sadler unit. Mrs. Harvey Krier and members of the Stockton unit did a brisk business all during the afternoon at the bake table.

Another table popular during the afternoon was the lunch and tea table where Mrs. Neil Martin and members of the Trinity unit were in charge. Mrs. J. N. Brown was convener of the event. Mrs. Helen Mather made the posters displayed in many store windows to aid in advertising and Mrs. Glen Hayton looked after publicity.

BALCER FOR CLOSURE — Leon Balcer, leader of the Quebec Conservatives in the House of Commons, invited the Liberal government Wednesday to impose closure on the flag debate. Balcer's move was immediately opposed by Conservative House leader Gordon Churchill. (CP Wirephoto)

Quebec's Balcer Urges Closure In Flag Debate

Diefenbaker's Seatmate Startles House by Move

OTTAWA (CP) — The protracted flag debate Wednesday drove the wedge deeper between the Conservative party and its Quebec wing and strained the patience of the New Democrats.

In a 200-word statement that repudiated his leader's stand and startled the Commons, Conservative Quebec Lieutenant Leon Balcer asked Prime Minister Pearson to introduce closure to halt the debate.

And the NDP, which had voted against two previous motions to adjourn the debate, made an unsuccessful bid with a motion that would have returned the Commons to holding daily question periods and consideration of bills such as the national labor code.

Outside the Commons Mr. Pearson said only that Mr. Balcer's suggestion was "an interesting proposal, coming from the deputy leader of the opposition."

But a government informant said closure has been considered and rejected as inappropriate on a committee report.

Because Mr. Balcer's move followed by only a few hours a Conservative caucus meeting, it was interpreted in some quarters to mean the party plans to carry on for some time in its fight for a national plebiscite on the flag.

Quebec Conservatives favor adoption of the special Commons committee recommendation of a flag with a single red maple leaf although one, Theogene Ricard (St.- Hyacinthe-Bagot), has sided with others of his party in seeking a plebiscite.

Since the debate was resumed eight sitting days ago, 53 of the Conservatives' 96 Commons members have spoken on the Conservative amendment calling for the plebiscite. In this same period opposition last summer that resulted in the issue going to the committee following 22 days of debate.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was absent for Mr. Balcer's closure request. He entered the Commons to vote on

Congo Debate Bitter

By CARMAN CUMMING

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN Security Council faced a free-for-all debate on the Congo today after voting to hear charges from both sides in the dispute.

Russia launched a bitter assault against the United States and Belgium Wednesday night in a vain attempt to block discussion of Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe's charges that Moscow has been aiding the Congo rebellion.

After a sharp exchange between the Soviet and American delegates, the council rejected the Russian demand that it ignore Tshombe's charges that at least three African countries were shipping aid to the rebels with Russia's help.

The council voted 7 to 4 to take up Tshombe's charges as well as the charge by 22 nations most of them African — that the recent U.S. - Belgian paratroop operation to rescue white hostages from the rebels was a flagrant act of interference in The Congo's internal affairs.

The debate, closed to the public to prevent demonstrations, was expected to last for still more after Tshombe arrives Saturday to argue his case.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko Wednesday night called the Congo rebellion a "holy struggle" against imperialism and branded Tshombe a stooge of the West.

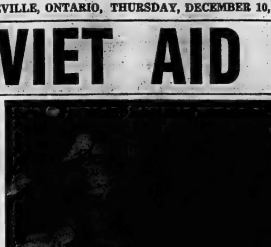
Terming Tshombe's charges "an awkward manoeuvre," he said the council should deal only with "the action of the imperialists and colonialists and their puppets in The Congo."

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson replied that the Russians were trying to screw up a smokescreen to conceal charges that they played a key role in aiding the insurgents.

Stevenson said it was "almost incredible that the council should be asked to hear a complaint against those who have come to the rescue in The Congo, while refusing to hear the government of the country itself against those who by their own admission have."

The American delegate said the Soviet Union charged the United States and Belgium with intervention overlooked the fact that the Congo government was "was purely and simply a rescue mission undertaken in aid given by the legally constituted government of The Congo."

The U.S. - Belgian came under biting attack from three African foreign ministers.



Some observers said the attacks, particularly that of the Congo (Brazzaville) Republic's Foreign Minister Jacques Opangault among the most violent they had heard in the UN.

Opangault, a former French Congo, which borders the former Belgian Congo, said ago, the government raised the massacre of "scores of thousands" of Congolese on the pretext of saving the lives of an insignificant number of whites."

Ghana's Kojo Botsio and the Sudan's Ahmed Mahgoub delivered more restrained attacks.

Under international law, Botsio said, the U.S. has no more right to intervene in The Congo than Ghana would have to intervene in the southern U.S.

Wilson Would Assure Markets For Canada if Preference Given

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's BOAC jet left RCAF Station Uplands for England at 10:17 a.m. today. Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin saw the British leader off.

Mr. Wilson said at a press conference that Britain will get a strong pound only when it has a strong economy. And a strong economy would depend on a strong industry making a dynamic drive for exports.

British export industries must become more competitive and energetic in both their production and sales efforts.

More British firms must show more robustness in trying to break into the Canadian market.

Mr. Wilson said he still wants he would like Britain to discuss with all its Commonwealth partners.

Mr. Wilson indicated he had raised with Prime Minister Pearson the question of the application of Canadian anti-dumping legislation against some British goods.

King Declares Non-Violence Answer to Crucial Problem

OSLO (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King, the American Negro civil rights leader, accepted the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize today as "profound recognition that non-violence is the answer to the crucial political and moral question of our time — the need for man to overcome oppression and violence without resorting to violence and oppression."

Gunnar Jahn, chairman of the Norwegian Parliament's Nobel committee, presented the peace prize gold medal and diploma in a ceremony in Oslo University's festival hall on the 68th anniversary of the death of the donor, Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite.

Jahn said that King "is the first person in the Western world to have shown us that a struggle can be waged without violence."

"He is the first to make the menace of brotherly love a reality in the course of his struggle and he has proclaimed a message to all men, to all nations and races.

"Today we pay our tribute to Martin Luther King, the man who has never abandoned his faith in the unarmed struggle he is waging, who has suffered for his faith, been imprisoned on many occasions, whose home has been subject to bomb attacks, whose life and those of his family have been threatened and who nevertheless has never faltered."

Acheson Says Moralistic Maxims Can Confuse U.S. Foreign Policy

AMHERST, Mass. (AP)—Former state secretary Dean Acheson says "moralistic maxims" should be eliminated from the conduct of United States foreign policy.

He said they often confuse a decision on "such complicated matters as the multilateral nuclear force, a reasonable grain price in Europe, policy in South-east Asia. . . ."

Examples Acheson gave of moralisms and slogans are the concept that the U.S. should refrain from using force in all circumstances, the principle of self-determination applied to all situations and the idea of foreign aid as "sharing brotherly love."

Acheson's detailed criticism came in a speech at an Amherst College symposium Wednesday.

Morals and ethics have their place in foreign policy, but "must be used with discretion," he said.

Acheson added that moral and ethical standards which guide private citizens are not always an acceptable measure of the conduct of public officials.

In foreign affairs, Acheson said, the existence of moral and ethical ideas can lead to a preoccupation with how a country should behave rather than what country does.

"This is a major pitfall of the United States government," he said, adding, "Cautiously, we are striving by using threats of death against those who threaten to topple our system.. He added:

"Is it moral to deny ourselves the use of force in all circumstances, when our adversaries employ it, under handy excuses, whenever it seems useful to up the scales of power against every value we think of as moral and as making life worth living?

"It seems to me not only a bad bargain, but a stupid one. It would almost say an immoral one . . . the very conception of morality seems to me to invoke a duty to preserve values outside the contour of our own skins. . . ."

Democratic Rule Works In Research

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — When Jonas Salk, who developed polio vaccine, got the idea of bringing some of the world's great scientists together for a broad assault on the remaining diseases of man, there were some who wondered:

1. Would the impatient genius of such people allow anyone to tell them what direction their research should take?

2. Would they be any more successful working together than separately?

After several months in cramped temporary laboratories while a $18,000,000 institute is being built on a hill overlooking the Pacific, Salk and his associates have found answers to both questions.

First of all, Salk told reporters Wednesday, he and the staff of the Salk Institute have worked out a democratic form of government he believes is virtually unique among research bodies.

In some institutes, at least, the director has absolute authority; he decides precisely what work each scientist shall do and the scientist agrees or leaves.

ARE AUTHORITIES

At the Salk Institute each top scientist, or fellow, as he is called, is recognized as an authority in his own field, capable of determining what is of investigating should prove most rewarding.

The board, made up of prominent business and professional people, generally relies on advice from committees.

How well has the philosophy of democracy in science worked so far?

"Extremely well," said Salk, who is a fellow as well as director. "We not only have the value of close communications between fellows and scientists, we have found that sharp minds tend to sharpen each other."

Johnson Seeks New Chiefs Help In Halting War

Wants to Ease Tension, Reach New Arms Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration has asked Russia's new leaders to use their influence to halt Communist operations from North Viet Nam against South Viet Nam.

The request was made to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko by State Secretary Dean Rusk in the course of a series of conferences Gromyko held Wednesday with Rusk and President Johnson. Rusk also asked the Russians to work for peaces in Southeast Asia.

Gromyko conferred with Johnson at the White House for about 90 minutes.

Gromyko said disarmament and several other subjects were discussed in his meeting with the president and added: "I think that the exchange of views was useful and the atmosphere in the course of the conversation was friendly."

He said the president welcomed the $666,000,000 defence budget cut which was announced Wednesday by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

BRUSHED ASIDE

Asked whether Johnson and he talked about the possibility of an East-West summit conference, Gromyko brushed aside the question.

Johnson was understood, however, to have developed the line in his conversation that he is deeply interested in easing tensions and improving East-West relations, particularly in the field of new disarmament agreements he has made clear in the past that if there were constructive results in sight he would be willing to go anywhere and meet with anyone for the purpose.

Gromyko, according to U.S. informants, told Rusk the Soviet Union thought the United States should withdraw its troops from South Viet Nam. Rusk replied that the troops were in South Viet Nam to assist the government and people there in the defence against aggression from North Viet Nam and that the U.S. was fully informed on infiltration of men and supplies from the north into the south.

PAY HIGH PREMIUM

LONDON (AP) — An insurance broker disclosed Wednesday that the Beatles pay Britain's highest rate of automobile insurance. It's not that they're bad drivers. They have to pay for it into the poorest age bracket risks, 18 to 26, and travel a lot. The broker, who asked not to be named, said they pay an annual premium totalling about £750 ($2,250).

Sweeping Changes Suggested

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Morton Shulman, Metropolitan Toronto's chief coroner, says he plans a series of sweeping recommendations for legislation to clamp down on drinking drivers illegal abortions and incompetent doctors.

He refused to go into details during an interview Wednesday following presentation of his 1963 coroner's report, but said the complete list of recommendations would be included in his 1964 report early next spring.

He said the 1964 report would deal in detail with inquests and investigations begun this year into what he termed medical quackery and professional incompetence.

Increasing pressure is being exerted by the legal profession to replace medical coroners with lawyers, he said. The Law Society of Upper Canada had commissioned a brief on the subject last year.

WOULD MEAN HARM

Mr. Shulman said such a change would be of great harm to the public.

"With a lawyer's training and mental outlook," he said in his report, "it is questionable whether he would show the same compassion and wider vision of the physician.

"Public inquiries conducted by lawyers in the past have taken months or even years to render their findings. This would paralyse the inquest system."

The report also rejected protests by the medical profession that public inquests into hospital deaths harmed the reputations of responsible and competent doctors.

"No single example has ever been shown of an individual whose reputation was wrongfully damaged," Dr. Shulman said in the interview.

"To prevent the careless or incompetent person suffering public embarrassment, I have seeking change would wipe out the last benefits of the coroner's inquiry."

FIRE HITS HIGH

TORONTO (CP)—Fire on the 17th floor of an unfinished high-rise apartment building Wednesday night burned out of control for almost an hour. The fire department's latest aerial ladders were not high enough. The $10,000,000 building, which eventually be 27 storeys high, is located in midtown Toronto not far from Maple Leaf Gardens.

Progress Made Keeping Hospital Patients Afloat on Jets of Air

LONDON (AP)—Experiments in keeping hospital patients floating on jets of air are making progress in a London research centre.

Already a man has been kept afloat for five hours. The next step is to see whether a normal person can be suspended in mid-air for 24 hours without ill effects.

If the experiments succeed, they are expected to lead to a major advance in treatment of multiple burns, medical authorities say.

One advantage will be to reduce pain, in that the burned patient is out of contact with any bandages, sheets and jets that exposure to air dries the burns quickly.

They are continuing with human volunteers at London's Institute of Orthopedics with the backing of three government-sponsored organizations.

A cushion of air at relatively low pressure is contained within a curtain of air from high-pressure jets. The patient floats on the lower pressure air inside the invisible curtain.

The apparatus looks something like a casket without a lid. The patient is placed inside naked on a polythene mattress. Where the mouthful fan and jets are turned on, the patient rises on his invisible cushion.

Since the method has been made successfully, the apparatus will be tried with a suitable case in the department of scientific and industrial research said.

It explained that the air cushion so far seems smooth, steady and comfortable. Since the air makes a noise, however, there must be some vibration. It is not known whether long - term exposure to the vibration can have damaging effects.

British Sunday in for Change If Restrictive Laws Are Rescinded

LONDON (CP)—The starchy British Sunday is in for a shake-up. If the recommendations of a government report on restrictive laws meet with public approval, Britons may at last be able to have fun on Sunday—if not games.

Professional sport is still outlawed in the report of the Crathorne committee on the Law of Sunday Observance, presented to Home Secretary Sir Frank Soskice Wednesday. But the report recommends more amateur sport for healthy recreation and also gives the green light to theatres, variety shows, ballet, dance halls, fun fairs and circuses.

At present Britain's only legal Sunday entertainments are movies, with restricted showings and concerts by recitals.

The essence of the committee's report is that Britain's people are not fools and often illogical laws, originally designed to encourage church attendance, no longer serve their purpose.

The eight - man committee, which included former home secretary J. Chuter Ede, spent 33½ years studying how Britons spend their Sundays and tabbing their views on restrictions.

They found that, though a "clear and constant" majority want more easing of the taboos, there is still considerable feeling that Sunday should be kept "different" and its special character of leisure and worship preserved.

The main objection to wide-open activity seemed to be that it would involve a large number of people working on Sunday.

The government will not act on the proposals until it has a chance to gauge public reaction.

Agriculture and Other County Projects Discussed in Council

Discussion on agricultural or other county projects which might be approved for development by the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Association took up the bulk of the time at this morning's session of Hastings county council.

The topic was introduced by Douglas Tupper, county agricultural representative who in his report to council referred to possible ARDA projects for North Hastings.

He said that some discussion had taken place regarding seed potato production, a maple syrup co-operative with one processing plant and possibilities of small fruit production.

Mr. Tupper emphasized, however, that ARDA does not initiate any actual projects, but that they must be developed from the grass roots level.

Rawdon deputy reeve Burton Morton enlarged on the subject, noting that there were few real opportunities for ARDA development in the agricultural field.

MAYNOOTH MEETING

At an ARDA meeting at Maynooth on October 26th, the subject of more form of pulp mill had been expressed while needs with respect to the tourist industry were also discussed.

Elgin Oram, reeve of Madoc and Ranger, said the Madawaska Valley Tourist Association had proposed development of recreational facilities such as a ski tow, and golf courses, while a fenced game sanctuary comprising of about 5,000 acres had also been suggested as a tourist attraction.

Discussions on the matter had progressed to the point that ARDA had been asked to make a survey of the tourist potential of the Madawaska Valley area, Mr. Oram said.

Many councillors agreed that a game preserve would be a good tourist attraction, but Wollaston Reeve William O'Brien noted that this would do little for the farmer in North Hastings. He suggested that the original intention of ARDA had been to assist the farmers.

Hungerford Reeve Clarence Graham wanted to know if ARDA assistance might be obtained for assistance in developing an industry.

Later discussion brought out that a marble quarrying industry might be developed in the area if roads and a necessary bridge was provided.

At the close of the discussion it was intimated that a proposal for a definite ARDA project might be before council before the end of the session.

In his agricultural report Mr. Tipper reviewed the county 4-H club and junior farmer program noting that one 4-H clubs this year had 387 members with ten of the 26 clubs having 100 per cent project completions.

He said the total program could be evaluated as one of satisfactory progress.

Miss Linda Gunning of Tweed, 1964 Hastings county dairy princess, with her alternate Miss Mrs. Lorne Gunning were introduced to the council meeting.

Miss Gunning told of her activities as this year's county dairy princess and gave a history of the county of Hastings.

A request for a grant of $250 from the county to assist in publicity of the Canada Winter program was referred to the agricultural committee for later decision.

Council concurred in a Madawaska Valley Tourist Association resolution calling for the season for speckled trout fishing to open on January 1st, instead of on March as at present.

Student Took 15 Hrs. 41 Mins. To Have Shower

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) A bedraggled American International College sophomore stepped out of the shower Wednesday after 15 hours and 41 minutes and claimed he had taken the world's longest shower.

Stephen Sbry of New York, turned on the water Tuesday night after a Springfield College junior claimed the record Monday: 13 hours and 7 minutes.

Sbry, in swimming trunks, talked to classmates who set up a table and chairs outside his metal shower stall, ate three pieces of toast and a bowl of cereal, slept 30 minutes and alternately sat on a chair and paced.

He also used up an estimated 1,300 gallons of water.

"I did it because of the challenge," said Sbry wearily after his shower, "and for the glory of my college."

White Cane Club Enjoys Christmas Party

On Tuesday evening at Kiwanis House members of the White Cane Club and their escorts were guests of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Kiwanis Club, at a pre-Christmas party.

President Helen Wardhaugh warmly greeted everyone and expressed pleasure at the large attendance.

Artie Scott introduced Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and Master Gordon Locklin, who provided musical entertainment. Gordon sang his favorite Christmas songs which were greatly appreciated. Mr. Gordon accompanied him on the piano and played for carol singing as well.

At the conclusion Mr. George Zimmels, on behalf of the club expressed sincere appreciation to the entertainers.

READS CLIPPING

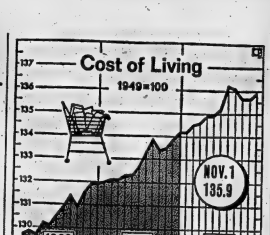
Mrs. Maude Rollins read a clipping from a Halifax newspaper, which stated that competitors in the Sports Car Club rally there, had as navigators 30 young blind youths. These boys were students at the Nova Scotia school for the blind.

The instruction sheets were in braille, and the officials were amazed that these boys could figure mathematical equation in braille faster than most people can on paper.

Two guessing games enjoyed, the winner of the first, Clarence Morris, and of the second, Pat Baverstock.

A highlight of the evening was the exchange of gifts between the members, followed by Arlie Scott playing the harmonica to the piano accompaniment of Ted Rowe.

The Kiwanis ladies served refreshments, also presented each member with a box of chocolates.



President Helen sincerely thanked the ladies for a most enjoyable party, and the Lions Club for transportation. The season's greetings were extended to all.

LIVING COSTS INCREASE — Canada's cost-of-living index rose to a record high of 135.9 November 1 from 135.6 a month earlier. It was 1.9 points or 1.4 per cent higher than a year ago.

Six of the seven components in the index showed increases. Only transportation costs remained steady. Food, shelter, clothing, personal care, health and recreation costs increased.

The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100. Graph traces movement of the index since 1962.

Will Soon Call Tenders For Road Near Frankford

Tenders for rebuilding of first two miles of development road south from Frankford and east of the Trent River are expected to be called in the very near future, members of Hastings county council were told today.

The announcement of the tender call was made following hearing of the county roads and bridges committee report by chairman Clayton Hall, reeve of Thurlow township.

Mr. Hall said that while tenders would soon be called for the first section of the road, it was not expected tenders would be called for the remainder of the road south to Trenton until next fall.

The decision of the Ontario Department of Highways not to bypass the village of Glen Miller when rebuilding the development road, is still a disappointment to county officials.

DOES NOT AGREE

"I still don't agree with the department and feel their decision is a big mistake," Mr. Hall told council.

He said that there was much fast heavy traffic along this county road and Sidney Reeve Gerald Arrton stated that this traffic would increase following rebuilding of the road.

Reeve Hall said that the gas line leading to Trenton would have to be moved when the road was widened and rebuilt.

Council was also told that there had been a delay in completion of the steelwork for the new Stoco Bridge and results that the concrete deck and other work required will not be completed until next year.

Other bridge work during the year included replacement of a culvert at Goose Creek five miles north of Marlbank, major repairs to the James Street bridge in Stirling and completion of work on the Guernsey bridge, started last year.

Net county expenditure on the roads and bridges system to the end of October has been $406,106 with suburban roads expenditures at the same date being $44,252.

Total roads and bridge by-law for 1964 was $574,150 of which $64,000 was allotted to suburban roads.

Earlier during the morning session there was considerable discussion on the rights of the county with respect to land taken for moving of utilities lines when road changes are made.

County Clerk Carl Bateman emphasized the importance of the county getting a proper agreement before installation of such lines was started.

Link Bank, Cosa Nostra Loan Sharks

NEW YORK (AP) — A loan shark ring headed by a Cosa Nostra henchman financed its operations with almost $1,500,000 in unsecured loans obtained from a large New York bank with the connivance of a vice-president, a state investigation commission has been told.

These deals highlighted testimony Wednesday about friendly relationships between underworld Siybilcks and officers and employees of several banks in the New York metropolitan area.

The investigation commission is gathering data for recommendations to the legislature for tighter money-lending laws. It has been told of loan shark interest rates of 25 per cent a week or more.

A mystery witness — identified as a vice-president of a big midtown bank—testified he now has the job of collecting loans allowed by his predecessor who was fired by the bank and is under federal indictment on charges of violating banking laws.

The witness said a loan shark syndicate headed by John Masiello, 44, of Yonkers, N.Y., over the bank about $400,000. Masiello was identified at the hearing as a member of the Cosa Nostra underworld "family" of the imprisoned Vito Genovese.

Another anonymous witness, a former teller in a bank in the garment district, testified that bank personnel aided loan sharks in signing up victims. The bank personnel, he testified, indicated to the sharks which bank customers were having trouble in obtaining credit, and it was customary for bank officers and employees to receive money and other gifts for this information.

Ripley Should Have Said It

"Spending is Saving". He didn't say it, but we are, and we believe it to be true. Seven out of ten automobiles on the road, today, are out of alignment! The impact of an automobile travelling at sixty miles an hour, hitting a pot-hole, railway track, or anything uneven, can throw the wheels out of alignment. Only a fraction of an inch can cost you a potential wear on your tires to half. It also disfigures your steering. We, at Canadian Tire, have the answer. We have the best equipment available in the John Bean Visaliner, and a tried and proven technician in Mr. Bud Fox. For just $2.00 we'll give your car a thorough front-end check, and if required further work, this can be applied on our low price of $5.95 for most cars. If anything needs replacing this is where we can really SAVE you money. We use guaranteed new-car quality replacement parts, at prices that save you up to 50%. Yes, you can charge it, too! No service charges on 30-day accounts, or if it's something major, you might spread it over many months, with payments as low as $2.00 per month.

County Assessment Board, Hiring of Commissioner, Are Approved by Council

Hastings County Council yesterday formally adopted the new County Assessment Commission method of assessing and hired an assessment commissioner, and a staff of full time assessors.

The new assessment commissioner is H. S. Chalmers Jevons of Nepean Township in Carleton County.

His staff will consist of Cecil Green, present county assessor, as chief assessor; Clarence Bird of Thurlow Township; Hogarth Sabine, Marmora Village; William Flynn, Marmora and Lake Township; Don Armstrong, Tudor and Grimsthorpe; and Clayton Price, Dungannon Township.

In addition, the county assessing staff will consist of one trainee, Roger Smith of Rawdon Township, and an office secretary.

TAKE FULL CHARGE

The new assessment commissioner and his staff of full-time assessors will take over the assessing duties of 37 different local assessors currently hired by the different municipalities.

Cost of the new system has been estimated at a total of $54,300, wit hhs net cost of $40,300 to the county. The balance would be paid by provincial grants on salaries and subsidies on office and other equipment.

The cost to the various municipalities under the present system is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $20,000.

In addition to salary, county assessors will receive car mileage allowance and will also receive credit for approved assessment courses taken.

APPROVED LAST SESSION

A county assessment commissioner system was approved in principle by county council at its September session with a committee headed by Bancroft reeve M. J. McAlpine, appointed to call further details and call for applications.

Yesterday Mr. McAlpine said that the electronic system for data processing would be used. Assessors would prepare assessment cards in the normal manner which would be forwarded to an I.B.M. centre for card punching and processing.

In this way there would be less capital expense for equipment and the county would receive subsidy on the cost of time rental for IBM machines.

Although the new system was adopted in principle at the last session a number of councillors still objected because of the cost factor.

OPPOSED COST

Leading the discussion was Sidney township reeve Gerald Irvine, who said the new cost to his township would be about $8,000.

Also the township would have to make its own dog tax collection.

Rawdon reeve Fred Beckett also objected to the new cost of about $2,400 for his township, as compared to about $700 at present.

"What will we gain?" he asked.

In reply Mr. McAlpine said the gain would be an increase in assessment with possibly the greatest gain being true equalization of assessment across the county.

Reeve Gerald Caldwell of Carlow township was also opposed claiming he could not see sufficient gain from the new system to warrant the additional expense.

But other councillors who originally were opposed, said they had changed their minds and that they now could see the long term benefits.

WOULD SEE BENEFIT

Thurlow Reeve Clayton Hall said his township's assessment costs would double to $8,000 but he was certain that within two or three years the township would commence to see the benefits of the new system.

And Reeve Allen Ketcheson of Madoc Township said "it was a step in the right direction".

"We are dealing with the very heart of our county problem," he said. "It is a move which will possibly bring about equalized assessment clean across the province."

Warden Thomas Burnside said that in the new assessment commissioner the county had a well qualified man with years of experience in the rural municipal field. Mr. Jevons has been assessor for Nepean township since 1946.

The warden said that the present county assessor, Cecil Green, would remain as a valuable addition to the full time assessing staff. The other assessors hired are all from the county with assessing experience in the township.

WORK FROM HOMES

The intention is that assessors will as far as possible work from their present homes, but will not do assessing in their own municipalities.

But the new assessment system will make for an accommodation problem at the county administration buildings.

The space presently occupied by the county assessor will not be sufficient and arrangements are being made on a temporary basis to use the two discovery rooms and the court room on the third floor of the county building.

More space considered by the committee which could be made available would be the present Independent's apartment and the former registry office now occupied by the History Board which leases it for use as a museum. The lease is due this publishing expires in February, 1965.

Highway Will Be Repaired Under Program

A winter works roads maintenance costing approximately $60,000 will get underway shortly on No. 620 secondary highway between Madoc and Hill.

The day labor works program will use a couple of knolls cut down and a low area regraded immediately east of the Ridge Road.

Mr. W. E. Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West, said about 18 day labourers would be hired in addition to the required mechanized machinery. The job extra labor is underway next week, will take from three to three and a half months to complete.

Girl Took Seizure at Wheel of Car

A 24-year-old Port Credit girl who took a seizure at the wheel of her car near Belleville, today was fined $100 and costs by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Rose Rita Burge was charged by provincial police after her car crashed off Highway 2 west of the city October 30 at 2:00 a.m. She was driving alone and was no traffic in the area at the time.

The investigating officer charged her with making a false statement on her license application which automatically requires the application of seizures.

Dame Sitwell, Famed English Poetess, Dies

LONDON (Reuters) — Dame Edith Sitwell, 77-year-old English poet, died Wednesday night in hospital here after a heart attack.

She was admitted to St. Thomas's Hospital earlier in the day.

A tall, striking figure, Dame Edith was emminent among poets and was one of the most colorful personalities of her time.

The only daughter of an affluent and scholarly baronet and the sister of two brilliant literary brothers, Osbert and Sacheverell, she claimed to have a strong resemblance to King Henry VII of England, and dressed accordingly.

To suit her tall figure and long Plantagenet face, with its squiline nose and heavy-lidded eyes, she wore elaborate hats or turbans and long flowing gowns recalling medieval fashions.

KNOWN AS 'QUEEN EDITH'

To her friends she became known as "Queen Edith" and indeed she might have stepped out of a Holbein canvas.

Yet she was only a leader among young socialites of the 1920's. These "bright young things," as they were known, showed their flair for a spirit in pranks and eccentricities aimed at startling London's conventional citizens.

Her early phase as a poet was marked by her fearless use of rhyme from contemporary life, fanciful, mischievous inventiveness and verbal music.

Dame Edith, who received the feminine equivalent of a knighthood in 1954, published her first volume of poems in 1915. In the 1920s that she gained fame with her light poetry, mirroring the brittle gaiety of the time.

She made a substantial contribution to literary scholarship by writing a biography of Alexander Pope, the 18th century poet whose mannered, sarcastic and witty style dominated the tradition in which she wrote.

CALLED 'TECHNICIAN'

"She is the most accomplished technician in verse," critic Arnold Bennett once said of her.

But it was as a public character that Dame Edith won the most attention. She wore long gowns and draped her head in a medieval wimple. Sometimes she wore black fingerless gloves that of Elizabethan times. She aimed to be different even if it meant being eccentric and set up harbed controversy in her midst. She had her shafts at the stereotyped mind and "respectable mediocrity."

She even claimed to have invented the current vogue for jazz poetry readings as far back as the 1920s, when she collaborated with William Walton in the music - and - verse "Facade" in 1923.

"I am like an unpopular electric eel in a pond full of catfish," she once told an interviewer."

Earlier this year she was putting the finishing touches on her memoirs. Asked how she felt, she said: "Dying, but, apart from that, I'm all right."

She was an accomplished pianist and listed one of her favorite recreations as "listening to music." The other, she said, was "silence."

Construction Round-Up

UNION CARBIDE DRAINAGE

Lightfoot Construction has attached handrails to Union Carbide's settling tank. The 100 feet of inside drainage ditch has not yet been cut.

DUNDAS STREET CLINIC

Despite cold weather, masons continued building the block wall at the Dundas Street Clinic. Tatham Construction cleared the rear parking lot of excess earth. Steel cross beam supports for the first floor are in.

L.C.B.O.

Carpenters have begun work on the inside shelves at the new L.C.B.O. building located on Station Street.

DIXIE LEE

A conduit trench running from the front wall to the street was blasted for the telephone cable at the Dixie Lee Cut-Up Chicken building. Snow has brought block laying to a halt.

WILSON CONCRETE

Wilson Concrete is waiting for warmer weather before tarring the last one third of their precast roof. The crane bays covered by the roof are now enclosed by wooden sidings with polyethelene stretched over them.

WILLIAM STREET CLINIC

No progress was made on the William Street Clinic this week. To date the foundation is dug.

CITY BARNS

The foundation walls at the City Barns site are complete. Block work started Wednesday. Sewer and water lines have been connected to the main line and the gas tanks have been installed. Backfill weighing 14,300 tons has been pushed in.

STRADWICK'S

Spray painters are working inside the Stradwick floor covering building on Mott's Front. They should be done this week. Next week-six tile floor will be laid and counters installed. Stradwick's hope to open before the new year.

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER BUILDING

Press erectors from Montreal specialists in installing newspaper presses, are attaching trolley tracks to the main steel beams on the first floor of the Intelligencer building. A crane will unload the five press units each weighing approximately 15 tons, to the building. From there the trolley and tackle apparatus, running on a monorail, will carry them inside the building and into position. After the machinery is installed, the monorail will remain in the building but be needed only if the machinery must be moved at a later date. In the basement, cement has been poured to create a base for the columns that will support the press on the first floor. The press will sit on the columns like a table on legs. Newsprint will be in the basement and fed upwards. Press erectors estimate the job will take three and a half months to complete.

ARGOSY

Masons continued to lay blocks all week at the Argosy warehouse, despite bad weather.

SMITH'S GARAGE

The furnace was hooked up and window and door frames installed last week at Smith's new garage being built at the end of Adam St.

AMODEO'S

All is quiet at Amodeo's on North Front, waiting for the prestressed concrete for the main floor.

LAMBERT'S

No further work was done on Charles Lambert's double triplex during the week. The new buildings will be located on the corner of West Moira and Wallbridge Road.

C.N.R.

CNR has renovated its old yard office and made an addition to it. With the addition, which is almost completed, the yard office will be about twice its previous size. The building will house the car checker, the railway's police department, a telegraph operator, the storage department, yard office staff, a machine room, and employee lockers in the basement. The face on the addition is angel-stone grey to blend with the old building.

Some Residents Of Manor Will Get Allowance

Residents of Hastings Manor (Hastings County Home for the Aged) who are without funds of their own, will in the future received an allowance of $10 per month from the county home administration.

The motion was put through Hastings county council yesterday with but little discussion. The county will pay 30 percent of the allowance.

Many councillors referred to it as one of the more worthwhile motions passed during the current session.

Old age pensioners in residence at the county home are allowed to retain $12 per month from their pensions, but about 16 of the present residents are entirely without funds of their own. These are younger men and women without pensions.

Many of the residents not yet having reached pension age assist in farm work and in other jobs about the county home.

Big Wheels Of Republican Party Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—A Republican leadership conference decided Wednesday that unity within the party is attainable if both sides give a little ground in the months ahead.

This conclusion was reached at a six-hour meeting of Senator Barry Goldwater, former president Dwight Eisenhower and former vice-president Richard Nixon.

Goldwater, the defeated Republican presidential candidate, said the three agreed at the meeting to dedicate themselves to the task of building party unity because they do not want to see a Republican "blood dropped on the ground."

"We see no impossible task ahead," Goldwater told reporters.

"We feel that unity can be achieved by both sides giving in this case, and that is what the three of us dedicated ourselves to achieving in the months ahead."

Voters Brush Civic Plans Under Rug

VANCOUVER (CP) — Voters in Canada's third largest city swept Mayor William Rathie back into office Wednesday, but brushed most of his civic plans under the political rug.

The mayor was returned for his second term, but his pet proposal — a 20-year downtown development plan costing $48,000,000 and a coliseum bylaw — were taken to the cleaners.

The 50-year-old mayor had given his support to a bylaw which would have committed the city to give a $2,000,000 piece of downtown property over to private interests for the Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens for an $8,000,000 coliseum. He also urged voters to support the development plan covering the years 1986 to 1970.

But they defeated Alderman Tom Alsbury, 60, a former mayor who resigned his alderманic seat to run for the mayoralty election, Ald. Marianne Linnell, 50, who came in third in the voting, and William Shenton, who was never in contention.

The mayor commented that he will continue to push for a sports coliseum but that the offer from Gardens President Stafford Smythe is dead. The Gardens is owned by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

The bylaw proposed to build a 17,000 - seat arena on two blocks of choice downtown land the city agreed to sell the land for $1.

He placed a Dec. 31 deadline on his offer and hinted that construction of the centre could mean a National Hockey League team for Vancouver.

The proposal drew criticism from many quarters that the wording of the bylaw did not place any restrictions on what type of structure Leafs could build on the property when the arena was completed.

The Leaf president refused to add any conditions to his offer in last-minute communications with city officials.

Gunman Holds Bank Officer, Wife, Two Children as Hostages

By TOM CHASE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The gunman "made no bones about the fact that he would kill us if we didn't co-operate," said bank officer Ray B. West, 30.

A masked man with a .45-calibre pistol held West, his wife and two small girls as hostages to get into the suburban Buckhead branch of the Citizens and Southern National Bank.

But no money was taken and the man was captured.

Keith Donald Moore, 24, of Atlanta, was charged Wednesday with attempted robbery and also with the $23,000 robbery of the same branch bank June 26.

Moore, a free lance photographer, pleaded guilty to both charges. He was held without bond for the grand jury.

BULLETS HALT ESCAPE

The FBI said Moore had a plane ticket for Switzerland. His flight left Atlanta just minutes after police bullets halted his escape.

Police Capt. R. E. Little said Moore entered the West home about 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, wore sunglasses and a mask.

At 5 a.m. Wednesday the Wests were ordered to drive to the bank.

When bank employees began arriving, Moore briefly admitted them and warned, "just follow instructions and no one will get hurt."

He also warned a bomb had been left in a nearby school and could be set off by remote control. The school was evacuated and searched later but no bomb was found.

EMPLOYEE CALLS POLICE

When bank employee Bob Tollison arrived for work he noticed something amiss and called police.

Minutes later a policeman approached the front door. The masked man aimed his pistol at Mrs. Suzanne Ingle, 74, a teller, and said "you're coming with me." He went over to the back door with him into a car.

The car was halted by patrol cars and a helicopter hovered overhead giving directions.

The bandit released Mrs. Ingle, shaken but unharmed.

"Just as we stopped," said Patrolman R. E. Norton, "the bandit ran into the car, marked the accelerator with his hand and roared away with his feet sticking out the door."

Norton and two other officers fired a fusillade of shots at the car. Other police vehicles closed in and the man surrendered.

Children Busy Preparing for Santa's Visit

TRENTON — The children at the retarded children's school, west of Trenton, are busy preparing for Christmas in their classrooms — and in their heads dance visions of lollipops and Santa Claus. They will get the candy and see the old Gent next Thursday night, Dec. 31, during the school Christmas party. Parents and friends have been invited and the party starts at 8 p.m.

Meanwhile, the children are selling Christmas cards again this year, through their "agent", John Martin of Brighton, phone 475-2897. Mr. Martin, a member of the provincial police force at Brighton, is a past president of the Trenton-Brighton and District Association for Retarded Children.

Store Santa Reads to Tots

TRENTON — In this age of a commercialized Christmas, the annual theory is that Santa Claus is hired to sit in the department store, "put up with the" the kids and urge the food mothers, by subtle suggestion, to purchase of Dad's pay cheque in the store.

So it was refreshing this week to see a real Santa in Dundas Street store, sitting on his throne with one small boy on his lap and a couple of others leaning on his knee, reading to them from a story book.

Santa wasn't a mother within miles of the place. Santa just seemed to be enjoying himself. And we'll bet he's the one who comes down the chimney on Christmas Eve!

Ministers Pick Officers

TRENTON — The Trenton Ministerial Association, meeting this week, elected Rev. R. Ragcroft of the Church of the Nazarene as president; Rev. Ronald Reid of Bethel as vice-president and Miss Nancy White as secretary-treasurer.

PASS HUNTERS' COURSE

TRENTON — At this week's hunter safety course, 21 persons passed examinations necessary for obtaining licences. One person failed. Safety Officer Sgt. Gordon Bisenberg says more women seem to be taking an interest in hunting this year than in other years. One woman attended the most recent course.

It's a Dull World

Those who are more interested in the lively life than in peace, order and good government ought not to miss the opportunity to mourn the demise of two outstanding examples of their kind of people by staging a twin cities wake.

Monday saw two of Ontario's most colorful municipal politicians go down to defeat. They were Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa and Controller Allan Lamport of Toronto. They really did not have much competition in the color department, most of the conscientious and hard-working men and women who run our municipal affairs being admirable sober-sides who would not dream of using more than one epithet without inquiring if more were really needed—and getting firm estimates of their cost. Nevertheless, recognition should not be withheld Miss Whitton and Mr. Lamport because of the low calibre of the league in which they were forced to play. Both are old pros who could hold their own in any company. They would be right at home trading insults with international experts, like Mr. K. Clare Booth Luce and Dick Nixon.

Charlotte Whitton's defeat was doubly humiliating, in that she was beaten not by one but by two men and one of these her brother-in-law—of whom she had charitably said that he had been under the thumb of one Whitton for so long that he could not possibly hope to emerge victorious in a battle with the champion of the clan—or words roughly, very roughly, to that effect.

Allan Lamport found his personal popularity no match for the high regard in which the citizens of conformist, orderly, well-behaved Toronto hold orderly, well-behaved Mayor Philip Givens.

All this possibly means that Toronto and Ottawa city councils will have more time this coming year to consider important business—but it is going to pose a problem for city hall reporters in these two cities. Suddenly the calibre of their copy is going to take a nose-dive comparable to the drop in demand for Santa Claus outfits on Dec. 26.

Too Late the Pharalope

The New York Times says the Johnson administration would like to see an arrangement for African troops to police the Congo.

This is an excellent solution for the present chaotic situation, the only difficulty being that it cannot possibly work, now.

There might have been a time, immediately after the Congo became independent, when an African police force was feasible, but not today.

One has only to consider the prerequisites for such a plan, as enumerated in Washington.

Two conditions have to be met. There must be a truce between Tshombe, the Congo's prime minister, and the leaders of the other African states.

The second condition is unlikely to be met. As for the first condition, its achievement would, of itself, make the presence of a foreign police force unnecessary, if not actually inadvisable.

The last real hope for a peaceful settlement of tribal differences in the Congo vanished when the UN was restrained from taking decisive action against Tshombe and his mercenaries in Katanga, early in the history of the costly and inconclusive peacekeeping undertaking.

The best that can now be hoped is that the nations will be able to devise some method of preventing the Congo strife, with its racial overtones, spreading to other parts of the Dark Continent.

It's the Law

God and the U.S. Supreme Court have a lot in common. They move in mysterious ways their wonders to perform.

The Supreme Court has ruled invalid a Florida law which made it illegal for a Negro man and a white woman, or a white man and a Negro woman, to habitually occupy the same room at night.

This ruling has no bearing on another Florida law prohibiting marriages between Negroes and whites. This law was attacked in the same case, but the court had not yet made a ruling regarding its validity.

So, for the time being, it is legal for a Negro man and a white woman, or a white man and a Negro woman, to occupy the same room at night —providing they are not man and wife.

The law—it's wonderful.

Upon the number of volunteers in blood donor clinics within the next few weeks, may hang the lives of many men in the services overseas. The need for this life-giving serum today is greater than ever with increased activities on the war fronts. The Ontario Division of the Red Cross is making a province-wide appeal for 50,00 new donors, the campaign to begin next week. Ontario's quota is 12,00 donors per week," stated the chairman of Blood Donor Service in Ontario. In the last three months blood donations have reached that figure only three times. Some clinics have been taking donors too often to keep up the number of donations.

To Your Good Health
Degree of Scariness Fills Emotional Need

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am allergic to cold. Every time something cold hits me, I get hives. Even in the summer, when I go swimming. Is there anything to do? — L. R.

This is not a common allergy, but it is far from unknown. Gradual exposure to cold (as to any other allergy) to get your system used to it, may be of some help.

Otherwise the use of an antihistamine preparation prior to known exposure to cold should help. Your doctor may also recommend one of the steroid drugs to be taken beforehand.

Dear Dr. Molner: I ecrew 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet "Do's" Let Diverticulosis Throw You.

How can one tell when it is permissible to eat ordinary food again, such as salads, corn, peas, etc.

Is this a cancerous disease? Is a sufferer doomed? Is it unusual for a person of 50 to get it" — Mrs. E. H. F.

No, it is not cancerous, and most certainly a patient is not "doomed." Diverticulosis is a tiny out-pouching, usually of the colon. Many foods. In most cases, are permissible except those of high residue, such as corn, seedy fruits, nuts, bran products. With even moderate caution, many patients have no further trouble. Logical trial and error will generally establish how much (or how little) care is required in avoiding irritating foods. Diverticulosis is found principally beyond the age of 45 and in later years may be present in 25 percent or more of the population. The booklet will answer all of your questions more fully.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any harm in letting young children watch horror films and war pictures on TV? My five-year-old grandson loves them, according to his parents. They don't think the pictures hurt him. I don't agree. What is your opinion? — Grandparent.

Ghost stories and fairy stories with gruesome aspects (even the wolf gobbling up Little Red Riding Hood) are as old as the hills. Apparently some scariness is a need in complicated human emotions. But I don't know what.

There are some theories; I'm not sure that very much is positively known, and I daresay that many circumstances have a bearing. Does the child (or older person, for that matter) realize that it is "just a story"? How stable, emotionally, is the person to begin with? Is the story just a "scary" one or are there overtones of abnormal brutality for its own sake? (That is a malignant aspect.)

A little of this horror nonsense probably doesn't do any harm. But a steady diet of it does no good that I can see, and probably is harmful sometimes, and is harmful sometimes, and is in any event a waste of time.

I'd drastically limit the amount of time spent watching horror films, but I would not worry about an occasional viewing.

Dear Dr. Molner: Shortly after my baby was born, my hair began to fall out. Now it is getting worse. What caused this and is there anything I can do for it? — Mrs. S. J. H.

There is no explanation, but this type of hair loss is not uncommon. In cases like this the hair ultimately regrows. It per can take a matter of months. About all you can do about it is careful massage of the scalp, don't brush or comb the hair too briskly; and keep the scalp clean.

Strictly Personal
Sydney Harris Reveals His Prejudices

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Success is not a "ladder" as the popular metaphor has it, but a labyrinth — not a climb upward, rung by rung, but a maze filled with false turnings and dead ends; failures not count least in failing from the ladder, but in becoming so involved with the labyrinth that one no longer desires to re-emerge into the sunlight.

One of the astonishing and gratifying things about correspondence is that if we refrain from opening a letter long enough, it answers itself.

The greatest pain is incommunicable pain; whatever can be expressed is alleviated through the expression; and what we call "madness" is simply the outer limit of incommunicable pain.

Both opposite statements are true: men hate what they cannot understand, and men adore that they cannot understand: that is, they hate the incomprehensible that seems to threaten their security, and they adore the incomprehensible that seems to bolster their security.

The whole trouble with the philosophy of "accepting the inevitable" is that soon we fall into the habit of accepting what is not inevitable, and by so doing we turn it into an inevitability.

The lesson still not learned by the hard-core rightists in the recent election is the one so tersely enunciated by R. H. Fuller: "The highest function of true conservatism is to keep what true progressivism has accomplished."

Our merits may impress others, but it is our flaws that please them; and trying too rigorously to correct our faults may be a greater fault than any other we are ashamed of.

Few discoveries are more vexing to a man than the knowledge, borne in upon him as the years go on, that woman's irrationality so often turns out to be more reasonable than man's reason.

The difference between the literary artist and the mere craftsman is sharp and distinct: the artist is concerned with the character of his thought, and the craftsman is concerned with the character of his audience; one looks inward, the other outward, for direction.

Out Of the Mouths of Babes Dept: While preparing an estimated tax return this month, I asked my older boy if he knew which agency of government handled the income tax. "Yes," he said, "the Eternal Revenue Service."

Was America Worth Price?

Sherbrooke Record

Commenting on a recent statement by a historian to the effect that it cost Christopher Columbus, or his patronage Queen Isabella, something in the neighborhood of $7,000 to discover America, a columnist asked:

"Was it worth it?"

Probably the commentator had had an unusually trying day —maybe his morning coffee had been cold and weak —and was merely expressing the often-repeated assertion that the whole continent should be given back to the Indians.

But there is a serious side.

Was the voyage a good investment from a monetary point of view?

Mathematical tables tell us that money invested at 5½ percent interest compounded semi-annually—the approximate current rate on Canadian government bonds—doubles itself every 14 years.

Thus had Queen Isabella set up a trust fund to be paid to descendants in the year 1968, the investment would have grown to $130,214,000,000,000 plus another $500,000,000, representing the home change that might be used for operating expenses.

The Americas are pretty valuable, but $130,214,000,000,000 is a lot of money.

Ottawa Offbeat
Candid Cowan Independent Backbencher of the Liberals

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The House of Commons has seen its mavericks and rebels come and go, but it has been a long time since it has seen one like Ralph Cowan, so-called Liberal member for York-Humber in Toronto.

He still sits officially as a Liberal backbencher, but how long this will last is open to question.

Because the top men in his party are getting a bit weary — and a bit angry — with his outspoken comments on the government and many of the things it does.

In the time-honored tradition of Canadian federal politics, a member of any political party is supposed to stick with that party's policies — at least in public — without ever expressing any misgivings.

Mr. Cowan has some other ideas on the subject. He knows he can speak out in party caucus (and he does), but he also feels that if this doesn't accomplish enough to satisfy him, then he should also speak out in public. And what is more public than the Commons?

He has given indications of this before which were considered little more than irritants.

He constantly speaks against the CBC and its spending of public money — nothing unusual until he adds that it is the government's fault if things are wrong in the CBC and that if the minister responsible can not do anything about it there ought to be another minister.

THE OUTBURST

He has warned as well that he did not think the government was being as careful as it might regarding the application of the Canada Pension Plan to Ontario.

If Ontario should opt out — as Quebec has indicated it will — the plan will be useless for the rest of the country. Accordingly, solid assurance of the Ontario stand should be sought before the plan is pushed ahead.

The Liberal Party does not stop with such objections from within its own ranks — but it did get take easily to Mr. Cowan's outburst in the flag debate last week.

When he declared that the flag is being used to cover up inaction and indecision — that "retreat" has become a common word in Liberals — men in his own ranks winced a bit, while Conservatives cheered with delight.

One can imagine that remonstrances with Mr. Cowan will be forthcoming from the Liberal brass in direct proportion to the crowing of the Conservatives.

Other MPs in the past have differed with their party in public, but somehow it was never the same as this.

When Quebec Liberal Leader Real Caouette and his fiery side-kick Gilles Gregoire, decided they could no longer stand the party leadership of Social Credit Chief Robert Thompson, they said so only once in the Commons and formed their own party.

When Social Credit Leader Gerard Grouard decided he could not go with them, but would not stay with Thompson, he said so — and joined the Tories.

STILL A LIBERAL?

When Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's chief lieutenant in Quebec, Leon Balcer, decided he could not stand with his leader on the flag issue, he said so once, and mildly, in the Commons — and has avoided debates and votes since.

But not Mr. Cowan. He not only hammers directly at the government and its policies without leaving the party, but insists he is still a Liberal and perhaps a better one than others of the back benches.

Perhaps he has a point there. He insists on sticking with Liberal policies as they have been known in the past (he is a frank admirer of the late Mackenzie King) and it might be a pretty good to have a loud, clear "conscience" in its midst.

The party, however, may not take so easily to this form of prodding and Mr. Cowan stands in danger of being drummed out of the caucus unless he promises to end his outbursts — and he is not likely to do so.

In such a circumstance, he would be in a difficult position. None of the mino, parties appeal to him and if there is one thing he dislikes more than the CBC, it is Mr. Diefenbaker.

That leaves him the option, of course, of becoming an independent member.

And who can deny he already is about the most independent member this Commons has seen in many a day?

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dec. 10, 1964 . . .

An amendment to the Supreme Court of Canda Act received royal assent 15 years ago today—in 1949—giving final authority in judicial matters to the Supreme Court of Canada. The assent ended appeals to the Privy Council in London except for those begun before the amendment became law. The Supreme Court hears appeals from certain cases from provincial courts and from the Exchequer Court and has the previous advisory opinions to the federal government.

1836—The treaty of Paris was signed ending the Spanish-American War and ceding Cuba, the Philippines and Puerto Rico to the U.S.

1951—The first session of the partially-elected Council of the Northwest Territories opened at Yellowknife.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1914—Japan divided control of the German South Seas possessions with Australia; three German submarines were reported sunk in a raid on Zeebrugge; the British battleship Goeben bombarded Batum; Premier Louis Botha announced that the Boer rebellion in South Africa was virtually over.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1939—sections of the British Expeditionary Force were reported in action along the Maginot Line; the Finns said they had repulsed all Russian attacks while Russia claimed an advance of up to five miles; Finland called for help from "other civilized nations."

These Herrs All For Her

St. Thomas Times-Journal

We bet you always thought, as we have, that if there actually were any men in the world who had their women under control it was the Germans. We have always been able to count on our men in those millions of beautiful, blonde German women jumping with happiness through a fiery hoops at the snap of the finger, the crack of domineering, blonde German men. It was a nice dream.

But it has turned into a nightmare. German men, it turns out, have been taken in by their women, and conditioned and trained to do the housework. That's what a recent survey taken in West Germany revealed. Some 50 to 75 percent of all husbands, a survey group says, have to help their wives with the housework now. "No fewer than 70 percent tried to view their wives' work because they considered the role of housewife and mother a great deal more strenuous than their own work. How's that for a brain-washing job?

And there's more. More than 700 men unashamedly confessed that their wives had "higher interests than the mere home and family." If it's hard on the men, listen to this. More than 64 percent of the men contacted said they wanted to see their wives elegantly dressed, well groomed and "not harassed."

Well, the mighty superman has fallen. You would think the Germans, of all people, would know something about master plans to take over the world and be on guard. But it's too late. The survey report was even signed by a woman.

Deer Hunting Season South Of Highway 7 One Week

Hastings county councillors want the deer hunting season south of No. 7 Highway, to remain as it is at one week.

Yesterday on recommendation from the reeve of the townships of Rawdon, Huntingdon and Hungerford, council voted in favor of the present one week hunting instead of the two weeks which had been requested by a number of local hunters.

The Department of Lands and Forests told council that it was prepared to open the deer hunting season between No. 7 Highway and the hydro line running across the county near the south end of the above three townships.

First, however, an expression of opinion from council was invited.

OBJECT TO SHOTGUNS

Yesterday's motion originally suggested that shotguns only be permitted in the area south of No. 7, but councillors with hunting experience objected.

"Shotguns are implements of the Devil," objected Frankford reeve Wilmott Rose. "I would not be caught dead in the woods with a shotgun during the deer hunting season."

The reeve said shotguns in many instances merely seriously wound the deer and they are found dead days later.

Thurlow reeve Clayton Hall was of the same opinion regarding shotguns as deer hunting weapons.

Cheese Exchange

A total of 6,907 square cheese, 4,540 regulars and 2,222 specials were offered on the Belleville Cheese Exchange this week.

The average price for first grade white was 38 cents and for first grade colored 37.9 cents per pound. Raw milk squares are subject to a government premium.

Three Weeds Cause Trouble Says Inspector

Wild carrot, chicory, and ragweed still remain the most troublesome weed in Hastings county, according to county weed inspector Harry Coulter.

Presenting his annual report at the morning session of council today, Mr. Coulter said that buckthorn and barberry were also causing some trouble in Sidney and Tyendinaga townships. This shrub had not been noticed north of the third concession, however.

Wild mustard and milkweed could be easily killed by application of chemicals at the proper time.

Mr. Coulter said that more and more spraying for crops was being noticed each year, with many farmers owning their own equipment. In other instances municipal or custom equipment was hired for spraying.

Want to Keep Beatle Haircuts

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP) About 300 high school students demonstrated in front of their school here Wednesday to protest what they said was the detention of six male students with Beatle haircuts.

Some demonstrators said the boys had been threatened with suspension if they did not have their hair cut.

However, Principal L. S. Morrison said no suspensions are planned. The boys were sent home with letters to their parents asking if the parents approved of the hair styles.

The letter said the haircuts and other teen-age affectations, such as high boots and black jackets, had become trademarks for groups whose behavior is socially unacceptable.

Mr. Morrison said he would express no further objection to the haircuts if parents of the youths approved of the style.

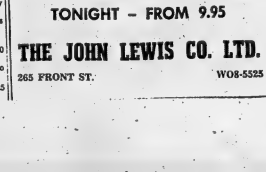
Britons Named To Head Kenya Army and Navy

NAIROBI (Reuters) — The last British fighting troops left Kenya today—but the government of the soon-to-be republic immediately announced that two Britons had been named to command the Kenyan army and navy.

The British troops, who less than five years ago were struggling against the Kenyan Mau Mau terrorists, left the former colony in an atmosphere of cordiality and mutual esteem.

The final detachment, 76 members of the Staffordshire Regiment, paraded past Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta and Governor - General Malcolm Macdonald and slow - marched through the ranks of a detachment of the Kenya Rifles.

Kenyatta will be president when Kenya becomes a republic at midnight Friday night.



He wished the departing British Army good luck and paid tribute to the efficient manner in which the withdrawal of British troops had been carried out in the last 12 months.

British troops had been in Kenya for almost 75 years, since infantrymen came to protect the port of Mombasa in 1890.

Shortly after the last British troops left by plane, Kenyatta announced that a British navy officer, Cmdr. E. M. C. Walker has been appointed commander of the Kenya Navy, and Brig. A. J. Hardy commander of the Kenya Army. Hardy will be succeeded by a Kenyan officer at a "mutually convenient time," Kenyatta said.

New Addition Will Be Built On Nicholson College in '65

An addition to Nicholson College that will double the school's size will be constructed in 1965.

Maximum seating capacity in the new building will be 250. Total enrollment for the school is 400.

The addition will enable the college to teach grades nine to 13. Only grades 11 to 12 are taught now.

Architects for the new building are Barnett and Reider.

The addition will be ready for September 1965.

Coroner's Jury Says Death Was Accident

A Belleville coroner's jury last night returned an accidental death verdict in the automobile death of Doris Olivere — killed as she returned from marking her wedding anniversary August 2.

Mrs. Olivere died when the car driven by her husband collided with another automobile and caught fire at College St. and Cannifton Rd.

Five other persons were hurt in the accident.

The jury returned the formal verdict to Coroner Dr. R. T. Potter without any recommendations or olacing any blame for the mishap.

The bulk of testimony was taken September 3 when the inquest originally but eventually no much time it had to be adjourned to last night.

Witnesses called briefly last night included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Willis, 60 Byron Street, who were in the other car, and Garry Woods, 17 Mikel Street, a bystander.

Ann Landers

People Enjoying Things Don't Appreciate Advice

DEAR ANN LANDERS — It's difficult to remain silent when I see trouble ahead but if you say so I will.

The girl who lives next door is 22 years old. (We went to high school together.) Bella is a sweet person, but very plain, and I'm afraid she's not very smart about the ways of the world.

ANN LANDERS

She has taken a tumble for a boy driver who is handsome, sweet-talking and a total heel. The man is married and has a family but it doesn't interfere with his social life one bit. I've seen women pass up buses in bad weather just to ride with him.

My neighbor's parents have been away for several weeks and the bus driver has been a frequent visitor.

Shall I do Bella a favor and give her a run-down on this rat's history or should I keep my mouth shut? — LITTLE BIRDIE.

* * *

DEAR BIRDIE — Bella doesn't want to be tipped off, so keep quiet. Let's hope she gets smart before she finds herself stranded in the boondocks — with no transfer.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband's mother lives in a neighboring state. In the 15 years Clyde and I have been married she has never once put my name on a card or a letter. She often underlines the word Mr. to make sure I won't open the letter by mistake.

The only time my mother-in-law mentions me is when I am ill. Then she writes "Please tell Evelyn I hope she is back on her feet soon so she can do her housework and be a wife to you."

I've never failed to send my mother-in-law a gift on Mother's Day and on her birthday. (She spends Christmas with us.) Not once has she remembered me or the children on any occasion whatever. Am I a fool to have remained silent all these years? Maybe I should blow my top and tell both Clyde and his mother how I feel. — PRESSURE COOKER.

* * *

DEAR COOKER — Then whst would you have—besides a blown top, a hole in the ceiling and an angry mother-in-law?

Be thankful the doll lives in a "neighboring state." Some wives have it next door.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a 23-year-old college graduate who should know all the answers but I don't.

Please list some ground rules for working girls who have their own apartments. I'm confused about what is right and what is wrong when young men visit.

Some of my girl friends have given parties that went on so long the fellows became exhausted and fell asleep on the floor. By the time they woke up they decided it was effly to go home so they went to work from there.

No matter how you look at it these boys stayed all night. Is this wrong or right — even if nothing out of the way occurred?

And is it respectable for two working girls to have two young men in for dinner? Is it proper for a young woman to go to a young man's apartment and prepare dinner for just the two of them? I need answers. Fast. — NAIVE.

* * *

DEAR NAIVE — I am typing as fast as I can and I hope this letter reaches you in time.

It is not proper for guests (male or female) to fall asleep on the floor and stay all night. Anyone who gets too tired to sit up should go home.

Thumbs up on having young men in to dinner. How else can a girl show off her cooking?

Thumbs down on going to a man's apartment to cook dinner for him. And the girl who doesn't know why usually finds out too late.

RECORD PLAQUES

Dear Susanna: If many of your readers are like the gals in our group, they are constantly looking for creative ideas. Here is one — using old records to make wall plaques — that's fun.

Warm an old record in the oven. When it is pliable, mould it with your hands until you have a gentle curve from the centre out, or give it a large soup plate look.

To give the edges a professional look, try experimenting with giving them a fluted effect.

Now paste individual flowers, or little bunches, in the centre.

For the crowning touch, spray the whole thing over with copper, silver or gold paint; or to be really tricky, do the plaque one shade, and finish off the flowers in a different color. — Pearl H.

HELPFUL REMINDERS

Dear Susanna: Here is an excellent study help for elementary school children. Each time you listen to their spelling words or they come to you with an arithmetic problem, note their mistakes and difficulties and file them away for examination time.

Then, when they are studying for their tests, review these past troubles with them. This is especially helpful if they happen to be pressed for time, as it saves going over the whole year's work. — B. Menzies

This would also be a good type of file for adults to be able to produce at New Year's resolution-time, as just a little reminder not to make the same mistakes again in the coming year! And oh there were some daisies! Weren't there? — SUSANNA.

If you have say hints for running a successful household — or any problems — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.)

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. O'Connor, 401 Bleecker Avenue, received word today of the death of his sister, Miss Bee O'Connor, 80 King Street East, Brockville.

WEDDING

MAJOR — THROOP

Dr. Frank McLean of Ottawa officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in Dominion Chalmers United Church Chapel, Ottawa, when Alice Frances Throop, of that city, daughter of Mrs. L. S. Throop, Belleville, and the late Rev. L. S. Throop, was united in marriage to Robert Joseph Major, son of Mrs L. (Irene) Major and the late Mr. Lorne Major.

Mr. France presided at the organ and played traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Robert Throop, wore a floor-length white velvet gown highlighted with a lace train and the bodice enhanced with long pointed sleeves. A flowing tulle veil was caught with a cap headdress studded with tiny sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Bernice Blair as matron of honor attended her sister, dressed in a red velvet street-length dress with matching headdress and shoes. She carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Constable Masson Langman was groomsman, while Mr. Needham Throop, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the Bruce MacDonald Motor Hotel, Carling Avenue, Ottawa, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a two-piece blue dress with winter white hat and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend.

For the wedding trip to Lake Placid and the Laurentians the bride chose a teal blue suit with black fur fur and matching hat and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Previous to the marriage, Mrs. Major was honored at a shower given by Miss Isabel McGiffin and another by Mrs. Jim Duthie. She was also honored at a dinner party given by Miss Helen Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Major will reside at 171 Fanshaw Avenue, Ottawa.

MY FAIR LADY HATS — Hats of the Edwardian era are back in style this fall and winter, influenced by the movie "My Fair Lady." 'My Fair Lady' Now Showing in Hats

By MARGARET NESS

LONDON (CP)—Hats of the Edwardian era are back in style this fall and winter, influenced by the movie My Fair Lady.

For daytime wear women will not take to the overpowering hats of that period. But much of the ladylike elegance then prevailing is noticeable in this season's millinery.

For evening there is a definite Edwardian flavor. The little toplnots are adorned with standup feathery quills, surrounded by small flowers. Or the elegance of the era is achieved in brimless significance.

Velvet and feathers and plumes were typical of those days. Feathered hats were worn for active sports. The huge plumed cartwheel known as the Merry Widow hat was even worn by some with a riding habit.

Exaggerated trimming was quite usual for street wear. By 1907 theatres were forced to ask women in the audience to remove their hats. No one could see over or around them.

LADEN WITH FEATHERS

One "moderately large" hat was described by a 1908 fashion writer as being one foot high and four feet around the brim. All were extravagantly trimmed. Early in the century they were loaded with ostrich plumes, paradise and heron feathers, aigrettes and even whole small stuffed birds.

Many of the most beautiful birds could only be caught during nesting time. When the parent birds were killed, the young also died. Public indignation finally stopped the slaughter. The National Audubon Society was formed in the United States and a law was passed preventing the killing of native birds. It also forbade importing birds of paradise and aigrettes. Millinery then took to goose and chicken feathers.

The interest in velvets and plumes actually predates the Edwardian era. It started with Eugenie, the Spanish beauty who married Napoleon III in 1853. She rapidly became the leader of fashion. Eugenie was fond of a forward - dipping saucer with an ostrich plume curled across one cheek. The fashion carried over into the Edwardian period and was even revived after the Second World War.

In the 1880s Paris was designing such luscious millinery as a pale blue felt toque, silver banded, with blue ostrich plumes standing straight up from a bed of pink satin roses.

At the turn of the century, the pompadour hair styling elevated hats still higher. They perched straight up and, as before, the trimming stood straight up too. The Edwardian love of velvets and plumes was a carry-over from the late Victorian days. New hats took a sideways tilt, often with the underbrim covered with flowers. Then the floppy Gainsborough hats of the 18th century were revived.

In 1908 the immense Merry Widow velvet cartwheels were the latest trend. They were named after the new and successful operetta by the Viennese composer Franz Lehar. Then hats began to flatten out. Veils became important, especially to anchor a large hat when the wearer went bicycling or driving in an open automobile.

Only 10 years after the Edwardian era ended with King Edward's death in 1910 women began to cut their hair and the tight-fitting cloche hat was introduced.

A season or so ago a Lawrence of Arabia period prevailed. Hats were desert draped. Pith helmets were all the rage. Now another movie sets the style. This time it is a pretty mood, with velvet and feathers.

During the business a donation was made to the lay foundation fund.

Mrs. Farley Lindenfield and Mrs. Don Irish convened the Christmas program. Several Christmas carols were sung. Mrs. Lindenfield read the Christmas story followed with the meditation.

The Philo sisters sang two numbers. Mrs. Irish read a selection. The hostess served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Boyfriend Used Distrust As Controlling Weapon

DEAR DORIS — My boy friend, a man 28, began bringing a friend stag on our dates. He also began standing me up several times, I objected.

He became indignant, said I was selfish and suspicious; that he had been thinking of marrying me but would now think twice about it. That stopped me. Finally he did pop the question and we were to be married in October. The date came and went, and not another word. When I reminded him he said he didn't want to hear any more distrust from me; that he was waiting for delivery of his new car.

DORIS CLARK

Things didn't add up. When I started making enquiries I found he was separated from his wife and paying for the support of his child. That there was no new car coming. I sent him packing.

Now I'm wondering if there was something wrong with him myself? Is it normal for a man to live just one big lie, or is he in need of doctor's help? — BOTHERED.

• • •

DEAR BOTHERED — You've been diddled. You'll notice that while your two-timing mate made all kinds of promises, he never actually broke the law by going through a marriage ceremony with you. His way of keeping control of you was to accuse you of distrust — and it worked for a while, didn't it?

He knew what he was doing. Forget him.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I am 12 years old and having trouble with my mother. She thinks I'm still too young to go to mixed parties. All my relatives and friends and I disagree.

I have only been to one mixed party in my life and I'm fed up with being treated like a baby. The others want me to go to their parties. I always ask if I can have a small party but they always say no. I need help. — NOT A BABY.

• • •

DEAR NOT A BABY — Don't rush it. The girls who start too soon are sometimes sorry later.

My rule is that a mixed party, for a special occasion, is o.k. if parents know it is well supervised, who is there; and that a reliable adult will bring you home, in good time.

No solo dates, no pairing off, for a while yet.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I am the owner of a tape recorder. I have heard that there are "tape clubs" where recorded messages are exchanged by mail across the world. This struck me as a very interesting way of making my family more aware of different views and ways of living in other countries.

Would you have any information about them? — TAPED IN CANADA.

• • •

DEAR TAPED — Yes. Exciting idea, isn't it? "World Tape Pals" were established ten years ago. Write to them at Box 15703, Dallas 15, Texas, U.S.A.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — Our father owns his own home. He has three children.

Does this home go to the children if no will has been made? — JUST WONDERING.

• • •

DEAR JUST — Yes. If your mother is not living, you three will inherit equally.

• • •

Confidential to F.R. — I couldn't possibly tell you whether L loves you or you love F or L or both. If you are not sure of your feelings, it is highly probable you are in love with love. Write in for my leaflet, "What is Love?"

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I am a desk clerk in a motel. What is the right thing to say to guests when they come in for a room? "How are you?" or "It's a nice day," or, "How many are there in your party?" I was just wondering if you had any suggestions on how to meet people. — MOTEL CLERK.

• • •

DEAR CLERK — "Good morning!" (or afternoon, or evening) comes first. Then "Can I help you?" When he says he would like a room, put the question about number in party. The weather, the state of his health, and the football news rank later than these.

Guests often want to see the rooms, so make this easy with an invitation early in the conversational skirmish. The main thing is for them to feel welcomed and taken care of. Your smile can speak for you any time your tongue gets tied up.

✦ DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES ✦

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

On Thursday Mrs. Roy Bush, Stirling R. R. 4, was hostess to River Valley Women's Institute with 31 members, four visitors and several school children present. The rooms were decorated for the Yuletide season and added a Christmas glow to the meeting.

President Mrs. Vernon Harry was in charge. Mrs. J. R. Donohoe gave a financial report of expenditures during the past month. Mrs. Ernest Carr presented the correspondence. The offer of the local Department of Agriculture for free recipe books seemed a good idea and many signed for their copy. Mrs. W. Ashby donated four decks of playing cards for euchre.

The conveners' reports gave helpful ideas — Mrs. Jack Bush, health, decor and household notes; Mrs. Roy Bush, the new display at the County Museum; Mrs. Grace Bush, patronize your hometown merchants.

The Friendship Link secretary, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, distributed the Jubilee diary books from Abbotts Leigh, Bristol, England, to each individual member. In her report she stated that she had shipped 84 nylon scrubbers on November 12th and gave a report of this department of work. A Christmas greeting sent from England was displayed.

For public relations Mrs. MacMullen read excerpts from an airmail news flash written by Mrs. Graham Spry, Canada Chairman of General Purposes Committee of A.C.W.W. It stated that in Lebanon the village welfare society was hostess to Arabic speaking women from eight countries at a seminar on "Nutrition and Village Industries." Mrs. D. Turnbull has been chosen to work on UNESCO working parties concerned with literacy programs.

The chairman of the Lady Aberdeen scholarship committee reported that four scholars had been successful. Rhodesia has a new series of training courses for home, and the village training project in India is progressing.

Mrs. Roy Tucker, A.C.W.W. convener read an article from the Countrywoman magazine, which gave a glimpse of an Institute in South Africa where the speaker stressed the importance of deportment, poise and self confidence. The speaker demonstrated the correct postures and said poise is the art of handling the unexpected with ease and control. Mrs. Alan McDonell read an article regarding a new venture in edible containers.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks spoke briefly of her recent trip to Toronto as a 4-H club leader when she was a guest of the department of agriculture.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Vernon Harry, based on health.

Mrs. Ernest Carr was in charge of the Christmas program, and read an article stressing love, gaiety and understanding. The speaker gave an informative account of Christmas customs in other lands. Other festivals however vary little as countries all over the world stress the thought of goodwill to all at Christmas.

Several carols were sung with Mrs. Phillip Cooley as pianist. Mrs. Glenn Brooks contributed two vocal selections.

Selections were read by Mrs. Malcolm McMullen, Mrs. Albert Wilhelm and Mrs. Roy Tucker. Mrs. George Heasman contributed a piano solo. Christmas cheer parcels were collected and those will be distributed to shut-ins at a later date.

The group repaired to the decorated dining room where a sit-down luncheon was served by the Citizenship and Education group. Mrs. Gerald Brooks voiced appreciative thanks to all who had assisted with the enjoyable afternoon.

Mrs. Georgianna Dickie, 57, Has Driven Taxi for 24 Years Without Accident

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—"One million miles without an accident, and then some fool rammed my bumper," said Georgiana Dickie ruefully as she manoeuvred her turquoise taxicab around a corner and hustled it up to a stoplight.

It was a rainy afternoon in Ottawa, and as 58-drove, 57-year-old Mrs. Robert Dickie reminisced about her 24 years as a taxi driver.

"Strangely enough it was mother, not my husband, who really objected to me driving a taxi. She said none of her daughters was going to be a hack."

But despite a rather blunt manner acquired along with driving skill, Mrs. Dickie has not forsaken womanly interests.

Who would guess, for instance, that this heavy - set woman who runs her taxi stand with an iron hand has a passion for collecting delicate antique china?

"It's true. I've got a full house. I never go to the movies or spend money on clothes, but when I see an antique vase that I've just got to have it."

Like so many other Canadian women, Mrs. Dickie found herself in an unusual job due to the Second World War.

SHORTAGE OF MEN

"It was 1940. My husband, who had started a taxi stand just before the war, was finding it difficult to get good drivers because all the men were overseas."

Within a few months the brown-haired woman with the broad grin was a full-fledged cabbie.

"We had a cousin in the police force. My mother kept putting pressure on him to get my licence taken away. He never succeeded."

Mrs. Dickie's method of learning to drive was unconventional. She "stole" her husband's car early one morning to drive to the store for a loaf of bread.

"When I got there I had to ask the manager to turn the car around for me."

Arriving home, she found her husband in the middle of the road in his stocking feet. He had been awakened by the noise of grinding gears in the garage.

"Before that he just hadn't had the patience to teach me, but somehow he changed his mind."

Today she has a driving record that would be envied by many men. She holds a 24-year safe-driving award from the Transportation Safety Association of Ontario and is hoping for a 25-year award this month.

She says she was never involved in an accident of any magnitude until last August.

"It nearly broke my heart. A man plowed into the back of my new car and did $437 worth of damage. But it wasn't my fault, thank goodness."

HUSBAND ILL

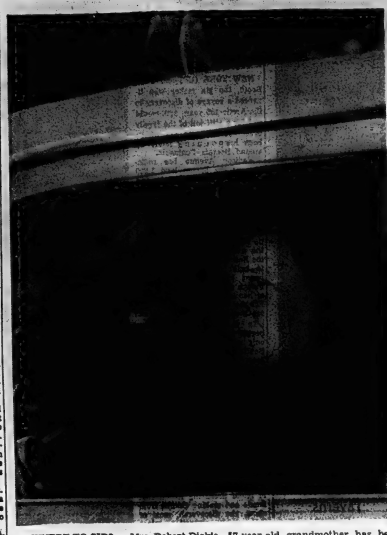
Mrs. Dickie, who works every day of the year from early morning until midnight, has no firm opinions about whether men or women make the best drivers. Instead she said rather cryptically:

"I've been told by a lot of people, including men, that women drivers are very good drivers—when they ARE drivers. But they can be just as bad as men."

Although Mrs. Dickie started driving to help her husband, it wasn't long before she had to run the business all by herself.

In 1948, Robert Dickie became seriously ill. Although now well enough to answer the phone at the taxi stand, he has never fully recovered.

"I had to take over," Mrs. Dickie said. "I had to be a mother, a housekeeper, a nurse for my husband, and I had to look after the business too."



The Dickies have three children—now grown up. "Fortunately, I had a good housekeeper when the kids were young. She could handle them better than I could."

Now Mrs. Dickie is a grandmother of 10 but she has no plans for retiring from the taxi business yet.

"I'd be too lonesome at home."

The Dickies have had the taxi concession at the Ottawa bus terminal for a quarter century and many of their passengers are regulars. They started with one car and now own seven.

"We drive diplomats from all over, members of parliament and their wives—it's a really nice clientele."

WHERE TO SIR? — Mrs. Robert Dickie, 57-year-old grandmother has been driving taxis in Ottawa for the past 24 years. She holds a 24-year safe-driving award from the Transportation Safety Association of Ontario and is hoping for another in December. Mrs. Dickie also manages her husband's taxi firm for which she drives. (CP Photo)

Bombay Boys up in Arms Over Girl Shoe-Shiner

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—A nine-year-old girl is causing a good deal of commotion in this city.

She is Shanti, Bombay's first female shoe - shiner. Almond-eyed, with long tresses dangling on both sides of her shoulders, efficient and always smiling, Shanti has descended on the hitherto purely male world of shoe-shiners like a tiny bomb.

On her first day Shanti earned 35 cents. In a week business picked up phenomenally and now she earns anything from 90 cents to $2 during 10 solid hours of polishing near Bombay's Flora Fountain.

For little Shanti, the money means a lot. Her father is ill and unemployed. Her mother works as a sweeping woman for four homes and makes $12 a month. There is a baby brother to be looked after.

But the city's 1,500 shoe-shine boys are up in arms against her.

Saravana Muthu, 19, a gentle youngster from Tanjore, 900 miles from Bombay, said: "Shoe polishing has always been a man's profession. I have worked in Madras, Delhi, Calcutta and other cities but I never came across a girl doing this work. If more girls come in, what will happen to us?"

Hari Chavan, a shoe-shiner from Delhi, said: "A hundred girls like Shanti could wreck the whole profession."

The boys are clearly jealous of Shanti's popularity with office workers some of whom tip her an extra paisa as a token of appreciation.

Shanti's shoe-shine outfit cost her $4. This consists of an upturned wooden box on which the customer rests one foot, a dozen bottles containing polish and cream, brushes and pieces of linen.

Set a folding wooden clothes rack in the bathtub for drying baby shoes.

Shanti took to shining shoes this way:

One morning she was standing near the King Edward VII statue a hundred yards or so from the Flora Fountain. The family had not eaten for three days.

She saw a shoe-shine boy quarrelling with a customer over payment.

"The boy asked for 25 paisa and the customer said he would pay only 15," she said. "I thought 15 paisa was not a bad payment. I decided to enter the business."

This best ever steamed pudding may be made in advance. It improves with age.

It is rich and fruity and fulfils all of your expectations. Hard sauce to serve with it is given too.

ROYAL STEAMED PUDDING
(serves 2 - double this amount for 16 people)

¾ cup unsifted flour,
½ teaspoon salt,
¼ teaspoon allspice,
¼ teaspoon nutmeg,
½ teaspoon mace,
⅜ cup fine dry breadcrumbs,
½ cup grated raw carrot, packed,
¼ cups fine grated suet (not too well-packed - see note), cup brown sugar (not too well-packed),
1 cup currants,
¾ cup sliced green candied cherries (see note below),
⅛ cup sliced red candied cherries (see note below),
⅛ cup chopped dates (see note below),
½ cup chopped candied pineapple,
⅛ cup seeded Muscat raisins,
⅛ cup Sultana raisins,
⅛ cup finely chopped blanched almonds (or walnuts),
¼ cup mixed peels,
2 eggs,
1 teaspoon lemon juice (optional),
¼ cup sherry or apple juice (see note below),
3 tablespoons pineapple or orange juice.

Notes: 1) Your butcher will have fine grated suet - ask him to weigh 7 oz. for you. This measures 2 cups. 2) If you are very fond of currants and would like to make a cheaper pudding substitute an additional ¾ cup currants for the ¾ cup each candied red and green cherries and dates. This substitution reduces the sweetness of this pudding.

Into a large mixing bowl sift the flour, salt and spices. Add all remaining ingredients in order given. (The girls who enjoy cooking with wine will want to use the sherry. Those who do not care for Sherry in their steamed pudding may use the apple juice). Mix very well. Butter a 6-cup mould (or two 3-cup moulds). (Note: Earthenware or pyrex are recommended because pudding may be stored in them. If you use an aluminum mould cooked puddings cannot be stored in them for raisins and currants will "pit" the aluminum. If you use aluminum moulds, turn puddings out of them to store and return to moulds when reheating at serving time). Turn pudding batter into mould and smooth top. Cover with buttered paper, or moistened parchment paper and tie this down. Or cover with tight lid. Place in large kettle with enough boiling water to come half-way up sides of mould. Cover kettle and steam 5 hours at simmering point. This may be served at once or stored in refrigerator 2 or 3 weeks turned out of mould if aluminum (see above) and reheated by steaming 1½ hours. The perfect accompaniment is Hard Sauce: Three-quarters cup butter, 3¾ cups sifted icing sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla or rum flavoring or 1 tablespoon rum or brandy. Cream butter, sugar, and salt until light as whipped cream, adding extract or rum or brandy slowly towards last. Pile in cut glass serving dish, peaking top with fork. Sprinkle delicately with nutmeg. Chill until hard. Or shape into 1" rosettes directly onto serving plate, decorate top of each rosette with tiny pieces of candied red or green cherry. Chill until hard. These may be made in advance and stored, chilled, covered. These rosettes are tremendously popular with the children.

Eskimo Women Don't Spend Their Time in Igloos!

NEW YORK (CP)—Sir Felix Booth, the gin maker who financed a voyage of discovery to the Arctic 135 years ago, would call for a stiff jolt of the family bracer if he could see what's been happening lately up around Boothia Peninsula.

Madison Avenue has rediscovered the barren land 1,200 miles from the North Pole, and it was a petite lady publicist who staged the new expedition to the area where bewhiskered Capt. John Ross found the magnetic pole and lost his ship.

Brunette Joyce Kramer had no such vicissitudes in bringing the news to the Eskimos that the Booths people of London are to build a recreation hall to honor their 1829 chairman though she was shaken by some of her own discoveries, such as Eskimo teen - agers' fondness for the Beatles.

In fact, Miss Kramer reported on her safe return, not only were the Eskimos buying Beatle numbers briskly at a record sale in the Hudson's Bay Company store, but they taught her some new versions of the twist.

Miss Kramer said she had been "understandably apprehensive" about the natives' reaction to her visit, on which she was accompanied by Ottawa photographer Ted Grant. She was taken aback by their awareness of the world to the south and particularly by the "emerging" status of the women.

Far from spending their days in igloos preparing frozen seal meals and making clothes from skins, she discovered, most of them smoke cigarettes, select canned delicacies from the store shelves, like bright leotards under their stretch ski pants and attend meetings of the Anglican Church's ladies' auxiliary.

The youngsters attend school to the fifth grade on Boothia. After that, they are taken by airlift to Inuvik, 1,000 miles away, where they spend 10 months of the year in a school hostel.

The girls have begun recently to show an interest in tall nail polish, "which of course," she noted "they are not permitted to wear to school."

RELAX IN IGLOO — An Eskimo family relaxes in its tent - lined ig Eskimo women no longer spend all their time preparing frozen seal and sewin caribou skins for clothing. The well stocked shelves of the Hudson's Bay Company have introduced the younger families to all of the canned delicacies known t the South, although most of the adult Eskimos still exist on frozen raw fish, seal and caribou meat. The Experts Say

Safety Should Be Factor In Buying Christmas Toys

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP)—Many a toy bought with much love and money is admired briefly Christmas morning, and discarded by noon in favor of a battered sauce pan.

Others, in sheer slightly clumsy young hands, suddenly become a menace to safety.

Judy Adaffe, of the Ontario Safety League has compiled a rule-of-thumb list of things to look for and to look out for when you choose toys. The list is broken into age catagories partly because a toy given to a child who is too young for it can become an unsafe or a dull toy for that child.

For a child up to two years old, Miss Adams says toys should be too big to swallow, light in weight, washable, colored safely, and have rounded corners and edges.

She suggests rattles, cuddly animals, floating toys, rocking chairs, block stacks, kiddie cars, sand toys.

If you buy a cuddly stuffed toy, buy one without glass eyes or buttons which can be bitten off. Get one with trim painted on, or at least made of felt.

For two- to four-year-olds, Miss Adams says a toy should encourage physical play and help train the eye and improve co-ordination. For this age group, too, toys should be light in weight, too big to swallow, and have no small removable parts. They should be non-inflammable, safely colored, have no sharp edges and resist breaking.

Cheap, hard plastics will break fairly easily to produce a dangerous sharp edge.

BUILD UP INITIATIVE

Toy suggestions for children aged two to four include trucks and cars, blocks and simple building sets, tops and music boxes, sleighs, tricycles, carriages, modelling clays, puzzles, bathtub toys, housekeeping toys and dolls.

When children are four to six years old, the toys which should interest them most would appeal to their imagination and initiative, and encourage play with other children.

Scooters and tricycles are on their list, and for them or any other age group, mobile toys should be well-balanced.

They might also enjoy simple games and construction sets, blackboards, doll houses, mechanical trains, small sports equipment, musical toys, paper dolls and picture weaving sets.

Individual and group interests begin to show at about six to eight years, Miss Adams says. It is a competitive age, and the beginning of the hobby age.

For this group she recommends avoiding toys too big or complicated, sharp-edged tools or shooting toys, and electrical toys which are not marked with an approved safety seal.

Every province has electrical safety standards, and toys which meet them will show a recognized seal of approval such as the CSA (Canadian Standards Association) symbol.

Toy suggestions for this age include junior carpenter tools, sports equipment, simple handicraft equipment, skip ropes, marbles and books.

The hobby age, Miss Adams says, is in full force for most children by the time they are eight to 10. She suggests avoiding potentially dangerous items such as air rifles, darts or bows and arrows, some tools, and motor-driven scooters or cars.

Eight- to 10-year-old interests might run to photography and collecting equipment, puppet shows, model kits, table tennis, musical instruments, gym equipment, looms, costumes, croquet, printing sets and toy typewriters.

The complete Ontario Safety League list is available at 308 King St. West, Toronto.

Many Enjoy U.C.W. Yule Family Night

STIRLING — Unit Five of St. Paul's United Church Women held the annual Christmas family night on Sunday evening in the River Valley School with approximately 100 in attendance. Nearly all of the members of this unit reside in the River Valley community. The leader, Mrs. Gerald Brooks, conducted the opening and welcomed everyone.

Mrs. Jack Rumb presided over the program which she and her assistants Mrs. Clare West and Mrs. Ernest Carr had arranged. Children's exercises were presented by two groups of small boys and a candlelight service by five of the smaller girls. A sing-song of Christmas carols followed and Mrs. John Mulheron gave the origin of each carol with Mrs. Phillip Conley as pianist.

Mrs. Clare West conducted the Christmas devotional and Mrs. Glenn Brooks contributed two vocal selections with Miss Marilyn Conley as accompanist.

At the close of the program a social half hour was spent when refreshments were served by the group.

Mrs. John L. Good voiced appreciative thanks to all who had helped in making the evening a success.

British Women To Have Their Own Bank

EDINBURGH (Reuters) British women, not content with invading practically every other field of male activity, now are to have their own bank—complete with powder room.

Male customers are barred from the bank.

Ian MacDonald, chairman of the National Commercial Bank of Scotland, which opened the new branch, said the bank's aim was to provide an atmosphere of ease and relaxation.

The solidly impressive but rigid atmosphere of the traditional bank has been swept away. The new bank has carpets on the floor, easy chairs for the customers, a decor of soft pastel colors, and music piped in through discreet loudspeakers.

If the idea catches on the bank plans to open "ladies only" branches throughout the country.

District Lions Hear Governor At Banquet

BANCROFT — "The great said this was the only one that years by the district," Mr. Evans projects undertaken in recent ness of Lionism depends on the strength and dedication of each individual Lion," Terry C. Evans, District A Governor, of Havelock, told a large turnout of Bancroft and district Lions at their dinner meeting held on Monday at the Hotel Bancroft. "Through his club each Lion gives willingly to help others.

Mr. Evans explained that Lionism must be a progressive development of association. The individual develops a broad influence of friendship, the club activities are reflected in the Lion motto "We serve"—and on the international level "Lions help to develop friendship between all peoples and extend an understanding of peaceful relationship. "Lionism as a powerful potential for world friendship is demonstrated by the work in such projects as the World Youth Exchange and CARE programs," the Governor pointed out.

He outlined the support District A Lions are giving to the summer camp for the blind on Lake Joseph. Of the many who are going to be hard to complete. The district, which covers most of Ontario, pledged $350,000 towards the project, and hopes to still $200,000 to be raised in the next 1½ years.

The Bancroft Lions heard their organization referred to as the world's greatest service club. Its main objects are to meet the needs of others, create a potential for friendship and fellowship, and to provide men with an opportunity to dedicate themselves to community service.

There are Lions in 125 countries throughout the world, Mr. Evans said, as he stressed the need for every Lion to "become International." He encouraged the Bancroft members to attend convention on all levels, as here they would find the one central point around which Lionism revolves. "Conventions are fun," he said, "and they provide everyone with an excellent opportunity to meet many fine Lions. "Contrary to popular belief," he told his fellow Lions, "much useful business is carried out at conventions."

School Band, Glee Club to Give Concert

BANCROFT — Examinations are over at the North Hastings High School and it is back to regular classes for the students. But acting upon the old adage that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" the students are devising many methods of relieving the pressure of the classroom.

After several weeks of planning and rehearsing the Concert Band and the Glee Club are presenting their annual Christmas Variety Show in the gymnatorium on Friday, Dec. 11 at 8:00 p.m. In addition to the band and the glee club who will present a performance of the Christmas story there will be folk-singers, vocal and piano soloists, dancers, and a trampoline act.

Last Friday evening, to begin their celebrations, many students attended the annual Sadie Hawkins dance sponsored by the Student Council and held in the school cafeteria. On Saturday morning the Concert Band took part in the Lions Santa Claus parade by leading the floats and decorated cars on their route along village streets. Taking part in the parade was the NHHS Snow Queen, Pauline Windsor, accorded by Mr. NHHS 1964, Wayne Graves, accompanied by Joan White, the Snow Princess. These three students were written in the annual contest to find the loveliest girl student and most manly boy student.

JOURNEY TO TORONTO

On Sunday the Glee Club, comprising about 40 students, journeyed to Toronto to attend a performance of the Christmas Story at the Anglican Holy Trinity Church. The performance was given by an anonymous cast of 100 people, with the Children's Choir being conducted by Eldon Brethour and the adult choir by L. Avenson. The organist was Fred Mooney.

START ON YEARBOOK

Ever since the beginning of the school year the staff of the school yearbook, "The Beaver" have been busy accumulating material for the 1965 edition. The editor-in-chief is Catherine Funge ,associate editor, Kenneth Watson, copy editor, Barbara Wannamaker, art director, Edith O'Marra, business manager, Bonnie Spracklett, advertising manager, Marian Secrey, treasurer, Eileen Grace, subscription editor, Gertrude Young, photography editor, Richard Hatch, assisted by Joyce Maxwell, Maureen Bartell and Thomas Shaw, sports editor, Robert Brown, and special events editor, Derek Beckley.

This year the Student Council has devised a new and somewhat simpler method of making money. In the past they have used the Curtis Magazine Campaign as a means of earning the bulk of their annual income, but this year they are selling chocolate bars. The president, Sandra Oram, says sales to date have been excellent. The Student Council is offering prizes to be awarded to those students selling the highest number of bars.

Racial Nature of Sudan Riots Seen Significant for Africa

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The naked racial nature of the Sudan riots is seen in London as significant for all Africa.

Africa's problems are often regarded in the context of black versus white but the Sudan second example this year of a country being torn by violent hatred between Arab and Negro.

The other outbreak, in Zanzibar, saw the African majority depose the ruling Arab minority in a bloody revolt but the situation is different in Sudan where the Arabs are not only the dominant race politically but also far more numerous than their Negro compatriots.

Racial antagonisms are far from new in Sudan which, more than twice the size of Ontario, is the biggest country in Africa and has a population of 10,000,000 Arab, in the north and 3,000,000 Negroes in the south.

The new cry of "Arab slavery" on the streets of Khartoum, Sudanese capital, reflects the fact that the Arabs once made the south a hunting ground for slaves.

This practice didn't end until the close of the last century when the British, who had long controlled the north, seized the south to prevent French expansion.

The B-llish administered the country in two parts, however, and the Arab section had attained greater advance, education and wealth as an independence finally came in 1956.

Northern Arabs became the administrators of the south after independence and the Negroes bitterly reflected they were rid of British rule only to fall under new masters.

"Also, the northern civil servants went south bearing a deep arrogant contempt for southerners because of their backwardness and their Christian faith;" says the independent London newspaper, The Sun. . .

Missionaries had been encouraged to work among the Negroes during British rule and now there are some 300,000 Christians in the south, adding to its frictions with the Moslem north.

A rebel movement thus emerged in Sudan almos. simultaneously with independence last year. Ibrahim Abbood, military dictator from 1958 until he was replaced by a civilian regime last month, kept large forces in the south to fight a guerilla war against insurgents.

Many thousands of rebels were driven for refuge to—of all places — the neighboring Congo, itself in almost constant turmoil. The danger of the present chaotic situation is reflected in that the Sudan is reported to be a staging area for Communist arms en route to the Congolese rebels against their own Leopoldville regime.

South Sudan extremists say they want nothing less than secession but many observers regard that outlook as disastrous for both north and south. It might also encourage racial and tribal minorities in other African countries to split away from their central governments.

The new interim governm.ent of Premier Sirr el Khatem el Khalifa, 47, is regarded as inexperienced and includes at least one Communist, Sirr, however, apparently enjoys some trust in the south and made a gesture of racial and religious reconciliation, by appointing Clement Mboro, a Roman Catholic, as first minister of the interior. The last government expelled Christian missionaries.

The big task now is to get rebellious tribesmen back to their villages and to establish contact with responsible leaders in preparation for an election. But, as the Manchester Guardian put it:

"In the absence of the Christian missionaries — the best link between Khartoum and the south, but expelled by Abbood—the channels of communication are slender."

Britain Takes New Steps To Battle Inflation Period

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain is taking new steps to battle inflation with a blunt warning there won't be any big expansion in the money supply to meet the increasing clamor of borrowers for more credit.

Sections pay more for their loans as a result of the big boost in the Central Bank rate to the peak seven per cent two weeks ago. But still the demand for fatter loans goes on.

Rather than increase the money supply, the Bank of England has warned banks to be more selective in their lending operations; to give priority to exporters and manufacturers rather than those who build houses and apartments and finance on-the-cuff purchases of consumer goods.

NEW SQUEEZE?

Some newspapers immediately described this as a new credit squeeze, another step away from the Labor government's pro - election promises not to deflate the high-stepping economy. But the Central Bank said it was a "selective restraint" and not a squeeze.

It appeared, however, that if the pressure for loans continues, borrowers may have to shelve some new projects and some new buying or look outside of Britain for more credit. Alternatively, borrowers may start competing among themselves more sharply for existing credit, thereby pushing interest rates higher, adding to costs.

The Central Bank's restraint, seen as a deflationary move, also may help to stabilize the British pound which currently appears to be holding its own following massive credit support by 11 countries, including Canada.

Another element of stability is the pre-budget disclosure by James Callaghan, chancellor of the exchequer, of some of the details of the proposed new corporation tax and capital gains tax to be imposed next spring.

NO DOUBLE TAX

Callaghan's statement, made in Parliament Tuesday, gave no indication what the tax rates would be, though he indicated how it would work and what transactions would qualify for exemptions.

For example, British companies which get income from investments in Canada and other countries will not have to pay double taxation. Their British corporation tax would be reduced by the amount of tax paid overseas.

And there will be "special provisions" for certain types of corporations, including life assurance companies. Many Canadian life assurance companies do an extensive business in Britain.

British companies currently pay a tax, through income and profits, that may amount to about 53 per cent, though there are various reductions that would cut the total below that figure. There were fears among British industry that Callaghan might push the total "take" to a higher rate.

Among the exemptions from the proposed new capital gains tax will be gambling gains resulting from football pools, the race track and other events.

Former Mayor And His Wife Badly Burned

BROCKVILLE (CP) — W. Fred Reynolds, 76, a former mayor of Brockville, and his 75-year-old wife Clara were critically burned Wednesday night after Mr. Reynolds fell asleep in an easy chair while smoking a pipe.

Hospital officials here said the condition of both Mr. Reynolds and his wife was improved. Their condition was listed as critical when admitted to the hospital. Fire damage was confined to the chair.

Three Plants Have Settled Local Issues

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators for the United Automobile Workers (CLC) and General Motors of Canada Limited were moving Wednesday night toward talks on a master agreement and a settlement of a week-old strike of 23,500 GM workers in five Ontario centres.

Company and union officials said local issues have been settled in connection with the company's Windsor plant, the McKinnon Industries Limited affiliate in St. Catharines and the Frigidaire plant in Toronto.

A settlement was described as being near on local issues at GM's Oshawa plant, largest of the five. Seniority problems were still posing difficulties toward an agreement at the company's diesel plant in London Ont.

The local issues are being discussed by sub - committees before the main negotiations—on wages and other basic economic issues—are taken up by the master negotiating committees.

A crucial union demand is for a closing of the gap between wage rates in Canada and at GM plants in the United States. The union has estimated that the difference is from 50 cents to more than $1 an hour in some categories.

the NDP motion, then left for the day.

Mr. Balcer, who has dias said publicly with his seat-mate on federal-provincial relations as well as the flag, said the debate had been dominated by English - speaking Conservatives who back retention of the Canadian Red Ensign.

SLES HARM

The debate had paralysed Parliament and harmed national interests, he said. If free speech was to be respected the flag recommendation should come to a vote without further discussion.

Conservative House Leader Gordon Churchill quickly announced that Mr. Balcer was not speaking for the party.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said he strongly supports Mr. Balcer's stand.

Outside the Commons Mr. Balcer said in an interview he is involved in a "definite split" with Mr. Diefenbaker over the flag but added he has no intention of bolting the party.

He declined to comment on reports that he stormed from the Conservative caucus earlier in the day. He said he was bound by the secrecy of caucus meetings.

The NDP motion was moved by Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) immediately following Mr. Balcer's statement.

MOTION DEFEATED

As the motion went down to defeat in a 132-to-99 vote, the opposition leader and his Quebec lieutenant sat silently beside each other without even looking at each other.

The 15 NDP members were joined by Mr. Diefenbaker and 14 of the 17 others. Mrs. Ann Batten (SC — Cariboo) and Liberal maverick Ralph Cowan (York-Humber) in the vote.

Mr. Balcer and three other SC — Conservatives sided with 110 Liberals, 11 Creditistes and seven Social Credit MPs in voting against the Knowles motion.

Commons standings are Liberals 129, Conservatives 96, New Democrats 18, Creditistes 13 and Social Credit nine.

Members of the 1956 pipeline debate battle when the Conservatives fought closure in the Commons and during their successful election campaign a year later have tarnished the word ever since.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

But Mr. Balcer said the present circumstances are completely different because in 1956 the government had sought to hide certain embarrassing facts.

In the flag debate every shade of opinion had been expressed repeatedly, he said. "The government should have the courage to invoke closure."

In the debate that followed the Balcer statement and the vote on the NDP motion five more Conservatives endorsed the holding of a plebiscite.

They were Hugh Horner (Jasper - Edson), Joseph Slogan (Springfield), Cyril F. Kennedy (Colchester - Hants), C. E. Millar (Middlesex East) and Elmer Forbes (Dauphin).

Dr. Horner charged that the nation's press "laid down its responsibility in reporting the flag issue. The press had been "bought" and there was no press freedom on the issue any more.

Wilson

said that his proposals for a new NATO nuclear command will be discussed with British's allies during the next period of weeks.

TO DISCUSS IN PARIS

The first opportunity would be at the NATO ministerial meeting next week in Paris.

It was a question of determining whether the British proposals in this regard or some compromise of proposals would be most suitable for the alliance.

Mr. Wilson said he made no suggestion to Mr. Pearson about what Canada should do in this field. But he was sure the Canadian government would study relevant proposals.

Mr. Wilson said he hopes the nuclear discussions will go forward in such a way as to allow France to take part.

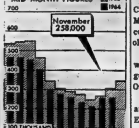
Mr. Wilson held two private meetings with Mr. Pearson Wednesday, discussing NATO nuclear matters in the afternoon and turning to bilateral and Commonwealth affairs in the evening.

TALK SEPARATELY

British Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker and External Affairs Minister Martin held separate talks on the same subjects.

Plan Opposed By Textile Workers' Union

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the United Textile Workers of America (CLC) from the Toronto area said Wednesday they oppose any plan to bring large numbers of Asian farmers and workers to Ontario to work in the needle trades.



Delegates to the Greater Toronto Textile Joint Board, representing 2,000 union members in 20 area locals, condemned statements by Ecocomics Minister Stanley Randall of Ontario that representatives of Toronto's garment industry would be invited to talks in government officials about bringing 475 sewing machine operators to Ontario from Hong Kong.

The union delegates said employment in the primary textile industry in Canada has declined to 72,840 in 1960 from 98,227 in 1951.

They urged the government to sponsor programs to place unemployed Canadian textile workers in jobs before importing more textile workers from Hong Kong.

Homemade Christmas Card Fad Starts Early

By JACK HUTTON

How'd you like to see a card with this little verse slipping through the front door with the Christmas mail?

Roses are red; Violets are blue; I saw Ringo Starr — And thought he was you.

Nice thought, eh? Well, our east coast correspondents lull us the homemade Christmas card fad has started early this year with humor even more pointed and personal than last year!

It must do wonders for your ego to find a card that ashr on the outside Who is the Most Popular and Best-Liked Student in our School? The answer (inside): Not You, Stupid.

I can't see what connection these homemade cards have with the traditional Christmas spirit, even if the senders usually sign them "Best wishes for the season." or that sort of thing.

SOME FRIEND!

It's like telling a joke about someone in the locker room and insisting later that he's your best friend. With friends like that who needs enemies?

A Halifax student is adding a different touch t his Christmas cards, according to our correspondents. He made up a homemade stamp to put this message on each card envelope — Flunk Now, Why Wait For Spring?

What's behind the trend of sick humor in a season meant to be festive and jolly? A correspondent defined it this way:

"The idea apparently started two or three years ago when someone suggested this would be cheaper than buying cards from the counters. The first cards were rather good, painted by hand and well-lettered.

"Sooner or late, someone sent a sick humor card to a friend who sent one back. Everyone thought it was very funny. And overnight it became terribly 'in' to send off best cards.

"The worst social mistake you could commit was to send a serious card to someone who sent you a sick card. You were square. This may not make sense, but somehow you were responsible for embarrassing the other person.

FIRST PUNCH

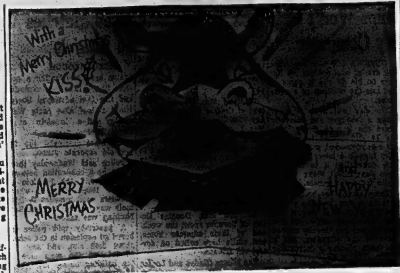
"It's also a form of self-defence. Get in the first punch and you can laugh at anything that arrives later. Some cardwriters have been sending their little messages since mid-November."

The problem with trends like this is that someone usually gets hurt. Our correspondents told of a student who'd recently arrived from Germany and still thought English meant what it seems to. He received one of the cards.

"The poor fellow was terribly confused and didn't tell anyone he'd received it," our correspondent wrote. "He suffered in silence until the author finally asked whether the card had gone astray.

"The victim laughed louder than anyone else when the joke was explained to him. But somehow it didn't seem as much of a joke to some of the others who saw for the first time what their little barbs might do."

PROJECT PEN PAL



Getting away from poison pen letters, letters are starting to flood this writer from the four corners of the world, all showing a hunger to know more about Canada.

The most unusual letter came from a Ghana student who wonde-ed if prospective "lady pen pals" would forward their pictures to him. He'l make his choice of one pen pal after seeing the pictures, he said.

I wrote back to say we'd be happy to include his name in our lists, but added that Canadian girls are strange creatures who might think he was conducting a beauty contest all by himself. No reply back yet.

Another tip, this time from a Japanese student. "I hope Canadian pupils realise letters should be sent air mail," she said. "Two years ago I wrote a Canadian girl and didn't hear back for a long time. The reason was she used a five-cent stamp."

Today's list of pen pals (all can be reached at Techiman, Brong-Ahafo, Ghana; average age 15); John K. Ayito, Francis Addai, John Anto, Dominic Osei Bonsu, Dauda Ameyaw, Kwame Donkor, Augustine O. Gyabaah, Charles Gyamfi, Kwasi Gyamfi, Mohammed Ibrahim, John Kyeremeh.

The trend in some parts of Canada is to sick humor Christmas cards, unlike the friendly one above, Jack Hutton reports.

Jaycee Driving Tips

Now is the time not only for winterizing your car, but for your driving also.

To start a car on ice you should use high or second gear This prevents skids and spinning of wheels. Your tires will have more chance to grip a slippery surface if power is applied gently and wheels are turning slowly.

To correct a rear-wheel skid, remove feet from the pedals and steer in direction of the skid. A front wheel skid is corrected by releasing and re-applying the brake more gently. (It may help to use the parking brake.)

Momentarily, straighten the front wheels and make your turn more slowly. To correct a four-wheel skid, release the brake, and re-apply it gently and increase the pressure slowly to avoid locking the wheels again.

Warns Against Govt. Drain On Savings

TORONTO (CP) — Further diversion of funds to public uses could either retard Canada's economic growth or increase its dependence on foreign capital, J. E. R. Wadsworth, president of Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, said Tuesday.

He told the annual meeting that growth of productive capacity depends on the ability of the private sector of the economy to undertake new, large-scale capital projects.

"The largest single source of savings is from the retained earnings and depreciation allowances of corporations, he said.

WOULD BE ADEQUATE

These savings "would normally be more than adequate to finance the real investment required by the private sector." However, various levels of government also drew heavily on these savings, reducing the amount available for private investment.

"... There are two courses of action, each of which could help reduce the gap between the actual volume of domestic savings and the volume required to meet the demands in Canada for private and public investment," said Mr. Wadsworth.

"The first approach is to try to encourage a greater flow of domestic savings. In this connection, taxation policies are obviously of great importance.

"The second is to reduce the net diversion of investment funds to all levels of government, leaving a larger portion of present savings available for productive employment in the private sector."

Canada, U. S., Britain Lag In Growth of Productivity

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada, the United States and Britain seem to be lagging behind Western Europe and Japan in growth of productivity rates, a North American automation conference was told Tuesday.

Besides that, labor shortages exist in those countries, said Patrick Boarman, representing the U.S. National Association of Manufacturers.

Harry J. Waisglass, research director for the Canadian section of the United Steelworkers of America, said it is a matter of "great regret and serious consequence" that Canadian governments haven't done more about creating labor demand rather than attempting to deal mainly through educational and other methods with surplus labor.

In an illustration of the impact on job trends of changes in public tastes and income, Dr Gil Schoening of the Canadian Labor department speculated that the topless bathing suit might have hit the textile industry hard but at the same time stimulated the cosmetics and tourist industries.

"The latest change in women's styles has clearly not been caused by income changes," said Schoening.

"There is, for example, the abortive attempt to introduce topless bathing suits. What decreasing impact would this have had on occupations an employment in the textile in dustry; but just imagine wh an expansive effect on the co metic and tourist industries."

Schoening said a lot mo needs to be done in the whol field of ascertaining how chang industrial structures affec trends in occupations.

"I am afraid that we in Can ada are still in the initial stages of developing the kind of policy that is relevant to the forces at work on manpower in the economy," he said.

Doctored T-4 Slips Won't Get By Computer

OTTAWA (CP)—The income tax evader who doctors the figures on his T4 slip is going to fall into the clutches of a computer.

The day will soon be over when a taxpayer can carefully erase the income figure from his T4 slip—issued to him by his employer—and just as carefully type in a lower figure before submitting it to the revenue department along with a claim for a tax rebate.

There always has been a reasonable chance that the evader could successfully pull it off. The department carries out spot checks, and has thereby nabbed some of the offenders, but it has been physically impossible to check them all.

Now the computer is going to come into the act, and by 1965 every T4 slip submitted by a taxpayer will be checked against a copy of the slip submitted by his employer. The machine, known affectionately in the department as "The Monster," will cough back any return that does not jibe with T4 slips issued in his name by any company.

The new checking system will be in full use when the department begins collecting contributions for the Canada Pension Plan — a monumental chore that could become a nightmare with any doctored T4 slips. Over 6,500,000 taxpayers file returns with the department each year.

Say Prowlers Used Matches In Church

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Police are investigating a possible link between an explosion and fire that destroyed Sacred Heart School here early Wednesday and a break-in at a church a block away.

The blaze destroyed the 81-year-old separate school.

Police said Wednesday there might be a connection between the fire and the break-in at Sacred Heart Church, where prowlers used matches to light their way through the building. Nothing was taken.

A passer-by told police he heard an explosion in the school about 3:40 a.m. and saw the windows on the west side of the building blown out. About 60 firemen fought the blaze for two hours.

The separate school board held a meeting Wednesday night to decide on alternative placement for the 310 pupils.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1964

Jagan Manoeuvres to Stay In Govt. of British Guiana After Losing His Majority

GEORGETOWN (AP)—Charging irregularities in general election that cost him his legislative majority, Marxist Premier Cheddi Jagan manoeuvred today to remain in the government of British Guiana.

Jagan made clear he would fight attempts to install a coalition government made up of Forbes Burnham's Negro People's National Congress and Peter D'Aguiar's ultra - conservative United Force.

Instead, Jagan, leader of the British colony's East Indians, proposed that he and Burnham join forces in a coalition as "the quickest way to achieve national independence and economic and social progress."

Jagan achieved such a coalition, he could claim credit for having the government accomplished. With the East Indians outnumbering the Negroes three to two, he would be in a good position to win the next election.

But the possibility of Burnham agreeing in a coalition with Jagan was considered remote. Jagan telephoned his proposal to Burnham and the latter replied: "If you send me a message in writing, then I'll study it."

Burnham, a moderate socialist, has refused to team up with the radical Jagan before.

TALKS TO D'AGUIAR

Burnham said he had talked with D'Aguiar in general terms about a partnership. He said he anticipated further talks aimed at getting together with the Conservative leader.

The final official count from Monday's election showed Jagan's People's Progressive Party received 109,332 votes, or 45.8 per cent, and 24 national assembly seats. Burnham's party had 96,657 or 40.5 per cent, worth 22 seats, and D'Aguiar's forces got 29,612, or 12.4 per cent, and seven seats.

The Burnham - D'Aguiar coalition favored by British Governor Sir Richard Luyt would have a five-seat margin over Jagan.

Jagan achieved a vote plurality, just as he did in becoming the colony's first premier in 1961. But he did not get a majority, which was necessary to stay in power under the proportional representation system the British adopted to let Jagan out.

Jagan met all day Wednesday with the executive board of his party, then issued a statement charging that widespread use of proxy votes had infringed the election regulations and had a decisive effect in the results of rigged and premature elections."

He said the question of his resignation from the premiership was under discussion with his legal advisers. "I can't say what they will do just yet," he said.

DRIVES INTO POOL

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) Before settling down for the night Wednesday, salesman T. L. Flanagan, 57, left his motel room and drove to buy a magazine. As he returned, Flanagan mistook a swimming pool patio between two cars for an empty parking lot. In he popped —literally. The car skidded on the wet paving and dived into the pool. Flanagan waded ashore as the vehicle sank.

Want Safeguards Enforced at Elliot Lake

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Workers in this declining uranium mining community called on the Ontario government Wednesday to enforce safeguards against radioactive contamination of waterways.

A brief to the touring select committee on mining warned that the entire north shore of Lake Huron could become a wasteland if the source of pollution — piled mine waste — is not contained properly.

"We believe that in situations of this kind (water pollution), the people concerned should be kept fully informed," said a brief presented by Alcide Brunet of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), which represents some 1,500 mining company employees in the area.

The brief referred to a report of the Ontario Water Resources Commission last month on pollution and "the possibility of the whole north shore area becoming a wasteland as far as water resources are concerned."

The union proposed that all uranium mine tailings — waste piles—should be contained with concrete or wooden dams. In addition, it suggested adoption of methods used elsewhere to prevent mine tailings from being blown or washed away from the containment area — spraying the tailings with a mixture of grass seed, plastic and fertilizer.

The steelworkers' brief also urged the government to take steps designed to stem the exodus of residents from Elliot Lake to nearby areas, thus further depressing a town already hit hard by the collapse of the uranium market and the closing of mines.

Hospital Strikes To Be Prevented Says Minister

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree of Ontario said Wednesday night the government will determine within the next two weeks what legislation is necessary to prevent strikes in Ontario hospitals.

He told the Gyro Club of St. Catharines that a strike in a hospital never be part permitted in the province, even if the government has to force compulsory arbitration to prevent it.

"Helpless people must never be the victims of an internal struggle," Mr. Rowntree said.

In an interview after his speech, Mr. Rowntree said the legislation will be in response to recommendations made in the Bennett report on the Trenton hospital dispute.

The government would not take the side of either hospital board or workers in such a situation, Mr. Rowntree said, but some means must be found to protect the public interest in such cases.

American Will Leave Country Says Paper

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says Harry Solomon Stonehill, 47-year-old American who had been ordered out of the Philippines after amassing a fortune there, has advised the immigration department that he will leave Canada by Jan. 8.

The newspaper says the department has also initiated an inquiry to decide whether an associate of Stonehill, Robert Philip Brooks, which one may be deported. He is also a United States citizen.

Both men have been living in Vancouver.

The two came to Canada in June, 1963, by way of Switzerland, after a presidential decree was issued in The Philippines ordering their deportation. They had built up fortunes there after the Second World War in tobacco, real estate and banking.

"Stonehill, who was here as a visitor, had applied for permanent admission," the Globe and Mail says. The department informed him it was not prepared to let him remain.

"Brooks has the status of a landed immigrant. The inquiry to determine whether he should be deported was stalled on Monday in Vancouver and adjourned for a week."

In Vancouver, immigration department officials declined comment on the case. Mr. Stonehill, who has operated a plush downtown office with a battery of aides, was reported by his home to be out of town, with no indication when he would return.

Asked to Drop Charges Constable Tells Inquiry

PORT ELGIN, Ont. (CP)—A former Port Elgin police constable testified Wednesday he was approached several times by Mayor W. A. Davey and Councilor R. J. Bell and asked to drop charges against other persons.

Const. William C. Thomas, now of the Whitchurch Township force, gave the testimony at an Ontario Police Commission inquiry into police operations in this town 25 miles west of Owen Sound.

Const. Thomas, a member of the Port Elgin force from June, 1962, to May of this year, said the mayor intervened on at least two occasions. One involved a charge of speeding against an area resident; the other involved a charge under the Liquor Control Act laid against Port Elgin Branch 340 of the Royal Canadian Legion.

On another occasion, Const. Thomas said, Mr. Bell objected when he (Const. Thomas) laid a charge of speeding outside the town limits.

"I was referred to several times as a bugger," the constable stated.

A letter written May 6 to Councilor Andrew Currie was read in court by town solicitor R. S. Dollar. The letter said, in part, that the late chief Const. Kenneth Farrell wanted Const. Charles Riley dismissed because "he's the only police committee took no action.

GIVEN PERMISSION

Const. Thomas said he was told by Const. Riley that Chief Farrell had given him (Riley) permission to take a bottle of seized liquor from the police station.

He said he was told that Const. Riley took the liquor for influenza treatment. The bottle later was replaced.

Const. Thomas said he resigned because "I didn't like the way the town was being run."

The three-day inquiry, which opened Tuesday, is investigating mainly council's motion asking for the resignation of Riley when he was police chief. He refused to resign because he said he had been given no good reason to do so.

He later was demoted to constable and, with the three other two policemen having either resigned or been fired, has been policing the town with assistance from OPP at Kincardine.

SHAKEN BY QUAKE

BELGRADE (Reuters) — An earthquake of about seven degrees intensity on the 12-degree scale Wednesday night shook an area about 75 miles southwest of Skoplje, Yugoslavia, but no damage or casualties were reported. A major earthquake destroyed four-fifths of Skoplje in July, 1963, killing more than 1,000 persons.

No Souvenirs, Ringo Orders Tonsils Burned

LONDON (AP) — Beatle Ringo Starr emerged from hospital today and issued his first non-tonsilled public pronouncement to 50 adoring girls.

"I feel fine," he said.

An ecstatic gasp ran through the girls—mostly office workers on the way to work—who clustered around the private entrance to the University College hospital.

Ringo drummer in the thick - thatched quartet, had his tonsils out eight days ago.

The girls who waited for his exit first saw a chauffeur come out with Ringo's record player. The chauffeur stowed it in a waiting black limousine.

Back he went to emerge with Ringo's suitcase. Excited squeals.

These gave way to full screams as Ringo, wearing a grey suit and checked shirt, stepped out of the hospital door.

Cameramen pressed round. Female arms stretched over their shoulders to clutch at the Beatle.

A nurse commented:

"He was a model patient."

To stall off souvenir hunters, Ringo ordered his tonsils burned.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) A last-second engine misfire on Titan II rocket dealt a severe setback to the U.S. man-in-space program Wednesday, postponing the final unmanned launching of the two-man spacecraft until January.

A New Democratic Party attempt to have the flag debate set aside for other business was defeated 132 to 99.

Gordon Churchill, Conservative House Leader, immediately noted Mr. Balcer was not speaking with party authority.

Creditiste Leader Caouette backed Mr. Balcer in asking for closure.

Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) said the press had been bought and there is no press freedom on the flag issue.

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to continue the flag debate. The Senate stands adjourned until Dec. 14.

Two Members Of Hooded Gang Get 20 Years

MONTREAL (CP)—Two convicted members of the so-called hooded gang of Quebec and Ontario were sentenced Wednesday to another 20 years in penitentiary.

Jean-Roxaire Filardeau, 28, and Jean-Guy Darveau, 31, had pleaded guilty earlier to robbery charges. But when they appeared for sentencing last week they asked to be allowed to change their pleas to not guilty on one of the charges.

Judge Trottier ruled against them Wednesday, telling them each 20 years to run concurrent with sentences imposed earlier on the other charges ranging from possession of stolen goods to armed robbery.

Filardeau now has been sentenced to a total of 58 years, Darveau to 64 years. But they will serve only 20 years, longest of the sentences imposed.

Misinformation Number Of Unemployed Come From Large Families Is Report

WASHINGTON (CP)—There are "strong indications" that a disproportionate number of the unemployed come from large families" but nothing is being done to verify this or evaluate its significance, U.S. Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz said Wednesday night.

"In the public forum, discussion of one large factor in the manpower area remains blacked out by a taboo," he said. In a speech on the impact of population on the problems of automation.

Wirtz addressed a Canadian-American convention on automation. Allan MacEachen, Canadian labor minister, was another main speaker at the dinner in the state department.

"We've got to find ways to harness this beast of burden before it becomes—even for a short time—a beast of prey," MacEachen said.

The three - day convention concluding today is under the auspices of the 21-nation Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development.

Wirtz said it is known that almost half the American youths unfit for military service because of inadequate mental capacity or lack of education come from families with six or more children. But no account was being taken of that or of the fact that the average income of families with five or more children was lower than income for smaller family units.

He noted a recent report that the world's population rises by 65,000,000 annually and that U.S. teen-agers, whose unemployment runs at 15 per cent, are entering the labor force in record numbers.

He added:

"Automation is one factor in the present employment - unemployment situation. The tremendous growth of population each 30 years to run concurrent with sentences imposed earlier on the other charges ranging is another. A discussion of manpower policy is incomplete without full exploration of the nature and implications of both developments.

"Unemployment unquestionably affects the family structure, and the converse is equally possible, informed parenthood is relevant in any consideration of a responsible informed position regarding manpower supply and demand."

MacEachen, who has attended most sessions, said it is agreed generally that automation eventually will improve the public lot. "But what we want to get is all the good advantages of the age of automation without the short - run misery that was associated with the industrial revolution."

That required employment for a rapidly - increasing labor force, easing hardship for victims of automation and training the young.

Need for Further Legal Action W'll Be Shown

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—The U.S. justice department discloses evidence today that it hopes will show the need-for further legal action against 18 of 21 men charged in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers.

The federal government must show, in a preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter, "probable cause" for grand jury action on charges filed in what the FBI calls a Ku Klux Klan plot.

Of the 21 arrested last Friday and later released on bonds, 19 are charged with conspiracy to interfere with the federal rights of the slain trio. The other two were charged as accessories after the fact.

Any murder charges in the case must come from the state, which has made no move.

Informed sources said the FBI information would be outlined in District Attorney W. H. Johnson for possible state action after the preliminary hearing.

Johnson's district includes Neshoba County, where the bodies of the three civil rights workers were found buried in an earthen dam last Aug. 4.

Those charged include Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Rainey, 41, of Philadelphia and his deputy Cecil Price, 26.

Killed were Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, 21, a Meridian Negro.

Shortly after the arrests, citizens in the area began drives for donations to set up a legal defence fund to help the 21 pay for their legal battles and bond costs.

About 200 Negroes crowded into the Mount Olive Baptist Church here Wednesday night to pack in a 30-minute silent prayer for justice in the case. One of the participants was Mrs. Fannie Lee Chaney, mother of James Chaney.

Spacious Lutheran Church At Maynooth Is Dedicated By President of Synod

BANCROFT — On Sunday afternoon the President of the Eastern Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, the Rev. Dr. A. W. Lotz, Kitchener, returned to his first pastorate, Evangelical Lutheran Church, Maynooth, 15 miles north of here, to assist in the dedication of a new church.

Over 100 years ago the first German immigrants came to north Hastings County and at the turn of the century built their first church, a small wooden clapboard edifice. Last Sunday over 450 people came, some from many parts of Eastern Ontario, to attend the dedication of the new large brick church built this year to replace the original.

As the congregation and their guests assembled in the newly covered grounds of the church in brilliant sunshine, the pastor, the Rev. E. Schroeder, accompanied by Dr. Lotz, approached the main entrance. They were followed in procession by members of the Church Council bearing the Bible, the Sacramental Vessels, the Altar Appointments and the Altar Book, which had been removed from the old church in a similar ceremonial procession the previous Sunday. The church choir and representatives of the building committee also took part in the procession.

The service of dedication began with the Ceremony of the Keys. The chairman of the building committee, C. A. Wasmund, presented the keys to the pastor, who unlocked the door which were then opened by the secretary of the Church Council, A. E. Simmons.

FILLED TO OVERFLOWING

The congregation followed the procession into the church filling the 170-seat sanctuary to overflowing, causing a large number of people to be seated in the basement where they were able to take part in the service by means of amplifiers.

The dedication of the church edifice, the altar, the pulpit and the baptismal font was conducted by Pastor Schroeder assisted by Dr. Lotz. During the service the children's choir directed by Mrs. Schroeder accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Ainel Linkie, sang the anthem "All Creatures of Our God and King."

In his address Dr. Lotz recalled his pastorate at Christ Lutheran Church during the years 1926 to 1934 when the people went to church by car but travelled by horse-drawn vehicle, there having to walk as much as a 28-mile round trip. He praised the determination of the early few and complimented the present congregation on their great achievement. "The efforts and labors demonstrated by this congregation reflects vision, faithfulness and loyalty," he said.

Following the service many remained for refreshments served in the basement by the ladies of the Women's Guild.

In the evening some 300 people attended the dedication vesper service conducted by the Rev. Dr. Lotz, pastor of Zion church from 1954 to 1958, and now pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, London, Ontario. Guests attended this service from many parts of Eastern Ontario including Arnprior, Kingston, Eganville, Belleville, and Peterborough.

DATE NOT KNOWN

It is not known when the actual building of the first Christ Lutheran Church began but it was towards the end of the last century. Before that time Lutheran services were conducted in the homes of the people by visiting pastors from the neighboring Raglan-Denbigh parish. The first Lutheran pastor to visit the area was the Rev. F. Breckenkoff of Denbigh who came to Maynooth sometime during the winter of 1892-1893, and began gathering the people together into a congregation.

In 1900 Pastor Max Voss of Denbigh rallied the congregation and the partially-built church begun some years previously was completed. Pastor H. Henkel of the Rankin Parish and then president of the Eastern District of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Canada, dedicated the church and preached the dedication sermon in the fall of 1900.

Thirty years passed before the Maynooth congregation called their first full-time resident pastor, the Rev. D. Lotz. Prior to this time the congregation had been served by many supply preachers, mostly pastors of the Denbigh-Raglan parish. Their names reflect the German and north European flavor of the community — Hamp, Bredlov, Daechsel, Kehle, Enzer, Kasdorf, Christiansen, Blohm, Kutter, Jannasch, and Grauer.

Pastor Lotz was followed in 1934 by the Rev. W. Goos, who remained until 1938. The church was again without a resident pastor until 1942 when the Rev. Fr. Leopold was called. It was during his pastorate that the original church was renovated and the sacristy added. He remained for three years and was replaced by the Rev. O. H. Wuerscher.

BEGUN THIS YEAR

Mr. Wuerscher left the pastorate in 1948 and for another two years the church was without leadership. In 1950 the Rev. Herbert Gastmeier arrived to stay four years. The Rev. Oelser replaced him in 1954, with the Rev. E. Hackbusch being called in 1958 and staying until 1963.

It was whilst the congregation was again without the services of a resident pastor that the building of the new church was begun in 1964. At that time the congregation was being supplied by the Rev. D. Metzger of St. Timothy's Lutheran Church, Pembroke. Mr. Schroeder was called and began his pastorate on July 1st, 1964, when the building project was well under way.

The special service for the laying of the cornerstone was conducted by Mr. Schroeder on September 6th, 1964. The special dedication booklet lists the articles placed in the cornerstone. Included were copies of the Holy Bible and the Service Book and Hymnal from the old church, coins of the realm, pictures of the old church, of Pastor Schroeder and of the congregation, a copy of the Augsburg Confession, copies of Luther's Small Catechism, as well as other historical records.

Contrasting vividly with the old church nearby, the new edifice stands in spacious grounds surrounded by tall pines. The exterior is of sand-colored silicone brick. The blue and amber tones of the side windows are repeated in the large window over the entrance doors and which contains an amber cross surrounded by panes of blue and green.

COLORED TILE FLOORS

The arched ceiling of the interior is beautifully constructed of knotty cedar, obtained in the locality. Light birch panelled walls and natural-colored tile floors are accented by a blue dossal curtain above the altar.

The altar, the great cross above it, the sanctuary rail, the pulpit, the font, and the pews were all made of cedar and birch by local craftsmen. Of clear-cut, simple lines and a light color they combine to create an overall impression of lightness and natural beauty.

The choir and organ loft are placed at the rear of the church above the vestibule. The building is completed by a spacious basement including a well-equipped kitchen, furnace room and store-rooms.

Dedication ceremonies will end with a community service to be held in the church on Tuesday, December 8, at 7:30 p.m. when the Rev. Herbert Gastmeier, a previous pastor, and now pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Stratford, will preach the sermon. He will be assisted by the Rev. Schroeder, the Rev. V. MacPherson, Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Maynooth, and the Rev. E. Schamerhorn, St. Andrew's United Church, Maynooth.

"They're not for anything I've done . . . they're for what I'm PLANNING to do!"

And Then the Trouble Began!

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that lead to nothing but trouble:

"My daddy can lick your daddy."

"The two blondes down at the other end of the bar look lonesome. Whaddaya say we buy 'em a drink and tell 'em the story of our lives?"

"Of course, it's really none of my business, but—"

"Other wives seem able to get by on their household budgets. What makes you so different?"

"I don't think there's any other car coming around the bend. Go ahead, speed up and pass him."

"When are you going to kick the bucket, aunty? I heard dad tell mom we'd all be rich if you'd just kick the bucket."

"Well, I wouldn't mind sitting in the game for a while if the stakes are small."

"I guess another little martini wouldn't hurt me, but could you make this next one a wit ben dryer—I mean a wee bit dryer?

WHY NOT?

"Give none of us seem to agree on politics, why don't we discuss religion?

"Take it or leave it.

"Put up or shut up —

"Put your money where your mouth is.

"What's a pretty doll like you doing in a joint like this?

"What do you mean you gave me the best years of your life? If they were the best, I'd hate to see the worst.

"Look. I've handled guns since I was a kid- and I know this one isn't loaded.

"My wife would never suspect me in a thousand years.

"This time I'll carry the ball, and you kids try to stop me. I'll show you how we used to do it at old Siwash U."

5,000 on Hand To Witness Santa Parade

BANCROFT — Hundreds of children together with their parents lined the streets of this village on Saturday afternoon as the annual Lions' Santa Claus parade wound its way twice around the main streets led by the North Hastings High School Band.

An estimated four to five thousand people jammed into the centre of the village as the day-long snowfall gave the village a Christmas card look. Gaily decorated shop windows and a huge Christmas tree in front of the United Church combined in the seasonal effect.

The parade, which has been hailed as very successful, was organized by Cecil White, a member of the Bancroft Lions Club. In addition to the high school band and majorettes, there were a number of floats entered by the high school glee club, two public schools, the Boy Scouts, and the Bancroft Business and Professional Women. The government departments and several businessmen entered decorated commercial vehicles.

Santa Claus, who arrived atop the village fire engine stopped off outside the United Church hall to greet the many children, and with his helpers, presented each child with a bag of candy. Meanwhile, across the street, the Lindsay Salvation Band, sponsored by the Bancroft and District Chamber of Commerce, played Christmas music and carols.

Two Pet Deer Donated to Peterboro Zoo

BANCROFT — During the hunting season two deer disappeared from the zoo at Peterborough. One returned mysteriously but the other is believed to have been killed as strande of bloodied hair and skin were found around a hole which had been cut in the fence of the deer paddock.

A Bancroft district resident read the story in the newspapers and as a result offered to donate two pet deer to the zoo "for the benefit of the public, but especially for the children."

W. H. Arrowsmith of Bow Lake Lodge, arranged the transportation of the deer, Josephine, 12½, and Bambi, 3½, and they made the trip about a week ago in a truck loaned by the Peterborough Utilities Commission. Sam Elliott, in charge of the move, said: "The animals made the trip very comfortably, being given tranquillizers before facing the 65-mile trip."

Mr. Arrowsmith was sorry to see his pets leave but said that the increasing number of hunters in the Bancroft area during the deer hunting season gave him a great deal of concern for the safety of his pets, and he felt the animals would be safer in the zoo and would relieve him of worry.

P.U.C. officials who operate the Filtration Park Zoo have indicated that in future years a guard will be placed on the deer enclosure during the hunting season.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Drive a few miles south of the city, just past the Mountain View airport, turn east a quarter-mile along the Demorestville road and you will vision the finest panoramic scenery in the district.

Blanketed in a white mantle of Nature's ermine it is a veritable winter wonderland with its snow-garbed slopes and the icy beauty of the Bay of Quinte stretching into the distance.

Last year a city triumvirate of Don Templeman, Ian Morch and Freeman Burrows became ski-resort-minded and decided that this part of Prince Edward's hill country was going to be more than a scenic-panorama.

They inaugurated the Mountain View Ski Club, and the consensus after the first year of operation was the season was extremely satisfactory and demonstrated that there is a tremendous interest in skiing. As a result there was need for additional capacity at the club.

Last year they installed a wide, uncongested skiing area, with five trails of varying grade and speed for the beginner to the experienced skier.

They erected a heated clubhouse for rest and refreshment and arranged a separate, protected hill for use by children, non-skiers, sledding, etc. They arranged for lighted night skiing under the stars.

The six runs extend a challenge to skiers of all abilities. The "Dare-Devil" at the eastern end of the resort is for those of experience. The "Express Way" offers distinct "dare." The "Alburg Twist", as its name belies, is a cliff test for those who aim for the top. The "Corkscrew" and "Alpine Guide" are one-two for novices and those out of touch.

The club has one of the prime advantages of skiing, that of plenty of snow since it is located in the Prince Edward county snow belt that usually boasts the heaviest falls in the district.

The success of last season in the fine response of city and district skiers warranted, the management believed, addition capacities at the resort.

They have added a second modern ski tow to the electrically-operated one installed last year. They have increased the capacity on the main electric tow which now has more power, more speed and a greater capacity for skiers.

The bottoms of the ski runs which vary from 500 to 1,000 feet have been extended at several places, resulting in longer runs.

Devotees of night skiing are due for a "ball" under the stars. Floodlighting has been installed and the after-dark sport will be available several nights a week. The comfortable canteen will be open—and there will be sounds of music.

The trails have been made wider, longer and smoother by additional grooming and clearing on all hills.

As a diversion from the actual enjoyment of the sport itself, the management has arranged for ski competitions as well as a series of organized games for the kiddies.

Night skiing will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from seven to ten o'clock and other evenings if requested. The resort will be open Wednesday afternoon from 1.00 to 4.30 and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 10 a.m. to 4.30 p.m.

Ski reports will be published daily in this newspaper.

MAYBE THIS HORSE WORE FEATHERS

The county fathers in session the other day were discussing deer-hunting south of No. 7 Highway. Some were pro—others con.

One said that cattle and horses had been shot by careless hunters during the deer-hunting season. Apparently they didn't know a horse ore cow from a deer.

Another stated that a horse had been killed by the gun of a hunter in his township, but, he added:

"This was in the partridge season."

Hawks Shake Slump; Habs Nip Leafs

By RED BLACKMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When the man who signs the pay cheques starts complaining, those who cash them had better start working. And the Chicago Black Hawks don't need to be told that twice.

"This situation no longer is funny," team owner and paymaster Jim Norris said recently. "We're going to make some moves if things don't improve."

Like magic words, the blast from the boss shook the Hawks out of a five - game winless streak Wednesday night. While Montreal edged Toronto 3-2 to take second place in the National Hockey League, Chicago trounced New York Rangers 6-1.

When Norris lowered the boom, he singled out the poor play of Kenny Wharram, John McKenzie, Stan Mikita and the Hawks defence. He couldn't find fault, of course, with Bobby Hull's 30 goals in 21 games.

While Hull took a temporary vacation from his goal - scoring spree, his teammates snapped out of their slump. Wharram scored twice, Mikita got two assists, McKenzie added another and three players, Fred Stanfield and defencemen Al MacNeil and Doug Mohns connected for their first goals of the season.

HULL BOOSTS LEAD

Hull recorded three assists to increase his point - total to 29 and his scoring lead to four points over Mikita and Detroit centre Norm Ullman.

The Hawks, with Denis Dejordy in nets in place of vacationing Glenn Hall, played a strong defensive game as well and allowed New York only 17 shots before 15,197 Ranger fans. It was sweet revenge for New York's 4-1 win in Chicago last Sunday.

After a scoreless first period, Wharram's sixth of the year sent Chicago ahead and Stanfield, sifting off a penalty to McKenzie, increased the margin when he broke up New York's power play and beat goalie Marcel Pailis with a 50-foot slapshot.

Rod Gilbert got that back while McKenzie was still sitting out his minor, but the Hawks erased any Ranger hopes with a four-goal third period. Pailis, facing 38 shots, also fanned on MacNeil's 40-foot slapshot.

The victory moved Chicago to within four points of the fourth-place Rangers, who have lost only three of their last 10 games. Montreal's triumph left them one point behind league-leading Detroit and two ahead of the Leafs.

CHECK COMEBACK TRY

Gilles Tremblay's seventh of the season, scored while Montreal was a man short, was the decisive goal as the Canadiens bumped ahead 3-1 in the second period and then held off a furious Toronto comeback try in the finale.

Claude Provost and Dave Balon, both set up by Henri Richard, sent the Habs in front 2-0 in the first period and Ron Stewart tallied for the Leafs. Tremblay scored in the second, breaking up Toronto's power play and racing in alone on goalie Terry Sawchuk.

Don McKenney put the Leafs right back in the game at 12:45 of the Toronto - dominated third frame, but Charlie Hodge then locked the door.

Hodge, who stopped 36 shots, was exceptionally good in the third as the Leafs plagued the Canadiens in their own end and scrambled around the Montreal net with a Toronto crowd of 14,179 yelling for blood. He turned back everything but McKenney's picture goal.

The game saw the return of Frank Mahovlich, who had missed 11 games. He played on alternate shifts, and almost scored during the third - period blitz.

The Hawks made the second stop on their three - game road trip tonight when they engage the Bruins at Boston. The Bruins have beaten Chicago three straight times.

Y. A. Tittle Undecided
Giants' Bald Eagle Eyeing Nest

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — The old bald eagle may be at the end of the line.

Saturday's game against Cleveland Browns will be the 178th in the National Football League for Y. A. Tittle, a record for most games played. Bobby Layne's 175 is the old mark.

And although there's much speculation that this may be Tittle's last game, there's no speculation about his status—he's the starting quarterback for New York Giants.

Coach Allie Sherman ended the speculation over whether Tittle or Rookie Gary Wood would start in the key game against the Browns when he tapped Y. A. for the assignment Wednesday.

Tittle, born 38 years ago in Marshall, Tex., isn't saying if he'll hang it up after this game. The general impression is that he will call it a career and settle down with his insurance business in Atherton, Calif.

"I haven't made up my mind definitely," said Y. A. "I will make a decision after the season is over."

BEEN BAD SEASON

This has been a season of frustration for Y. A., the Most Valuable player in the NFL a year ago when he led the Giants to a third straight eastern conference title with a record 36 touchdown passes.

Going into the final game, Tittle has thrown only nine touchdown passes and ranks 15th among the league's passers. In the last two weeks, he has suffered on the bench of a last place team while Wood, an ivy leaguer from Cornell, has started.

This is the 15th year for Tittle in the NFL and his 17th as a pro, counting two years with Baltimore in the old All-American Conference in 1948 and 1949. The trial has taken him from Baltimore to San Francisco 49ers and, after the shotgun offence made him obsolete in San Francisco, back east to New York.

Although Tittle was injured early in the season when crushed to the turf by John Baker, Pittsburgh Steelers' huge defensive end, he says he feels good physically now.

"I understand why I had to sit out some games," he said. "We aren't winning. And Cary has proved to be a pretty good ball player. If I did come back another year, I wouldn't come as a part time player."

The Big Seven

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull failed to score his first goal in Wednesday night, but the golden jet from Chicago turned to playmaking and picked up three assists.

Hull, who has 30 goals in 21 games, increased his lead in the National Hockey League scoring race to four points. His total of 36 points.

Teammate Stan Mikita moved into a second place tie with Norm Ullman, Detroit, at 33 points. Mikita earned two assists.

Claude Provost, Montreal and Phil Goyette, New York, each earned a point to collect into a tie with Camille Henry, New York, at 30 points. It was Provost's ninth goal of the season and Goyette's 20th assist.

The leaders:

	G.	A.	PTS.
Hull, Chicago	9	27	36
Ullman, Detroit	11	16	33
Mikita, Chicago	7	26	33
Henry, New York	10	20	30
Provost, Montreal	9	21	30
Goyette, New York	6	24	30

Orioles Tops In Fielding

BOSTON (AP) — Baltimore Orioles fielded a collective .985 and committed only 95 errors to set major league records for the second consecutive year in 1964, the official American League fielding averages disclosed today.

The Orioles also had three individual defensive pace-setters, second - baseman Jerry Adair, third-baseman Brooks Robinson and shortstop Luis Aparicio.

Baltimore finished two points ahead of New York Yankees in the club figures.

Chuvalo Third
Terrell Top Contender

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Terrell of Chicago was named No. 1 contender for the world's heavyweight title by the World Boxing Association Wednesday.

The WBA declared the title vacant last summer after stripping Cassius Clay of his championship.

Former champion Floyd Patterson of New York was listed second in the latest monthly ratings. He was followed by George Chuvalo of Toronto and Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore. Clay was not listed in the top 10. Neither was Sonny Liston, whom Clay defeated for the title.

Terrell was to have fought Cleveland Williams for the WBA heavyweight title, but Williams was shot and wounded during a fracas with a policeman in Houston Nov. 29. He has been removed from the ratings for an indefinite period.

The WBA said it appears that Machen is the logical replacement for Williams in the championship bout. The Machen-Terrell winner apparently would meet the winner of the fight between Patterson and Chuvalo, scheduled for Jan. 29 in New York.

Light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano of Miami Beach, Fla., was named Boxer-of-the-Month by the WBA for his dramatic com.-from-behind technical knockout over Terry Downes of London last Nov. 30.

Joey Durelle of Trois Rivieres, Que., and Sale Ste. Anne, N.B., was ranked ninth in the welterweight division.

Dave Hilton of Sherbrooke, Que., was rated the eighth junior lightweight contender.

N.H.L. Stars

Kenny Wharram, Chicago, indicated he's pulling out of his slump with two goals as the Black Hawks' 6-1 victory over New York Rangers.

Gilles Tremblay, Montreal, broke up a Toronto power play in the second period and scored what proved to be the decisive goal in Canadiens' 3-2 triumph over Maple Leafs.

Nationals "Good As Europe's Best"

'Won't Be Outplayed'

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Coach Gord Simpson is confident he has welded the stamina of youth and the experience of veterans into a Canadian national hockey team that won't be outskated or outplayed.

"It will be as good as Europe's best" he said Wednesday. "Mistakes and how well we capitalize on them will be the difference."

Simpson admits the Winnipeg-based team did not do well in converting opponents' mistakes into goals in its first 18 exhibition games but hopes for improvement as he builds to a peak for the 1965 world championships in Tampere, Finland, March 4-14.

The Nationals move toward that peak this month when they play nine exhibition games against Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Canada meets Russia, 1964 Olympic champions, five times with the first game in Toronto Sunday. Other matches are Dec. 17 and 20 in Winnipeg and between Dec. 27 and 30 during an international tournament in Colorado Springs, Colo. Czechoslovakia will also participate in the tournament, then finish a four-game series against Canada with games Sunday, Jan. 3 in Winnipeg and Sunday, Jan. 10 in Toronto.

WON 13 OF 18

Earlier opponents for Nationals, a mixture of personnel from Canada's 1964 senior champion Winnipeg Maroons and the Olympic team, came from the Central Professional, Saskatchewan Senior and Eastern amateur circuits. Canada won 13, lost four and tied one.

Simpson, Maroons' coach last season, is "impressed" by the team's 7-3-1 record against CPHL clubs, well - stocked with players "just a few years away from the National Hockey League."

In 18 games, the team scored 90 times and allowed 47 goals. Included was an impressive 13-4 verdict over St. Louis Braves of the CPHL.

The team's four leading scorers were all members of Maroons last season. Centre Reg Abbott and left winger Gary Aldcorn have 12 goals each, Al Johnson nine and Elliott Chorley eight.

Aldcorn plays on a line with Roger Bourbonnais and Marshall Johnston, both members of the Olympic team that finished fourth at Innsbruck, Austria in 1964.

Other Olympic holdovers are goaltender Ken Broderick, defencemen Barry MacKenzie, Paul Conlin and Terry O'Malley and forwards Gary Begg, Brian Conacher and Garry Dineen.

Two of Simpson's three lines in recent games were formed by men who were Maroon teammates. Johnson flanks Elliott Chorley and Aggie Kukulowicz, while Abbott works with Doug Parks and Fred Dunsmore.

Nine players still on the Nationals' roster toured Europe with Maroons in 1964 and Czechoslovakia in 1960 — goaltender Don Collins, defencemen Bill Johnson and Tom Marshall, forwards Dunsmore, Abbott, Parks, Lou Goyal, Murray Couch and Jim McKenzie.

Completing the lineup, still due to be pared slightly, are defenceman Bernie Grebinsky and forward John Russell, both with Maroons in 1964.

In Stirling Area

Oak Hill Ski Club Opens

Skiing is where you find it, and the scenic hills of the Oak Lake district, ten miles north of the city, near Stirling, has been developed by a group of these thrill-seeking enthusiasts.

With the expansion of district skiing popularity the new Oak Hills Ski Club joins the Mountain View Ski Club and Batawa Ski Club in providing facilities for buffs of the sport.

This ski area project has been developed by Gordon McGaughey, a Stirling school teacher, assisted by a group of ardent student skiers and adults who lent a hand on autumn weekend to fashion trails, slopes, etc.

Actually the area is two miles due west of Oak Lake and three miles south of Stirling, near the Glen Ross turn.

Mr. McGaughey says the slopes are ideally suited to beginner and expert alike. The grade at the bottom steepens to over 25 percent gear mid-slope. Runs vary from a few hundred to over 1,400 feet. There are long outruns at the bottom.

Two tows are in operation, a junior tow operating at a slow speed to allow youngsters and beginners the proper rope handling technique. This tow is short and adjacent to the beginners practice area.

The senior tow is 900 feet and features a lightweight moisture and dirt resistant rope. Speed on this tow is regulated to 1,200 feet per minute.

A spacious warming hut for skiers' comfort is strategically placed at the bottom. The hut offers a coffee bar and pro shop facilities where equipment may be purchased or rented. Ample parking space is located at the slope bottom.

Classes of instruction are conducted every Saturday and Sunday morning—every morning due the holidays by instructors trained by the well known ski expert, Doug Ketcheson.

The Quinte Ski Patrol will be in action and has erected its own headquarters at the hill bottom.

Snow-packing operations began last week on the upper slopes and if it hoped a semi-frozen snow base will be established to help prolong the season.

OMHA Teams Win, Lose On Home Ice

The high - flying Napanee squad lived up to advance billing in OMHA peewee play here last night by defeating Belleville Rollins 3-1.

In midget play, Belleville Oddfellows downed Wellington 6-2.

Wellington bantams were also scheduled to play here but failed to appear for the game. The local Oddfellows' bantams played an exhibition against the Elks' midgets and were beaten 5-4.

In another unannounced exhibition, Belleville Bitewayers edged Napanee 3-2.

Rollins and Napanee battled on even terms for two periods. It was 1-1 after one period. Rick Meagher scored the Belleville goal with David Nelles assisting. Wayne Elder fired the Napanee marker, aided by Pete Weese.

They fought through a scoreless second before Napanee won it with an unanswered pair in the third. Murray VanAlstine triggered the winner, aided by Weese, and elder potted his second goal on a solo effort to wrap it up.

In the midget tilt, Oddfellows led 2-1 after one heat and 4-1 going into the final period. They continued their two-a-period pace by outscoring Wellington 2-1 again in the third.

T. Schwaeger sparked the attack with two goals and as many assists. D. Duvall was close behind with a pair of goals and one helper. L. Moore and D. Muir each scored a goal and assist. R. Sumhers contributed two assists.

Elks' midgets scored all their goals in the first period, leading 5-2, while downing the bantam Oddfellows. The losers made it close with two in the third.

Ted Herrington got a goal and two assists, Jim McKenzie and Terry Wellesly one of each for the winners. Terry McQuegan and John Colle also scored and Dan Whalen had an assist.

Harry Smith fired two Oddfellow markers, Ted Waite and Joe Lumsdon one each. Bill Royea, Ron Mitchell, Bill Janitsc, Derek Hutchinson and Chuck Powell got assists.

Bitewayneres broke a scoreless tie with two goals in the second before Napanee held a 2-1 margin in the third.

Doctor's Orders

Kidd Benched 8 Weeks

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd will not run for at least eight weeks, according to his doctor, but may be running normally next summer.

Dr. W. J. Virgin, an orthopaedic surgeon, said Kidd was operated on Wednesday and doctors removed scar tissue and a bony spur on his left heel. He described the operation as "routine."

Barring further trouble, the 21-year-old Canadian champion and distance runner will definitely be physically ready by the 1967 Pan-American Games in Winnipeg. If physiotherapy treatment are successful, Kidd may be ready to resume training in two months.

In addition to the scar tissue trouble, the two main tendons on both Kidd's legs have slipped outside the bony ridges in which they normally ride.

Dr. Virgin said he will give Kidd the physiotherapy treatment, which will involve no running, for several weeks before deciding whether another operation is needed for the tendon trouble.

CAUSED PAIN

The scar tissue had made it painful for the distance runner to get up on the balls of his feet.

In an interview Wednesday, Kidd said he was aiming for the Pan-American Games, to be held in Winnipeg, rather than the 1964 Olympics, in Mexico City, because the rarefied air in the Mexican city makes it tough for distance runners.

Kidd's last raceh were at the Olympic Games in Tokyo, in October, where he finished 26th of 29 runners in the 10,000 metres and was eliminated in the heats for the 3,000 metres.

The 21-year-old student runner said Wednesday he is much more interested in his university studies than running at present. Kidd missed about three weeks of classes when he went to the Olympic Games.

Gananoque Loses 10-7 To Trenton

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton Kings mapped back into winning form by outlasting the Gananoque Islanders 10-7 in an OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League game last night.

The game was a home affair for Trenton but was played on Napanee ice.

Trenton's victory was their fourth against two defeats. The club travels to Belleville for a title clash game tomorrow (Friday) night with first place up for grabs.

The Kings took a narrow 3-1 lead in the opening heat and increased their margin to 6-3 in the middle frame.

Trenton's scoring was evenly distributed. Rick O'Donnell, Don Morrison, Dale Lewis and Ross Quigley scored two goals apiece. Les Genereaux and Terry Hutchinson added singletons.

Bob Dickson paced Gananoque with a three-goal performance, aided by Murray Rountree with two goals. Rod Compeau and Doug Higgins added a goal apiece.

Trenton picked up seven of the game's 12 minor penalties. A third period fight earned majors for Gananoque's Stan Parker and Trenton's Gord Stevenson.

Campbell's Idea

Encourage Russians To Play Our 'Game'

MONTREAL (CP)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Wednesday the Russians should be encouraged to play "our" game and not be given the impression that "we are going head-hunting for them."

Campbell was discussing in an interview the appearance here Friday of Russia's national hockey team in a game against Montreal Junior Canadiens, who will be bolstered for the contest by six professional players from the American Hockey League.

"I'm trying to encourage the Russians to play the game," Campbell said, and "not trying to prove the point that we can knock them around. Anybody prepared to adopt 'our' game should be encouraged. . . ."

The Soviets open a Canadian tour against the Juniors and it will be the first time they will come against Canadian professional players of the calibre of defenceman Doug Harvey and goalie Gump Worsley.

All six pros from the Quebec Aces, Eastern Division leaders in the AHL, have NHL experience. One of them, Red Berenson, has played against the Russians before.

Campbell said he is looking forward to the game which he says will give everyone "an insight as to just how close they are coming to our concept of how hockey should be played."

"If this type of game is not misused, it holds the promise of much more extensive participation (between the two countries). The Russians have never backed off from competition and, if this is a fair game either way, it should encourage them even further," Campbell said.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seattle Totems remain the front - runners in the Western Hockey League but it's tip and tuck between Vancouver Canucks and Portland Buckaroos for second place.

Canucks broke open a tight game with a four-goal salvo in the final period Wednesday to defeat the Blades 5-3 at Los Angeles.

The victory moved them into a second-place tie with Portland when the Bucks couldn't keep up with the San Francisco Seals and dropped a 3-2 decision.

The Seals now are in fifth place in the six-team league, ahead of the tail-end Victoria Maple Leafs.

Their Wednesday victory was spectacular. Len Haley picked up a rebound and scored the winning goal in the final three minutes. Tom Thurlby scored the first Seal goal in the first period and Ed Panagabko added the other in the second.

Don Shula Named Top NFL Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Shula's job of leading Baltimore Colts to the Western Conference title of the National Football League in his second year as head coach earned him recognition today as the league's Coach-of-the-Year by The Associated Press panel.

Shula won by a landslide in the voting of the 43-man group, three from each league city. The Baltimore coach had 38 votes to three for Blanton Collier of Cleveland Browns.

Hershey 13 String Clipped

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears, making a great rush at Quebec Aces, eastern division leaders of the American Hockey League, had their unbeaten streak broken at 13 games Wednesday night as Springfield Indians, paced by excellent defensive work, defeated the Bears 4-3 in Hershey.

Springfield built up a 3-0 lead early in the second period and held on for the win. The Indians' defence allowed only 21 shots on rookie goaltender George Wood, making his third start in the Springfield nets.

In the only other game of the night, Buffalo Bisons beat Providence Reds 5-2 in Buffalo.

The third - place Indians also snapped a streak winning their first game in seven. Bears had won 11 and tied two since Nov. 1.

Jim Anderson, Dennis Olson and Brian Smith gave the Indians a three-goal spree and Danny Poliziani scored the fourth goal in the final period. Barclay Plager and Bruce Cline scored for the Bears.

C. Taylor Rookie Of The Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Charley Taylor, tagged as a "can't miss" prospect when he was drafted No. 1 by Washington Redskins last year out of Arizona State, has been named Rookie of the Year in the National Football League by an Associated Press panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

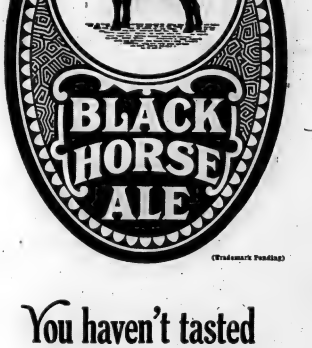
Taylor, six-foot-three and 210 pounds, was voted the most valuable player in the college All-Star game at Chicago in August and was outstanding in the All-America game earlier at Buffalo.

With the Redskins, the 23-year-old halfback has been equally successful as a runner and pass catcher. In fact, he will be the first rookie since Johnny Grigas of Chicago Cardinals in 1943 to rank among the top 10 in both rushing and receiving.

Going into Sunday's final game with Baltimore Colts, Taylor has gained 764 yards in 121 carries and 720 yards on 46 passes.

Griffith Honored By Magazine

NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight champion Emile Griffith, who stopped Dave Charnley of England in a non-title bout in London, has been named Ring magazine's Fighter-of-the-Month.



In its December ratings, released today, Ring elevated Sam Foley to No. 4 contender among the heavyweights. He replaced Cleveland Williams, now recovering from bullet wounds suffered in a scuffle with police. Williams was dropped to sixth.

Ring still lists Cassius Clay as heavyweight champion. Sonny Liston is the No. 1 contender and Floyd Patterson second. Ernie Terrell of Philadelphia, rated No. 1 by the World Boxing Association, is Ring's No. 3 contender.

George Chuvalo of Toronto, scheduled to fight Patterson in New York Jan. 23 and ranked No. 6 by the WBA, rates fifth in Ring's list. He is the only Canadian to appear in the Ring ratings.

Gordie Howe's Hockey

By GORDIE HOWE

A hockey observer at practice the other day was surprised to see me wearing a thin rubber shirt under my jersey. "Do you have a weight problem?" he inquired. "No, I can put it on any time," I joked. Seriously, the rubber shirt has a dual purpose.

Many players use them in training camp and in the earlier part of the season if they're fighting a weight problem. A lot of fellows are inclined to put on weight when they get a little older.

However, I find the rubber shirt also serves a double purpose. The day after a tough game, I'll put a rubber shirt on, on occasion, in order to get the kinks and the sore spots out of the body.

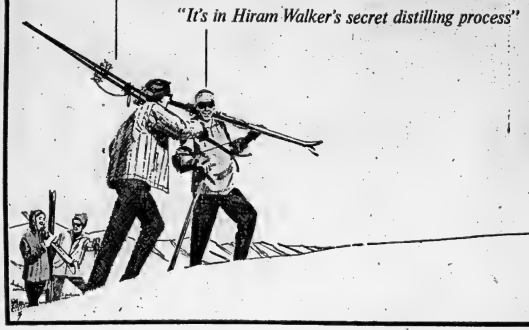
The rubber retains the body heat, causes you to perspire freely, stimulates the flow of the blood and you get rid of the bruises.

In contrast, the players hate a "cold sweat." When you work hard in a game and you're perspiring freely, you're skating freely. You're thinking better. You're a better hockey player.

However, sometimes when you're perspiring freely in a game, a delay develops. A pane of glass is broken and has to be replaced. Or a goaltender breaks a strap and his equipment has to be repaired. You sit there for five or ten minutes and you cool off.

In order to get the body perspiring again, you have to work extra hard.

It takes that much more out of you. When you have such a "cold sweat", it's a very tough night.



Last season at playoff time a sona bath was built adjacent to the Red Wings' shower room. After practice some of the older fellows use it to get rid of the sore spots.

We're careful not to over-indulge, stay in there too long. If you stay in it too long, you can lose three or four pounds, sap your energy.

Players like Bill Gadsby, who constantly drops to the ice to block shots, uses the sona bath to loosen up after a game. He goes right from the sona bath into a cold shower.

Bob Shaw Argos' '65 Coach?

TORONTO (CP)—Head coach Bob Shaw of Saskatchewan Roughriders conferred here Wednesday with Lew Hayman, managing director of Toronto Argonauts, about the prospects of coaching Argos next football season.

Hayman said the coach of the Western Football Conference club is on a list of three possible four, candidates for the Toronto coaching job following the dismissal of coach Nobby Wirkowski a month ago.

Hayman said he decision will be made on Wirkowski's successor until the Argonaut directorate meets at the weekend, or no later than next Tuesday.

Hayman said he has already interviewed Jim Champion, defensive coach of British Columbia Lions, the Grey Cup champions, and Joe Restic, assistant coach of Hamilton Tiger - Cats, defeated Grey Cup finalists.

He did not name the possible fourth candidate.

However, the Globe and Mail says Shaw has verbally agreed to sign a two-year contract at $20,000 a year to the Argonauts.

The newspaper says Champion and Restic have probably been passed over because their previous experience has all been as assistants.

"They have had no head-coaching experience, an asset that is considered necessary in the proposed rehabilitation of Argos," the paper states.

SHAPING the EARTH

ARE MAN AND MONKEY LINKED?

Related to the lemurs are the TARSIERS, which are also almost extinct. About as large as a rat, it is a RIGHT ANIMAL, that lives in trees, has big ears, a short snout and large goggle-like eyes.

Apes, monkeys and lemurs belong to the same group called PRIMATES. The LEMUR is the oldest. Widespread throughout the world about 60 million years ago, most lemurs BECAME EXTINCT, when unable to compete with monkeys.

Primatologists come later were monkeys and apes, leaving lemurs nearly extinct, such as the PROSIMIANS. We lived in Africa, usually lived on all fours, but could WALK UPRIGHT. He climbed trees easily, but did not live in them.

South Bend, Ind. Has Taken Road Back After Losing Studebaker Corp. Plant

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—One year ago yesterday Eugene Hellman, 41, father of two, was fired—along with 6,822 other employees of the Studebaker Corporation in South Bend.

The company, crippled by heavy losses and dismal sales, decided to halt car-making at its huge plant on the south end of this city of 132,445, switched its car operations to Hamilton, Ont.

The city was stunned. Hard times had been few during the firm's 111 years in South Bend, but on the bleak Dec. 8 the city's unemployment rate soared from 2.1, a 10-year low, to a depressed area level of 9.1.

For Hellman, Studebaker's decision was frightening. "It's all we know," his pretty blonde wife, Ruth, said in an interview then. "It means selling our property, our home and starting all over again.

A native of South Bend, Hellman like thousands of others—had spent most of his adult life working at Studebaker. His comfortable eight -room house was only four blocks from the plant.

Today, the plant is a symbol of the city's determined efforts to avoid panic and meet its problems realistically.

BACK AT WORK

Hellman is back at work at that plant in his job as an assembly line foreman. But now he works for a new company, Kaiser Jeep Corporation, one of four firms that moved to South Bend and relocated in the plant. The firms have hired 1,200 employees, most of them former Studebaker workers, and more are expected to be hired in the spring.

What started South Bend back on the road was an energetic combination of civic pride and federal initiative.

President Johnson set up a special force to co-ordinate efforts "to mitigate immediate hardship and promote long-term economic recovery."

The group leased a section of the deserted Studebaker plant and set up a huge vocational training program under the Manpower Development and Training Act. Eventually 1,200 former Studebaker workers will be taught new professions and skills in the $281,000 program.

BRINGS QUICK RESULTS

To help the 3,536 former Studebaker workers over 50, Project Able was undertaken. Aimed at convincing local employers to hire the older workers, the program brought these quick results:

Within months 717 of the over-50 workers had steady jobs.

The number of persons on unemployment benefits dropped from 4,500 in December to 2,000 in April.

The unemployment rate fell steadily during the year. By Nov. 1 it was 5.3 slightly above the national average.

Says Clete H. Kruyer Jr., executive vice - president of the First Bank and Trust Company, South Bend's largest:

"What's happened is that everybody overrated the effects of Studebaker's leaving.

"One of the biggest problems we have is that on the outside people have been talking about what's been going on inside South Bend. It's amazing how many visitors—particularly out-of-town bankers — come here and expect to see the sidewalks folded up."

Kruyer said the four major banks in the area recently reported they were ahead of 1963's pace in every savings and loan category.

HAD GREAT SUCCESS

"Most of the businessmen thought it would take three to five years to overcome this thing," said J. Frank Hartwig, executive director of the committee of 100, "but we had phenomenal progress."

The committee, a civic organization devoted to attracting new plants and businesses, stepped up its activities after Studebaker left.

Along with the four companies at the old Studebaker plant, eight others began operations in the area in 1964, Hartwig said at least 12 more out-of-state firms have tentative agreements to move into South Bend in 1965 and are expected to hire 1,000 more former Studebaker workers.

Retired Canadian Colonel Helps Britain Honor Debt

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — A retired Canadian colonel has helped the British Army honor a 325-year-old war debt.

The debt is for "400 rations of green forage" obtained by the quartermaster of the 3rd Dragoon Guards in June, 1781, during the Seven Years' War.

It came to light last year when 79-year-old Karl Blume handed the faded receipt to Col. Robert Lindsay of Medicine Hat, Alta., now acting as a liaison officer with the British Army of the Rhine.

Blume, whose family has farmed the same estate near the Canadian Brigade headquarters at Soest since the 16th century, discovered the bill while going through some old documents.

Apparently the Dragoons had experienced a long, hard winter when food and fodder for the horses was short. The commanding officer forgot to pay for the forage before moving on.

The 3rd Dragoons have long since disappeared from the army lists but their successors are the 3rd Carabiniers, now stationed near Soest.

SOLD FORAGE

Blume believes it was his great - great - great great grandfather who sold the forage to the British soldiers.

"Fortunately Blume isn't insisting the repayment should be at current prices for fodder," says Col. Lindsay. "He is a well-known local landlord who has kept on close friendly terms with the British and Canadian soldiers stationed here."

To maintain the honor of the regiment the commanding officer of the 3rd Carabiniers has presented Blume with an engraved gold sovereign — now worth about 32 shillings—and a series of framed prints showing the change in British uniforms since the 1700s.

The Seven Years' War was waged by England and Prussia against France, Austria and Russia. During its many campaigns British armies frequently marched across Continental Europe.

One of the war's results was the consolidation of the British conquests over the French in Canada.

OTTAWA (CP) — A small group of enthusiastic film fans gathered in a musty science theatre at the National Museum here not long ago to watch a 40-year-old silent movie which had thrilled thousands of moviegoers when it was first released in 1925.

The movie, D. W. Griffith's epic of the American civil war, The Birth of a Nation, starred a young actress named Lillian Gish.

It was shown here to the accompaniment of its original piano score, resurrected from the New York Museum of Modern Art, and played by Wynn Canty, an Ottawa woman whose mother played the piano in the stres before the days' of the talkies.

The Ottawa showing was the first in a series of screenings which will go on all winter under the auspices of the newly organized National Film Theatre, an offshoot of the Canadian Film Institute.

The theatre, described by the institute's executive director Roy Little as "a concept rather than a society or organization," has been set up to give film fans a chance to see the "collection of films of historical importance which the institute has recently acquired for its national archives.

FOUND IN FISH HOUSE

A hope behind the organization of the archives and the film theatre is that eventually programs 'of films may be shipped to cities all over Canada, bringing rare glimpses of the art of cinematography to thousands of Canadians now unable to see the archives' collection.

The start has already been made at circulating part of the collection in at least one other Canadian city, Toronto. Filmgoers there will be able to see screenings similar to the Ottawa series this winter.

Included in the series is Canada's first "talkie"—The Viking, a 1931 feature film uncovered in a Newfoundland fish house. The only surviving print found in the fish house, and the subsequent release prints which were struck from it, now are in the Canadian film archives library.

Production of The Viking in Newfoundland and on the sealing ship Viking was disrupted when the ship exploded in the ice fields, killing the entire film unit including co-director Varik Prissell.

This, however, was a second trip on the ship, undertaken to obtain some more sealing additional material, and the film was completed by George Melford, the surviving director. As far as can be determined, the film was shot silent and the sound was added later.

The Viking includes an introduction by Sir Wilfred Grenfell, the medical missionary, developer and explorer of Labrador. The dramatic scenes "telling the story of a modern Jonah," are considered quite naïve by film critics, but the photography of the men and ships in the ice is said to be extremely fine.

FIRST FOR CONTINENT

Among the short films of Canadian historical interest in the archives, but which will not be shown this season by the film theatre, is a collection of miscellaneous footage showing a variety of scenes of Canadian life between 1914 and 1918.

It includes shots of the old Parliament Buildings in Ottawa after the fire of 1916 and of the construction of the Welland Canal.

In February, the National Film Theatre will present the first North American screening of Louis Feuillade's 1916 feature, Judex.

This unusual film has just recently begun to win acclaim in international film circles. It is described as a "dramatic romance of justice, vengeance and love" and is in 10 episodes with titles such as The Mysterious Shadow, The Mirror that Moved and Into the Abyss.

The Ottawa members of the film theatre may have their loyalty acutely tested when Judex is screened. It runs for approximately six hours.

"We haven't decided yet whether to run it all at once or show it in two or three parts," said the film theatre's program director, Bruce Martin.

But he indicated that he might try a marathon showing, both for the sake of novelty and to maintain the continuity of the sub-titled episodes.

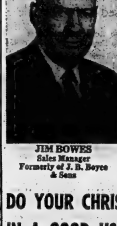
WHITE GIFT SUNDAY

White's Church Sunday School held their white gift service on Sunday morning with Miss Cynthia Jones at the piano. Christmas carols were sung throughout the service. The junior choir sang an anthem and Mrs. Garnet Dean and Mrs. George Hilhan contributed a duet. The primary and beginner classes sang a selection. Misses Wendy and Kathy Jones, Mr. Mervi Taylor and Mrs. Albert Jones assisted in the service. Mr. Taylor gave a fine Christmas message explaining the meaning of the "white gift" service. Each kindness in deed or word is appreciated as well as a large or small money gift. The children gave their money gifts this year which are to be sent for Overseas Relief. All children had saved their pennies or silver in little white banks.



SPECIAL SERVICE

A special baptismal service was held at White's Church on Sunday with Rev. T. W. Townsend assisting Mr. Roy McGrath. The pianist was Mrs. James Palmer with her family and some of their friends forming the choir, who rendered an anthem. A baptismal service was held for Robin John, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Taylor and for Elizabeth Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cooper. The interest to all, the baptismal water was holy water from the River Jordan obtained by Rev. Townsend on his tour of the Holy Land.

New members received into White's Church were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Taylor, Misses Cynthia Jones, Elizabeth Cooper, Parry McGrath, Brenda Yateman and Mr. David McGrath.

A fine message was given by Mr. Townsend and communion service was administered to all members.

Middle Income Negro Family Hunts in Vain for Home

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (CP) — CBS Reports, without editorializing, Wednesday night illuminated unmarked segregation in the northern United States by documenting the hunt of an educated, middle income Negro family for a $30,000 house in an integrated neighborhood.

The family of Corbett Rachal, a maker of high fashion wigs, started hunting for a four - bedroom house near their old home in Teaneck, N.J., last summer. They have not yet found one.

CBS put a camera into a disguised truck and hid mikes in phones on Rachal and his wife, Sally, as they tried to persuade real estate brokers to show them houses.

We never saw the brokers and CBS Reports revealed the names of unwilling house sellers. But some sounded almost apologetic in trying to persuade the Rachals that they would not like certain neighborhoods or that prices were too high. A community fair housing committee was unable to help.

At mid-program, the scene shifted to a New Rochelle, N.Y. area where 114 white families, 50 Negro families and two oriental families are happily living together and where, as one white resident said, property values have not declined.

Dave Garroway, who quit NBC's Today Show after the death of his wife four years ago, has decided to drop his two daily New York CBS local radio programs soon. Garroway cited "pressures of other business commitments."

NBC will present its first White Paper in many a month Jan. 4 as a 90-minute program, The Decision to Drop the Bomb.

The program about the first atomic bomb revives the disputes surrounding the decision that ushered in a new nuclear age 20 years ago. Among persons to be interviewed are Harry S. Truman, who as president made the decision; scientists Edward Teller, Leo Szilard and Robert Oppenheimer, important in the bomb's development, and Gen. Robert Lewis of the plane that carried the weapon to Japan.

Recommended tonight:

Danny Thomas' variety special, NBC, 8:30-9:30 EST—with Jimmy Durante, Eddie Fisher and Joey Bishop as guest stars.

'Seance on Wet Afternoon' Is Bizarre Kidnap Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movies about kidnapping are uncomfortable to watch, which may be why none has been successful. Sance on a Wet Afternoon is a bizarre kidnap tale, is not likely to win a wide audience because of this general queasy taste to view children in jeopardy.

But it can be recommended for those seeking a completely engrossing, if unnerving, two hours.

The British film begins and ends with an expedition into the occult. In between, two dispossessed individuals plot and carry out their diabolical scheme.

The idea seems to be that a medium and her compliant husband figure to abduct a rich man's daughter, then help solve the crime as public proof of her extrasensory powers.

There may be deeper meanings involved, but most moviegoers will have enough to do anticipating the next turn of events. That's how engrossing the film is.

Kim Stanley makes one of her too-frequent film appearances as the unhappy medium. Her Myra, addicted to scratchy opera records and brow-beating her husband, is a rare portrait. The final trance, in which she contacts herself through childhood scenes, is the kind that makes academy consideration imperative.

Richard Attanborough, who doubles as producer, plays the husband with such deftness and sympathy that you almost find yourself pulling for him to accomplish the job. The director is Bryan Forbes, who scored with last season's The L-Shaped Room.

The Americanization of Emily is another disturbing film, on an intellectual level. It takes all the standard cliches of Hollywood, war movies and mains them with cynical disdain.

Lt. Cmdr. Charlie Madison is a dog-robber, an admiral's aide who can commandeer the best steaks, booze, women and other necessities for the smooth functioning of the high command in London before D-Day. He is medium and her compliant husband figure to abduct a rich man's daughter, then help solve the crime as public proof of her extrasensory powers.

Judge Reserves Judgment on Dutch Couple

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Stanley N. Schatz of the Ontario Supreme Court reserved judgment Wednesday on the case of a Dutch couple who have been denied Canadian citizenship because they are atheists and don't attend church.

The judge heard a review of the case of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bergsma of Caledonia, 14 miles south of Hamilton, who unsuccessfully applied for Canadian citizenship in Cayuga County court before Judge W. W. Leach.

Lawyer Ian Scott, representing the couple whose case has been discussed in the House of Commons, asked Mr. Justice Schatz to quash Judge Leach's decision and direct him to send a certificate to the citizenship minister so the minister can act.

Mr. Scott asked as an alternative that Mr. Justice Schatz direct Judge Leach to rehear the Bergsmas' case without considering Mr. Scott said Leach tended are irrelevant matters such as the applicants religious beliefs.

The lawyer said the citizenship minister is barred from acting in the case until the judge has certified his findings in a report to the minister. In such cases, the judge in citizenship court certifies that the applicants have complied with the requirements of Section 20 of the Canadian Citizenship Act, Mr. Scott said.

Thomas Jacob of Dunnville, representing Judge Leach, said the judge must decide in his discretion whether to recommend the Bergsmas for citizenship.

Mr. Jacob said the preamble to the Canadian Bill of Rights asserts that "the freedom of religion is founded upon the principles that acknowledge the supremacy of God." He said the bill of rights does not say Canadians have the freedom of no religion.

Mr. S. H. Benedict of Cobourg was a visitor of his granddaughter, Mrs. Douglas Harry and husband on Sunday.

Journalists Strike in Italy

ROME (AP) — Union called 1,000 Italian journalists on a one-week strike today, plunging the country into a news blackout.

The government radio - television network and weekly magazines were hit by the contract dispute. Only foreign-language dailies published.

The newspaper men are seeking a five-day week, one day less than at present, and higher salaries based on length of service.

Quebec: Relations Are Smoother

By JOHN YORSTON

QUEBEC (CP)—April 2, 1964, seemed a dismal day for Quebec and Canada.

A federal - provincial fiscal conference had just ended in the Quebec legislature building and Premier Jean Lesage, disappointment filling his face, read a prepared statement on the talks.

"Le gouvernement du Quebec n'est pas satisfait," he said, his voice raspy with weariness. "The government of Quebec is not satisfied."

The reason was that little had been done during the three-day conference to meet Quebec's requirements for an immediate increase in its share of personal income taxes.

The provincial budget speech was two weeks away and Mr. Lesage made it clear double taxation would be imposed on Quebecers and Ottawa blamed.

But within 18 days, as the result of secret negotiations, a package deal with broad implications for Canada was negotiated between Quebec and Ottawa.

The federal government agreed to make more tax resources available to the province and adopted many of the features of the widely praised Quebec portable pensions plan. In return, Quebec agreed to modify some aspects of its plan, making the two almost identical.

The way was opened for Quebec to get more money to finance education, roads and social welfare measures and at the same time for workers to carry their pensions in and out of Quebec more easily.

When the fiscal conference ended, only weeks remained to the deadline for Ottawa to meet Mr. Lesage's demand for 25 per cent of corporation and personal income taxes and all succession duties, the so-called 25-25-100 formula.

As a result of the agreement, Quebec will obtain by 1966 24 per cent of personal income taxes, in addition to the 21 per cent of corporation taxes and 75 per cent of succession duties it already receives.

With federal-provincial relations going more smoothly, the Quebec government appeared, as 1964 waned, to be preparing for a showdown with separatism.

A hint of this came when Mr. Lesage was in Paris where he told a reporter that separatists "don't even dare to present candidates in an election."

The province got a new attorney-general in October and he made it clear, within hours of his appointment, that the separatists will have to obey the law meticulously as they campaign for Quebec's secession.

Claude Wagner, 39, a tough former judge, was yanked off the bench and into the cabinet by Mr. Lesage. He challenged "sincere and serious" separatists to prepare for elections "and go to the people democratically to see what they think of them and their separatist ideas."

Shortly after this Pierre Bourgault, 33, leader of the separatist body in the province, started a Quebec-wide speaking tour preaching non-violent secession from Canada.

Mr. Bourgault, head of Le Rassemblement pour l'Independence Nationale, which claims 7,000 members, was the main speaker at a demonstration against the October Royal Visit to Quebec on the eve of Queen Elizabeth's arrival. The demonstration attracted about 700 to a public hall in Lower Town Quebec City.

Next day in the Quebec legislature the Queen made a major statement on Confederation which was generally well received in Quebec.

While knots of separatists shouted slogans outside, the Queen said a dynamic state "should not fear to reassess its political philosophy."

"That an agreement worked out 100 years ago does not necessarily meet all the needs of the present should not be surprising."

As an offshoot of federal-provincial frictions, the Quebec Liberal party broke away from the federal party because, Mr. Lesage said, the two groups are often on different sides of the fence on specific issues. Not being allied meant they would discuss these differences more easily.

The provincial Liberals consolidated their hold on the province in four by-elections, holding three seats and grabbing one that had been held by the Union Nationale for 29 years.

The Union Nationale, the official opposition, seemed to be in trouble. Not only did it lose a traditional stronghold but one member, Yves Gabias of Trois-Rivieres, said he is dissatisfied with the leadership of Daniel Johnson, 49, party chief since 1961. A party meeting, scheduled for this fall, was postponed until the spring.

Mr. Gabias, a lawyer who succeeded to the seat once held by Maurice Duplessis, was suspended from the legislature for three years after he accused former attorney - general Rene Hamel of influence peddling. A legislative committee ruled the charge had not been proved and the assembly, in an unprecedented step, voted Mr. Gabias' suspension.

Standing in the 95-seat legislative assembly now is: Liberals 62, Union Nationale 30. Independent one, vacant two.

Three important sections of the population flexed their muscles during 1964.

Students, many of them voters since the voting age was dropped to 18, paraded 7,000 strong in support of the Quebec position at the April federal - provincial fiscal conference.

Labor made clear its opposition to a piece of labor legislation when the 235,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC) threatened a general strike if the bill was not changed. Most of the alterations demanded were made.

Farmers, riled over increasing real estate taxes and dropping revenues, voiced their discontent in the first mass rally ever held by farmers at the legislature.

Some 25,000 came from many parts of the province and the government announced a 25-per-cent reduction in school taxes for rural areas.

QUEBEC POLITICIANS — These four men were involved in Quebec politics during 1964. They are from left: Yves Gabais of Trois Rivieres, a lawyer, is dissatisfied with Union Nationale leadership of Daniel Johnson; Pierre Bourgault, is the leader of le Rassemblement pour l'Independence Nationale, the main separatist body in Quebec; Jean Lesage, Premier of Quebec; and Claude Wagner, a tough former judge, named the new attorney-general in October. HOUSE REJECTS PLEBISCITE ON FLAG

Nineteen Feed In Connection With Slayings

Purported Confession Refused by Warding

By DON McKEE

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The U.S. justice department today prepared to present its evidence to a federal grand jury against 19 men freed of charges in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers.

Federal attorneys were stunned Thursday when U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter ruled out a purported confession at a preliminary hearing. When the justice department attorneys left, she dismissed the conspiracy charges against the men, thus freeing them. They were among 21 white men arrested Dec. 4.

It will be up to U.S. District Judge Harold Cox at Jackson to convene the grand jury. Robert Owen, justice department attorney, said, "we will ask that a grand jury be called as soon as possible."

Another man, James Jordan, was scheduled to have a hearing today before Miss. before U.S. Commissioner Verta Lee Sweatman.

Jordan, who was arrested in his hometown of Gulfport last Friday, was not affected by the Meridian action.

NO DATE SET

No date was set for a preliminary hearing for the 21st man, Horace D. Barnette, who was arrested in Shreveport, La.

When Miss Carter ruled against the testimony of an FBI agent, Owen declined to put up additional witnesses.

Then the commissioner said she had no alternative but to grant a defence motion to throw out the charges.

"The defendants are discharged," she said, and ordered their release from bonds of $5,500 to $5,000.

The 20 defendants, including Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and Deputy Cecil Price of Neshoba County, left the Meridian courthouse free of all charges but six days after their arrest in a massive roundup by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

IS ONLY WITNESS

The dramatic moment in the hearing came with the first and only witness, FBI Agent Henry Rask of Atlanta. Owen asked the agent if he had interviewed Barnette, one of 10 men the FBI had charged with taking part in the killings.

Rask testified he interviewed Barnette, 25, of Cullen, La., in the county of Meridian, Nov. 19, 20 and 21.

"Did you obtain from him a signed statement?" Owen asked.

"I did," Rask said.

Then Owen asked the agent how he obtained the statement.

Rask began: "I talked to Mr. Barnette and we discussed various things. . . ." Here the defense lawyers interrupted with objections that

To Undergo Operation On Artery

NEW YORK (AP)—The Duke of Windsor leaves Saturday for Houston, Tex., to undergo "corrective arterial surgery" by a noted heart surgeon.

The former King Edward VIII, now 70, is reported to be suffering from a possible abdominal aneurysm—a ballooning of an artery in the abdomen according to a spokesman at Methodist Hospital, Houston, where the surgery will be performed.

The Duchess of Windsor will accompany him. A hospital room near the duke's room has been reserved for her.

The aide's announcement Thursday said:

"The Duke of Windsor is being admitted to the Methodist Hospital in Houston, Tex., for corrective arterial surgery to be performed by Dr. Michael de Bakey, professor of surgery, Baylor University college of medicine."

KNOWN FOR WORK

De Bakey has developed a reputation in the cardiovascular field — relating to or involving the heart and blood vessels.

Doctors in New York, where the duke and duchess have been staying at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, have been caring for the duke and recommended the surgery, the aide said.

Asked why Methodist Hospital and de Bakey were chosen, the aide said:

"It is very simple. The No. 1 man in the field is Dr. de Bakey and he wants to operate in his own hospital with his own team."

In London, Jack Lo Vino, American lawyer who is filming the duke's biography (A King's Story), said the sometime king had him by transatlantic

Rebels Murder Two Nuns

From AP-Reuters

LEOPOLD VILLE (CP) — Congo rebels have killed two Roman Catholic nuns—one Belgian and the other believed to be American—in the Isangi region north of Stanleyville, reliable diplomatic sources said here today.

The source said reports reaching them from Stanleyville said the two nuns had been killed and their bodies thrown in the Congo River.

The American embassy said one of the nuns, identified only by her religious name Marie Antoinette, was believed to be a U.S. national.

Word of their deaths was received when a mercenary column reached Stanleyville from its rescue mission in the Isangi area. The column brought out 43 white persons.

The report from the column Thursday said they had found 50 whites alive at Yangambi and one at Isangi.

There was no explanation here for the smaller figure or confirmation of a government report that six European plantation workers in the area were found dead.

TO BRING HERE

The rescued whites were to be brought to Leopoldville.

Sixty other whites, freed by mercenary forces at Paulis, also were due here. Reports from Paulis said the bodies of 15 mercenaries killed there were also being brought to Leopoldville.

The earlier reports said the 39 were rescued by soldiers led by Maj. Michael Hoare, commander of Congolese President Moise Tshombe's white mercenaries.

Tshombe May Go to Bonn for Money Rather Than to New York for Debate

ROME (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe was reported today planning to go to Bonn Saturday looking for money instead of to New York for the UN Security Council debate on the Congo.

A source close to the Congolese premier's party said he is seeking financial help from Italian businessmen and the government and would do the same in Bonn, West Germany.

At the Congo embassy, however, a spokesman said there has been no change in plans. Tshombe is certain of a hostile reception at the UN from African opponents.

A well dressed woman in a fur coat threw a rotten egg at him today as he arrived at the Italian ministry of industry. The egg hit one of his aides. Police took the thrower away.

The egging was his first personal contact with Communist-inspired protests against his visit to the Italian capital.

Wednesday night, before he arrived, about 600 demonstrators skirmished with police in downtown Rome. Thursday night, while he was elsewhere in the city, 800 demonstrators fought police in the Piazza Colonna, and scores were injured including eight Italian legislators.

A dozen were injured in Naples in a similar demonstration by 500 leftists. In Milan, police kept 50 youths from marching on the Belgian Consulate to demonstrate against Tshombe.

Tshombe was given a 20-minute private audience with the Pope Thursday after he flew from Leopoldville, the Congolese capital.

Quick Solution Of Water Levels Not Probable

OTTAWA (CP)—A Commons committee studying the problems of high and low water levels on the Great Lakes was told Thursday not to expect any quick solutions.

Albert J. Meserow of Ann Arbor, Mich., chairman of the U.S. - based Great Lakes Commission, told the Commons committee on mines, forests and waters that many years may go by before the problem is solved.

The commission is a statutory body set up by the eight American states bordering on the Great Lakes. It studies all problems relating to the lakes and makes recommendations to state legislatures and the International Joint Commission.

Mr. Meserow said a big step towards solving the problem had been taken when the Canadian and American governments had asked the IJC to undertake a study to see whether it is practical to attempt further regulation of water levels on the lakes.

The study may take four or five years, he said. Then more time would be needed for the governments to take the steps outlined by the study.

Gave Nothing Away in Talks With Johnson Says Wilson

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson, arriving home Thursday night from Ottawa and Washington, said he had no expectations for Britain's world - wide role on defence matters but he had given nothing away in his talks with President Johnson.

"We have preserved our position," Wilson told a BBC television questioner at Manchester where his plane was diverted by fog from London.

Wilson sought to show there was no reason for discontented rumblings among left - wingers of his own Labor party over his discussions in Washington regarding the United States proposal for a multilateral nuclear force.

But left - wing spokesman, Ian Mikardo, long - time member of Parliament, said on TV just after Wilson spoke that the premier would break his election "contract" with the party if he dropped opposition to the MLF.

Wilson is scheduled to brief his cabinet today and on Saturday to address the annual Labor party conference in Brighton.

Wilson made only a brief reference to his talks with Prime

Two Gunmen Hold up Bank At Same Time

WEST COVINA, Calif. (AP)—Daily double:

Two armed robbers, apparently working independently, entered the same bank at almost the same moment Thursday, police said.

Neither gave any indication of being aware of the other. Witnesses in the West Covina branch of the United California Bank said one gunman demanded money of teller Grace Lund, 30, and got about $4,000. A dressed teller Yvonne Christopher, 26, at another window. Both men had paper sacks.

Between them they collected about $6,000 from the bank said. Upon leaving the bank one, got into an automobile and drove away. The other departed on foot.

PC's To Debate Until Cabinet Members Speak

Want Pearson, Ministers To Put Views on Record

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservative MPs have told the government they'll keep the flag debate going until Prime Minister Pearson and members of his cabinet put their views on the Commons record.

A succession of Conservative speakers Thursday evening hammered away at that theme as debate resumed on a special committee's recommendation that a single red maple leaf design be adopted as Canada's national flag.

The Conservatives argued that neither Mr. Pearson nor any of his cabinet have spoken on the flag since last summer, 43 white persons. And the government benches were choosing the Senate or the three-leaf design, since scuttled by the flag committee.

Earlier the Commons, by a vote of 153 to 82, ended a nine-day debate on a Conservative motion to hold a plebiscite during the next federal election to allow the Canadian people to decide the new flag.

The Commons divided on the Conservative demand after Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, making what he called his final plea, said that a maple leaf banner could divide the nation.

VOTE WITH PCs

Voting with the Conservatives were two Social Credit and two New Democratic Party MPs. The government got support from seven Quebec Conservatives, including Quebec Leader Leon Balcer, 23 New Democrats and 13 Creditistes.

Party standings in the Commons: Liberals 129, Conservatives 96, New Democrats 18, Creditistes 13 and Social Credit nine.

There were some reports that the final vote on the flag might come in the Commons today. However, one Conservative spokesman said his party is prepared to put up Thursday and 90 MPs to carry on the debate.

After the Conservative motion for a plebiscite had been rejected, Mr. Pearson asked whether the Commons was ready to vote on the committee report. After over 240 speeches on the matter, said Mr. Pearson, perhaps the House could come to a final decision.

"We want to hear from the prime minister who has not spoken on this subject for two months," replied Gordon Churchill, Conservative House leader.

SHOULD SPEAK

Roberts-Coates (PC — Cumberland) said the silence of many of the cabinet ministers also should speak on the question. There were numerous questions to be answered before the final vote.

Rock 'n Roll Singer Shot To Death

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Negro singer Sam Cooke was shot and killed early today.

Police said he was shot by a woman motel manager after he kicked in the door of her apartment.

Cooke, 33, was struck in the chest by one bullet from the 22-calibre pistol fired by Mrs. Bertha Lee Franklin, manager of the South Figueroa Street motel.

Police said Cooke, who was accompanied by a topless girl when he was shot, accused Mrs. Franklin of hiding his female companion, who he said had fled their motel room with most of his clothing moments before.

Officers identified the girl, found in a telephone booth half a block away shortly after the shooting, as Linda Boyer, 22, of Hollywood.

They quoted her as saying she had met Cooke at a Hollywood bar, gone with him to another night spot and then accepted the offer of a ride home. Instead, police said she told them, Cooke drove to the motel and registered despite her protest. FORCED TO UNDRESS

In the motel, police quoted the girl as saying, Cooke disrobed, forced her to undress and then stepped into the bathroom. Officers said she told them she then managed to put all the clothes and ran out of the motel.

Mrs. Franklin told police Cooke came to her office clad only in the topcoat, kicked in the door, scolded her for harboring Miss Boyer and struck her twice with his fist. She told police she grabbed the pistol from her desk and shot him.

Mrs. Franklin was held.

An expensive foreign sports car at the motel was found to belong to Cooke. Sam Cooke at the address listed for the singing and recording star, police said.

Cooke achieved fame with the recording Darling, You Send Me. Other Sam Cooke hits were Summer Time, Everybody Loves to Cha Cha Cha and his latest, Kissing Cousins.

He made eight records and six of them were listed among the 10 most popular. They had total sales of more than 10,000,000 copies.

HITS MEDDLING

MOSCOW (AP) — The newspaper Pravda published a sharp demand Thursday that Russian journalists quit meddling in the private lives of Soviet citizens.

Khrushchev Criticized by Name In Public for the First Time

From AP-Reuters

MOSCOW (CP)—In the first public attack on Nikita Khrushchev by name, a Soviet economic official today accused the former premier of "economic wishful thinking" and said Khrushchev's planning mistakes still are being made by the new regime.

Konstantin Belyak, chairman of the economic council of the Chernomzem region of central Russia, made the unexpected attack during a parliamentary debate on the 1965 economic plan.

Until today, although many of Khrushchev's policies were denounced by public speakers and newspaper writers as "hare-brained" and inefficient, he never was criticized by name.

Belyak blamed Khrushchev, who was ousted from power Oct. 14 and disappeared into obscurity, with alleged lack of stability in Soviet economic planning in past years.

The provincial Communist official went on to criticize parts of the new economic plan presented to the Supreme Soviet Wednesday by Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Belyak said the new plan contained "upsetting mistakes that repeat the errors of previous years."

High officials on the platform in the great Kremlin palace seemed surprised by the personal attack on Khrushchev.

Belyak spoke from notes, but it was not clear whether the attack was made on his own initiative or whether it represented the start of a new public campaign to downgrade Khrushchev.

The official reason for Khrushchev's replacement as premier and party leader was his age and ill health. He is 70.

Khrushchev has not appeared at the parliament sessions although technically he still is a member despite losing his top posts. He has made no official appearances in public since his ouster, although he has been rumored seen in Moscow once or twice.

Attacks on Khrushchev since his dismissal generally had been confined to criticism of his methods of rule.

Deputies today continued a torrent of criticism of the state of Soviet economic planning and administration.

Western observers at the three - day - old session have noted much sharper criticisms than have been heard from the deputies in several years.

Belgium's Spaak Ready to Reply To Africans in Debate on Congo

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak goes before the Security Council today to reply to African charges that Belgium landed paratroops in Stanleyville in an attempt to wipe out the Congo rebel force.

A Belgian source said Spaak would recount events that led up to the Belgian-U.S. mission which rescued some 1,700 whites held hostage by the rebels.

Spaak was expected to emphasize that Belgium brought Congo Premier Moise Tshombe and rebel leader Christophe Gbenye together last summer in a vain attempt to end the revolt.

Both Spaak and U.S. authorities have insisted that the Stanleyville mission was not a military operation but was purely humanitarian, to save the lives of European men, women and children held captive.

Algerian Ambassador Tewfik Bouattoura of Algeria, the last speaker Thursday, declared that the Americans were more shocked by the killing of 80 whites and the United Arab Republic are sending military supplies to the Congo rebels and that the Soviet Union is backing this.

There was speculation that the United States would make a stinging reply and challenge the African critics to explain their own motives in backing the rebel cause.

They Grow Hair on Bald Heads But, Alas, It Is Not Visible

CHICAGO (AP) — The announcement caused a few raised eyebrows among the specialists who made up the audience — especially those with lots of forehead above the eyebrows.

But photographs showed that doctors at the University of Pennsylvania had indeed grown hair on the heads of 21 bald men.

Dr. Christopher M. Papa said he and his associates used testosterone, a hormone that has been called one of the causes of baldness, to stimulate hair growth.

Papa told the meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology Thursday he is not sure why the hormone acts as both cause and cure of baldness.

"We are not growing hair on a marble top," he said. "There is hair present but it is downy hair that is not visible. There is something to work on."

No side effects had followed the hormone treatments, but more research was needed before physicians could consider baldness cured.

Accused Placed on Probation For Two Years on $5,000 Bond And Given Ten Days in Jail

Simone Chrisolago, 37-year-old Sicilian immigrant from Toronto, pleaded guilty to counterfeit money charges in Belleville yesterday — a week after his lawyer claimed he could be marked for gangster vengeance if he testified.

Judge J. C. Anderson placed him on two years' probation, ordering him to post a $5,000 cash behavior guarantee. Failure to do so will bring a reformatory sentence of two years less a day.

In addition, he spends 10 days in Hastings County jail.

The case was adjourned December 10th after Toronto lawyer Malcolm Robb told the court Chrisolago could not testify on his own behalf for fear of possible punishment to himself and his family.

Judge Anderson adjourned the case when Mr. Robb said he would try to produce Toronto police officers to prove it would be impossible to safeguard his client.

When the hearing resumed yesterday Mr. Robb said he was unable to produce such testimony.

"Because of the degree of publicity (his claim had received) the persons I would normally seek to call with respect to that — and give their opinions based upon it — would be placed in a very difficult position," he told the court.

Instead he pleaded Chrisolago guilty to possession of counterfeit $20 bills, and uttering a $20 bogus bill at Bancroft, August 30th.

Testimony given at last week's trial was accepted without cross-examination.

Noting Chrisolago's offences as "very serious" and ones which "strike at the root of our economic life," Judge Anderson ordered the posting of $5,000 in cash as security for the accused's behavior over the next two years.

The same amount originally was put up for bail following Chrisolago's arrest.

Mr. Robb pointed out the sum had been posted by Chrisolago's father and meant a considerable amount of money to the family. He requested the behavior bond be reduced to about $2,000 and said he would make further representations to that end.

However, Crown Attorney John Pringle said a severe penalty was set by law for the crime.

"Security for performance of $5,000 in a matter like this is not too far out of line," he objected.

Judge Anderson agreed, indicating he might not reduce the sum.

"That is my present feeling — and I doubt very much if I'm going to change," he concluded.

New Equipment To Be Bought For Gardens

TRENTON — During a four hour session last night, Trenton council considered the burning question . . . was the Junior "C" hockey team been driven out of Trenton?

The Community Gardens board this year raised ice-rental rates, in an effort to lessen its annual deficit. Hourly rates were increased from $13 to $15. The Junior C's were first given an offer of a $75 guarantee per game, plus a 50-50 split of the gate. As this did not meet with the team's thinking, the board made another offer, $60 guarantee, plus the 50-50 split. No agreement has been reached.

Councillor Gerald Weaver said last night the board hadn't done anything that didn't make "horse sense." While conceding that the team had been built for the youth of the town, the councillor said the board didn't intend to make a profit and the "break-even" thinking was predicted on the continued life of the business only. Taxes, capital costs and depreciation are left out of the reckoning altogether.

Mayor James MacDonald said it seemed a shame to bring the Junior C's over from their hockey ranks and then "dump" them and said he would like to see the team "given a break."

However, Councillor Weaver and other councillors thought the team should be treated the same as other teams.

Councillor Edward Todd and Councillor C. V. Graham informed council that exorbitant water bills this year made it necessary for the town to arrange some other than using town water for ice-making. They have been offered to bring water in from the river for around $2,000. But pressure problems, as well as silt gets into the mechanism from time to time.

The matter was voted to invest $7,000 in a condenser-evaporator. Town water will be used this season, and, barring all possible $2,000 water bill this year, council sees its way clear to paying for the equipment within three years.

Council Moves To Acquire Town Property

TRENTON — Trenton council moved last night to acquire two valuable pieces of property within the town. Department of National Defence heads will be contacted and asked to sell lands to the town at 54 the Sidney Street Armory. With the move of the Hastings and Prince Ed. ward company from here, council thinks the land should be given back to the town for the same sum paid by the department when the armory was built.

Similarly, the Federal Department of Public Works will be told the town would like to buy the Dundas Street West post office when the new Front Street Federal building is completed next summer. The land would be used for public purposes. Whether or not the tower of the old building would be retainable as a "landmark" is still very much up in the air. There has been talk of razing the building and then erecting an open space of the land. Council may find itself with a fight on its hands, as many town residents feel the building could be put to some useful purpose. It has been suggested that a museum could be located here. Others have suggested that the building could be used for a police station.

METERS ARE OPEN

In an effort to bring out-of-town shoppers into Trenton . . . and keep Trenton shoppers in Trenton . . . Trenton council voted last night to throw the parking meters open to Christmas shoppers, and to make no charge for parking on Monday next (Dec. 14) until after Dec. 25.

Councillors Will Be Given Proper Notice

TRENTON — At the instigation of retiring councillor Gerald A. Weaver, Trenton council voted last night to amend its procedural by-law, to allow that no future special meetings of council may be called without giving councillors six hours' previous notice . . . except in the case of "dire emergency." Councillor Weaver said he had missed a number of special meetings this year because he had had very little previous warning and could not arrange his business day to permit him to attend.

Mayor James MacDonald said that for which the special meeting is called is to be discussed at the meeting, was amended to the terms of the amendment.

All Users Will Pay Surcharge On Water Bills

TRENTON — From January 1, on, Trenton water users, owners and tenants alike, will pay a 50 percent surcharge on water bills. Council will pay the utilities office $8,082.80 next year for billing and collecting and the money raised will be used to pay for existing sewers and the sewage treatment plant. Persons serviced with sewers will pay the straight 50 percent sewer charge. Those not served will pay a percentage of the 50 percent.

Meanwhile, council voted last night to proceed with preliminary planning for the installation of trunk sewers to service all other developed areas of the town. This work could cost an estimated $474,900. If no other way can be found to pay for these sewers, water users may find themselves paying a 70 percent sewer surcharge by January 1, 1966. Smaller, "local" sewers and connections will be installed under the Local Improvements Act, with the residents paying most of the shot.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry pointed out to council that the planned four sewer projects for 1965 might result in three main streets of the town being torn up next summer. These are Dundas St. E., Ontario to Bay St.; Front St., from Middle to Frederick and Dufferin Ave., from south of Prince Charles School to the Carrying Place Road.

However, the chairman of public works, Councillor Joseph Gould re-assured council on this point. He said one job would be done at a time.

Mr. Larry then raised the question of throwing the five-year capital budget out by having to pay for road reconstruction, which would follow the installation of sewers. He reminded council that only school construction costs have been allowed for in the next four years' capital budget.

Councillor Gould said all the streets would be brought back to a "decent" condition, but no effort would be made to enlarge the sub-standard ones where they were considered parts of highways and as such, would be eligible for 75 percent grant from the department of highways.

BIRTHS

BOSS — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boss are happy to announce the birth of their son, on Thursday, December 10th, 1964, at the Belleville General Hospital, a brother for Lisa and Robbie.

IN MEMORIAM

CLARKE — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Hattie Clarke, who passed away December 11th, 1962.
The golden gates stood open,
You were called in;
With farewells we'll unspoken,
Dear heart, to sin.
Within our hearts we'll always keep
A special place and fond memory to live,
And though we're parted by death,
Sometimes it's hard to understand,
We'll meet again in God's land.
But in his wisdom God has planned.
Believe our power to see.
—Loving husband, children and sadly missed by Susanna Clarke, son Cyril and daughter-in-law Ruth.

CRONKRIGHT — In loving memory of a dear brother, Joaquah Cronkright, who passed away December 11, 1962.
He didn't have time to say farewell,
Nor I to say goodbye,
He simply went away,
And left me here to cry.
Please God remember a kind heart,
A secret wish that he was here,
For in God's garden, now at rest,
Peacefully sleeping lies one we love best.
—Ever remembered by sister Audrey, Ken, Donnie, Greg Orr.

CRONKRIGHT — In loving memory of a beloved husband and daddy, Goodbye to one we loved so well,
Our hearts are sad and lonely,
Dec. 11, 1962.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Keeps his memory ever dear,
A gentle word, a kind look we used,
And those we love the best,
Are just the ones, God calls away,
And takes them home to rest.
Only those that have lost,
Are able to tell,
The pain in the heart,
The grief we feel.
—Sadly missed by wife June, daughters Phyllis and Piper, son Ronald.

INGRAM — In loving memory of a dear mother Viney Ingram who passed away December 11th, 1950.
What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some day we'll meet again,
And clasp hands and smile,
And though we sadly had again,
In heaven, that happy isle,
—Always remembered by Evelyn and Arnold, Elvin and Goodie and grandchildren.

Pay Increases Are Awarded To Two Workers

TRENTON — Trenton council spent more than an hour of a four-hour session last night threshing out the thorny question of pay increases in the public works department.

Councillor Joseph Gould, the chairman of public works, and his committee, Councillors Ross Burtt and Gerald Weaver, had brought down a recommendation that a foreman and a semi-office employee at the town yards be given raises by the first of the year. It was suggested that the foreman get a $260 annual increase. The other employees' salary would go up $700.

Finance chairman Duncan McDonald and Councillor Edward Todd first of all wanted to see why the raises couldn't be postponed until budget time, next April. Then they could not see why the workman, who handles paper work at the yard, should get a sudden raise of $700.

Councillor Burtt, who agreed with the committee's original thinking, got around to questioning the legality of next year's council committing next year's council. He said councillor-elect Paul Tripp might have different thinking on the subject than retiring councillor Gerald Weaver. If Mr. Tripp took the side of Mr. Todd and Mr. McDonald, the vote would result in a tie, as Councillor C. V. Graham had thrown in his lot with the committee. Councillor Weaver then abstained from voting, and a new resolution giving the foreman his raise, was passed by the others.

When it came to the workman's increase, a polled vote brought Burtt, Graham and Gould to the "yea" side; Todd and McDonald opposed, and the mayor threw his lot with the "yeas," giving the workman his $700 raise.

Central Jail, Police Force Topics in County Council

Discussion on central jails, feasibility of setting up county or area police forces and reduction of the number of division courts, took up the entire time at this morning's session of Hastings county council.

But there was no final decision made by councillors other than to pass a motion to the effect it did not consider the suggested 50 per cent provincial subsidy sufficient to interest counties in construction of central jails.

At the same time, however, it was agreed something would have to be done with the former county court house, of which the county jail is a part.

The building is badly in need of roof repairs and was said to be otherwise in bad condition. The county jail part, however, was said to be in good condition.

HEAR JUDGE

Discussion on the three above questions resulted from a letter from county Judge J. C. Anderson in answer to a request from Tweedmans Reeve Charles Long regarding future trends in the administration of justice.

Judge Anderson in his letter noted the province would like to see central jails in that they would be more efficient, they would provide for better segregation of inmates and would allow for better staff training facilities.

At the same time it was suggested that regional or county police forces were coming to the fore.

Also it was suggested that many division courts now operating in the county might be combined for greater efficiency.

Speaking later to council, Judge Anderson said that while the trend was toward centralization, it was not expected that central jails or county police forces would come about very rapidly.

CONDUCT SURVEY

However, if counties were interested, the province would conduct a survey or plan regarding the feasibility of county or area police.

Judge Anderson stressed that he was not advocating area police but merely expressing an opinion.

Referring to division court, Judge Anderson said there were now about 200 such courts in the province and that in half of these the total of money involved was under $1,000 annually.

He said that with today's modern communication there was no longer a need for many of these courts.

He was suggesting no change at the moment, but said when vacancies occurred in the division courts, some thought might be given toward these services being absorbed in larger courts.

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN

Warden Thomas Burnside observed that so far there was no combined or central jail in Canada and noted that the four county group of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac were showing little interest.

He did not think the suggested 50 per cent construction grant was sufficient to interest counties in such a move.

Reeve Gerald Irvine of Sidney was of the same opinion, and said that the other local counties had apparently lost interest.

Warden Burnside doubted that rehabilitation of prisoners was workable at the present county level, but felt that prisoners should be given the opportunity of doing some constructive work. The same idea was held by Reeve Irvine.

Deputy Reeve William Marsh of Hungerford said that the department of reform institutions appeared to be looking for opinion of the matter of central jails.

"If we tell them that we do not think 50 per cent subsidy is sufficient to interest the counties they will know where we stand," he said.

Youth Loses Licence for Year And Fined $100

A young Sunday motorist charged with dangerous driving today lost his licence for a year and was fined $100 in Belleville magistrate's court.

It was the severest penalty yet imposed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in a recent minor spate of cases where youths have attempted to outrun police.

Pleading guilty to the charge was Gerald Gill, 19, now employed at General Motors, Oshawa.

The court was told the youth was stopped by Constable Barry Titterson after his car went through a radar check at 50 miles an hour.

The chase, which reached speeds up to 80 miles an hour through the community of Cannifton, ended north of Cortyville.

Two-Way Fight For County Warden Coming

It will be a straight two-way contest for the Hastings county wardenship in 1965.

This is the indication at county council this week as two of this year's council, Rawdon reeve Fred Beckett and Thurlow reeve Clayton Hall announced that they will offer themselves for the position.

It will be a second try for Reeve Beckett who this year lost out to Madoc reeve Thomas Burnside (1964 warden) in a three-way contest.

At an informal noon luncheon yesterday at the Sun Valley Motel, both Mr. Beckett and Mr. Hall announced their intentions.

The county warden is traditionally named at a caucus meeting at the January inaugural session of council.

German Calls Worker 'DP,' Strike Follows

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Production was halted at Port Weller Drydocks Limited Thursday by a spokesman for striking workers who said was prompted by a foreman's calling a German-born shop steward a "DP" and threatening to fire him.

More than 500 of the company's 650 - man work force, members of Local 680, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Shipbuilders (CLC) followed the lead of 100 welders who walked off the job when the foreman refused to apologize.

Charlotte Fails To Become Pin-up Queen

OTTAWA (CP) —This just isn't Mayor Whitton's week.

The 68 - year - old spinster mayor was defeated in the civic election Monday and Thursday failed after coming within an ace of becoming a university pin-up queen.

Her picture as "Playmate of the Month" occupied the centre spread of The Carleton, the student newspaper of Carleton University, but it never reached the public.

The caption read: "Miss December . . . Carleton Playmate of the Month," and "win or lose, Miss Charlotte Whitton is our December kitten."

She was unmoved prematurely after the student council said the picture was of dubious taste.

At first publication was delayed for 24 hours when the council exercised its one-day delay option in such matters on Wednesday.

At 5 p.m. Thursday, Jim Robertson, editor of The Carleton, announced that the spread was being removed.

The picture shows the mayor, fully clothed, reclining on a four-poster bed. It is a photo montage obtained by superimposing the mayor's picture on a photo of the bed.

A spokesman for the mayor said she had not seen the issue.

Parliamentary Notebook

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson is expected to place particular stress on one of the admonitions in his letter to cabinet ministers about ministerial conduct and conduct of their staffs.

The letter was sent to all ministers Nov. 30 in the wake of the government setting up a judicial inquiry into allegations of bribery by one ministerial assistant and coercion by another.

It was followed by a rash of publicity this week about furniture purchases without down payments by two members of the cabinet.

Mr. Pearson's letter contained particular reference to ministers or their staffs being under obligation to anyone.

"It has been said that the elementary qualification of a minister is honesty and incorruptibility," the letter says. "But it is not enough for us to have those qualities.

"Our attitudes and conduct must be such as to reflect them. The same applies to staff members and to all public servants in places of authority.

GUARD POSITION

"In order that honesty and incorruptibility may be beyond doubt, members of ministers' staffs, equally with ministers, must not place themselves in a position where they are under obligation to any person who might profit from special consideration or favor on their part, or seek in any way to gain special treatment from them.

"Equally, a staff member, like a minister, must not have a pecuniary interest that could even remotely conflict with the discharge of his public duty."

In summary, Mr. Pearson was telling ministers and public servants that honesty and incorruptibility must be backed up by conduct which could never give rise to any question of their honesty and incorruptibility.

Informants say Mr. Pearson is under pressure from his caucus to apply this precept ruthlessly to his cabinet.

Centennial Grants Will Be Requested

Hastings county council will make application for centennial grants not taken up by the individual municipalities.

This was agreed this morning when councillors learned that a number of the local county municipalities were not applying for such grants.

It is hoped that the centennial grant might be applied to help pay the costs of publishing the county history authorized at the September session.

Lesage Takes a Stand

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec has spoken out. He has shown clearly where he stands in the current controversy regarding the future of Quebec, and of Canada.

The satisfaction, which his decision to make his position known will arouse amongst Canadians generally, will be matched in English-speaking Canada by delight at the nature of this stand.

There can be no doubt that here we have a man who, no matter what his quarrel may be with things as they have been or as they are, wants the future to include a Canada which stretches from sea to sea, with Quebec a full partner.

In other words, he is a man of moderation in his desire for reform.

One could have wished, though, that this moderation had extended to his choice of language in denouncing young extremists.

Some of Quebec's students, he said, are "an unthinking mass, sheep-like, unjustly emotive, hatefully stubborn, young people whose education has led only to agnosticism."

This is extreme language. And it is the sort of thing which extremists use in an effort to justify extremism.

Even if all these descriptive phrases were justified, without reservation, Premier Lesage ought to remember that today's university students in Quebec are partly the product of the Duplessis era. Their reaction against the authoritarian atmosphere which then prevailed in the province's social institutions, including the schools and universities, may be excessive, but it is still understandable. Many of these young men can, and should, be won to the cause of moderation. The moderates need them, for it is almost certain that these extremists include some of the best young minds in the province. Their present aims should be firmly opposed, but there is no need to question their intelligence or integrity.

Protect the Child

Ontario Welfare Minister Louis Cecile plans to introduce legislation at the coming session of the Ontario Legislature to deal with "the so-called battered-baby syndrome."

The new law would require all known cases of child abuse to be reported to the authorities. Those making the reports would be assured of complete legal immunity.

Presumably the law will apply primarily to doctors and hospital authorities, and possibly to school teachers. It is difficult to see how it could be made an offence for a neighbor to fail to report something he might only suspect.

There is an urgent need for action to prevent this kind of abuse or actual cruelty to young children and this proposed law seems a step in the right direction.

It will be, however, only a first step. We shall, also, need to make certain that child welfare authorities act promptly. At present, they are extremely reluctant, and rightly so, to take children out of the care of their parents except as a last resort. In cases where cruelty is suspected, however, the child should be removed from the home at once. Those reporting such cases are promised legal immunity. The child needs immunity, too. If left in the home while investigation is proceeding, the child might be suspected of complaining and be punished for it.

Jaywalking Dangerous

The best way to be hit by a car is to walk out in front of it, and in Belleville it is a daily miracle the streets are not strewn with people who do just that.

Jaywalking in this city seems to be a popular pastime and corners and crosswalks merely markers where the block ends.

From behind parked cars pedestrians dart and scurry as they charge for the other curb until they can resemble a playing yard where the game is "Miss the Bumper."

One of these days the game is going to end with a pedestrian crushed beneath those grinding wheels!

Belleville is no longer a small town where the traffic crawls, and the larger this city grows the faster automobiles will move to avoid rush hour traffic and traffic jams.

When the time comes that you or one of your children, who learned the jaywalking habit from following your example, lies on that cold pavement, blame no one but yourselves.

Cars cannot stop on a dime, and in winter slush and snow steel and rubber slide as if on grease.

Keep dodging the cars—and you may well be a fatality number on the Belleville records.

While Moses was communing in the mountain certain of his tribe builded themselves a politically golden goat

Appendix Usually Removed As a Preventive Measure

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain the reason for removing a good appendix during a gall bladder operation. Does the appendix interfere with the function of the liver? — H. A.

No, it has nothing to do with the liver.

This is the reason: The appendix, a relatively unnecessary organ, has a sentry tendency to become inflamed or infected. When the abdomen is surgically opened for some other reason, it is simple to remove the appendix, too. It is "an ounce of prevention." s means of avoiding, at little effort, what might otherwise mean an operation later on.

It is true that we have no way of knowing in advance whether that particular appendix will cause trouble. But appendicitis remains frequent enough so that incidental removals of the appendix without question avert trouble later on for a good many people.

The original operation, of course, would have to be in that specific area — removal of a gall bladder because of stones; a hysterectomy; removal of ovaries with cysts.

This is done, however, only when there is no infection in other abdominal structures. Empyema of the gall bladder or infection in a Fallopian tube, or similar conditions would dictate that the appendix should not be removed then. When infection is present, the least that is done, the better.

The exact purpose of the appendix, by the way, still eludes us. This has been studied for a long time. I have recently read of technical papers suggesting that it may have some role (perhaps insignificant) in the antibody system of the body.

Yet we have no indication, and it doesn't have become apparent by now — that the appendix is necessary. Perhaps it is similar to the tonsils: useful in some modest way, but not vital.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that Negro babies are born white, then turn dark. Is this true?

Do all white babies have blue eyes when first born, then get their permanent color later? — L. H.

Negro babies are not white at birth, but they may have any skin shade from light tan to quite dark. They may look like white babies, have quite a reddish cast to the skin for the first few days.

Yes, all white babies have blue (sometimes somewhat violet) eyes at birth. If the eyes become brown later, this is caused by changes of pigment in the iris.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had surgery over a year ago for a tubal pregnancy, and the scar itches constantly. Is there anything to be done for it? It is driving me mad. It looks terrible and is raised, wide and very red. — Mrs. M. M.

Itching is a form of pain, and sometimes more unnerving than sharper pain.

It is not too uncommon as scar tissue becomes gradually firmer, but it may, as well, indicate continuing irritation of some sort — mild infection, or bits of suture material under the skin which have not worked their way free.

Your description raises the question of whether a keloid is forming, that is, an overgrowth of the scar tissue. A keloid is not dangerous but it can be annoying.

Have your surgeon examine the scar.

Dual Standard Makes Raids Useless

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Periodically, my city, like all big cities, features "vice raids" by flying squadrons of police. In these raids, a few saloons are closed down, a handful of prostitutes and pushers fined, a bartender sent to the County Jailhouse for a minimal term.

Then the heat is off, for a few days, new places open up for the same old business — girls soliciting at bars, phony champagne at $30 a bottle, and cabdrivers carting conventioneers to "where the action is."

It is a futile, farcical, and hypocritical affair. All reasonable newspapermen know it, the police know it, and the denizens of le milieu know it. It is what makes them so cynical about "crusades."

There is one simple and efficient way to stop it, or at least to reduce the business to a minimum: but few officials in my city would care to invoke it. And that is to stop applying the double standard to prostitution.

The so-called "respectable" patrons of these joints are never fined or arrested. It is always the disreputable elements who take the rap, such as it is. Since they make their living out of this, they shrug it off stoically and charge it up to "business expenses," as a kind of insurance premium they must pay to stay in business.

They provide the supply. The demand is generated by respectable and responsible members society: by conventioneers from small towns, by suburban paragons of virtue sneaking into the city for a night of fun, by companies subsidizing the expense accounts of their salesmen's "entertaining" customers.

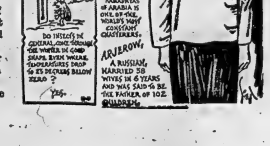
It is these stiff-raff who patronize these girls and these places. It is the small-town vestryman, the suburban deacon, the loving husband and father who over-subscribes to the Girl Scout Cookie Drive back home. Ninety-nine percent of the customers are what the milieu contemptuously refer to as "square johns."

What if these square Johns were arrested in raids, fined or put on probation? What is an illegal transaction? What if their names and addresses were published in the newspapers? How long do you imagine the business would continue to thrive under such conditions?

Naturally, this will not be done. We maintain the fiction that the prostitutes are culpable, while the men are innocent victims. But, of course, that is nonsense. The men know exactly what they are looking for, and what they are paying for. Thirty bucks for a bottle of champagne isn't for the bubbles, John.

I am not suggesting that we should engage in this painful exposure of middle-class hypocrisy; merely that until we do, the raids are filly.

Many Nations Have Paid Up



Watertown Times

Critics are always saying that newspapers tell about the bad boys, and don't say anything about the good boys. We have commented on the $115,282,644 owed by the United Nations for back dues and the failure to pay up what is owed for the peace-keeping forces.

Here are congratulations to those nations which are not in arrears and which owe the United Nations nothing: Algeria, Australia, Austria, Burma, Burundi, Cambodia, Cameroon, Canada, Ceylon, Colombia, Congo (Leopoldville), Cyprus, Denmark, Finland, Gabon, Ghana, Greece, Iceland, India, Indonesia, Iran, Ireland, Israel, Ivory Coast, Jamaica, Japan, Kuwait, Liberia, Libya, Luxemburg, Malaysia, Morocco, Netherlands, Nigeria, Norway, Pakistan, Philippines, Rwanda, Sierra Leone, Sweden, Tanganais, Trinidad and Tobago, Turkey, Uganda, United Kingdom, United States, Venezuela, Kenya.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Need General Practitioners

Canadian Doctor

Much has been made recently of published reports that more than 60 per cent of qualified medical graduates in Canada are turned away by the nation's medical schools for lack of space.

Whatever the political implications of this widely published fact might be, is not for us to guess at this time. But we do feel obliged to point out the possible fallacious conclusion to which this statistic might lead.

It is true that medical training facilities need expanding and possibly faster than at the present rate. But it is not for lack of space alone that Canada now faces an admittedly drastic doctor shortage.

For one thing, it is generally known that a large number of potential medical students apply to more than one medical school. These account for at least part of the "turned-away" list at individual schools — from whose figures the above statistics are derived.

• • •

But a more intriguing trend lies on the cause of the doctor shortage comes from Dr. Clarence Gosse, president of the Nova Scotia Medical Association.

His well-taken point is that the doctor shortage might more precisely be defined as a family doctor shortage, and a shortage which could be eased with existing medical school facilities.

It remains to be seen whether his suggested "crash program" of year-round schooling, concurrent classes and shorter basic course might work. But there is no disputing the call for a modification of Canadian medical school curricula and staff aimed at streaming and graduating more family physicians.

• • •

As Dr. Gosse points out, the growing trend toward specialization in medical schools guarantee an adequate supply of specialized doctors for years to come.

The real shortage is in Canada's ranks of family doctors and a dearth of medical students heading toward graduation as family doctors. A solution would seem to be wider use of practising clinical teachers in medical schools, with the objective to produce doctors who will see and treat sick people.

Of course, there is and will always be room for good specialists, as teachers and practitioners but not to the growing exclusion of family doctors, in number and stature.

The place to start creating an even balance is in medical school.

Unless it is evened out, the number of family doctors may become worse with two results: The doctor's already tarnished image will suffer more as he becomes less and less available, and overworked practitioners will face still stiffer work loads.

The so-called "image" has come in for a lot of abuse and unfavorable publicity. It must be admitted that while the public has a high regard for the scientific knowledge and technique of today's physician, he has slipped badly in terms of compassion.

Many who move out of family practice are soundly criticized by their fellows. Better these critics save the energy spent on clucking to help improve the GP's status and stimulate wider interest in family practice.

Luckily, moves are afoot to do just that, and by the body best equipped to do so — the College of General Practice of Canada. Hopefully, the college will find the support it requires.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dec. 11, 1964 . . .

Weeks of speculation ended for Britons and the world when King Edward VIII abdicated his throne 28 years ago, today — in 1936 — after a reign of 11 months, the shortest reign since that of Edward V in the 15th century. Edward abdicated his throne in order to marry the twice - divorced Wallis Warfield Simpson. On the day of his abdication, he broadcast a last message to the British people, commending them to his successor, hitherto the Duke of York. He said that for his own part, "I have found it impossible . . . to discharge my duties as King as I would wish to do without the help and support of the woman I love." One of the first acts of King George VI was to confer on his elder brother the title of Duke of Windsor.

1941—The U.S. declared war on Germany and Italy

1948 — Newfoundland signed an agreement to enter Confederation as Canada's 10th province.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1914 — Russian armies checked Austro-German offensive in Poland. 22,000 Canadian troops of the first contingent began manoeuvres on Salisbury Plain in England.

Second World War

Twenty - five years ago today — in 1939 — Russian troops reached points up to 60 miles within Finland after heavy fighting; British troops went into action against Germans on the Western Front; before the League of Nations the Finland asked for support not "international resolutions;" five British merchantmen were reported sunk in the South Atlantic where a German pocket battleship was in action.

Vie for Minds Of Children

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The battle for the minds of children is on in earnest in many areas of the United States. It's a sad reminder that extremists of the radical Right have not given up the fight they were supposed to have lost in the presidential election.

The minds of children in the United States are particularly vulnerable because of obvious weaknesses in the educational system. In only two states is the overall state education system controlled directly by state authorities, and in one of those, California, the state superintendent is insisting that the choice of textbooks be handed back to local school authorities.

With choice of textbooks in the hands of the trustees in each school district, the efforts of extremists to have their way about what children are taught, is made easier. And it is in this area where they attack today with vigor and determination.

The battle has already been lost in some Southern States, and instruction about communism, from violently anti-communist textbooks, is compulsory in Louisiana. John Birchers and others of their ilk are hounding school boards, objecting to any school books that even mention the United Nations, because, they insist, the U.N. is communistic and socialistic. They object to any mention of the New Deal programs on the same grounds. Any school book, whether designed with history or otherwise, that does not mention any American heroes is, they say, part of a communist plot to undermine the minds of the young.

Dr. James B. Conant, noted authority on education in the United States, recently pointed to the urgent need for the establishment of a committee, responsible to state legislatures, to make nationwide education policy. His advice should be needed before it is too late.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

Dec. 11th, 1944

A new British discovery has increased the potential value of the world's coal resources. This has been done by making it possible to produce coke from types of coal previously unsuitable for coking.

Hitherto it has not been possible to burn ordinary coal in blast furnaces because it contained impurities which would damage the iron. Thus the 100 million tons of coke required yearly for the world's blast furnaces has had to be drawn from a limited range of special types of coal.

Professor Riley of N e wcastle North England, found by X-ray analysis that the properties of coking coal were due to the presence of small disc-like particles, but the chemical properties of these particles were obscure. Now he has discovered that it is possible to add a synthetic material to the coal which has the same properties as the disc-like particles.

Members of the fire brigade at present are busily engaged during leisure time, by repairing toys and re-painting them. These toys will be given away recently at one of the local movie theatres and they will be distributed by the police to children whose parents are unable, owing to present conditions, to buy toys for Christmas. The section of the firemen is to be highly commended.

While the bright sun flooded the city and district this morning with its warm rays, a plump robin was perched on the limb of a tree on Charles Street by reliable persons, according to the observers, all that was missing was the spring time mood of the bird.

Ice-Covered Roads Cause Rash of Mishaps in District; Train Hits Car at Batawa

In the Belleville area tonight could be the most perilous night of the year!

With a rash of accidents already on record from ice-covered highways this morning, traffic police are keeping their fingers crossed tonight.

Compounding the threat is a sudden thaw and rain, melting snow piled up by earlier squalls.

If it freezes — and the low tonight is predicted at 25 — district motorists could be in trouble.

Provincial police were kept on the move this morning as cars skidded out of control on icy road surfaces for a series of near escapes.

The most serious accident occurred at Batawa.

CAR IS CRUSHED

Robert Patrick, 25, of Glen Miller, was thrown from his automobile as it was crushed under the wheels of a CNR ore train at Batawa.

Patrick, taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital, was held for observation but not believed injured.

A civilian employee at Trenton RCAF base, he was visiting relatives at Batawa.

The train, travelling about 40 miles an hour, struck his car broadside. Carrying 100 tons of iron ore from Marmaraton Mines at Marmora, to Picton docks, the train because of cargo weight, was unable to stop until it reached Glen Miller.

CAR ROLLS OVER

Elsewhere, damage piled up as cars veered out of control, skidding into ditches, taking out guardrails.

On Highway 401 east of Belleville the driver of an automobile escaped injury when he lost control of his vehicle and it rolled over.

At one time the OPP were investigating six mishaps in the Belleville area — on Highways 33, 401 and 14 near the Oak Hills.

County councillors from the northern townships en route to the closing session of Hastings County Council in Belleville, said they had to drive partially on highway shoulders to obtain traction.

CONTRACTORS FINED

TORONTO (CP)—Anglin-Norcross Ontario Limited, general contractors for Toronto's new city hall, were fined $3,000 Thursday for four breaches of the Construction Safety Act. The company had pleaded not guilty to the charges placed last June during the demolition of the registry office on the city hall site.

Organizational Meeting Will Be Held Thursday

A story last week about the organizational meeting of the Hastings County Branch of the Ontario Humane Society said the meeting would be held next Thursday at 7 p.m. in Christ Church Parish Hall.

A correction was printed yesterday, with the time and the place right, but . . . you guessed it. Yesterday's story implied that the meeting was to be held Thursday of this week.

So to correct the correction, this story says the meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday of next week. Which is correct.

The confidence you have placed in me by your support on December 7th to head the polls for Alderman is appreciated beyond measure.

I shall continue to give you the kind of representation you would expect from a good neighbour.

May the holiday season be a time of happiness for you and yours and the coming year give you good health and prosperity.

Sincerely

ENOS DAVID

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

In many areas of our free enterprise, price competition works to the public benefit. Where professional services are involved, however, price competition can deteriorate standards. The scope and quality of services rendered should be the paramount consideration.

Mr. M.C.W.'s letter, however, indicates the confusion that often exists in regard to these concepts.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: One of the things I have always liked about your column is that you don't hesitate to identify and blast unfair or illegal practices. I am confident, therefore, that you will give me a straight answer.

Preparatory to selling my house I shopped around for a real estate broker. They all asked the same fee for their services. This doesn't seem proper to me, and smacks of some kind of collusion to the disadvantage of the public.

What is your explanation and reason for my experience, and what is your opinion of it? — M. C. W.

ANSWER: You ask for a straight answer, and I will try to give you one without gobbledegook.

Realtors sell a professional service and are best serve the public by conducting their business in accordance with professional standards.

In order to elevate the standards of their profession, realtors have encouraged a basic fee system common to all. Competition among realtors is based upon service, and the quality of service.

Discouraging cut-throat practices decidedly benefits the public.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I hope you can help us. We just signed an Agreement of Sale for a house. We liked it very much, but now we are afraid we were taken in and are paying too high a price.

After signing, my husband checked the records. The house is only worth $12,000 according to the tax assessment records, and we agreed to pay $15,500.

We hate to be taken advantage of this way but don't know what to do. Can we get out of the Sales Agreement? If not is there anything we can do? — T. V. E.

ANSWER: If the low assessment figure is the reason for the concern that you are being taken — relax.

The assessed value of a property, in many instances, bears little relationship to the market values.

Many of my assessor friends may take offense at this observation, but after 25 years in this field, I can assure you it is true.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I think real estate men need an education in mathematics and logic.

I have always wanted a house that was different from everyone else's. Finally, I found an avant garde architect who shares my ideas. We have planned a complete and imaginative renovation.

I paid $22,000 for the house, and the remodeling will cost $30,000 for a total investment of $52,000. I want to refinance my mortgage for $35,000. The real estate expert from my bank said my house would be worth only $26,000 after the changes — less than it is worth now! Is other bank going to give me the same story.

This is beyond belief. Everyone with even common - sense recognizes that things that are unique (and my house will be) are worth more — not less — than the assembly-line product. How do you account, therefore, for this poverty of wit among men in your profession? — H. O. C.

ANSWER: Buyers and sellers make the markets, real estate analysts only interpret it.

The value of an object — even a house — depends upon the demand for it. These real estate experts are just trying to tell you that your plans will make your house so unique that non avant garde people (which includes most of us common folk) would pay less for a house that is that much different from everyone else's.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have a considerable sum to invest and someone has suggested some commercial property — retail stores, in a local shopping area.

What investment return could I reasonably expect on my money in this type of venture? — P. R. E.

ANSWER: A return in the range of 10-12 percent for each dollar of cash invested (your equity), is reasonable for this type of property.

• • •

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Trent University Adds Six New Staff Teachers

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—T. H. B. Symons, president and vice-chancellor of Trent University here, announced Thursday the appointment of six new staff members — four from Ontario and one each from Quebec and Saskatchewan.

Dr. Alan Wilson, associate professor of history and former head of the department of history at Middlesex College at the University of Western Ontario at London, has been appointed associate professor of history.

Named as assistant professor of English is Prof. Robert D. Chambers, who currently holds the same position at the University of Saskatchewan.

George F. Hamilton, now doing research on a Ford Foundation fellowship at the University of Toronto, will be assistant professor of mathematics and administrative assistant for campus planning at Trent, Mr. Symons said in the announcement.

The announcement said Dr. Bruce W. Hodgins, currently professor of history at the University of Western Ontario, will be assistant professor of history.

Others appointed were Dr. Raymond E. March, a research associate at McGill University in Montreal, who will be assistant professor of chemistry; and Dr. David D. Stewart, assistant professor of German at McMaster University at Hamilton, who will hold the same post at Trent.

Mr. Symons also announced that the Canadian Universities Foundation has approved Trent as an accredited university qualifying for federal government grants following an inspection of its program and plans last summer.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

THURSDAY, Dec. 10, 1964

The Commons opened its ninth day in the current flag debate.

A Conservative amendment calling for a plebiscite on the flag was defated by a vote of 153 to 62.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker closed out his party's debate on the plebiscite amendment.

He said the proposed flag with a single red maple leaf denies Canada's past and thus "condemns its future."

A series of Conservative speakers asked that the prime minister outline his party's position on the committee flag.

FRIDAY, Dec. 11

The Commons meets at 11 a.m. EST to continue the flag debate.

SETTLES DEBT

EDMONTON (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson has settled an old gambling debt. In November he bet Edmonton Journal reporter Jim Hume $1 that the Hamilton Tiger-Cats would defeat the British Columbia Lions in the Grey Cup. Lions won 34-24. Mr. Hume received in the mail Thursday a cheque for $1 and a personal note from Mr. Pearson apologizing for the delay.

He pleaded guilty to the charge of menacing a person with death. On receiving no reply, he sent a second letter last Sept. 3 containing new threats.

PC's to Debate

"We should know the reasons why the government thinks differently today about what is desirable in a flag design - why its opinions are not the same as they were when the prime minister told us that the flag . . . should have three maple leaves on a white background with blue borders."

Mr. Coates said his party wouldn't let the matter come to a vote until the prime minister explained to the Commons why the government had changed its mind on the flag.

Edward Nasserden (PC — Rosthern), Frank Fane (PC — Vegreville) and William H. A. Thomas (PC—Middlesex West) also asked that Mr. Pearson explain government policy on the flag.

Mr. Thomas said a new committee, comprising senators as well as MPs, should be set up to review the flag issue in detail. There was plenty of time.

NEED ELECTION

"We need a new election before a flag is imposed by a vote of this house," he said. It was clear the flag recommended by the Commons special committee would be approved before Christmas.

"The flag that ultimately will be selected should be a genuine compromise, not a flag imposed by one group or another."

English - speaking Canadians favored a version of the Red Ensign but were ready to accept a compromise design in the interests of national unity. French - speaking MPs showed no spirit of compromise, however.

If the government insisted on imposing a new flag, there would be mutterings, bitterness and disunity across Canada.

NEW REPRESENTATIVE

Mr. Diefenbaker, who returned to the Commons Wednesday after a week at home with a cold, finished up his party's plea for a plebiscite by saying that the proposed majority lead design doesn't represent the views of "millions of Canadians."

A majority of MPs would vote for it but its adoption by Parliament would split the country.

The proposed new flag contained nothing of the British and French heritage.

"There is nothing in this design for memories of sorrow or old renown," said Mr. Diefenbaker. "There is nothing for those who with sword and crucifix went into the wilderness where they left their names and often their bones as a sacred heritage for us all."

FAME Unable To Complete Plant Purchase

TORONTO (CP) — Clayton Frey of Sarnia, newly-elected president of Farmers' Allied Meat Enterprises Co-operative Ltd., said Thursday the co-operative has handed over the operation of F. W. Fearman Co. Ltd. of Burlington, Ont., to its former owner because of inability to complete payment as scheduled.

E. R. Gunner of England, who had owned the Fearman plant in Burlington since 1959, sold the company to the co-operative in August for $5,500,000. However, the co-operative was unable to make the final payment of $1,000,000 Nov. 30 and control of the company was returned to Mr. Gunner.

Mr. Frey said Mr. Gunner again has become chairman of the Fearman company. The plant is held in trust for the co - operative by Mr. Gunner pending payment of the $1,000,000 Jan. 4, he added.

Co-operative members will be asked to buy more shares and lend the organization money to make the payment, Mr. Frey said. There are about 12,000 co-operative members, he said.

Farmers' Allied Meat Enterprises was set up in 1960 to build a chain of Ontario meat packing plants. None have been built so far.

Teachers Beat No-Stars by 10-7 Count

PICTON (Staff) — Over 600 hockey fans turned out at the County Centre Wednesday night to witness the annual sponsors' and annual game between CKWS and PECI teachers. The CKWS Radio-television No-stars and the teachers provided a highly amusing and interesting game with the latter score at 10 to 7 for the teachers. Proceeds of this annual game were divided equally, the Kingston team share going to the Salvation Army and the Kiwanis share being used to help under privileged children.

Minister Pearson in Ottawa, saying it helps to a question that he thinks there was a "clear degree" of support for the British aims.

He paid tribute to Canada's long record of United Nations peace - keeping activities and emphasized Britain's determination to play its full part in such operations "not only with the Americans but with the other Commonwealth countries."

Wilson's main report on his first overseas trip as premier was scheduled for the House of Commons next week.

Wilson laid most emphasis on the world-wide nature of British commitments, saying: "Europe is not our only role. Perhaps not our most important role."

The prime minister's words were obviously designed to allay fears in some sides of the political spectrum over nuclear matters.

Premier Jagan Refuses to Resign Office

GEORGETOWN (AP) — British Guiana headed into a governmental crisis today as Premier Cheddi Jagan said he would not resign, Governor Sir Richard Luyt consulted with London.

"I shall not resign," Jagan told a press conference. "The British government will have to force me out."

Luyt asked the British government for an order permitting him to summon his 35 legislative assembly without the premier's consent. Some sources close to his office said Jagan's tenure would end with the calling of the assembly.

However, some experts on constitution said there were ambiguities in the order as to doubt whether Jagan's tenure would end automatically or whether his resignation is required.

Traditionally, premiers resign when defeated in elections. But Jagan gained support in the vote Monday which cost him his majority in the assembly. His party did not resign but was backed by his People's Progressive Party.

Luyt held separate meetings with Jagan and two opposition leaders, Forbes Burnham of the People's National Congress and Peter D'Aguiar of the United Force.

Burnham, who is expected to succeed Jagan, announced Tuesday that he and D'Aguiar had agreed to form a coalition government. Jagan's party won the most seats—24—in Monday's election. But the PNC with 22 and United Force with 7 would have a five-vote majority as a coalition.

British troops were on full alert as armed patrols stepped up their activities.

There are about 1,300 British troops in the 2,000-square-mile coastal strip where most of the people live.

the testimony was hearsay.

Owen said he was prepared to present "the signed confession to the commissioner."

RULES AGAINST ATTORNEY

But Miss Carter ruled against him.

"We will simply not produce any more evidence," Owen said.

Disclosure of the Barnette statement, which was described only as a confession, followed reports from federal sources that the government had eyewitnesses to the slayings. Barnette, who works for a packing company in Springhill, La., could not be reached. However, his lawyer, Robert J. Donovan Jr., said his client said last Friday he had not made any statements about the crime. Contents of the purported confession were not disclosed.

In Washington, a justice department spokesman said that Miss Carter's refusal to accept the FBI agent's report was "totally without precedent."

A group of integrationists, including Mrs. Fannie Chaney, mother of one of the slain trio, staged a brief demonstration on the courthouse steps after the 19 men were freed.

They chanted, "Freedom, freedom."

One woman screamed, "Jesus, Jesus no!" And fell to the pavement.

Of the 21 white men arrested last week, 19 were charged with criminal conspiracy in what the FBI described as the Ku Klux Klan plot to murder the civil rights workers — Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, 21, a Meridian Negro. Their bodies were found Aug. 4 in a red clay dam near Philadelphia where they had gone June 21 to check on a burned Negro church. They had been jailed in Philadelphia on a speeding charge.

The other two defendants were charged with possessing knowledge of the crime and failing to report it to authorities.

Hellyer Wins Cabinet Struggle Over Plane

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer was reliably reported Thursday to have won a three - year cabinet struggle over selection of a new military plane for the armed forces.

The long battle which has been facing the cabinet was whether to spend some $400,000,000 on a procurement would throw the American Phantom jet fighter-bombers.

Some cabinet ministers favored such an outlay because it would spread more benefits through the Canadian aircraft industry. But Mr. Hellyer objected on the grounds that such an expenditure would throw his weapons program out of whack and possibly result in an increase in the defence budget for three or four years.

The coup de grace to the Phantom was apparently delivered during British Prime Minister Wilson's visit to Ottawa Wednesday.

Canadair Limited, Montreal, main backer of the Phantom, and John Diefenbaker, chairman of the Spey engine, had been pressing for an arrangement whereby the British government would place orders for Canadian-built Phantoms if the power plant for them was the Spey engine.

Informed sources said Wilson notified the British leader not his officials showed any interest in the Canadian arrangement.

Informants said there now are no surviving roadblocks in the way of the Spey and of a plane much cheaper than the Phantom for tactical support of the army's land forces.

There are two or three planes in the running, including the French Mirage, the Swedish Fighter and the Douglas Skyhawk. Either would cost some $1,000,000 each, including spare parts.

Journalists Agree to Terms With La Presse

MONTREAL (CP)—The management of La Presse and its employees represented by Confederation of National Trade Union (CNTU) affiliates settled terms of a new contract Thursday night. However, agreement has yet to be reached with the striking pressmen.

La Presse has not published since June 3 when members of the International Typographical Union (CLC) went on strike.

Journalists, office employees and tradesmen, all CNTU affiliates, and La Presse management agreed to a compromise proposal put forward Thursday by Premier Jean Lesage.

Union spokesmen said it calls for a three-per-cent wage increase in 1965, three-per-cent in 1966 and 4½-per-cent in 1967 as well as 3.7 per cent of salary paid in months worked in 1964 and fully paid 1964 and 1965 vacations.

The journalists voted to accept the offer and return to work Dec. 17 on the condition the striking printers settle with management.

Romeo Mathieu, chief negotiator for the printers, said the typographers have not yet taken any decision on returning to work. Asked the effect of the conflict, Mr. Justice Roger Ouimet, met with La Presse management earlier in the day.

County Share of New Hospital Costs Increased By $105,000 Members of Council Told

Following a 90-minute discussion yesterday behind closed doors on financing of increased costs for the proposed new Belleville General Hospital, Hastings county council today was expected to pass a motion regarding its share of the increased amount.

County Clerk Wm. Ault told reporters that the county's share of the estimated increased hospital costs would be $105,000, raising the county's portion to $1,680,000 from the previously agreed figure of $1,575,000.

The over-all gross cost of the new hospital is now estimated at $7,789,000 with government grants cutting this to about $4,500,000, to be shared by the city of Belleville and the county of Hastings on a 65-35 percent basis.

ADDRESS COUNCIL

Prior to the closed doors discussion, council members were addressed by A. McLean Haig, chairman of the city-council joint hospital committee, and Mr. John Bongard, chairman of the hospital board building committee.

County hospital board representative, Reeve William Shannon of Marmora said the increased cost of the hospital was the most important matter before the council session.

He said that the joint hospital committee was satisfied that every effort had been made to build within the previously authorized county share of $1,575,000. "To do so, however, would have led to extreme economy," he said.

Mr. Haig told council that the joint city-county hospital committee had been formed to consider ways and means of financing the new hospital.

RECOMMENDS APPROVAL

He said his committee was recommending approval of an overall gross cost for the hospital of $7,789,000 with a net cost of $4,800,000 to the city and county.

Each municipality will have the right of financing its share of the cost as desired.

Mr. Buchan said there were the changed conditions for hospital building plans. They had to be as modern as possible. They had to be flexible as to be adaptable to changes and 3 they had to be expandable to meet future needs.

Mr. Buchan said he felt all these conditions had been met not by costly construction, but by good design.

He said the new hospital had been planned around a new concept in patient care which would not be found in any comparable hospital in Canada.

450-BED ADDITION

The hospital would have accommodation for 450 beds, of which 310 would be in the new eight storey patient tower, which could be later expanded to 14 storeys with accommodation for 700 beds.

Plans had been completed in September and it was expected tenders would be called in the spring of next year.

To cut immediate costs certain phases of construction such as arrangement for centre block administration offices and a new stores department would be deferred.

Certain items, such as air conditioning of the patients' tower had to be built in as construction proceeded.

The deferred items, some 65 in all, in now way destroyed the efficiency of the new hospital or its ability to provide good care. They meant, however, that estimates could be revised downward from $9,500,000 to the $7,789,000 figure, for which approval was being asked.

The new hospital will be constructed south of the present building but to allow for construction the present boiler house will have to be razed.

Tenders for the new boiler house will be opened on Monday. Cost of the new boiler house and its equipment is included in the over-all cost estimate of $7,789,000.

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP) Andrew Thompson, leader of the Ont. Liberal party, asked party members Thursday night to form what he called a shadow civil service in support of the party.

Mr. Thompson told about 100 persons at a York North Women's Liberal organization banquet that the party rank and file must unite to provide ideas and criticism to aid the party and its members in the legislature. He said it was his intention to form the shadow group last month.

Couple Marks Fifty Years Of Marriage

On December 2nd, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson of Moira celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, and on the Sunday previous over 250 guests called during the afternoon and evening to extend best wishes.

The bridegroom of fifty years ago has lived all his life on the farm of his late parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson. He was the youngest of 13 children. One brother, Freeman, of Gleischen, Alberta, is still living.

In 1914 he married Emma, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Woods of Crookston, Ontario. She is the eldest of seven boys and five girls, all of whom are still living.

The marriage was performed at the home of the bride's parents with Laura McGee as bridesmaid and John Woods, brother of the bride as groomsman.

After a brief honeymoon the couple returned to the home of the bridegroom's family, where they have been actively engaged in farming until this past summer.

RECEPTION IS HELD

The tea table was laid with a gold colored lace cloth, centred with a three tier wedding cake iced with rosebuds and topped with a golden bell. The cake was flanked with golden candles set in crystal candelabra.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. Stanley Thompson, Black River, N.Y., and Mrs. Margaret Ann Cooper, both sisters of the bride. The daughters-in-law and daughters served the many guests.

Miss Gail Thompson, a granddaughter, was in charge of the guest book.

MANY MESSAGES

Many flowers, gifts and congratulatory messages were received, among them a framed scroll from the Province of Ontario. Messages were received also from Prime Minister Pearson, Rt. Hon. Diefenbaker, Premier Robarts, Mr. Sandercock, M.L.A., Mr. Clark Bollins, M.L.A., Mr. Rod Webb M.P. and Mr. Robert Temple, M.P.

ST. MARGARET'S EVENING GUILD

The members of St. Margaret's Evening Guild met in the church hall on Monday and enjoyed a delicious buffet supper.

Mrs. J. Stewart was hostess for the evening, assisted by her group and members of the executive. The table, set with white cloths, red tapers and Christmas centrepieces were most attractive and made an appropriate setting for the annual Christmas meeting.

Mrs. M. Coles conducted a quiz game of scrambled words pertaining to Christmas with Mrs. T. Collyer as winner.

Everyone joined in playing military whist directed by Mrs. J. Ritchie. Prize winners were: Mrs. R. Rushton, Mrs. F. Woolcott, Mrs. T. Collyer and Mrs. W. Black.

Successful Living

Non-Smoker Plagued By Inconsideration

DEAR DORIS — I wish you would put in a word for the non-smokers! It was not until I gave up smoking on the advice of my doctor about four years ago that I realized how absolutely sickening the smell of cigarette smoke can be! And as for stale ash trays!

I don't want to stop everyone smoking; I just want them to be a little more considerate of non-smokers. We have to put up with people waving cigarettes under our noses in public places, and in restaurants it is particularly sickening to smell other peoples' cigarette smoke. When I have been anywhere with a lot of smokers all my clothes smell of smoke.

DORIS CLARK

If people want to cut their lives short by smoking it is fine by me, but please keep your smoke and your ashtrays away from me! — REFORMED.

* * *

DEAR REFORMED — In other words, where there's smoke, there's fire — in your house.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am 21 years old. I love a man 28 but my mother disapproves of him as far as marriage is concerned. In fact she will not allow me to go to dances, shows or anything that is going on socially any more. I have a job here in town. She told me that I could get a job anywhere else if I wanted to, but when I tell her I am quitting my job here she says "Oh no, you're not, not over my dead body!" I have had friends come to get me to go out to a dance but she wouldn't let me go.

They tell me to go out anyway, regardless of what she says, because I'm of age, but she told me that if I ever tried that she would get the R.C.M.P. after me and she also threatens that she would get my brother (older than me) to beat me.

She can't do anything to me, can she? — MARRYING ANYWAY.

* * *

DEAR MARRYING — No, she can't. At 21, you are your own person and have all the say. Since she is threatening you with the R.C.M.P. or a beating from your brother, get to the R.C.M.P. first and tell them of her threats.

Then have their emergency phone number handy, and use it! if the time ever comes.

* * *

Confidential to HEARTBROKEN — During teen-ager years both boys and girls have times to be in the limelight, times to be ignored. Write in again, enclosing your right name on a stamped, self-addressed envelope, for my "Reading List for Young People." Much has been written which will help you to mee your present problem.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — Re lady caring for her aged mother unable to get responsible person to relieve her for short periods.

Some years ago my wife was faced with the same problem for quite a long time. An idea striking me to take the matter up with the welfare people. The results exceeded our fondest hopes.

The welfare immediately provided a responsible lady who relieved my wife for one or two afternoons a week so as to enable her to go to town for four or five hours to do as she pleased and get a change of ideas and scenery. It proved to be a tonic for both of us. I hope that this note may be of help to the lady concerned. — EVER GRATEFUL TO WELFARE, Vancouver.

* * *

DEAR EVER GRATEFUL — Good news! And a pat on the back for the Vancouver Welfare Department. Many locations in Canada have ways to help, including visiting homemaker set-ups, visiting nurses, volunteer programs. But there are still spots where this kind of relief from full-time duty is desperately needed.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am a girl of 15 and in grade 10. I would like to have a pen pal who lives in England, Italy or Spain, preferably a girl between 14 and 16. — VAL.

* * *

DEAR VAL — Write your request to Mrs. Hilda McNutt, Director of Overseas Correspondence, c/o United Nations Association in Canada, 329 Bloor Street West, Toronto 5, Canada.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I've just started to play the guitar, and I'm really enjoying it.

Years ago, when I belonged to the Girl Guides, I used to lead all the singing songs. Not that I have much of a voice, but singing, especially group singing, is fun; and with a guitar, even more so.

I would like to volunteer my time, voice, guitar to help cheer up people. — GROUP SINGER.

* * *

DEAR SINGER — With a guitar, you are really in the groove. Where there is youth, there is music. So seek youth groups. At the "Y", the church, the recreation centre.

One C.G.I.T. took their music to an aged folks home on Hallowe'en, and had a ball. Volunteer projects like this are stock in trade for volunteer bureaus and welfare councils. Ask your Children's Aid Society, 57 West Moira Street, Belleville.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — Is it proper when serving a dinner with white linen tablecloth to use paper napkins? — HOSTESS.

* * *

DEAR HOSTESS — It's still linen to match the cloth, for Sunday-best.

* * *

To DATELESS — Write again, restating your question and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a private reply.

* * *

(There's a way of coping with what's troubling you. Ask Doris about it. And remember that stamped envelope.)

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The Christmas meeting of Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Grant Kerr with a good attendance.

Mrs. A. Wright presided and opened the meeting in the usual manner. The roll call was answered with an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Business was discussed and a card party planned for January to be held in Plainfield hall.

Each member donated a gift for a needy family. A number of Christmas carols were sung.

Mrs. Elliott introduced Mrs. Swann, the guest speaker who gave an interesting talk on Trinidad and Trinidad was well qualified to talk on the subject as she and Dr. Swann had spent 18 years as a mission in Trinidad. She also showed articles which had been made by people in Trinidad and given to them as gifts. A small Christmas cake which was received from a friend in Trinidad was generously shared with the members.

Mrs. Elliott thanked Mrs. Swann and presented her with a Christmas plant.

A demonstration was given on Christmas cookies, by Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Clarence Hall, Mrs. Clayton Hall and Mrs. Hazard.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her committee.

Susanna's Family Fare

FRISKY FELINE

Dear Susanna: Last winter we thought our nice-year-old cat was not long for this world. She became indifferent, droopy, hardly ever hungry, and her coat was quite dull.

We tried almost everything—even special food from the local animal hospital.

Do you know what was wrong with her? She just had "tired blood."

A friend suggested a diet of raw liver chopped up with any well-known dog food. Now she gets a good slice every day, and what a difference!

Even with winter setting in again she is as lively as a kitten and her fur absolutely gleams. . .and just watch out if we don't feed her on time each evening. She pretends to be quite ferocious. — Doris

NEAT NEAT TRICK

Dear Susanna: A trick I have found most useful when making hamburgers—especially when you make lots of them—is this: I put two thicknesses of wax paper in a peanut butter jar lid (the deeper ones) and press the meat into this. It makes them all uniform and they come out easily when you lift a corner of the wax paper. — Mrs. S. Ives.

STRONG ARM

Dear Susanna: On several occasions I have found myself frantically scraping and rubbing away at a piece of paper that has become stuck fast to the varnished surface of furniture in my husband's office — or on some wooden pieces at the cottage or at home.

One day I decided to slow down and use a little strategy. I applied a bit of olive oil, let it soak in, and wiped the whole thing away like magic. Then I polished up the gloss surface with a soft cloth. — Wife and Secretary

This is a lesson for all our members of the weaker sex. The next time we find ourselves using Popeye tactics, let's remember how much further we will get by substituting the delicate persuasive touch of Olive Oil. — SUSANNA

Ann Landers

Must Prove Mother Unfit To Award Father Children

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I've been working in a law office for over ten years and I still can't figure something out. Why do the women who come in for a divorce turn the world upside down to shield their children from the fact that their father is a cheating, lying skunk?

When it is the wife who has strayed (usually out of frustration and loneliness) why does the husband come charging in like an enraged bull—dragging the children with him—making sure they hear every sordid detail of their mother's unfaithfulness. No adjective is too strong, no accusation too indelicate for their ears.

ANN LANDERS

It happened again this spring, and I'm just sick. I know the woman involved and she is really a fine person. Will you kindly explain why men do this inhuman thing? — W.W.W.

* * *

DEAR W.W.W. — Most courts award the children to the mother unless the father can prove she is "unfit." In order to prove a mother "unfit" the evidence must be plenty strong.

This by no means justifies tearing a woman's reputation to shreds in the presence of her children but it does explain why fathers sometimes do it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I attend a fine school in the East. All the girls here come from homes richer than mine. My folks went all out to buy me an outstanding wardrobe. To look at me you'd never guess we were middle-class people.

My roommate is a very refined girl from a well-to-do and prominent Pennsylvania family. I have invited her to come home with me for the holidays.

It so happens my parents have atrocious manners. In fact, they behave like disgusting barbarians at the table. I didn't realize the dimensions of their slobbishness until I went away to school.

I've been saving my allowance and could afford to take my roommate out to dinner every night of the week. This would save me a lot of embarrassment. Do you think it will work? — TRYING TO GET AHEAD.

* * *

DEAR TRYING TO GET AHEAD — Eat at home and make no apologies. Far worse than poor table manners is a child who is ashamed of her parents.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Add me to the list of people who never thought I'd end up writing to Ann Landers. Here I am, ready to lie down on your couch, and nobody is more surprised than I.

I went with this man for three years. And when I say "went with," I mean I devoted myself to him, body and soul. He was never out of my thoughts. I invested part of my inheritance in his business, which failed. When he was down on his luck I let him move into my apartment and I moved in with my aunt for three months.

Last January he went into a nutty business that clicked. Instead of giving back my $3,000, he bought himself a new car. Last night he gave me the big news. He has decided he's not good enough for me and I should find someone who is. His last words were, "Baby you deserve the best and I hope you get it."

I hear he is seeing a wealthy widow who is old enough to be his mother. Should I invest in a private eye and throw the book at him? — CRUSHED.

* * *

DEAR CRUSHED — What book? Dun and Bradstreet?

It's the only book that would interest the jerk.

If he married that rich widow for her money he'll earn every dime of it. It's the hardest work there is.

* * *

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "The Key To Popularity," enclosing with your request 40c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

St. Julien IODE Plans Projects

Vesper Service Held by CGIT Groups

The national C.G.I.T. Christmas vesper service was held at College Hill United Church on Sunday evening with a large gathering of C.G.I.T., Explorers, leaders, parents and friends.

The service of worship was conducted by C.G.I.T. members of St. Andrew's and St. Columba Presbyterian, Victoria Ave. Baptist and Emmanuel Baptist churches and the United Churches of the city.

The choir was directed by Miss Margaret Hillis with Mrs. L. Blakely at the organ and Nancy Williams as soloist.

The first reader was Beth Wardle and second reader, Susan Kilpatrick with Diane Dryden the candlelighter and the congregation participating at intervals.

At the close of the service the C.G.I.T. members and leaders circled the sanctuary and with the lights dimmed and the glow from the five candles and large illuminated cross, sang Taps.

The C.G.I.T. work board events' committee with convener, Mrs. G. Greatrix, assisted the girls in preparing the vesper service.

St. Julien Chapter IODE took the form of a turkey dinner on Monday evening, Dec. 7. The Chapter had as special guest Mrs. Godfrey, teacher at its adopted school at Eggleton near Stirling.

A short business meeting followed during which tentative arrangements were made for a concert by the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra on January 20. Tickets to be sold were given out to each member present.

The Chapter is holding a blood donor clinic on Monday afternoon, Dec. 14 at Northern Electric. Several members volunteered to help.

On Nov. 26 at BCI the Chapter entertained two classes in basic English. Both the Regent, Mrs. Ralph Ellis and Mrs. McDonald, citizenship convener, spoke to the classes about the work of the IODE and explained projects planned by the St. Julien Chapter to celebrate its 50th anniversary next year. A film, "The Far North" was shown by Mrs. Carscallen to these future citizens of Canada.

The meeting concluded with the exchange of Christmas gifts and special entertainment.

Readers' Friday Column

BY MARY MOORE

QUESTION:

Your column is most enjoyable — thank you. I've made many of your recipes and used your suggestions for meals. Your light fruit cake has turned out beautifully and — I'm ashamed to admit — we tasted one and it was delicious. Recently our family has been interested in Chinese food. We have been at several restaurants and have tried many dishes. The favorites were: Shrimp with lobster sauce, Shrimp fried rice and Lobster chow mein. Since eating at restaurants is so expensive, especially for a family, I've tried making some but it's not just right — Eleanor D.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you my recipe for Shrimp Fried Rice.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menu

Salmon Loaf; Hard-Cooked Egg Sauce; Mashed Squash; Quick - Cooked Shredded Savoy Cabbage; Caesar Salad; Three-Layer Spice Cake with Cream Filling; Coffee.

LOBSTER (OR CRABMEAT CHOW MEIN:

2 cups cooked or canned lobster meat, 2 tablespoons butter or peanut oil, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons butter or peanut oil (second amount), 1 onion, cut in very fine pieces, 2 or 3 cups celery, cut in strips 2" long, ½ lb. scrubbed mushrooms, cut in thin slices, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, few grains cayenne, 1 can bean sprouts (optional) canned chow mein noodles.

Cook lobster in butter or peanut oil in frying pan gently for 5 minutes. Mix together water and cornstarch, stir in and simmer 3 minutes. In another frying pan saute onion in butter or peanut oil (second amount) until limp. Add celery and mushrooms. Cook 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Combine mixtures. Add salt, pepper, cayenne and bean sprouts (if used). Pour over chow mein noodles. Pass soy sauce at table.

I do not think it is an exaggeration to say that there are as many ways of making shrimp with lobster sauce as there are Chinese restaurants. Anyway, here is one good method.

SHRIMP WITH LOBSTER SAUCE (Chinese):

2 lbs. cooked, shelled, deveined shrimp (keep them hot in serving dish), ¼ cup butter or peanut oil, ½ cup sliced scallions (green onions), ¼ cup soy sauce, 1 cup water (or strained liquid from boiling shrimp), ½ teaspoon MSG (accent), 1½ tablespoons cornstarch, ½ cup lobster meat.

Melt butter in frying pan and gently saute scallions until barely limp, stirring. Add soy sauce and all but 2 tablespoons of the water, and MSG and lobster and bring to boil. Stir the cornstarch into the remaining 2 tablespoons water and stir this paste into the pan until thickened. Pour over hot shrimp in serving dish. Serve with rice.

RUSSIAN LEADERS — Power changed hands in the Soviet Union in 1964, with two men replacing Nikita Khrushchev (right). Problems of Great Magnitude Confront Kremlin Leaders As Soviet Union Enters 1965

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—Problems of great magnitude and complexity confront the new Kremlin leadership as the Soviet Union enters 1965.

The men who banished Nikita Khrushchev so abruptly and so ignominously in the third week of October, 1964, are going to find that the problems which dogged him will not be solved simply through a change at the top.

They involve both domestic affairs and foreign relations, including perhaps the most pressing problem of all: how to restore, simultaneously, Communist unity and Soviet leadership within the Communist world.

As in 1964, the hinge of the question will be China.

It used to be fashionable to refer to the Soviet-Chinese dispute as an ideological wrangle, revolving around rarefied questions about the correct interpretation of Marxism-Leninism, particularly as related to Russia's policy of peaceful coexistence with the West.

Developments in 1964 demonstrated that it had become far more than that.

BORDER IN DISPUTE

When China's Mao Tse-tung, in a talk to a group of Japanese socialists July 10, laid claim to more than 500,000 square miles of Soviet territory he took the lid off a territorial issue that apparently had been simmering for years.

After Khrushchev's overthrow and his replacement as Communist party first secretary by Leonid Brezhnev, the Moscow-Peking argument quietened down.

Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai journeyed to Moscow in November for celebrations marking the 47th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution — and of course to test the political climate.

Many qualified observers were convinced that Russia and China were bound eventually to get back on a collision course — driven there by geography, history and conflicting political interests — and that any rapprochement could only be temporary.

A-BOMB IMPRESSES

On the very day Khrushchev's downfall was announced, China exploded its first atomic bomb. Though it was probably a coincidence, nothing could be better calculated to impress the new Soviet leadership with the rising power of Russia's populous neighbor.

Russia's relations with the West continued on their coexistence course in 1964, uninterrupted by the October political upheaval. The new leadership of Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin assured the world that it would follow Khrushchev's line of peaceful coexistence.

Soviet willingness to match words with deeds remains to be tested. For the time being, the Russians may be content simply to accept the status quo with the West while devoting full attention to the urgent problem of reasserting Soviet authority within the Communist empire.

That authority has been badly shaken by the impact of the Soviet-Chinese squabble, which encouraged latent centrifugal tendencies among East European countries.

Russia may never be able to tie the pieces together in just the same neat way as before. For the erstwhile satellites, having tasted independence, are not likely to accept a return to subjugation without a struggle.

FARM PROBLEMS

Internally, the new administration is beset by economic problems particularly in the agricultural sector. Though the wheat crop in 1964 was vastly improved, making it unnecessary for Russia to buy huge quantities of grain from Canada and other countries as it had in last year, the farm sector is still an extremely weak link.

One of the new regime's first moves was to remove "unwarranted restrictions" on private plots of land available to collective farm workers. Private plots, accounting in recent years for only about three per cent of total area sown, produce a disproportionately high percentage of total farm output.

Most observers expect Brezhnev and Kosygin—technocrats with experience by profession—to try to bring about a more business-like approach to Russia's manifold economic ills.

To them, Khrushchev was a "hare-brained schemer." They talk of bringing more individual initiative into play, of cutting out red tape, applying the lessons of science to Russia's economic problems.

Khrushchev also talked about these things. But talking couldn't make things move; by itself it would not likely yield many dividends for the new Kremlin masters either.

Other domestic policies which the new leadership vowed to continue include the improvement of living standards, with special emphasis on improving the quality of consumer goods.

MAY BE MYSTERY MAN

The end-of-year political situation contains a big imponderable —whether there is a king-maker lurking in the background calling the tune for Brezhnev and Kosygin and possibly prepared to take over from them after the dust has settled.

Many experts believe Brezhnev, for one, is too powerful in his own right to play Nagulb to somebody else's Nasser. However, the possibility remains that the real power is still waiting in the shadows.

The party's central committee is reported to have decreed that never again will the posts of party first secretary and premier be vested in one man, as they were in Khrushchev.

Such structural change, however, may be academic in the Soviet system. Collective leadership will last, many experts believe, precisely until one man is strong enough again to gather all the power into his own hands.

NAMED BOARD CHAIRMAN

TORONTO (CP) — Bruce J. Legg, district solicitor of the department of veterans affairs, has been appointed chairman of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, Premier John Roberts announced Thursday. Mr. Legge succeeds Eugene Sparrow, 67, retiring at the end of the year because of poor health. Mr. Sparrow resigned his job as vice-president of the Imperial Varnish and Color Company in 1948 to become chairman of the board.

Expect Canada's Economy Will Be up in '65

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's economy will rise to new heights in 1965, with the Gross National Product expected to increase $2,800,000,000 to $49,000,000,000, A. A. Cumming, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, says in a year-end statement.

He adds, however, that an even larger trade deficit with the United States is in prospect and "achievement of a marked reduction in this merchandise trade deficit . . . should be a national objective engaging the attention of us all."

Mr Cumming says 1964 "has certainly done well by Canada in every important economic respect and, although the world of manufacturing becomes almost daily more competitive, it was in aggregate as good 12 months as industry and its employees have ever known."

Signs indicate a continuation of high business activity and strength in the year ahead.

The upward pressure on prices is likely to be maintained because of the vigor of the economy, but both prices and costs should be contained within the limits of productivity improvement and ever-all economic growth."

He predicts exports of semi-manufactured and fully processed goods will continue to increase, although the import surcharges recently imposed by Britain seem certain to trim sales there.

"After four straight years of sustained expansion it is hardly surprising that some Canadians should be wondering whether the economy wasn't due to slow down at least to catch its breath.

"However the demands of the post-war babies now going to school and approaching marriageable age in record numbers are an extremely buoyant factor and these are almost enough in themselves to avert any serious business downturn in the year ahead."

Seed That Breaks Rock

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

When William Carey, the first Protestant missionary to India, sought to translate the Bible into the Bengali language, the British appointed Governor-General objected. When asked why, he explained that the Bible teaches all men are on a level and if the natives get the idea that they were equal to the British, it would be farewell to the British government in India. ("William Carey" by Joseph Belcher, American Baptist Publication Society, 1853).

The Governor-General showed that he was a discerning reader of the Bible. The Bible does teach that all men are on a level, because all men are made in the image of God. Paul stressed this truth for the Christian fellowship by writing, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus." (Galatians 3: 28 RSV) All persons, regardless of sex, race, nationality, or social standing, are on the same footing when they stand in the presence of God. As Dr. Samuel Harrison Greene once put it "The ground is level at the foot of the cross."

One of the passages the Governor - General may have had in mind is Paul's letter to Philemon. In this brief but very important, letter, Paul writes to Philemon, a Christian friend about a runaway slave, Onesimus, whose name is Greek means "profitable," a fact on which Paul played in his letter.

This is one of the most tactful and tender letters ever written. Paul knew he was dealing with a delicate subject. For Onesimus, Philemon's slave, had run away. He may even have stolen from his master at the time of escape. At any rate, Paul promised to repay whatever Onesimus might owe. Onesimus had made his way to Rome, where he had come under Paul's influence, and had been converted to Christianity. Now Paul was sending him back to the owner from whom he had run away.

With him, however, Paul sent a letter urging Philemon to receive Onesimus "no longer as a slave" but as "a beloved brother." To make such a request in a day when slaves had absolutely no personal rights was a daring thing to do. But knowing of Philemon's genuine Christian spirit, Paul had the courage to do it.

LOOKING AT OTHERS

Dr. E. Stanley Jones once said there are three possible ways of looking at others, especially those whom the world calls our social inferiors. First, one can say, "I am their superior." This is the attitude that pervades so much of the world's social and economic life. Often, without intending to be cruel, people go to cruel lengths to maintain their supremacy over others whom they want to keep in "their place".

Or, we can say with the Bible, "I am my brother's keeper." In this world, we have to keep others whether we want to do so or not. Even Community Chest drives and our pension plans are evidence of this. But one can help to keep others without loving them. One can even help to keep his aging parents with reluctance.

Or one can say, "Regardless of our racial or racial differences as children of the same God, I am his brother." It was Paul's position that Christian kinship transcends social differences. He asked Philemon to look at his runaway slave not as a slave to be punished, but as a fellow Christian to be loved.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM

Many will say that Paul did not attack the evils of the slave system. He did not say, "Take him back as a brother because slavery is wrong." Perhaps Paul knew the world was not yet ready for a direct attack on the heinous evil of slavery in which one person is considered the property of another. What he did do was significant. He asked Philemon to look at a slave as a fellow Christian. Someone has called this "the seed that breaks the rock." In the light of Christian love, slavery is intolerable. In the light of Christian love, segregation is untenable. In the light of Christian love, anything that treats another with discrimination is untenable. For the other person regardless of his social or racial background, is equally a child of God, and equally deserving, therefore, of respect and justice.

Our world has been torn with racial and social tensions. Many believe the time has come to take direct action against all forms of injustice. But these problems will be solved, at their deepest levels only by a change of heart that enables us to see all others as fellow children of God equally deserving of our love and respect.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 13: "On Behalf Of A Slave," Philemon.

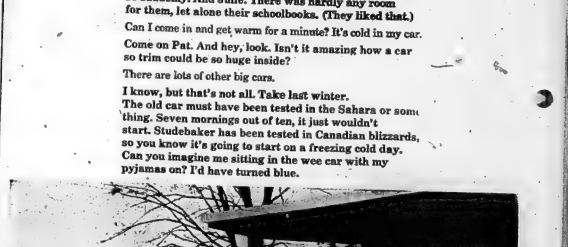
75 ANNIVERSARY YEARS — The EXCELSIOR LIFE Insurance Company

Hi Pat.

H'llo Mary Lou. Well I'll be darned.
Aren't you frozen sitting there in your pyjamas?

Nope. It's nice and warm in here.

By the way, what ever happened to the little bomb.



We outgrew it. So we bought this new Studebaker.
Now everybody fits into it. Funny how Jim and Mike grew so suddenly. And Julie. There was hardly any room for them, let alone their schoolbooks. (They liked that.)

Can I come in and get warm for a minute? It's cold in my car.

Come on Pat. And hey, look. Isn't it amazing how a car so trim could be so huge inside?

There are lots of other big cars.

I know, but that's not all. Take last winter.
The old car must have been tested in the Sahara or some thing. Seven mornings out of ten, it just wouldn't start. Studebaker has been tested in Canadian blizzards, so you know it's going to start on a freezing cold day.
Can you imagine me sitting in the wee car with my pyjamas on? I'd have turned blue.

Yes, but haven't European cars got better brakes and things? After all, they're built to slam around all over the place.

Studebaker has disc-type brakes. You can't have better in an emergency. Honestly Pat, I can't think of anywhere I feel safer.

You know, Mary Lou, I guess sports cars and Studebakers are kind of the same. They're both unique.

Right. Except Studebaker's a sight more comfortable. A sort of kindred soul. Why don't we switch places, and you drive it for a while Pat? See for yourself.

Elmore Philpott, After Lifetime In Politics, Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Elmore Philpott, after a lifetime in politics and journalism devoted to human progress and human understanding, is dead.

He died in hospital here Wednesday night, a man who in public life had sought strong government, and who in his writings could speak of meeting tags with world statesmen.

He was the kind of complicated individual once described as "a socialist in his head, a liberal in his heart and a conservative in his bones."

Mr. Philpott, 68, had been in failing health for several months. A resident of Penticton, B.C., in recent years, he entered hospital there and had been transferred to a veterans' hospital here a week ago.

He had battled physical difficulty ever since one of three wounds from the First World War, complicated by arthritis, forced him to use two canes in walking.

Mr. Philpott was a syndicated columnist and wrote on local, national and international affairs, traveling widely to five continents. He was an expert on China and India, and numbered the late prime minister Nerru and former British prime minister Clement Attlee among his friends.

He was a Liberal member of Parliament from 1953 to 1957 for Vancouver South, but his activity and influence in politics went back more than 30 years before he sat in Ottawa.

Born in Toronto in 1896, Mr. Philpott was educated at Hamilton Collegiate and the University of Toronto, where he was an outstanding athlete.

He left school to enlist in the army and won his commission at the Battle of the Somme. He was awarded the Military Cross and Bar.

He is said to have been profoundly affected by the poverty he saw as a struggling business magazine publisher in Toronto from 1922 to 1924. Through his work as a journalist with the Montreal Witness and Toronto Globe in the late 1920s and early 1930s he developed strong left - of - centre political convictions.

He contested with Mitchell Hepburn the leadership of the Ontario Liberal party in 1930, quit the Liberals after the CCF was formed in 1933, and later left the CCF when it took the view that it was not in a position to correct the circumstances of the depression.

He moved to the West Coast in 1937, first to Victoria and later to Vancouver, where he lived until his retirement in 1961.

Beaten three times in contests for a provincial or federal seat, he won election to the Commons on his fourth try in 1953. He was defeated in Vancouver South in 1957 and again in 1958.

Labor Feud Between CNTU And Labor Congress Broke Into Open in Past Year

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—A long-simmering labor feud linked to the upsurge of nationalism in Quebec broke into the open in 1964 and may come to a boil in the months ahead.

Antagonists are the Canadian Labor Congress, with 1,106,000 affiliated members across the country, and the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) which has a membership of 121,800 concentrated in Quebec.

There has been an uneasy relationship between the two bodies for several years because of membership raiding. The Quebec Federation of Labor representing the CLC's 333,000 members in that province, became concerned this year about a sharp upswing in CNTU raiding activity.

Three months ago presidents Claude Jodoin of the CLC and Jean Marchand of the CNTU traded sharp attacks on each other's organization, the first public evidences of the rising conflict.

Mr. Jodoin, without mentioning the CNTU by name, said some labor organizations practise "religious and national segregation."

Mr. Marchand said this was an attack aimed at keeping the CNTU confined to Quebec so the CLC could dominate the rest of Canada. He warned that his organization is a "Canadian union movement," thus indicating that the CNTU is serious in its moves toward the Atlantic provinces.

TALKS COLLAPSED

A few years ago the two bodies held a long and frank discussion of merger arrangements. They agreed to the principle that Canadian labor could speak best through a single voice, but the merger talks broke down over technical matters.

Any lingering hope for a renewal of merger talks was killed this year when a CNTU policy document stated bluntly that competition between labor groups is a good thing. The CLC is dedicated to the opposite view, that conflict within the trade union movement can only serve to hamper its advance.

Uppermost in the mind is the delicate issue of national unity to which the CLC has devoted much of its energy since its founding in 1956.

The CNTU originally aimed its criticisms at international unions — those with headquarters in the United States. Now, the CLC says, the attack is against Canadian unions as well.

A CLC spokesman put it this way:

The CNTU used to tell workers they should join a Canadian union instead of sending dues to Washington. Now their organizers say: 'Join a Quebec union, don't send your dues to Ottawa.'

In September a top executive officer of the CLC conferred with a group of Quebec federation leaders on a plan of action against the CNTU. They assembled a special "task force" to watch for the development of CNTU raiding moves and launch counter-measures.

During recent years CLC-affiliated unions have been putting special emphasis on the training of French-Canadian organizers for their Quebec regions.

Raiding by both sides has so far resulted in only minor skirmishes. But two developments on the Quebec economic horizon contain the elements of a real battle.

Plans are in the works to build major auto and steel plants in the province. Two CLC affiliates, the United Steel Workers of America and the United Auto Workers, intend to organize the plants. The CNTU is likely to oppose them.

This would set a crucial test of the drawing power of the CNTU's nationalistic appeal against the money manpower of the two biggest industrial unions in Canada.

For Steel, which in 1964 became the first single union in Canadian history to top 100,000 in membership, a direct fight against the CNTU would be a strange turn of fate. In 1949 when the bitter asbestos strike put the CNTU on the brink of financial ruin, the Steelworkers sent a huge donation that helped the CNTU to survive.

MEMBERSHIP CONTINUES INCREASE — Canadian labor unions continued to grow in 1964 after falling off in 1961 and 1962. In 1964 there were 1,487,000 dues-paying members compared with 1,440,000 a year earlier. (CP Newsmap)

59 Hostages Rescued by Mercenaries

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Soldiers led by Maj. Michael Hoare, commander of Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe's white mercenaries, have rescued 59 white hostages of the rebels at Yangambi farming research station in a combined operation by road and riverboat.

The South African mercenary and his men set out Wednesday morning into rebel territory from Stanleyville, former capital of the Communist - backed rebel "Congolese People's Republic."

Yangambi lies about 80 miles downstream from Stanleyville, on the north bank of the River Congo. Hoare's final objective was the town of Isangi, about 20 miles farther downstream on the opposite shore.

The rescued hostages were believed to be mostly Belgians, though last reports said there were also seven Italians at the research station.

U.S. MILLIONAIRE MUST LEAVE CANADA — The Canadian immigration department has refused immigrant status to U.S. millionaire Harry Stonehill, 47. Stonehill, seen in a recent file photo, was deported from the Philippines in 1962 after amassing $50,000,000 in the years following the Second World War. He had been charged with tax evasion and corruption of public officials. Stonehill is reported to have told immigration officials he will leave his Vancouver home by January 9. (CP Photo)

Rebels 'Frustrated' by Rescue Planes Says Wife of Slain Canadian Missionary

NEW YORK (CP) — Mrs. Jone McMillan, wife of a Canadian missionary slain by Congolese rebels, said today her husband was killed after the rebels became "frustrated" by the appearance of American rescue planes.

Mrs. McMillan arrived here from Leopoldville, the Congo capital, with her six sons, two of whom were wounded in the same burst of firing that killed her husband, Hector, 49.

The family flew on to Montreal immediately to join her husband's family at Avonmore, Ont.

They had planned to go to Philadelphia to the headquarters of her husband's mission, the Unevangelized Fields Mission, but changed their plans quickly when they learned of the death of her husband's brother.

Mrs. McMillan, a slim and grey-haired 51-year-old woman, bit her lip but talked quietly about events leading up to her husband's death Nov. 24.

WERE HOSTAGES

She said she and her family were "more or less hostages" of the rebels after a pursuit in a mission house five miles from Stanleyville, the former rebel capital.

Her husband at one point was arrested and taken to Stanleyville with other missionaries but he and a British missionary were permitted to return while Americans were held in Stanleyville.

On the day of the shooting, she said, "there were about four planes that came in over Stanleyville."

"This greatly frustrated the rebels who were guarding us."

She said the rebels were undecided what to do, but eventually ordered the women and children to go inside the mission house.

"When women and children were brought into the house they suddenly fired upon us and the two boys were wounded ..."

Mrs. McMillan did not go on, but other missionaries have told how her husband turned back when he heard the shots and then was killed instantly.

Mrs. McMillan, a native of Michigan who has been in The Congo 25 years, said her husband's death would have no effect on her religious belief except to strengthen it.

"We feel more than ever that the Lord has a plan in these things and we are part of it.

Her two oldest sons, Kenneth, 17 and Paul, 16, both said they hoped to become missionaries.

Kenneth was wounded in the thigh in the shooting and has spent two weeks in hospital in Leopoldville. A wheelchair was taken to the plane but the youth walked off unaided along with his brothers, all lightly clad and talking quietly among themselves.

Paul, who had a fragment of a bullet removed from his cheek, still had a small bandage on his face.

The other boys are David, 14; John, 13; Stephen, 11, and Timothy, 10. Four were born in The Congo.

Mrs. McMillan said she hopes to spend several days or a week with her husband's family and then expects to go on to Michigan for Christmas.

She said she and her husband had felt "quite safe" in The Congo although they were evacuated in 1960 at the time of independence from Belgium.

"Had we anticipated trouble we would have left." But when the trouble came it was too late.

Human Rights Group Urges Govt. to Reveal Security Procedures Being Followed

OTTAWA (CP) — A human rights group has urged the federal government to reveal security procedures now being followed in government departments.

It also asked the government to appoint a royal commission to explore the whole field of security arrangements in Canada in relation to individual rights.

Professor Donald Rowat, head of the political science department of Carleton University, made the recommendations Thursday at a public meeting on human rights.

They came out of a discussion group at the meeting dealing with the implications of government security and secrecy on the rights of the individual.

The group, which formed part of a two - day seminar here arranged by the Canadian and Ottawa citizenship councils, also raised a number of related questions.

"We wonder whether the number of posts designated as sensitive is too large," said Professor Rowat.

NEED DEFINITION

The grounds for suspicion also needed to be more clearly defined. "If a person to be subjected of being a Communist because his grandparents are Communists?"

He said members of his discussion group felt there is too much secrecy about security procedures now being followed.

"We need a government statement immediately, outlining what the existing procedures are, and what the provisions are for appeal if a person is designated as a poor security risk."

Earlier, Liberal MP Pauline Jewett voiced concern about security measures in the federal government and civil service.

"Voluntary groups should press for information on the way security investigations are now being conducted, and on what appeal procedures exist," she said.

Members of the discussion group on secrecy wondered whether members of Parliament were given security rulings by the RCMP.

SUSPECTS FILES KEPT

Progressive Conservative MP Gordon Fairweather told the meeting he did not know, but said he rather suspected that he and his colleagues, as well as other Canadians, did have their own personal dossiers in the RCMP's secret files.

Both Miss Jewett and Mr. Fairweather were taking part in a panel discussion on human rights.

Mr. Fairweather said a new national revenue department ruling allows department officials to investigate the private business dealings and correspondence of a taxpayer without the taxpayer's presence. He believed this was a violation of individual rights.

Another panel member, prominent Ottawa lawyer William Teron, charged that "vast economic ghettos" were present in every North American city, and were a constant violation of the principles of human rights.

Mr. Teron also criticized the National Housing Act as being discriminatory legislation.

Less than four per cent of those applying for home-building loans under the provisions of the act had yearly salaries of under $4,000 a year.

2,500 Offer To Give Indian Orphan Home

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Remember Quince—the little Indian orphan that a no-kill wanted?

Quince got a mother and father Thursday and is en route to his new — and first — home where he'll have a sister to play with.

Quince's story started Sept. 30 when Miss Sally Matlock, executive director of the Protestant Home for Babies, disclosed that 25 couples had turned down Quince for adoption because they wanted children "like us," not an Indian.

The Associated Press carried a story about Quince's plight and soon the orphanage was deluged with adoption offers.

The agency is keeping with Louisiana law regarding adoptions.

When the parents came Thursday to pick up Quince, they brought the Indian child's new sister, a dark-eyed beauty of 15 months, also a full-blooded American Indian.

Miss Matlock said the new parents are interested in Indian culture, history and customs and both speak Indian languages.

New Soviet Leaders Appear To Be Moving to Summit

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The new Soviet leaders appear to be encouraging President Johnson and other Western leaders to "move towards the summit by paving the path with relaxing gestures, including planned reductions in Soviet military spending.

Because details of Soviet budgets are not open to Western inspection, there is still some doubt in the West that the Russians will actually cut armaments by the announced $600,000,000 next year.

But Johnson cannot dismiss the arms-cutting decision announced by Premier Alexei N. Kosygin as an empty gesture. When Nikita Khrushchev was toppled from power, many Western authorities concluded that those in the Kremlin who were pressing for a big arms build-up had finally succeeded in getting their way.

Kosygin seems to be following instead the Khrushchev line that Premier Khrushchev noted that the United States is trimming its defence spending and concluded this is a positive step "toward lessening of international tension."

Trimming of Soviet and American defence budgets are not acts which by themselves could lead to disarmament. Americans have followed the line that there must be fruitful negotiations first in the diplomatic valley before the leaders scale the heights.

U.S. SEEKS GESTURES

There also is the question of open Soviet encouragement of the Viet Cong in the Vietnamese battle and the Stanleyville rebels in The Congo. The United States would like to see the Kremlin make some gestures towards cooling off activities in the two regions but there is no indication the Kremlin is ready to do so.

Washington would therefore suggest there are further steps the Kremlin can take if the Soviet leaders really want a sincere detente, rather than a pause while those in power in Moscow consolidate their strength at home.

Meanwhile, the sense of moderation and relaxation with Kosygin displayed undoubtedly has had an impact within the Western alliance. West Germany is pressing for a voice in global Western strategy and operation. The whole question of a new Atlantic nuclear concept could be the top issue at the North Atlantic ministerial conference in Paris next week.

With the alliance membership split on the issue and with an urgency for new measures somewhat deflated by the Soviet arms - trimming gesture, the Western nuclear debate may drag on, perhaps for months, as internal political pressures in Germany itself force a final decision.

Inquiry Into 'Run-Throughs' Will Cover Three Areas

WINNIPEG (CP) — The industrial inquiry commission into CN's "run - throughs" will cover three areas of investigation, including the entire question of policy and practice, Commissioner Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman said Thursday.

The commission set Wednesday, Jan. 13 as the date for its first public hearing here in Winnipeg. Other sittings were tentatively scheduled for Saskatoon, Wainwright, Alta., Nakina, Ont., and Moncton, N.B.

The commission met for the first time Thursday to fix dates and procedures. No briefs or evidence were taken.

Mr. Justice Freedman, a member of the Manitoba Court of Appeal, said in a written statement that the first area the one-man commission will study is the factual situation pertaining to the run-throughs at Nakina and Wainwright instituted CN.

He said the events which followed—about 1,900 CNR operating employees booked off work in protest—were the immediate cause for creation of the commission.

IS SECOND PHASE

Mr. Justice Freedman said the second phase of the inquiry concerns the industrial situation arising from the run-throughs.

This phase would embrace the justification in the eyes of the railway for running through the terminals of Nakina and Wainright, the obligation, if any, of the railway to its employees who may be adversely affected by such run-throughs, how that obligation may be fairly met, discharged, and the rights and interests of third parties such as the towns of Nakina and Wainwright.

The run-throughs would have had train crews work straight through from Hornepayne to Armstrong in Northern Ontario and from Edmonton to Biggar, Sask., in Western Canada, without taking rest at the railway points of Nakina and Wainwright would have been eliminated.

The railway delayed the run-through program Oct. 27 after the federal government set up the inquiry commission.

Spokesmen for the employees accused the government set up the new work rules without consultation.

The commission is tentatively scheduled to sit in Nakina Feb. 17.

Most Local Issues Settled, To Work on GM Master Pact

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators from Local 1registered Auto Workers (CLC) and General Motors of Canada Limited are almost ready to move into bargaining on a master agreement for 23,575 GM workers in five Ontario centres, on strike since Dec. 3.

A major step was taken Thursday when agreement was reached on local issues between the company and the UAW Local 222, which represents about 14,500 workers at GM's Oshawa plant.

Bargaining between GM and union officials for 650 workers at General Motors Diesel Limited in London, Ont., is still going on. When an agreement is reached for these workers, bargaining will go on the master agreement.

Local issues were solved earlier for 4,275 workers at McKinnon Industries in St. Catharines, 1,350 men at GM's transmission plant in Windsor and 1,000 workers at Frigidaire Products of Canada in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough.

A union spokesman said Thursday bargaining on the master agreement will start as soon as the differences between the company and the London local are settled.

No details were announced on the agreement reached with GM Oshawa local Thursday.

Talks on the master agreement will concern a chief union demand to bring parity with U.S. workers. The union has estimated the difference is from $1 to more than $1 an hour in some cases.

Tires Slashed By Vandals

HAMILTON (CP)—Reports of tire slashings in the West Park Avenue area poured into police headquarters Thursday, prompting what Assistant Police Chief John Arno called the worst case of malicious damage he has ever seen here.

Morality Inspector Arthur Robson said Thursday police department was so busy answering calls to the area that it took about 20 police officers to take down information.

Police said they believe a specially made tool resembling an ice pick was used. The tires had up to four holes punched in them by the vandals.

Grey County Jail Described As 'Deplorable'

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Mayor Eddie Sargent Wednesday led a tour of county officials and newspaper reporters in Grey County jail, an institution he described as "filthy" and "deplorable."

Mr. Sargent, also Liberal member of the legislature for Grey North, said he had toured the institution Tuesday.

"Would you believe these conditions existed in the 20th century?" Mayor Sargent asked the reporters, County Warden Elwood Moore and Clerk-Treasurer Harry Henderson.

The men on tour found that each cell block has six individual cells and a long narrow room with a wooden table, two benches and toilet facilities closed off at one end.

The cells, lined along one wall of the block, are about three feet wide and seven feet long and each contains a small cot taking up much of the space. NO MATTRESSES

There is no mattress on the cot and prisoners must sleep on the springs covered only by a blanket.

Prisoners are locked in the cells at 6 p.m. each night and are not released into the larger room until 10 hours later. The cells contain no lights and the lights in the main room are switched off at 9 p.m.

Prisoners eat in the kitchen, the group found that three cans of beans and a pot of potatoes are being prepared for supper, with no meat planned for the evening meal.

They were told that the prisoners could have bread without butter. Because there is no cook at the jail, prisoners must prepare their own meals.

Govt. Defrauded Of $2,206,665 In Income Tax

MONTREAL (CP) — Charles Valiquette, 60, a Montreal contractor, is scheduled to be sentenced today for fraud in what the investigators here called the biggest tax evasion case ever prosecuted by the federal revenue department.

He has pleaded guilty to failing to report $3,238,354 in income from 1947 to 1960, defrauding the federal government of $2,206,665 in income tax.

He headed the Provincial Construction Company which was mainly concerned with basement, public works and road projects, in the Lake St. John area. Federal investigators said the evasion was discovered by comparing accounts declared by the province with the accounts with the Income reported by Valiquette.

Judge Marcel Gabourg of Montreal sessions court heard the case Thursday in Judges' chambers because of a shortage of courtrooms. Such cases are generally held in public, federal investigators said.

Valiquette faces sentencing on two counts of conspiracy, fraud charges and 12 indictment cases. The latter have a mandatory penalty of not more than five years and not less than two months each, as well as any fine.

Federal investigators said the revenue department will be able to recover a considerable amount of the tax money owed because Valiquette owns substantial property in the Montreal area.

The revenue department started investigating the case in 1961 and court proceedings began about six years ago, investigators said.

Renfrew Approves Sunday Sport Bylaw

RENFREW, Ont. (CP)—Voters in this Ottawa Valley town gave their approval to a Sunday sport bylaw in municipal voting Thursday.

The vote was 6,296 in favor of Sunday sport and 4,298 against.

In another referendum voters approved a suggestion that the Ontario government assume a greater share of education costs. The vote was 2,078 for to 422 opposed.

The education question was put on the ballot after council received a letter from council in Trenton, Ont., asking for support of a resolution being sent to the provincial government.

Councillors Interfered Says Former Port Elgin Chief Testifying Before Board

PORT ELGIN, Ont. (CP) — Former police chief Charles Wilmer testified Thursday that a constable, told an Ontario Police Commission board Thursday he has never had any interference from councillors while policing this town 25 miles west of Owen Sound.

Const. Riley was testifying in his own defence at an inquiry into police operations in the town which in recent months had its three - man police force either fired, suspended or asked to resign.

The inquiry, which started Monday, was adjourned Thursday to Jan. 25.

Const. Riley, only remaining member of the force, joined it in June, 1963 and was appointed chief constable last May after Chief Const. Kennedy Farrell died. Council passed a motion in August asking Riley to resign, but he refused.

In November, council reacinded its previous motion and passed another reducing Chief Riley to the rank of constable at the same annual salary of $4,200.

Const. Riley said councillors R. J. Bell and Dean Theobald, both members of this year's police committee, interfered with his police duties.

Const. Riley said he received a call from Councillor Bell, who used obscene language in accusing a speeding charge laid against his (Bell's) brother.

During police committee meetings, Const. Riley said, Councillor Bell continued to complain that "we were ruining the Board of Trade."

"There were members of council that had approached Chief Wilmer and complained so many complaints from Mr. (Emmett) McGrath that this department was ruining his business," he said.

Earlier, Mr. McGrath, proprietor of the Cedar Beach Casino and the town refreshment booth, testified that his business was cut by 50 per cent in 1963 because of "concentrated" searching of patrons cars by town police.

Const. Riley said Councillors Bell and Theobald subjected him to verbal abuse for his police work.

He said the councillors complained after former const. Karl MacNaughton stopped Wilmer A. Lamont, of Saugeen Township, and charged him with impaired and dangerous driving.

Const. Riley said the councillors asked him to reduce the charges to careless driving, and said that Const. MacNaughton should be fired.

Const. Riley confirmed a report that Const. MacNaughton placed MacNaughton under suspension. But council later reinstated him and withdrew charges of neglect of duty and drinking while on duty.

MacNaughton subsequently resigned.

Asked whether the services of former constable George Armour Taggart, also suspended by council this year, were satisfactory, Const. Riley replied: "I found them to be very satisfactory."

Const. Riley, 41, told the hearing he served with the Canadian detachment of the provincial police in Northern Ontario from September, 1948, to March, 1951. He was a car salesman in Port Arthur from 1951 to 1959, and then moved to London and sold cars there before coming to the force here.

Robin Scott of Toronto, counsel for the police commission, asked Const. Riley whether he was "bruque and undiplomatic" in his approach to the public.

Said Const. Riley: "I might be a bit brusque at certain times. I put in long hours here and possibly one will become somewhat irritated."

More than 40 witnesses, including councillors, were subpoenaed to testify at the hearing. About half of them were heard this week, and others are expected to testify when the inquiry resumes next month.

Const. Riley has continued police the Lake Huron resort town with the aid of OPP from the Walkerton detachment.

R. P. Milligan of Toronto, chairman of the three-man police commission board, said the town will be "adequately police" by members of the OPP until the hearing is complete.

Notre Dame Seeks to Stop Movie Opening

NEW YORK (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Harry C. Greenberg reserved decision Thursday on a suit by Notre Dame University to stop the Christmas Day opening of the film John Goldfarb, Please Come Home.

David W. Peck, who represented the university, contended that in making the $4,000,000 film, 20th Century Fox Corporation "took their chances deliberately."

"They were told that if they went ahead they would be subject to litigation," he asserted.

The university charged that the film and novel misappropriated for commercial exploit, the name, symbols and prestige of the university and its football team.

Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of the school, stated that one scene showing Notre Dame players under the influence of harem girls and as "undisciplined gluttons and drunks."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

"Hurricane" Carter, the bearded boxing blizzard who wafts punches at middleweight champion Joey Giardello Monday night, has been ordered to remove his beard.

Carter, whose noggin could be called "brother" by any billiards cue ball, boasts a neat pointed goatee topped by a full-blown dark brown mustachio.

"HURRICANE" CARTER

"How are ya fixed for blades?" asked members of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission at the fighters' physical the other day.

Carter who will never qualify for that "Little dab'll do-ya" commercial or have sexy cuties stroking the beard of his boyhood curls, didn't answer.

Then the Pennsylvania brass informed him it was the off-season. Either the beard or the fight must go into the file marked "discard."

Carter objected, claiming his beard was his trademark and not a publicity stunt. He claims it will take at least six months to produce a new crop of chin foliage.

But it's apparently harvest time for the Hurricane and he will have to shed the crop and expose a shaved chin to the thunderbolt massage of the Giardello gloves.

The champion's advisers were of the opinion the Hurricane facial upholstery would hamper their man and might "cut him in the clinches." They didn't mention the possibility of Joey being tickled to death.

Of course the "Hurricane" could push a chiaful of southern quills into one or both of the Giardello eyes, causing a temporary blindness and giving the challenger the opportunity to snatch the crown while Joey wasn't looking.

In all fairness to the Hurricane, they should make Joey shave off that handsome crop of locks that tops his headpeace. What's the difference between poking a beard in the other guy's face and tucking in a chin and massaging a foeman's mug with a fight-blown permanent?

While fighters and whatnot of former days did not allow their whiskers to grow to the point where they could use them for chest warmers, a lot of them entered the ring with a stubble that was a two-weeks shadow.

Jack Dempsey always forgot to shave during days previous to a fight. Pictures of the Manassa Mauler in the days when he was the most feared fighter in the world, show him as a swarthy-faced scowling, destruction-bent machine ferocity accentuated by the black stubble that covered every one-half of his face.

And it had the desired effect, that is, until Dempsey collided with handsome, clean-shaven Gene Tunney—and a referee who stuttered while counting the fateful ten.

But the sports fraternity that is helping put barbers on relief are the graduates of the College of Applied Paddydarway. The "masters" in many cases are razor and clippers-shy while others, depending on age or heredity, beast skulls that would make an egg look bristly.

But you don't hear the grunt-and-groaners complain. In fact they turn beards, plaster and beatnik hedges to their own advantage. I've seen them turn opponents out of the ring by merely using a beard as a lacrosse stick. I've seen them satride a fallen foeman, picking, plucking, gently but painfully, long wavy strands from his chest, one at a time.

An old navy buddy of mine, well-versed in sealore once told me that back in the days when Nelson, Frobisher and Drake were trimming the goatees of the French and Spanish sea-going nobility, sailors of His Britannic Majesty's Navy were forced to grow beards.

The sea-lords of those days claimed shaving reduced the mental and physical structurers of the men. And it was all beard at that. None of this moustache stuff. In fact it was believed that shaving the upper lip had an effect on the eyesight.

Which fact might be drawn to the notice of the Umpires' Association. President Al Kelleher should put a notice on the bulletin board: "No shaving for at least a week before say game."

Three in Third * * * Hawks Dump Bruins 5-1 In Beantown * * * Hull Scores No. 21

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most hockey players spend the better part of a game on the bench, waiting for the coach to send them on.

But not Bobby Hull. His station is on the ice, waiting for Chicago coach Billy Reay to take him off.

"It's too bad the games aren't 80 minutes long," says Reay. "If they were, I'd play Hull for 80."

That probably wouldn't be fair to the other National Hockey League teams. Hull is already causing them enough pain in 40 minutes.

Hull worked overtime again Thursday night against Boston Bruins in the only NHL game played. He worked his regular shift, took an extra spell or two with other lines, killed off penalties, played on the power play and scored his 21st goal, the winner in Chicago's 5-1 victory over the Bruins.

Hull's goal, coming in his 22nd game, broke a 1-1 tie midway through the second period with the Hawks clinched their second victory in as many nights with three goals in the finale, humbling the Bruins before 8,719 Boston fans.

The Big Seven

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull scored his first goal Thursday night and added an assist, increasing his point total to 31 and his National Hockey League scoring lead to five points.

Stan Mikita, the Chicago teammate, picked up an assist to climb into second spot with 26 points, one ahead of Norm Ullman, Detroit. Mikita is the league in assists with 19 and Hull, of course, is tops in goals at 21.

Other members of the Big Seven were idle.

The leaders:

	G.	A.	PTS.
Hull, Chicago	21	10	31
Mikita, Chicago	7	19	26
Ullman, Detroit	11	15	26
Henry, New York	13	10	23
Howe, Montreal	9	11	20
Gerrette, New York	8	9	17
Bathgate, Toronto	6	12	18

The win moved the fifth-place Hawks within two points of New York Rangers, trounced 6-1 in Chicago Wednesday night.

Bill Hay, aroused by his demotion from Hull's line to the third unit, opened the scoring in the first period. Murray Oliver tied it at 15:39 of the second but 67 seconds later Hull batted his own rebound by a helpless Ed Johnston.

Phil Esposito, who has replaced Hay as Hull's centre man, scored his seventh and eighth of the season with a 55-second span in the third and Kenny Wharram added his eighth of the campaign and third in two games.

Hull scored after the referee signalled a delayed penalty against Boston left winger Ab McDonald. Down after making two assists, Wharram was helpless against Hull's drive.

Denis DeJordy, playing his second game in place of resting Glenn Hall, made 23 saves in 27 for the Bruins goalie.

Action resumes Saturday night with a full weekend schedule of six games. On Saturday night, New York plays at Montreal, Chicago visits Detroit and Boston is at Toronto.

Detroit travels to Chicago Sunday night, Montreal is at Boston and Toronto visits New York.

Unitas Named '64 MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — John Unitas, the toast of pro football in Baltimore Colts' title days of 1958 and 1959, has been voted the Most Valuable Player of 1964 in the National Football League by an Associated Press panel.

Unitas, the rags - to - riches quarterback who was rescued from the semi-pros by the Colts won by a landslide vote of the 42 - man committee, including three from each league city.

Jim Brown, Cleveland Browns' all - league fullback, drew five votes. Lenny Moore of Baltimore got two, and Johnny Morris of Chicago Bears got one.

Unitas led the Colts to 11 straight victories this season after an opening-day defeat by Minnesota. Baltimore is already assured of a title game against either Cleveland or St. Louis Cardinals Dec. 27.

Flyers Turn Back Wings

Petes Whip Marlies 6-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes survived a blistering last - period attack to down first - place Toronto Marlboros 6-4 Thursday night, but they still couldn't get into second spot ahead of Niagara Falls Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race.

Niagara Falls dumped last-place Hamilton Red Wings 5-2 for 29 points, four back of Marlboros and one ahead of Peterborough.

Petes built up a 6-0 lead on two goals by Leo Thiffault and one each from Dan Grant, Andre Lacroix, Jim Patterson and Dale Watson.

Brit Selby, Jerry Meehan, Jack Chipchase and Wayne Carleton scored one apiece in Marlboros' unsuccessful third-period charge.

Jimmy Seeks Record

Browns Gun for Eastern Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — When Cleveland and New York Giants get together in Yankee Stadium Saturday, the Browns will be gunning for the National Football League's eastern conference title and their fullback Jimmy Brown for a record.

At 2-2-3 this season, New York is well out of the play-off picture and can only hope for an upset. The Browns, 9-3-1, can clinch it with a victory. A loss or tie would then make the title rest on the outcome of the Sunday game between second-place St. Louis Cardinals (8-3-3) and Philadelphia Eagles.

Quarterback Y. A. Tittle, who has had some of his greatest days against the Browns, is the key figure in New York hopes for an upset.

Tittle threw 33 and 36 touchdown passes the last two seasons, but has managed only nine this season. One of his better days was in the 43-20 loss in Cleveland Browns when he hit 19 of 31 for 177 yards. The Browns scored 28 points in the final quarter of that game, three of them set up by the defence.

"I just hope Tittle has a good day," St. Louis coach Wally Lemm said several days ago.

The Browns, of course, have a major weapon in fullback Jimmy Brown, who has 1,356 yards rushing and needs only one touchdown to equal Don Hutson's career record of 105.

Picton Jrs. Win Over Napanee 8-3

PICTON (Staff) — Exploding for four goals in the third period to break up a tight game, Picton Merchants thumped Napanee Legion 8-3 before a fair crowd here last night.

The victory moved Picton back in front of Napanee and left the losers in the basement. The two clubs have exchanged positions several times during the last couple of weeks.

The game was a regular-scheduled OHA Eastern Junior affair.

Picton never trailed. It was 1-1 after twenty minutes and 4-2 at the end of the second heat.

Billy Hopkins spurred the Merchants' attack, firing three of the third-period goals. He also had one earlier assist. Highscoring Harold Haddock also had a big night with two goals and two assists.

Ernie Sharpe potted one goal and set up three others and Paul Jones triggered the other goals. Howe, Todd, Fredericks and Riley contributed an assist each.

Ralph Smith, Dennis Mullins and Larry Cook were the Napanee marksmen. Jocks, Crull and Smith earned single assists.

There were nine penalties, all minors, dished out in the contest. Picton drew five of the total.

Following is an unofficial league standing. (Kingston and Peterborough play games against each other and Belleville only)

Aces Bow To Barons

QUEBEC (CP) — Cleveland Barons, paced by Billy Hicke's two goals and one assist, scored three times in the first period Thursday night and coasted to a 4-1 American Hockey League victory over Quebe nAces.

Hicke, sent to the last-place Barons by Montreal Canadiens last week, supplied what proved to be the winning goal in the opening frame and counted again in the finale when Cleveland stretched its lead to 4-0.

Frank Martin and Bob Eilett also scored for Cleveland in the first period. Ed Hoekstra scored Quebec's lone goal midway through the third.

Jean - Guy Morrissette turned aside 30 Quebec shots in Cleveland's net while Gump Worsley kicked out 20 at the other end of the ice.

Russians Ready For 'Big Pro Test'

In Montreal Tonight

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP) — Out of bed, into their uniforms and out to the rink to practise.

That's the preamble today for the Russian national hockey team before the players gather at the Forum tonight to face probably the greatest challenge of their short hockey careers.

The Soviets take on Montreal Junior Canadiens of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, reinforced with six seasoned pros, to start an eight-game Canadian tour. They play Canada's national team Sunday in Toronto.

The pros from the powerpacked Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League include goalie Gump Worsley and defencemen Doug Harvey, both former National Hockey League players.

The Russians have never had to face talent of that kind and the game is being regarded as a test of how they might fare against players of NHL calibre recognized as the world's best.

The Russian, 20 players, plus head coach Arkadi Chernishev and six other officials, arrived Thursday night after a 14-hour flight from Moscow. They were too tired to give interviews through their two interpreters.

All but six of the Russians have played in Canada before. Five newcomers are Forward Yuri Paramochkin, Leonid Volkov, Vasili Sengurukhin and Oleg Zaitsev, defencemen Vitaly Davydob and spare goalie Victor Tulnachev.

Also lining up with the Junior Canadiens will be Quebec stars Jim Morrison, centre Red Berenson and forwards Bill Sutherland and Leon Jochefort.

Berenson is the only one who has played against the Russians. He was a former member of Canada's world champion Belleville team in 1959 and scored 12 goals in seven games.

Title-Bout Injunction Is Denied

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —A judge Thursday denied an injunction seeking to stop the world middleweight title fight between champion Joey Giardello and Hurricane Carter at Convention Hall Monday night.

The suit was brought by Louis Duva, the Garden State Sports Corporation and Empire Coast Sports Corporation against Giardello, promoter Jimmy Riggio and Nationwide Sports Promotions Incorporate.

The group that sought the injunction here is the same one which obtained a temporary restraining order in New Jersey last Tuesday, prohibiting Giardello from going through with the fight.

The New Jersey group has contended that Giardello had agreed to give them exclusive promotional rights.

Quinte Hockey League

SACO tightened their grip on first place in the Quinte Hockey League last night with a 9-2 victory over the runner-up Ter-Haar Daubers.

In the other game, Horlocks broke a last-place tie with Rossmore by edging the tail-enders 3-2.

Present league standing, after six games, show SACO with 11 points, Ter-Haar with seven, Horlocks with four and Rossmore with two. SACO's Don Forsythe is the league's leading scorer, with seven goals and two assists for nine points. Three teammates, Ken Forsythe, G. Genereaux and A. Deline, have eight points each.

Rossmore and Horlocks were tied 1-1 after one period and the scoring was completed, 3-2, after two bouts.

B. Wannamaker and G. Little earned a goal and assist apiece for Horlocks while B. Hill had the other goal. Don Adams and Kerrubik scored for Rossmore and K. Osterhout got one assist.

SACO had a 5-0 lead in the opening frame against Ter-Haar and it was 7-0 going into the final chapter. A. Ruttan and D. Moore scored late Dauber goals, aided by K. Pointer and B. Jeffery, but it was too late and too little.

Ken Forsythe and G. Genereaux each fired two goals and assisted on two others for the league-leaders. A. Deline also struck for a pair of markers and D. Forsythe had one goal and two helpers. D. Lucas and L. Potter also scored. Lucas, H. Reid and S. Woodcock drew single assists.

Substitute Team Meets Trenton RCAF

TRENTON (Special)—An air search in Prince Edward Island has forced a change of plans as far as the Trenton RCAF Globetrotters are concerned.

Newly-appointed team manager Andy Powell learned yesterday afternoon that the highly-rated RCAF Summerside Eagles will be unable to play the 'Trotters' in tonight's exhibition game here.

Apparently those stationed at the Summerside base are involved in an air search, "They hope to make it sometime in January but have nothing definite on it right now," Powell said.

An attempt is being made to bring in another team tonight.

Spar Mates Join Camp Of Chuvalo

TORONTO (CP) — George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight champion training here for his Jan. 29 bout in New York with former world champion Floyd Patterson, is adding more heavyweight sparring partners to his camp.

Chuvalo, who has been working out at a suburban Toronto golf club with two speed partners and a heavyweight, has called in Cody Jones, a 215-pounder. Jones has sparred with heavyweight champion Cassius Clay.

A fifth veteran sparmate, heavyweight Greatest Crawford of Detroit, will join the camp next week.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fight promoter Bennie Ford said Thursday he is bidding to stage an Eddie Machen - Ernie Terrell heavyweight title fight in San Francisco Jan. 29 or Feb. 1.

Machen and Terrell have been designated by the World Boxing Association to fight for the heavyweight crown.

The San Francisco promoter said he suggested tying the bout in as part of a closed - circuit television doubleheader with the fight between Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo of Toronto in Madison Square Garden Jan. 29.

Financial aspects of Ford's proposal were not disclosed.

Geo. Dixon Undergoes Operation

MONTREAL (CP) — Halfback George Dixon has undergone an operation for a torn knee cartilage, Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference announced Thursday.

The operation, performed Wednesday, was a success.

Dixon bruised his right knee in a 1963 game against British Columbia Lions. It did not heal properly and he injured it again at the start of the 1964 season but managed to finish the year missing only one game.

North Shore Hockey League

Proctor Silex dumped Demorestville 6-3 and Melville downed Albury 5-1 in a pair of Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League games played at Wellington last night.

Melville had a shutout going for two periods, leading 1-0 and 3-0 by periods, before Albury broke the ice.

Don Simpson paced Melville with a brace of goals. Joe Scott, Jim Dunlop and Ed Ross each contributed a goal and one assist.

Bill Greer bagged an unassisted marker for Albury.

The losers drew six penalties, including a misconduct to John Emerson and a major to Pete Mitchell. Dunlop and Mitchell picked up the majors for fighting.

Proctor Silex were held 3-2 in the first frame and had a slim 3-2 margin before wrapping it up in the third with three, unanswered.

Jim Hicks sparked the winners with two goals and two assists. R. Irwin also scored twice, B. Heffernan got a goal and two helpers and C. Hertzman one of each.

H. Kemppen and G. Mitchell were the Demorestville marksmen.

The losers collected six of the game's ten penalties.

Battle for Top Spot

Trenton, Bees Tonight!

City fans will get their first look at the greatly-improved Trenton Juniors here tonight when they meet the Belleville "B's" at Memorial Arena. Game time is nine o'clock.

The "B's" will be out to settle a score. Trenton, now operating as the "Apple Kings," nipped Belleville 4-3 in the loop opener in Trenton. Belleville has won four times and lost only once since then but they hope to erase that earlier defeat tonight.

Apple Kings are battling for top spot in the league standing as are the "B's". The winner of tonight's tilt will move to the head of the class. Each team owns a 4-2 record going into the contest.

This will be Belleville's final home game until after the Christmas holidays. Their scheduled game against Kingston here next Friday has been postponed until February.

The "B's" hit the road for games in Napanee Monday, in Picton next Thursday, in Peterborough on December 21 and in Gananoque on December 27. Their next home start will be January 8, with Trenton again the visitors.

Belleville will put a perfect home ice record on the line again in tonight's tilt. The team has won all four home starts and outscored the opposition 23-13.

New Safety Rules for "500" Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway issued new safety regulations Thursday for the 1965 Memorial Day 500-mile race in an attempt to reduce the possibility of collision - explosions such as the one that killed two drivers last May.

A speedway spokesman said requirements, in entry blanks to be mailed early next month, provide that:

All fuel tanks must have rubber bladder inserts; to reduce fuel leaks, all cars must refuel at least twice; no fuel tanks shall be installed directly in front of the driver; refueling equipment must be gravity type only, eliminating pressure refueling; all new drivers must pass tests up to 145 miles an hour—an increase of 10 miles an hour.

Rookie Dave MacDonald hit the wall on the second lap of this year's race with a heavily-loaded rear - engine car. Veteran Eddie Sachs hit MacDonald's car with a similar racer. Both vehicles exploded and burned.

Parnelli Jones, another veteran, suffered painful burns in a refueling fire.

English Football League

Manchester, Chelsea Clash

LONDON (Reuters)—Teams that met on the opening day of the English Football League program last August will play the reverse fixtures Saturday to start the second half of the season.

At the halfway stage, there is a keen top-of-the-table battle in the first division, with only two points separating the leading four clubs.

Leading Manchester United is smarting from the upset home defeat last weekend by Leeds United, which ended its great run of 28 points from 16 games.

Manchester will be out to make a quick return to winning form when it plays at West Bromwich Albion Saturday.

The Midlanders are the only team to have held Manchester United to a draw at Old Trafford this season — they drew 2-2 there last August—and only once in the last five meetings between the clubs at West Bromwich have they allowed United to collect both points. Chelsea, the London club which is right on Manchester United's heels, entertains bottom - of - the - table Wolverhampton Wanderers.

The Wolves were crushed 3-0 at home by the youthful Londoners last August, but in recent weeks have been showing signs of a revival.

With half the season gone, once mighty Tottenham Hotspur is still without an away win. It might break the spell Saturday at the expense of Sheffield United.

Line Leads Score Race

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Regals continue to dominate the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series scoring department as their number one line of Joe Malo, Dave Luciuk and Don McGregor share first place.

The trio has 33 points each with Malo and Luciuk picking up three points each during the week while centre McGregor collected four to move up from third place into a tie with his linemates. Malo has 17 goals, Luciuk and McGregor have 10 each.

Centre Vance Millar of Welland Blacks is a distant fourth with 24 points on 10 goals and 14 assists. Joe Hogan of Galt Hornets is one point back.

Guelph's Harold (Boat) Hurley continued his blistering goal-tending pace to lead that department, surrendering four goals in two games. He lowered his average from 2.80 to 2.70 after 17 games and is more than half a goal ahead of his nearest rival.

Bob Shaw "Aint" Talking

REGINA (CP) — Bob Shaw head coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders said Thursday any further statements on the possibility of his coaching Toronto Argonauts next season will have to come from the Argos.

Shaw said his talks with Argonaut officials Wednesday were "very enlightening."

"I come away with a favorable impression of their football operation. We were in accord in many areas of discussion, but despite rumors to the contrary, no contract was signed."

Shaw was given permission by the Saskatchewan club to deal with Argos.

Argos were reported to have offered substantially more money than the Roughriders if Shaw took the Toronto head coaching job.

Nobby Wirkowski, Toronto head coach last season, was dismissed a month ago.

Near-Boom in '64 but...

Problem Carryover For Quebec in '65

By ALAN DUCKETT

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec province has enjoyed a relatively booming economy in 1964, but some of the problems associated with it will be active for greater industrial development will overflow into 1965.

Briefly the situation is this:

—The province's gross production increased in 1964 at a greater pace than the national average.

—The area comprising Montreal and a region within a radius of 100 miles of the city has enjoyed great industrial growth—a 12.5-per-cent increase in 1964—but the remainder of the province generally has had no more than normal growth.

—The province's economic image has been hurt by the political problem of Quebec's relationship to Confederation or, as the separatists would like, outside Confederation.

—There is a continuing shortage of professionally and technically trained persons to take part in the industrial expansion.

Industry competition is waged among outlying municipalities for industries, with the municipalities' tax concessions are made to such an extent that a new industry can become a burden on a municipality without providing an appreciable amount of new employment.

PRODUCTION GAINS

Gross production for the province is forecast at $700,000,000 for 1964, an increase of 6.5 per cent over 1963 and well above the national average of about five per cent.

But because the main industrial area here in the Montreal area the remainder of the province has gained little but research industries.

Jacques Leroux, industrial commissioner in Montreal for the department of industry and commerce, says that while a development act passed by the legislature two years ago has "accelerated" industrial development, more than 50 per cent of financing through the act has taken place in Montreal.

He recommended "regional industrial financing, grouping municipalities in far regions so they can unite their efforts for the common good."

Other industry department officials say that more industries create fewer jobs than secondary industries.

Establishment of a Quebec steel mill and car assembly plants will help expand the industrial base of the province.

Revenue Minister Eric Kierans says the government is forecasting three years of continued growth, basing its estimates on already developed plans for industrial expansion.

But, he says, "The gap in the growth of metropolitan areas is growing progressively wider. We'll have to find ways of exerting pressure to create enlightened development in outlying areas."

FEAR SEPARATISM

Mr. Kierans says there is no doubt that terrorism and separatism have been "damaging the economic image of Quebec."

Stories are heard in financial and political circles from time to time about companies deciding not to establish in Quebec because of their fear of the effects of separatism. Names of such companies are never disclosed.

John Hargraft, industrial real estate manager of National Trust Co. Ltd., said recently in Montreal that the "political climate" resulted in a client deciding in October not to invest $150,000,000 in industrial real estate in Montreal. He did not identify the client.

Part of Quebec's economic problem lies in the lack of trained industrial professionals and technicians.

Increased technical education facilities and the provincial Liberal party 1960 promise of free education up to and including university could wipe this out in coming years. In 1956, education cost the provincial government $34,000,000. Some $300,000,000 was budgeted for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

MUST TRIM NUMBERS

"Then we have something more than 1,000 municipalities in the province," a cabinet minister said. "We have to bring this down to a manageable proportion of about 800 as a prerequisite for effective regional economic planning."

The pulp and paper industry, the largest single industry in the province, has seen its percentage of world production drop annually during the last few years.

Much of the blame for this has been placed on the ban on Sunday work in the industry with the resultant higher costs and poorer marketing position.

A provincial royal commission is inquiring into the problem and its report is expected early in the New Year. At least three pulp and paper mills already are scheduled for construction, probably in anticipation of a favorable report by the royal commission.

Hail! Hail! A Solution's Near

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta scientists believe they are near the answer to a million-dollar question—why hail storms occur.

"We have a feeling our theory is pretty close to the right solution," Peter W. Summers, a research meteorologist attached to the Alberta Research Council, says.

And a solution is vital to Prairie grain growers who have lost millions each year—$7,500,000 in 1964 alone—in hail storms which smash promising grain crops.

The most severe storms, in terms of monetary losses, occur in Saskatchewan where the hail region is also the most prime grain-growing district.

For eight years the Alberta government, in co-operation with McGill University's Stormy Weather Group and federal agencies, has conducted intensive studies into hail storms to uncover how and why they occur and whether man can minimize hail damage.

"We believe a typical hail cloud is one which has a strong updraft which carries the particles up and out of the top of the cloud," Mr. Summers said in an interview. "Once at the top, the hail is blown free by the jet stream. Only the heaviest hail stones reach the top. We believe the progressively stronger winds blow out light hail en route to the top.

KEY INDICATORS

"Records indicate that when the heaviest hail storms occur there has been a well-marked jet stream and ample surface moisture. This has given us a picture of the dynamics of a hail cloud and we can transfer such information to mathematical formulae."

"This allows construction of a scale model for laboratory experiments where we can attempt to uncover how best to minimize the effects of hail."

Alberta research has been centred at the Penhold RCAF station, 10 miles south of Red Deer. Special radar monitors storms within an 80-mile radius of Penhold. This allows Mr. Summers and his group to keep track of storms within a 20,000-square-mile region.

The image on the radar screen is recorded around the clock on film to give a permanent record of storm build-ups.

This record can be correlated with ground reports from district farmers and door-to-door checks by university students working with the study group and by telephone checks from the Penhold headquarters.

QUIZ FARMERS

Special business reply cards are sent to all farmers in the region each spring. The farmers are asked to return a card after each storm, recording when the storm occurred, its duration, whether hail was constant or sporadic, size of the hail stones and average spacing or depth of the stones after the storm.

Cards also are sent to farmers to record conditions in fringe areas surrounding the hail storms.

About 25,000 farmers live in the region and approximately 20 per cent hit by hail return information cards.

"In our eight years we have more than 24,000 hail reports and farmers. No other region in the world has been able to document storms as extensively as our radar, telephone and card checks have allowed us to do."

Information from two major hail storms last summer has revealed that rather than one broad sweep through farmlands, the hail struck in irregular pockets of severe intensity.

"This indicates to us that our core or cloud theory is near the answer. This explains why radar records the severe clouds moving along the southern rim of the hail storm and the most severe pockets of hail damage being recorded just south of the middle line or spine of a storm."

CAUSE OF DEATH

What causes the cloud to continue its automatic rebuilding and what eventually results in its death now is believed associated with sharp jumps or falls in air pressure, said Mr. Summers.

"But these are the questions we can approach now we are able to proceed with our basic experiments."

Mr. Summers said the basic similarity of hail storms around the world indicates that a solution uncovered in one region would be applicable in solving problems in all areas.

The tricky job facing scientists after establishing a theoretical hail cloud is to unravel how man can best approach the task of limiting its damaging effects.

"We must find out what the best substance is for use in cloud seeding, where and when it should be injected into the cloud and whether any effort in this field is economically feasible."

Mr. Summers, a native of Birmingham, England, and a former weather forecaster in New Zealand and at Montreal, joined the Mc Gill Stormy Weather Group in 1961 and after he received his doctorate in meteorology at McGill joined the research council last April.

He now is permanent head of the Alberta Hail Studies.

The Compleat Hunter Thinks Our Hunters Crude

VANCOUVER (CP) — The average North American gamestalker of big game is an unskilled beginner and almost bereft of the finer ideals of hunting.

Who says so?

Albert Messany of Vienna, a quiet, mannerly man, says it reluctantly. He has made 14 trips to Canada to line his sights across our hills and meadows.

Messany is 73, a former concert baritone who first visited British Columbia in 1927. Between then and 1938 he stalked through Alberta and Eastern Canada before war cut short his trips.

Lee Straight, outdoors writer for the Vancouver Sun, says Messany and his fellow purists are "so far advanced in their rifle hunting as to make us seem crude indeed when we venture afield with our .30-06s and our super buzz-bomb magnums."

Hunters of his calibre "avoid outright reference to such crass things as quantity and size and frequency of their exploits."

These European gentlemen hunters look out such information subtly and modestly but all sportsmen are proud of their exploits or they wouldn't hunt at all."

Messany, who passed through on a hunting expedition, is grand master of the International Order of St. Hubert, a stalking society founded in 1695. It was terminated by Hermann Goering during the Second World War and Messany first spent the last 14 years building it back up.

FIRST SHOT MUST KILL

He has written three books on Canadian big-game hunting and one soon to be published.

In the philosophy of his famous club:

"If it isn't the large antlers that count so much as the size, and sometimes smaller racks off the oldest heads..

"We try to stalk so close that our quarry is dead before it can hear the explosion of the cartridge.

"Ah, the black cock and the even larger capercaillie (two large types of grouse) are the greatest of adversaries -- shot only with the rifle, of course, not the shotgun. So wary are they that we have a saying—the capercaillie has an eye in each feather.

"One-shot kills are mandatory (he uses nothing but a 6.5-millimetre) and sorry is the hunter who wounds and must pursue his quarry."

He believes Canadian hunting incentives are misplaced. Government trophy-fees for non-resident hunters, he feels, would go to the big-game guide, not to the tax collector, "as an incentive to that guide to please more free-spending non-resident hunters and thereby increase the province's revenue."

Town Prepares To Greet Santa In Big Parade

CAMPBELLFORD — The town is preparing to greet the man of the season on Saturday when the annual Santa Claus Parade makes its merry way around the prescribed streets, and children glow with excitement and anticipation.

Chairman Bruce Wallace reports 22 floats have been promised, all good local efforts, six bands, plus the Shriners' Camel Herders, made up of members from Peterborough and Belleville, will be in attendance.

The first real Santa Claus Parade was put on in Campbellford about fifteen years or more ago with a surprising 36 floats, for the first time with rented costumes and participating bands.

At that time the parade was sponsored by Campbellford Rotary Club under their committee for community activities. The mayor, Ernest Ayrhart, gave his whole-hearted support and the surprise element of the first parade has probably not been equalled since.

MANY EMERGENCIES

Those who plan a parade must be prepared to meet unexpected emergencies. One parade a few of costumes got lost in the express at Toronto Union Station. Only a determined effort and almost all night telephone calls on the part of the express agent finally located the lost costumes, a mad rush to Brighton to get it off the train and back to Campbellford in time to use in the parade.

Judges for Saturday's parade are Mr. G. Oder, Mrs. W. Pope and Mr. E. Salkeld. Prizes of money will be given for the best in costume, float and comic costume.

The parade begins at Bridge St. Public School at 1 p.m. Candy will be distributed at the end of the parade.

Manager George Vice of the Aron Theatre will stage a free show at the theatre for children under twelve.

Thus, another Santa Claus Parade will go down in the story of the town, the boys and girls who participated in the first parade will probably be the parents holding their youngster to see this one on Saturday.

Legion Auxiliary Elects Officers For Coming Year

CAMPBELLFORD — The Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 103 recently elected their slate of officers for the coming year.

Past president, Phyllis Hobbis; president, Mrs. Lottie Shaw; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Irene Torrance; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Madelin Free; secretary, Mrs. Mae Phillips; treasurer, Mrs. Dolly Mills; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Urlene Lloyd; executive committee, Mrs. Edith MacMillan, Mrs. Nell Atkinson, Mrs. Jessie Farcels, Mrs. Miriam Shaw, Mrs. Mc. Cooper and Mrs. Queenie Anderson.

Sports officer for 1965, Mrs. Neil Atkinson; auditors, Mrs. Jessie Robertson, Mrs. Madeline Fillmore and Mrs. Rose Wilks.

DREW COLONEL AGAIN

GUELPH (CP)—George Drew former Canadian high commissioner in London, has been appointed honorary colonel of the 11th Field Artillery Regiment for another year, the unit's commander, Lt.-Col. Colin MacDonald said Thursday. Mr. Drew joined the regiment in 1910 and has been its honorary colonel for the last 10 years.

People Know How Old They Feel — But Not How Young They Are

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Many people know how old they feel—but not how young they are.

But there are tests for youth.

For example, you're still young, at least by the spirit's calendar, if—

You spend more time planning for tomorrow than remembering yesterday.

The antics of the Beatles and their ilk interfere amuse you more than they depress you.

When you see a small group of children playing hopscotch, you have a secret impulse to join the game.

You can win the confidence of teen-agers, and not think their dreams much more foolish than your own.

In a real pinch you are willing to lend an acquaintance more money than you know you really can afford.

You can buy a new suit without boring the salesman about how much more expensive clothes are now than when you were a boy.

When you open a package, you automatically throw the string away instead of winding it into a small ball and putting it into a drawer.

READ SOME TRASH

At least once during the last year you've read a trashy novel that was a waste of time—but you enjoyed it anyway.

Every now and then you ponder whether it wouldn't still be a good idea to grow a moustache or a beard.

The fringe benefits of your present position, such as seniority, insurance and pension program, haven't made you a prisoner. You'd still jump to another job if you found one that was more exciting.

It is still possible for you to stay up after midnight without worrying about how terrible you'll feel in the morning.

Although you have several bad habits you know you ought to give up, there are a few others you have a hankering to acquire.

Plenty of Satire May Be Seen in Series Next Year

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—That Was The Week That Was, referring to the latest Nielsen television ratings, noted that the three top shows were Bonanza, a western; Bewitched, a comedy about a beautiful witch, and Gomer Pyle, a country boy who joins the U.S. Marines.

"Today," continued the TWTW commentator, "If pilot shows were started in Hollywood, each one about a bewitched cowboy who joins the marines."

And truth may not be too far away from satire in programs for next fall.

My file of plans for next season's programs contains announcements of more than 75 new ones and the file is incomplete.

This is the season when shows are being bought for next September's network schedules. MOTHER WAS A CAR.

With high TV interest in the fantastic and eerie, I note a projected program called My Mother, the Car, co-starring a talking classic automobile; The Ghost Breaker, with a hero who de-haunts houses; and shows called The Haunted, and Thompson's Ghost.

James Bond-type hero shows and tongue-in-cheek whodunits include Honey West, about a comedy female detective, and still a new one called Celesta Mead, centred on a female agent.

There is also I Spy, self-explanatory in this derring-do category, but with a male lead.

The doctor fad seems to be waning. But in the works are a comedy about a pediatrician called My Son, the Doctor, and Daktari, about a veterinarian in Africa.

Lawyer and lawman series among the new crop include one called The Lawyer, plus The Loop, and The Trials of O'Brian.

Bobby Thinks Belle's Drawl Due to Drink

LONDON (AP)—The policeman stopped the Southern belle from North Carolina driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

After listening to her drawl, he ordered Kathleen Lindsay, 36, to court on a drunken driving charge.

The jury heard Miss Lindsay testify for only a few minutes Thursday, then stopped the case and declared her innocent.

Court Chairman R. E. Seaton said: "I do not think I have ever heard anybody speak in the witness box as though they had had too much to drink as I have heard today," he said.

Miss Lindsay admitted she had been driving the wrong way. But that, she said, was the result of a broken heart, not too much drink.

"I came to London from North Carolina to marry a titled English gentleman," she explained. "Now I find his title should be Sir Cad.

"He came to America to see me and wrote me letters three times a week.

"While he was doing that he married another girl behind my back, and when I came to London recently he said I meant nothing to him."

As compensation for her trouble, Chairman Seaton awarded her 30 guineas ($84.50) costs.

Social Club Facing Bill of 10,000 Pounds

LONDON (Reuters) — About 250 members of two Lanarkshire, Scotland, social clubs are facing a bill from the British government of more than £10,000 for a flight which brought them home from holiday in Canada last year.

James Hamilton, Labor member of Parliament for Bothwell, Lanarkshire, who has taken the case of the club members, said Thursday night the clubs chartered a plane to fly to Canada to visit relatives in July, 1963.

Having finished their holiday, they were told by Canadian authorities that they could not return home because the charter plane did not meet required Canadian standards.

The British high commission in Canada arranged to fly them home and undertook to pay the costs, Hamilton said.

The passengers, who had paid for their return charter flight in advance, were asked to surrender their passports as a token of good faith. Now, the government has said that the bill must be paid. And those refusing to pay will not have their passports returned.

TANK TITLE WON

BOVINGTON CAMP, England (CP)—Britain has won the latest round in the Battle of the World's Oldest Tank. Gen. Nigel Duncan, curator of the Royal Armored Corps museum here in Dorset, claimed the victory with a 1917 Mark V tank still in working order. U.S. Army officials had earlier claimed their 1918 Ford tank was the oldest still clanking around.

Pet Frets of Broadway Are The Goof, Fluff and Howl

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The pet frets of Broadway are the goof, the fluff and the howl.

Little imps of assorted mischance that can pop into a performance at any moment, theyget players, turn stage managers grey, and audiences.

"They are," a White Way veteran enthuses, "the glory of the living theatre."

Among such performance perils as a forgotten line, a lost prop or a jittery colleague, the antic spectrator rates with some players as the highest hazard of all.

Robert Preston was in the midst of a tricky bit of plot development one night in Nobody Loves an Albatross, when a mischief-maker shouted: "Sing 76 Trombones"—a number Bob made famous in The Music Man.

"Covering that was easy," Preston recalls. "My next line of dialogue in the script was 'all right, I tell you what we're gonna do, and I don't want any interruptions.' It got one helluva laugh."

BOMBED OVER BOWL

On an opening night, Shirley Booth knocked a bowl of grapes off a table, and the stage-set prop rolled about for several minutes, diverting a large share of audience attention. Then she got her chance to recoup the goof.

Greeting another player who had just entered, Miss Booth delivered her prop line: "Would you like something to drink—Coffee or a whisky?" Without the slightest pause, she then glanced down at the fallen grapes and added: "If you want to wait a few minutes, there'll be some wine."

In Thousand Clowns, Sandy Dennis, making her first Broadway appearance, got her baptism at center-stage—on opening night. The wide-eyed lass, who subsequently went on to fame in Any Wednesday, was just made her entrance when a petticoat slowly started to slide from beneath her dress.

Still talking, Miss Dennis calmly walked behind the sofa of the living room decor, and flicked away the wayward garment.

"I couldn't understand why I got such a big hand," she said afterwards. "I was supposed to be behind the sofa anyway."

Three effete or dramatic impense was more disruptive when a wrong shirt turned up in Jean Hoist Buchholz during an on-stage costume change in Cherie.

The young German actor was supposed to pull on a long-tailed garment which kept him modestly covered as he removed pyjamas. That matinee, however, the laundry had gotten mixed up, and Buchholz suddenly found it necessary to reach for a garment in the interests of decorum.

The audience, demurely sedate during the contretemps, broke into howls of laughter as the scene ended and Buchholz flustered Buchholz delivered the prescribed exit line: "We'll have to do this again sometime."

COUGHS CHALLENGE

Coughs and other symptoms of respiratory ailment or sheer restlessness are a common challenge to thespians.

Tom Poston capitalized on a sneeze in the audience during Come Blow Your Horn. He had just finished a long comic telephone conversation when the front-row explosion occurred. It stunned the audience but not Tom. He quickly picked up the phone and said "God bless you." disrupting proceedings for several minutes.

Sometimes suitable following is impossible, as on the occasion when a player, overdoing his portrayal of a blind man, stumbled over somebody into the orchestra pit during King Lear at City Center. Nobody on stage could think of anything apt as he climbed back.

This Parrot Is One Lucky Pigeon!

By MICHAEL BLAIR

VICTORIA (CP) — Christmas, for Louis, means walnuts, almonds, apples, bananas and an extra tot of brandy.

Louis a year, this red-eyed, 40-year-old resident of a mid-Victoria garage falls off his regular diet of hard - boiled eggs and, under the gentle influence of Christmas manservant, gorges himself.

Louis is a parrot—a bundle of feathers and a beak to the administrations of a servant, all the brandy he can drink and a roof over his head to the end of his days.

Louis is a recluse. When approached, he staggers to the other end of his perch in the garage behind the rambling white house which belonged to his late mistress, Victoria Wilson.

The wealthy spinster died in 1949. She left five choice city lots, the three-storey house, an electric car, 100 pairs of gloves, more than $250,000—and Louis.

LIVES ALONE

The five lots, the car and the gloves are gone. Louis remains.

The money pays for taxes on the house, wages for Wah Wong, Miss Wilson's former servant who looks after Louis, and the brandy.

How old is the parrot? Nobody really certain. Elaine Cowie, who imported Louis for Miss Wilson 31 years ago, estimates the bird was 10 years old then.

Mr. Wong doesn't live in. He goes to Louis' place several times a week with the quota of brandy.

There was some thought of offering Louis to Vancouver's Stanley Park zoo or to the Beacon Hill bird house here, but nothing came of it.

So today, as you wander past the strange, rambling gingerbread house with eight television aerials (you can't miss it, it's right by the city hall) look up.

Above the outdoor cages filled with budgies—also part of the estate—there is a grimy window high in the lemon-colored garage.

You may see a baleful eye looking back down at you.

If you do, it's Louis.

Ann Miller Decides Just Being Girl Not Enough

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "For 15½ years, I enjoyed being a girl," says Ann Miller. Now she's learning to be a dancer all over again.

The results can be seen Friday night on ABC's Hollywood Palace, and preview reports indicate Ann still has that great tapping style that made her a leading figure in movie musicals for 20 years.

"Boy, I wonder if hard enough!" she exclaimed. "For a month and a half, I practiced with David Lichine and his wife, two Russian ballet experts who made me stretch my muscles and get back in shape. Then I had three weeks of rehearsals with Nick Castle—all for one number.

"I lost 13 pounds doing it. But I also found a whole new career, and I'm as giddy as a starlet, starting in all over again."

Ann never had much chance to be a girl. Troubled with rickets as a child, she studied dancing in her mother's home to help straighten her legs. At 12, Ann was her full height of five feet, five. She had been playing in vaudeville, then made her film debut in New Faces of 1937.

GAVE WRONG AGE

"I was 23, but said I was 18," she recalled. "I was scared to death I'd be found out and fired. Ginger Rogers was the only one at RKO who knew my secret, and she didn't tell."

Ann danced through RKO films like Having A Wonderful Time and Too Many Girls, later switched to MGM as replacement for Cyd Charisse, forced out of Easter Parade by a broken leg. Ann stayed almost 14 years.

After a few television appearances, she quit to devote time to dancing.

"I figured I wanted to spend some time just being a girl. It had never happened to me before. So for 2½ years I was a girl, dressing in furs and feathers, going out on dates, traveling about the world. Fortunately, my mother had saved some of the money I made along the way, so I could afford to.

"But a few months ago I realized that just being a girl wasn't enough. I needed some reason for living, and that meant work."

Now she's full of plans to do more for friends like Red Skelton, Danny Kaye and Danny Thomas, then play Las Vegas, New York, London, Miami and Australia.

Witnesses Start Gathering For Assembly

CAMPBELLFORD — Laurier Saumur, district supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses for the Province of Quebec and Eastern Ontario, arrived in Campbellford Thursday to direct a weekend Bible training program being held in the Campbellford District High School for the 16 neighboring congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The bilingual travelling minister, who has been arrested more than a score of times by the regime of the late Maurice Duplessis, was officially open the program Friday night from a specially arranged platform displaying the chosen theme: "Speak the Word of God with Boldness."

A convention atmosphere already permeates in Campbellford as vanguard workers arrive to care for pre-assembly matters and with a large banner across the main intersection of the town inviting all to attend the Sunday Bible talk by Saumur on the subject, "Our Divided World — Is It Here To Stay?"

TESTIFIES BEFORE COMMONS COMMITTEE — Mr. Justice Victor Dryer (left), who last week resigned as chairman of the federal maritime union trustees, talks with Commons Industrial Relations Committee Chairman Bryce Mackasey prior to testifying before the committee in Ottawa. (CP Wirephoto)

Weighing the Possibilities
Will U. S. Carry War To North Viet Nam?

SAIGON (AP) — Can victory be snatched in South Viet Nam's exhausting war only by a flight of bombers over Communist North Viet Nam?

Planners in Saigon and Washington have been weighing the possibilities of broadening the war outside South Viet Nam.

Since the Viet Cong war began draining blood and treasure in 1960, the United States has faced three choices.

The first is to get out altogether, turning over South Viet Nam to the Communists.

The second choice—the one that has been followed up to now—is to shore up the Saigon government with money, supplies, arms and advisers, in the hope that Saigon will one day be able to hold its own.

FIGHT DIRECTLY

The third is to move into the fight directly with U.S. combat troops and a frontal attack on North Viet Nam or even Communist China.

The first choice and all its variations, including neutralization of South Viet Nam, have been rejected by both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Hopes of winning victory by the second method appear increasingly forlorn. The Saigon government appears less capable of holding its own than it was 10 years ago when South Viet Nam became independent of France as the indirect result of a smashing Communist victory at Dien Bien Phu.

The third choice, therefore, which could lead either to a new Korea or a third world war, has come under new scrutiny.

Among the supporters of direct attack on North Viet Nam is Bernard Fall, a noted French historian and author specializing in Indochina problems. Fall has argued for years that while the United States is tactically weak in Viet Nam, it has strategic strength that should be used.

BOMBERS FEARED

Fall says on the basis of his trips to North Viet Nam that the Hanoi regime is confident it can defeat the United States in the field of guerrilla warfare bombers. North Viet Nam has a small but growing industrial plant which is highly vulnerable to air raids and which Hanoi would hate to lose, he contends.

Some Pentagon and state department officials believe Hanoi would call a halt to the war in the south if its industries were threatened.

Others have argued that at least Communist supply points and infiltration depots outside South Viet Nam should be bombed. Hanoi has charged in recent months that this is going on now, and Washington has declined comment on the charges.

Despite these arguments, many officials here believe expanding the war into North Viet Nam would have little effect on the war in the south. For one thing, it is doubtful that Hanoi could turn off the Viet Cong's campaign even if it wanted to.

Political and military guidance also has continued to flow from Hanoi to the Viet Cong through advisers and organizers sent to the south.

Despite these contacts with Hanoi, the Viet Cong remains essentially a South Vietnamese organization. The Viet Cong gets its food from peasants and the overwhelming majority of its weapons from government pools it overruns.

DECLINES GRANT

STORNOWAY (Reuters) — The Canadian government has declined to give a grant toward a swimming pool on this rocky Outer Hebrides island off the Scottish coast in memory of explorer Sir Alexander Mackenzie, a local council spokesman announced Thursday. The island is celebrating the bicentenary of the Stornoway-born Canadian explorer.

Chinese Puzzle
Declining Death Rate Defeats Birth Control

BOSTON (CP)—The problem facing China in trying to limit the population increase is outlined by Dr. Wilder Penfield, distinguished Canadian neurosurgeon, in an article in the December Atlantic.

The article, based on a one-month visit to mainland China in the autumn of 1962, describes social life in that country. The Communist regime. The trip was made as a guest of the Chinese Medical Association.

Dr. Penfield, who for 25 years was head of Montreal's Neurological Institute, says he was told that government policy is to limit the birth rate. Physicians organize family-planning clinics, the vice-president of the medical association said. They give advice concerning contraception when asked.

People are urged to delay marriage and, when they do marry, to postpone having children for several years.

"Improvement in medical care is steadily lowering the death rate," one neurosurgeon informed Dr. Penfield. "That defeats our whole attempt to limit the population growth."

He noted that surgical abortion is illegal unless recommended by a committee of the local hospital on the grounds of the mother's health or because there are already too many children in the family. It is also ruled out for unmarried mothers except when health requires it.

Opium is no longer a problem in China, Dr. Penfield was told. And alcoholism, which never was much of a problem, has practically, disappeared as a cause of admission to mental institutions.

He asked about divorce.

The reply was: "Divorce is possible if both partners agree, but the judge makes an effort to persuade them to carry on. The husband must pay separation allowance to the wife unless she has a good job."

The small family unit remains strong in the face of poverty, Dr. Penfield concluded.

Bazooka Shell Misses U.N. Building

MORTAR EMPLACEMENT ACROSS FROM U.N. — New York City policeman and plainclothesmen inspect home-made mortar said to have been used to shell United Nations site, right background, across East River in Manhattan. A shell burst some 100 feet off the Manhattan shore, shaking windows in U.N. building as Cuba's Ernesto Che Guevara addressed General Assembly. Police found a Cuban flag nearby folded neatly and tied down atop the mortar which they said was rigged with alarm clock timing device to fire it automatically.

Police Conduct Search Among Cuban Exiles

Castro Minister Was Speaking to Delegates

NEW YORK (AP) — Police pushed a massive hunt among New York City's many Cuban exile groups today in hopes of turning up the persons responsible for firing a bazooka shell at the United Nations headquarters building.

The shot fell short of its mark and exploded harmlessly in the East River Friday.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Central Intelligence Agency and the intelligence services of the army, navy and air force were reported in on the hunt.

The bazooka firing, which may have been the work of anti-Castroites, came as a Cuban minister was addressing delegates inside the UN building.

A few moments later, from a crowd of some 50 anti-Castro pickets in front of the UN, a woman brandishing a hunting knife sprang toward the building, bent on assassinating the Cuban minister, Ernesto (Che) Guevara. She was subdued by police.

GUEVARA COOL

Guevara reacted coolly when he learned he had been her target. He said he forgave her, adding: "It is better to be killed by a woman with a knife than a man with a gun."

The bazooka was found on a Queens pier, a paper Cuban flag pasted on it. The shell was lobbed about 850 yards before it fell into the water about 100 yards from the Manhattan shore and the UN building.

The blast sent up a 15-foot geyser witnessed by some UN observers in the building and by boatmen on the river.

The General Assembly session, which Guevara had been addressing at the time, went on undisturbed by the muffled roar outside.

In Miami, a Cuban exile source who declined use of his name, said the bazooka firing was the work of an anti-Castro group called "The Black Front."

'CHRISTMAS PRESENT'

The source said he was a member of the group, that the shot was directed at Guevara and was "a Christmas present to the enslaved Cuban people."

Police and UN guards had been alerted to the unfiltered world organization headquarters before dawn after a 8:45 a.m. (EST) call some planted "bomb activity."

At 10:37 a.m., a man with a Spanish accent phoned police headquarters, and said: "I have put a bomb in front of the UN building. Keep people away between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Long Live Cuba!"

At 12:10 p.m., the four-foot-long bazooka — which fires an

Two RCMP Officers Retired

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet ordered the retirement of two RCMP officers convicted by an RCMP court of mishandling funds, it was learned Friday.

In effect, the cabinet's decision modified the recommendation of RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan that the two officers be dismissed.

Justice Minister Favreau is expected to make a statement on the case in the Commons, probably next week.

Meanwhile, there were only meagre details of the circumstances which led to the separation of the veteran officers from the force.

The officers — Chief Superintendent Rene Belec and Sub-Inspector J. H. M. Poitras — were tried under the RCMP Act and found guilty.

APPEAL REJECTED

Their appeal was rejected and, after reviewing the circumstances and their evidence, Commissioner McClellan recommended their dismissal last Sept. 3.

Since then Mr. Favreau has been under pressure in the Commons to wind up the case. He made a recommendation in cabinet some weeks ago and the cabinet order was approved last Tuesday.

Still undecided are the pension rights of the two men. It is understood the RCMP pension board is to meet soon to make a recommendation to treasury board on the men's pensions.

Their conviction was the first in the force's 91-year history involving commissioned officers.

No figure was available for the amount of the pensions that could be paid the two officers. However, the contributory scheme under which RCMP personnel are covered provides for a pension based on the average salary of the contributor for the best six years of his service. The annual amount is based on two per cent of this average multiplied by the number of years of pensionable service up to 35 years.

TORONTO (CP)—A spokesman for the striking Toronto local of the International Typographical Union (CLC) said Friday members of the union will demonstrate next Tuesday before the House of Commons in Ottawa. The printers struck against the three Toronto daily newspapers July 9. The papers have continued to publish since the strike started.

Plant Issues Settled

TORONTO (CP) — Bargaining was expected to continue during the weekend as negotiators for General Motors of Canada Limited and the striking United Auto Workers (CLC) face their last huddle — the master agreement.

Talks between top-level officials were scheduled to begin today on wages, pensions and the handling of grievances about production standards.

A total of 23,575 GM workers in five Ontario centres went on strike Dec. 3 to back up contract demands.

All local plant issues not to be handled in the master agreement were settled here this week. The last of these—involving seniority for the 650 workers at General Motors Diesel Limited in London, Ont. — was solved Friday night.

On strike with the London workers are 14,500 others at GM's Oshawa plant, 6,275 at McKinnon Industries in St. Catharines, 1,150 at GM's transmission plant in Windsor and 1,000 at Frigidaire Products of Canada in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough.

PARTY BIG DEMAND

Chief among the union's demands is a narrowing of the disparity in rates between the company's Canadian and United States employees. The union says the rates are between 50 cents and $1 or more an hour lower in Canada.

The current average rate for an assembler is $2.38 an hour. Other salaries vary from $2.22 for a sweeper to $3.54 for a die sinker.

The company has suggested that it will give workers the same increases it gave its U.S. employees recently, but will not grant wage parity.

The pension issue centres on the ability of the company plan in the U.S. with the social security system there, which provides higher benefits than the Canadian old age pension scheme.

The union is asking for a pension of at least $400 a month for an employee who retires at 65 with 30 or more years of service.

The union's previous three-year contract expired Oct. 31.

Five Cars Derailed at Collins Bay

KINGSTON (CP)—The main line of the Canadian National Railways was blocked Friday night when five cars of a 90-car freight derailed at Collins Bay, Ont., three miles west of here.

No one was injured in the accident in which two cars uncoupled and sections of the train collided when brakes were applied. One car spilt, spilling its grain cargo. Another car came to rest 15 feet from a company building, a company official said.

Buddhist Leaders Threaten Suicides to Topple Govt.

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam's Buddhist leaders embarked today on a weekend of fasting and praying and threatened a renewal of suicides in their drive to topple the harassed government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

Saigon Buddhist headquarters told of a multi - pronged anti-government campaign on the heels of the Huong regime's announcement that more United States aid would be forthcoming to help South Viet Nam's armed forces and economy in the war against the Viet Cong rebels.

These developments marked the end of two weeks of relative calm in the capital and the beginning of the Buddhist campaign:

1. Buddhist monk Thich Thai Khiet, nominal overall leader of the Buddhists, and several ranking aides said they would conduct a 48-hour hunger strike.

2. Buddhist headquarters opened for a continuous round of prayers for the government's overthrow.

3. The main Buddhist school in Saigon issued a pamphlet today condemning British Ambassador Gordon Etherington - Smith for his Dec. 3 speech at his home, praising Huong, who was the guest of honor.

4. Monks in Dariac Province, 160 miles northeast of Saigon, said they were awaiting orders from Saigon to begin protest suicides against the government.

Originally, Buddhist leaders supported Huong but objected to several members of his cabinet of grounds that they had been affiliated with the Diem regime.

Huong refused to reshuffle the cabinet, and the Buddhist leaders turned their attacks on Huong himself.

South Vietnamese and U.S. officials say Viet Cong agents have infiltrated the Buddhist groups, seeking to turn national rule into chaos.

The Buddhist heirarchy, in a letter to U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, called on the United States for support in a campaign to oust Huong's regime.

But the Huong government Friday issued a communique

Flag Debate Likely To End Early On Tuesday

"Black Friday Again" Cry Conservatives

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—The Pearson government Friday accepted Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's challenge and announced it will spring the politically explosive closure rule Monday to produce a decision on the single maple leaf flag.

Climaxing a months-long war of nerves between the Conservatives and Liberals, Privy Council President McIlraith calmly told the Commons the government will invoke the closure rule that has been unused since the famous 1956 pipeline debate.

The announcement, which brought cheers from government supporters and jeers and cries of "Black Friday again" from Conservatives, means the flag debate will be ended in the early hours of Tuesday if the closure motion is passed.

The decision came at a hurriedly called cabinet meeting following a speech by Mr. Diefenbaker that the government decision meant the Opposition leader planned to continue the flag fight indefinitely.

The cabinet assembled after a 68-minute speech by the prime minister in which he offered to his adversary to halt the protracted debate and indicated he would use closure if necessary.

"I do not mind it," retorted Mr. Diefenbaker. "Let them do it."

"But the Canadian people will not forget that because the government could not convince they decided to throttle Parliament by bringing in closure.

"Let that be perfectly understood."

Rule 33 of the standings orders of the Commons spells out the closure procedure. A cabinet minister announces in advance that he plans to invoke closure. On the next sitting day he makes the motion—that debate on a measure be not further adjourned.

A vote is held then on whether or not closure is to be allowed. If the vote passes then speeches are limited to 20 minutes for each MP instead of the usual 40 and at 1 a.m. all debate stops. A vote or votes are then taken to resolve all questions before the House.

The one o'clock deadline is stated specifically in the rule.

The Conservatives and the CCF—now the New Democratic Party—battled the closure in 1956, which also came on a Friday, Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) was a strong opponent along with Mr. Diefenbaker.

An authoritative Conservative source said that in the flag war before the party took heed for such a move from the government to remove the Conservatives from the task of supporting the Red Ensign and give their opponent issue.

EARLIER REJECTED

A government source said the step, rejected earlier this week at other cabinet meetings, was taken in the belief that the public will support such action in view of the 32 days of debate on the flag issue so far.

The Commons spent 22 days

Canadians Asked To Read Report

By GERRY McNEIL

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec government authorities have expressed the hope that many Canadians outside Quebec will read the latest Quebec royal commission on education report with its emphasis on the need for bilingualism.

An English translation of the 391-page report is expected to be available before Christmas from the Queen's Printer in Quebec and will cost $2. It says many changes in school courses, some of them profound.

The commission was set up in 1961 to investigate education in Quebec. The first report last year urged establishment of a Quebec department of education, a suggestion transformed into the law last spring. The second volume a month ago suggested a new school structure covering education from nursery school to a university or technical education.

The latest report, accepted Friday by Premier Jean Lesage from the seven-man commission headed by Msgr. J. Alphonse Parent, deals with school programs themselves.

The premier said the document is for all Canadians to read. Education Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie promised to implement recommendations with "all possible speed."

The report, particularly, the report breaks new ground. It would make English and French obligatory as second languages in Quebec, and it offers proposals it hopes will bring students to new degrees of fluency.

To teach any language in Quebec, a teacher will have to pass an oral and written test in those linguists. High school teachers will need the equivalent of bachelors' degrees, with strong specialization in their subject.

To ensure the teacher himself speaks the language well one fault the commission found in both French and English systems—there will be no religious barriers in any school board.

It proposes that all high school students be offered "a free choice" of options between Latin, Greek and two living languages other than French or English. Latin and Greek will no longer be obligatory in any school.

Philosophy, another pillar of the classical system, which will disappear in the public structure the commission earlier recommended, also fades into the background.

A final volume in the report, due later this month, will concentrate on the financing and religious aspects of the educational system.

A major trend so far has

Three Canadian Nuns Rescued After Barbaric Orgy

LEOPOLD VILLE (CP) — Three Canadian Roman Catholic nuns, raped and beaten by Congolese rebels, have been rescued by a government force but an American nun and other missionaries were killed in a final orgy of barbarism at Isangi, in the northern Congo.

The nuns were rescued in a final orgy of barbarism at Isangi, in the northern Congo.

They were also reported to have met the death of the American nun from Bellmore, Long Island, N.Y., and other missionaries. She was Sister Anna Dominico who had taken the name of Sister Marie Antoinette.

The Canadian nuns are from the Sisters of Wisdom order of Ottawa. They are Sister Thecle de Marie (Marguerite Carriere) 56, of Edmundston, N.B.; Sister Garlen (Donia Bedard), 58, miles east of Paulis, other refugees reported.

The reports brought the known death toll of Europeans in the Congo rebellion to 120.

Bandits attacked the Roman Catholic convent school at Lulaba during the night and raped a nun, officials of the Belgian mining concern Union Miniere reported today. The officials said the nun was taken away from the school, 50 miles north of here, but returned later.

The Canadian nuns said the bodies of Sister Marie Antoinette, and the Belgian nun, Sister Christiane Guillaume, and the Dutch priest, a Father Ammerlaan, were thrown into the Congo River to the crocodiles.

Isangi was reached Thursday by Maj. Michael Hoare, Irish-born South African commander of a Congolese government force.

The Canadian nuns were rescued by Hoare. Their story was typical of the horror related by the refugees who gave accounts of at least 17 rebel murders of white hostages.

The Canadian nuns were among 46 hostages rescued Thursday at Yangambi farming research station between Isangi and Stanleyville. They told Hoare they had been beaten, raped and made to dance naked with Catholic priests to amuse the rebels.

The Canadian nuns said Sister Marie Antoinette was murdered Nov. 19, while the Communist - backed rebel "Congolese people's republic" still held Stanleyville.

They said she was beaten to death in front of them by a ball of blows from rifle butts, sticks and machetes.

In Barrie, Ont., a sister of Sister Thecle de Marie said the news she was safe makes a perfect Christmas present, even if it is two weeks early.

Mrs. Emile Potvin of Barrie said "All I could do was cry" when she was told that her sister was safe.

Another 75 dazed refugees arriving from Paulis told of persons being tied up by the rebels and tossed into the crocodile - infested waters of the Nepoko River in the northeast Congo.

Only a man, a woman and three children, all Belgians, survived the rebel fury at Mungbere. Nine others died among the executions.

The woman who escaped, a Mrs. Turiot, clung to a floating log for 18 hours before she flung into the river. She finally got out and, hid in the jungle for two days. The man, Serge Deppe, also managed to keep afloat. The children were not thrown into the water.

Refugees said the rebels struck Nov. 25, the day after Stanleyville was seized in a dawn drop by Belgian paratroopers.

Canada May Be Accused Of Toeing Line to France

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian governments have often been accused of slavishly following American or British lines in foreign policy.

A case may soon develop where an accusation of toeing France's foreign policy line may be made against the Canadian government.

The matter arises out of Britain's proposals for a new or modified NATO nuclear command now being discussed in alliance capitals.

British Prime Minister Wilson talked over his proposals with Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa Wednesday. At the same time, British Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker went over the same ground with External Affairs Minister Martin.

CANADA OPEN-MINDED

Mr. Martin in a brief talk with reporters after his meeting with Mr. Wilson didn't rule out Canadian Participation in a revised NATO nuclear force.

This was a contrast to Canada's stand only last year when the U.S.-proposed NATO nuclear-missile fleet of 25 surface ships, France was best hostile to the American plan.

The U.S. proposal is aimed at giving its European allies some degree of control over the use of strategic nuclear weapons although it is still clear that the U.S. would maintain its absolute veto in this field. Control is the key to the whole issue.

Only West Germany has shown any enthusiasm for the proposed nuclear fleet.

CANADIAN CRITICISMS

Canada has said that the U.S. proposal doesn't come to grips with the problem though it has publicly recognized NATO's continuing reliance on American nuclear striking power as a deterrent to war.

Canada has also criticized France's current creation of an independent, national nuclear force.

But it has added that NATO without France is unthinkable and that any policy which would tend to alienate France from the alliance is a bad policy.

Mr. Martin told Mr. Gordon Walker that any nuclear arrangements must unite and not divide NATO.

BRITISH PLAN

This is apparently one objective of the British Labor government which is seemingly willing to place its own independent nuclear force under NATO command as long as it gets something tangible in return, such as genuine share of control in a NATO nuclear arm.

If the British proposals lead to development of a NATO nuclear force which would not arouse France's hostility, Canada's policy would last year be clear-cut.

But if France were as hostile as it has been to the nuclear force idea, Canada probably would get out again on the grounds that it would not be party to isolating France.

Most medicines today are so pleasantly flavored that they really taste good. Children smell cines are so well liked, as a rule, that they must be barred out of their reach, otherwise the kids will take too much.

But, there are a few whose taste may not please you. Then, just take an ice cube and rub it gently on your tongue for about a minute. Like magic your sense of taste will be temporarily lessened and even the bitterest of medicines will not be unpleasant.

Queen's Portrait Being Returned To Courtrooms

OTTAWA (CP) — A new citizenship department booklet has resolved the controversy over whether the Queen's portrait should hang in citizenship courtrooms or in judges' chambers.

The directive advises judges of citizenship courts that they may use their own discretion on where the portrait should hang. They can have it in their chambers or in their courtrooms—or both.

Kenneth Foster, registrar of citizenship for the citizenship department, said Friday that as a result of the directive the Queen's portrait is being returned to citizenship courtrooms.

The new directive was issued after protests in the Commons against an order by officers of the citizenship department in mid-November for removal of the Queen's portrait from courtrooms. The protests were made by several Progressive Conservative members, including Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

Citizenship Minister Tremblay told the Commons the order instructed the city citizenship courts that the correct procedure was to have only the Canadian coat-of-arms in the courtroom and the Queen's portrait in judges' chambers.

He said it was decided the portrait should be in judges' chambers because this was where applicants for citizenship were interviewed and where the role of the monarchy was explained.

1961 Traffic Report: Where Its Proposals Stand 3 Years Later

Three years ago the city of Belleville and the Province of Ontario paid nearly $15,000 for a traffic planning report, prepared by DeLeuw, Cather and Co. of Canada Ltd. The report, received Oct. 16, 1961, recommended five immediate changes to improve the city's traffic pattern, and a three-stage plan to handle the traffic requirements of the next twenty years. Today, that report is almost forgotten and few of the recommendations have been carried out.

Lack of money, according to city engineer Wilbur Purcell, is the main reason the recommendations have been shelved. The immediate changes recommended in the report would have cost next to nothing, but stage one of the three-stage plan, to be completed between 1961 and 1965, would have cost more than a million dollars. Only one item has been completed between 1906 and 1970, would cost about $500,000 over the five years. Stage three, to have been completed between 1971 and 1980, would have cost nearly $2 million.

Immediate improvements recommended called for parking restrictions on Church and Bridge Streets, plus traffic control signalization on Front St. and Victoria, Campbell and Bridge Streets. Parking restrictions recommended in the report recommendations for traffic control changes on Front St. were ignored.

FRONT ST. CHANGES

Pedestrian crossing of Front St. at Victoria Ave. was to be moved to the east side of the the intersection, the report recommended, with barriers installed along the sidewalks south of the intersection if necessary. The last was never done, although the signal light have been rephased, as recommended by the report. The value of the recommendation can be appreciated by anyone who has tried to make a left turn from Victoria to Front, or who has tried to cross Front south of Victoria while a car was making such a turn.

Traffic lights were recommended for the Campbell St.-Front St. intersection. The lights were to show green for Front St. traffic except when changed by pedestrian push button or traffic-detection on Campbell St. Pedestrian crossing on Front St., the report suggested, should be placed near the north side of the intersection. No action was taken on the recommendation.

(If the old YMCA building is to be used as a police station, there is a good chance that Campbell St. will be opened to two-way traffic. In this case, traffic lights would probably be installed—but this would owe nothing to the report.)

Traffic lights on Front St. at Bridge were to be rephased and parking was to be prohibited for 200 feet north of the intersection. Within the past month, pedestrian signals have been installed at this corner, but such signals were not mentioned in the report.

There is one interesting comment in the section of pedestrian crossings on Front St., to the effect that pedestrians and drivers seem to be confused about who has the right of way. This situation should be familiar to many residents.

So much for the work that was recommended as immediate. Except for the work that according to the report, should be completed next year.

BRIDGE URGED

Stage one of the program suggested by the report included a bridge over the Moira River, to join the north end of Church Street to the south end of Cameron Street. Cameron Street was then the only road linking the North Front Street just south of the C.N.R. bridge. Harriett Grove, Coleman and Moira Streets were to form a one-way loop in the area.

No action has been taken on this part of stage one, and now the city is considering a bridge. It may be at Dundas Street. The report recommends a bridge be built on Dundas Street during stage three, after 1971. Conditions have changed, city council thinks, since the report was received, and now the Dundas Street bridge is more important. But council will have to prove that to the Department of Highways, if the province warns, before it can receive a subsidy to build the Dundas Street bridge.

Other recommendations for stage one of the plan are that Church Street be widened to four lanes, that Sidney Street be rebuilt and extended through the fair grounds, (this is now being considered), that the south end of Herchimer and Bridge Street west of Herchimer be rebuilt, (this has been done), that Station Street from Pinnacle to Church be widened, (this has been done), and that the railway crossing on Grier and Charles Street be closed, (this has been done).

STAGE TWO

Stage two of the plan calls for widening of Coleman St. to four lanes, for building the College St. bridge to two-lane width, widening Emily St. from Station to Bleecker, rebuilding the inter section at Station St. and Cannifton Road and extending Victoria Ave. to Herchimer. Victoria Ave. has already been extended and widened to Farley, but this was because of subdivision development not because of the report.

Stage three of the plan calls for construction of the Dundas St. bridge over the Moira River, widening of Dundas St. from Church St. to Victoria Ave., widening of Parker St. and extension of Parker St. west to Sidney St., widening of Cannifton Road to four lanes with construction of an underpass at the railway crossing. This stage of the plan also suggests that the city consider making the sidewalks one side to make a three-lane one-way road from Pinnacle St. to Cannifton This section would then become one way westbound.

PARKING NEEDS

Some of the ideas and figures used in compiling the report might be of interest. In 1960, there were 2,150 parking spaces, public and private, available in Belleville, and a demand for only 1,200 was met. The report predicted a demand in 1980 for 2,900 spaces, with the implication that 750 more off-street parking spaces would be needed. Since then about 450 public parking meter ing spaces have been added, but no further effort has been made, according to a parking authority spokesman, to estimate the demand for spaces at the present time. The parking authority is acting on the assumption that it is losing the race, and is concentrating its energies on catching up.

Average traffic speeds on North Front St. between Harriet and Station, at the time of the report, were reported as over a-half miles per hour, and on Bridge St. between Coleman and Highland was 25 speeds averaged about eight miles an hour. None of a dozen main streets for which figures were reported had average speeds above the "satisfactory" speed of 23 mph.

Intersections were also studied. Under a capacity-index in which 0 percent is the maximum capacity with which an intersection can provide smooth traffic flow, the intersections at North Front and Moira Streets, North Front and College, Front and Station Streets, Bridge and Pinnacle, Bridge and Coleman, College and Cannifton Road, Coleman and West Moira and Coleman and Catherine were all operating at 100 percent capacity during 1961. The report does not say what happens when an intersection is operating at more than 100 percent capacity, but since passenger car registrations in the district have risen by more than ten percent since then, Belleville drivers may know the answer.

POSSIBLE ACTION

After so many recommendations of the report have been ignored, so far, just what will the city do about Belleville's traffic problem? The city's top city council, of course, but the city engineer has some hopes.

The first is that comments from the city engineer's office will be sent during the spring to a three-week course in engineering course at the Ontario Police College, at Aylmer. Staff Inspector Bill Hall of the city police force was sent to a similar course last year. Hopes are that with a training man on city engineer's staff, the city will be able to keep a constant eye on the traffic problem and not have to depend on occasional, if intensive, reports.

The bridge on Dundas St. is being considered, as are traffic lights at Coleman and West Moira Streets. An island has been built to improve the traffic flow at North Front and Moira Streets, and another island was given a trial period at Emily and Station Streets. Also planned to relieve traffic congestion are rebuilding on Pinnacle St., probably this year, and widening of North Front St. to four lanes, in two stages. The first stage of the North Front St. improvement involves widening from the CNR bridge

Money is everybody's problem, and if the city, which includes everybody within the city limits, has real money problems, it might be interesting, however, a comment in the introductory section of the report. County Council Approves Increase in Overall Cost Of New Hospital Addition

Hastings county council wound up its final session of the year yesterday and at the same time bade farewell to seven of its members, who will not be back next year.

The session saw the county fathers formally adopt the county assessment commissioners' system and approve of an increase in the estimated over-all cost of the new Belleville General Hospital.

Friday councillors were told by county Judge J. C. Anderson that the trend is lowering central jails and county or area law enforcement.

But councillors felt there was little present interest in central jails in the Bay of Quinte area despite meetings with the neighboring counties of Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, and Frontenac.

MUST MAKE REPAIRS

At the same time, however, they agreed that something would soon have to be done about repairs for the present old county court house to which the county jail is joined.

Accordingly councillors asked that the Department of Reform Institutions plan a meeting of the four local counties to bring the matter of a central jail to a head.

"If the other counties are not interested in a central jail we may as well forget about it and get on with our own," Warden T. Burnside said.

Tyendinaga Reeve Charles Long urged that an area study be made as to the needs of all phases of administration of justice. He said this would be done on request and at no cost to the county.

BY-LAWS PASSED

On the final day of the session, council passed several by-laws, one naming Chalmers Jevons of Sidney township as assessment commissioner for the county.

Mr. Jevons will assume his new duties as of December 16th, while six full time assessors and one trainee, who will do all assessing in the county instead of local municipal assessors, will begin duties on January 1st.

Also the county gave third reading to a by-law disbanding the Deseronto High School District.

Council approved of participation in the estimated increased costs for the new Belleville General Hospital. The new gross cost figure is estimated at $7,840,000 which will be reduced by provincial and federal grants, with the city of Belleville and the county paying the balance on a 55 per cent city and 35 per cent county basis.

ACCEDES TO REQUEST

Council went along with the Madawaska Valley Tourist Association in its request for ARDA to do a study of their area with the view of undertaking a recreational development program.

It also asked the same organization to lend its assistance in helping to get a mining industry established near the boundary line of Elzevir and Hungerford townships.

And it will also ask the surveyor general's department regarding plans for further retracing of township boundaries in the county.

Reeve M. J. McAlpine of Bancroft said that many of the original survey markers have disappeared and in some instances lines generally considered as the boundary are not true boundary lines.

The request of John Pearson from the provincial planning department, that consideration be given by the county to planning on a county or area basis, was referred to next year's council.

WILL ASSIST PROGRAM

Council voted $250 to assist in promoting the winter works program in Hastings county.

County appointments to district high school boards for 1965 were made as follows: Bay of Quinte District High School Board, Alfred Wicket; Stirling Rawdon, James Johnston; Centre Hastings, Elmer Wood; Tweed-Hungerford, Bernard Hunt; North Hastings, Charles Hunt, and Deseronto School Board, Harold Topping.

Reeves leaving county council this year are Wilmott Rose, Frankford; George Park, Limerick; Elgin Orser, McClure; Wicklow and Bangor; Bert Jones, Stirling; Gerald Irvine, Huntingdon; Reeve Sidney Fitzgerald of Tyendinaga, and Clayton McMurray of Elzevir.

Kremlin Calls Unity Meeting For March 1

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Communist Party announced Friday a meeting for a meeting of Communist officials March 1 to prepare for a world Communist conference.

China has charged that the Russians want the conference to split the Communist movement. The Kremlin calls it a unity meeting.

The decision of the preparatory commission now set for March 1 had originally been set for a former premier Khrushchev for Dec. 15. The call published today by the party newspaper Pravda was the first official announcement of a delay.

China and its supporters in the bitter dispute between Moscow and Peking have refused to attend the preparatory meeting or a world conference.

Moscow apparently believes the Russians will go ahead with the meeting whether or not the Chinese send a team to attend, although its organization may differ from Khrushchev's original plans.

Pravda did not say when the subsequent conference, possibly consisting of a possible total of about 90 parties, would take place.

Lord Rootes, Founder of Car Firm, Dies

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Rootes, 70, chairman and founder of the giant Rootes Motor Company, died here today.

Lord Rootes, a penny-an-hour apprentice who became head of an auto firm employing more than 30,000 persons, died at his London home after a long illness.

Rootes, known as "Billy," earned one penny an hour as an apprentice at the Singer car plant early in the 1913.

After serving in the Royal Navy Volunteer Reserve during the First World War, he established the car sales firm of Rootes Limited in partnership with his brother.

By 1926, they were the largest motor distributors in England.

At this stage the brothers decided to start manufacturing and in 1928 formed the Rootes group by acquiring control of the Humber, Hillman and Commer companies.

Beck Released From Prison, Term Shortened

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck, former president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, was back in his home town today—70 years old, a paroled convict, but still as jaunty as ever.

Beck was released Friday from McNeil Island federal penitentiary in Puget Sound after serving nearly 2½ years of his sentence.

The former union leader was sentenced to five years for filing a false income tax return in behalf of a union subsidiary. As he served only half of this sentence, he will be under federal parole for 2½ years. He also will be subject to state parole regulations, as he was concurrently serving a state term for grand larceny for selling a union Cadillac and allegedly converting the $1,900 in proceeds to his own account.

Beck draws a $50,000-a-year pension from the Teamsters, for whom he served as president from 1952 to 1958. His fortune is estimated over $2,000,000.

The long time labor czar was a regent of the University of Washington, a member of the state parole board and a Seattle civil service commissioner as well before leading a union with 500,000 members.

Tshombe Praises Italian Police For Protection

ROME (AP)—Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe today wound up a Rome visit marked by wild Communist demonstrations. He thanked Italian police for protecting him "at the risk of their lives" and said he would fly home via Munich.

Tshombe held a farewell press conference at his hotel as Italy's police, tested by three days of leftist rallies and rightist counter-demonstrations, put the Rome Airport under extremely heavy guard.

He told his press conference: "We are going now to Munich, and from there we shall return to our country."

There was no mention of his going to Bonn although the German foreign ministry said Friday night he would visit the West German capital Tuesday.

Tshombe arrived here Thursday to see Pope Paul and said he was on his way to the United Nations in New York. Friday he cancelled the trip to New York.

At his press conference he said he had decided "the Congolese government could make known its views effectively through its representatives there." He said he therefore felt he was not needed in New York.

Spread of Nuclear Weapons Greatest Danger in World Today Wilson Tells Labor

By GEOFFREY WHITEHEAD

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson said here today his emphasis in his talks with President Johnson earlier this week was on collectivizing NATO's nuclear power in such a way as to stop the danger of the spread of nuclear weapons.

Wilson, in a major speech at his Labor party's annual conference, denied reports he had given President Johnson a secret pledge that Britain was ready to take part in a mixed-manned nuclear surface fleet.

He said "no such pledge was given."

But without specifically mentioning his administration's own plans for an Atlantic nuclear force, he declared: "We have for the first time for many years tabled a British initiative for which our friends and allies have been waiting."

'BIGGEST DANGER'

Wilson said: "The biggest danger the world faces today, and I put this beyond all other priorities in international affairs, is the danger that the spread of nuclear weapons.

"And it is precisely because of this danger that mankind, which rests in the spread of nuclear weapons, that in the vitally important talks in Washington this week, the emphasis was laid on collectivization NATO's nuclear power and above all to do it in such a way as to stop the danger of any more fingers on the nuclear trigger.

"If that were all that had come out of our Washington talks—the united and fixed determination of the president of the United States and ourselves to do everything in our power to stop the spread of these horror weapons — that of itself would have provided enough justification."

The prime minister continued: "But one thing became of our discussions was the fact that we were looking outwards to our defence problems in many opportunity—and if nowexists to create one—to put forward new initiatives towards arms control and disarmament."

READY TO CONTRIBUTE

Wilson said Britain's Labor government is ready to contribute not only British resources to provide a practical British contribution to the peace - keeping forces of the United Nations.

"I believe that in the years immediately ahead of us, the world is presented with an opportunity — to create a genuine international peace-keeping force powerful enough to bring wars and crises to an end, but powerful enough to stop small wars escalating into big ones."

For the Commonwealth, Wilson said he was glad that the United States had endorsed the Labor party's recognition of Britain's worldwide role and its realization of the responsibilities that rested on the Commonwealth as a force of peace.

The terms of modern economic and military strength, British Guiana can never exert the influence which Britain in the Commonwealth can exert."

RAPS RACIAL BIAS

He condemned racial incitement and discrimination in Britain and said: "It would be hypocrisy to condemn racial discrimination elsewhere with apartheid if we tolerate it in Britain—or in any one party."

Earlier Wilson said he would present to the British Parliament Wednesday a full report of his Washington negotiations.

For this reason he said he now could only outline the principles on which the Labor administration's foreign and defence policies were based.

Actress Sues Magazine for Million Dollars

NEW YORK (AP)—L. Arnold Weissberger, lawyer for actress Carroll Baker, said Friday the actress has begun a $1,000,000 legal action against Playboy magazine, which in its December issue has a number of pictures of her.

Weissberger said the action was started with service of a summons at the magazine's New York office.

Weissberger said Miss Baker made an agreement with the magazine to use her pictures in an article dealing with her role in her most recent picture, Sylvia, to be released shortly by Paramount Pictures.

"The agreement further provided that the magazine was to submit the text of the article and the pictures for her approval before publication. This was never done.

"Nor was the main objective of the agreement carried out, since neither the film nor Miss Baker's role therein are mentioned in the article."

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. spacecraft Mariner IV has raced unscathed through the thickest part of the first of three meteor streams it must cross on its 7½-month journey to take television pictures of Mars.

The meteor streams are great bands of dust-like micrometeorites hundreds of millions of miles long. When earth passes through one of the streams the motion picture of cosmic matter burn in the atmosphere as shooting stars.

Scientists at Pasadena's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, who are guiding the unmanned probe's interplanetary voyage, said Mariner passed through the densest part of the Leonid meteor stream Friday afternoon with no damage reported.

At 96 Admits To Being a Bit 'Bookish'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) Rebecca Darlington is 96 and admits she always has been a bit "bookish." But she sees nothing remarkable about being the oldest student enrolled in Radcliffe College seminars.

"What's so wonderful about it?" she asked. "I'm doing nothing but enjoying life."

Mrs. Darlington will observe her 97th birthday Wednesday. She has been in the seminar program for nine years. This year she is studying Western literature—500 to 1500 A.D.

Her drive for knowledge perhaps can be explained by her struggle to obtain an education when she was a girl and it was considered "unladylike" for a woman to go to college.

"My father disapproved of college for women," said Mrs. Darlington.

She persisted, however, and graduated from Bryn Mawr College in 1890.

"I enjoy keeping my student attitude," she said.

CBS Shuffles Shows Starting Next Month

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System television network announced Friday a major reshuffle of its programs, affecting nine hours six nights out of seven and starting next month.

It will move a number of shows, drop a one-hour dramatic series and retrieve two summer replacements which proved popular.

The complicated shifts were announced in a long telegram to CBS affiliates by the network's executive vice president, James T. Aubrey, Jr., following release of a new national Nielsen audience rating.

Aubrey announced that the network would drop The Reporter, a 60-minute series, move CBS Reports to late Monday night; return a variety hour with Rudy Vallee a host and a panel show, Celebrity Game, to the prime evening time schedule.

Even before the important Nielsen, CBS had decided to drop another new series, Mr. Broadway.

On Dec. 22, The Joey Bishop Show goes to Tuesday evenings from Sunday nights, Mr. Ed, and My Favorite Martian episodes, move into the old CBS Reports spot Wednesdays.

In place of the Bishop show and My Living Doll on Sunday, CBS will move reruns of the now discontinued Danny Thomas Show and Celebrity Game, starting Dec. 27.

The Rudy Vallee variety hour will start Dec. 31. Password, Bailey's Of Balboa, and Slattery's People will start in new Friday-time periods on Jan. 1. On Jan. 2, The Entertainers will begin in a new time period, World Wrap, previously on a Tuesday night, will be moved to the late Sunday afternoon spot once occupied by Mr. Ed.

N. S. 'Shel' Eaton Retires After 47 Years of Service

An itchy foot 47 years ago brought N. S. (Shel) Eaton from Nova Scotia to a retirement party in Belleville last Friday. The itching feet brought him from his boyhood home to Orillia, Ont., in 1917. The next year he started work driving a horse and wagon for the Canadian National Express, in Orillia.

He drove the horse and wagon for four years, then drove a truck in the same area for six years. The horse was fastest in those days, he says now, because it would follow him around the route. There was also the problem of no cab on the truck, the snow collecting under the clutch and brake pedals sometimes jammed the controls.

Belleville is the ninth centre he has worked in since then, (he came here in 1936), and he has risen from truck driver to, in 1963, Supervisor of Express Freight for the city.

His plans for retirement include fishing, and his family is still in Nova Scotia, and he has a brother in Puerto Rico), and he plans to continue his hobby of making furniture. A widower, he has one married daughter and a two-year-old granddaughter in Belleville.

Reds Aim for Affluence

The headlines go to the fact that the new Soviet budget cuts military expenditure. The real news is that it increases outlay for the production of consumer goods. Military expenditures are easily concealed. But it is extremely unlikely that the new regime would have the gall to outline a program promising increased consumer goods, (the better life which Khrushchev had pledged the patient Russians), without any intention of making delivery.

This seems to mean the new regime really intends to improve the lot of the people, which will inevitably mean that it will have to curtail expenditures on foreign adventures.

The second significant thing about the budget is that it reduces the enormous expenditures which Khrushchev had planned for the chemical industry, designed to increase the production of fertilizers and thereby the supply of food for the Soviet Union's expanding population.

Food will have to be provided from somewhere. The talk of the food deficit being met from increased output from individual holdings seems like nonsense. That the acquisitive instincts of individuals may result in greater yields from these plots when they are individually owned than when they are collectively owned is quite possible. But surely this would not be true of grains, the production of which is best suited to large-scale operations, as any prairie farmer will tell you? If this analysis is correct, we may find Russia continuing to buy our grain. We may, also, look for Russian efforts to increase trade with undeveloped new nations, exchanging manufactured goods for foodstuffs.

The new trade pattern which may develop could pose some economic problems for the West, but on the whole it fits in with the need of new nations for wider markets for their raw materials.

It is not necessarily good news, but it could be so, if the Russians would refrain from making trade a tool to spread their political influence.

Wilson's Main Aim

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Great Britain has paid his first "summit" visit to Washington. Out of it comes the news that he may see the organization of a NATO multilateration nuclear-armed fleet after all. Has the tough-minded Wilson been melted by the Texan charm of President L. B. Johnson? Hardly likely. Wilson insists that his earlier remarks were misinterpreted, that he is not so much opposed to the multi-nation fleet as insistent on the extension by the U.S. of its veto on the use of nuclear arms. As a practical politician, Wilson is likely to be willing to give President Johnson all the face-saving appearances of victory for U.S. policy, providing this essential feature of one-nation control of nuclear arms is retained.

It is not singularly unselfish for Britain to insist on the U.S. right to veto the use of nuclear weapons, without trying to win a like right for other nations? Not really. What the Labor Party really wants is some arrangement banning nuclear arms entirely. It cannot possibly hope to get the U.S. to agree that any other nation should be empowered to veto its use of its own nuclear arsenal, in case of need. So the nearest thing to a ban is to get other nations to agree to a U.S. veto. Then only one nation in the West could order a nuclear war. That is the next best thing to no nation having this power, in the Labor view.

It will take some fancy argument, though, before Generale de Gaulle will consent to France donning the same shackles as those which the British are so eager to wear.

Threats Commonplace

At Onemee, Dr. Jules Sobrian has been carrying a gun.

"In a sense," says the Peterborough Examiner editorially, "this was a provocation itself since anonymous telephone threats, which occasioned his act, are so common in the lives of public men in this area as to be meaningless."

Threats so common as to be meaningless!

This sounds more like TV's version of the old days in Dodge City than twentieth century life in a comfortable little village in one of Ontario's most popular summer resort areas.

The editor of the Examiner may be accustomed to danger, but if we resided in the district we should be calling for Marshal Dillon—or at least Chester.

Ottawa Offbeat
Whitton's Municipal Demise May Turn Over New Leaf

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — This city's civic election this week may have an effect on the future status of the nation's capital — which it is, of course.

After many years of strong influence in the affairs of Ottawa, Charlotte Whitton will leave public office at the end of the year.

And Miss Whitton, as mayor, has been a strong supporter of the status quo here as far as the nature of the city's government is concerned. She has insisted on maintaining a full civic government independent of all but the normal provincial rules.

That is to say, she has firmly opposed any moves which might allow the federal government a voice in, or even control of, the governing of the city.

There have been some strong suggestions that, because Ottawa is the capital and because the federal government spends so much money maintaining parts of it, the entire area should be turned into a federally-controlled district much like the District of Columbia in the United States.

But, as many a controller and alderman in Ottawa has discovered, it is close to impossible to do anything which Mayor Whitton is opposed. She won't be mayor after Dec. 31, though, and the new mayor, former Controller Don Reid, is a far more reasonable person.

So it may well be that some time in the new year another effort will be made to allow the federal-government some voice in the affairs of the capital.

A GOOD CHASE

There is a good deal of sense in such a plan. Ottawa is not a city which boasts of much industry — it has only one really big one and that is the federal government.

The government cannot, of course, be taxed, despite the fact it has massive buildings all over the city and on some of the best land.

To compensate for this, grants are paid in lieu of taxes and some indication of the size of the government organization here is provided by the fact that the grants now total $6,000,000 annually and still do not fully compensate for the taxes which might be levied.

In addition, the government often contributes to large public works such as the city (such as the new collector sewer, the new bridge across the Ottawa River, the new crosscity throughway.)

And in addition, the government maintains many miles of fine roadways — the finest in the city — and is building more.

Money from Canadian citizens pays for this, in effect, and yet those people have no voice in the manner in which it uses the money.

Oddly enough, many of the people living in Ottawa recognize this and a majority would actually prefer a federal administrative district and an end to normal municipal government.

For one thing, they feel this would mean a greater federal contribution toward costs of the city and a reduction in taxes, which are among the highest in the country because of the lack of industrial taxation.

OTHER PLAN

There is some hesitation, however, about removing the municipal franchise altogether and another plan was put forward earlier this year (also running into the rock wall of Whitton opposition).

This was that the people of Ottawa continue to elect half of the council members and that federal government appointed the other half and a city manager was named.

This is the compromise which might well be put forward again as soon as Mr. Ried has had a chance to get settled in office.

Priffa Minister Pearson said the night of the municipal election that he wanted to meet Mr Ried as soon as possible to discuss federal-municipal relations here.

It is almost a surety that another person close to any such conversation will be Privy Council President George McIlraith who is member of Parliament for Ottawa West.

He has long been an outspoken exponent of the federal district plan and it was he who publicly put forward the suggestion of the shared control.

He is also the man who beat Miss Whitton in her only try for federal office, something she is unlikely to have forgiven.

Thus it is more than one way that the passing of Miss Whitton from the municipal scene could mean the beginning of a new way of life for the capital.

To Your Good Health
Puffy Eyes Attributed To Age and Health

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about baggy or puffy eyes in this just from age, or could there be a physical ailment. — Mrs. G.B.S.

There are quite a few possibilities. As we grow older, the skin looses some of its tone. The inevitable wrinkling process is at work! A person's weight, as well as fluid, skin texture and coloring, can make the bags under the eyes more noticeable.

A variety of health factors can play a part.

Anything causing fluid to accumulate in the system can result in puffy eyelids. Some things are harmless, or common and not dangerous. Others can be quite important.

It's natural for women to accumulate fluid in the system just before the menstrual period.

Folks with bay fever or some other allergies often find that the eyelids tend to swell.

Eyes get puffy after a hard crying spell.

People whose thyroids are not sufficiently active may have puffy eyelids, caused, by waterlogged tissue.

Kidney and liver conditions can cause fluid retention (dropsy) and the puffiness attending is needed, the sooner the better.

By and large, the majority of cases of baggy eyes are of no particular significance health wise. When the dark circles significantly something serious, usually the patient has noticed other symptoms and is feeling too bad from deep - seated causes, to worry much about the looks of his eyes.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter was operated on about 13 months ago for hemorrhoids. About every two weeks when she is the least bit constipated she has some blood and becomes sore. Her doctor says she is doing fine. What do you think? Will it go into cancer? This is the second operation. I enclose the required 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a copy of your booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." — Mrs. B. J.

Hemorrhoids don't "go into cancer". There is nothing to prevent the two things occurring independently, however, so careful examination (by X-ray and the use of the proctoscope) is in order to make sure that cancer is not present.

The bleeding and the pain could well result from scarring from the two operations. One of the important aspects of surgery for hemorrhoids is to have proper care for some time afterwards, with periodic dilation to prevent adhesions and narrowing of the rectal passage from scarring.

Of continuing importance is to avoid constipation. I am sure that conscientious study of the booklet will help a great deal. Prevention of constipation in such cases not only makes more comfort but also guards against recurrence of hemorrhoids.

Dear Dr. Molner: When a person takes three tranquilizers a day, also some phenobarbital tablets, some aspirin, and smokes to excess, am I in error in wondering how anyone could possibly feel well? Some of this is prescribed by a doctor. — J. B.

No, you are not in error. The three medications all have their excellent uses, but the degree of sedation you describe is rarely necessary. The three often tend to have a compounding effect, so together the impact is greater than if they were taken separately. The net result probably is that the reason for which the medication was prescribed in the first place is not being solved.

French Like Life at Home

By J. B. McGEACHY
In The Financial Post

Canada's immigration department misses the point entirely when it says the reasons why French people do not wish to emigrate to Canada are that Canada is cold in winter and that France is pleasing.

The weather argument is fiddle-sticks. Paris in winter can be quite as cold as Montreal—outdoors; and at least 10 degrees colder indoors. Italians like warmth as much as anybody else but they have come here by the shipload.

It is true that France is prosperous but this has no bearing. Rich and comfortable people emigrate. General De Gaulle's subjects simply have no desire to quit the land of their fathers.

The six million French Canadians now alive are descendants of the 50 thousand who lived in the St. Lawrence valley 200 years ago. Your true Frenchman thinks himself so lucky to have been born in what the world has come to call civilized, lovely and joyful country on earth, he is likely to look on inexplicable emigration as an inexplicable eccentricity.

Any Paris taxi driver will tell you so; and the intense national pride of the French, which has survived the humiliations and miseries of the German occupation, is perhaps most articulate among Parisians. But the French peasant clings to his acres with fierce tenacity. There are French farms that have been owned by the same families for 1,000 years and are still yielding wheat or grapes by the ton.

Canada's French minority will become a bigger representation of those who speak their language on this continent; but their desire is not likely to be achieved by blood transfusions from the European motherland.

The French of France like it where they are, where there is always plenty of good bread, wine, cheese and joie de vivre. They may have a point here.

Midsummer's Splendor Looks Silly in December

Letter to the Editor

Deplores Small Municipal Vote

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

. . . three quarters of Belleville's eligible voters did not bother to cast their ballots."

These words are found under a picture on the front page of Tuesday's paper.

Perhaps, because the weather was a little rough, people said, "I won't bother to go out, after all one vote won't make any difference."

At a time when new nations are being born, and people are fighting for the right to be free, it is tragic to see such a great privilege treated so casually.

It could be that if we continue to take the gift of freedom for granted they just might be taken away from us.

One vote . . . your vote — does make a difference!

Yours sincerely,
L. Edna Cooper,
(Mrs. J. F. Cooper),
R.R. 5, Belleville.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 12th, 1944

Four of the prisoners to escape from the Hastings County jail by violence a month ago were sentenced to serve three years in the Kingston Penitentiary, while a youthful fifth member was given two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate T. Y. Willis in a special session of city police court.

Mr. R. A. Pringle, local barrister, represented the four accused youths at the request of Crown Attorney. "On behalf of the four boys I merely wish to point out, that to send them to penitentiary is merely removing them from society, which, at the reformatory they could be made into better citizens by learning a trade," concluded Mr. Pringle who appeared without remuneration at the request of the court.

30 YEARS AGO

According to a Canadian Press dispatch, Dr. E. G. N. Kennedy of London, Ontario, will arrive in Belleville to enter into partnership in the practice of medicine with Hon. The dispatch states that Dr. Kennedy is a graduate in medicine from Western University and that he has just completed a fellowship in surgery at Victoria Hospital. He had an enviable record in academic work at the university, and in sports he was a great rugby player. His home town is Sarnia.

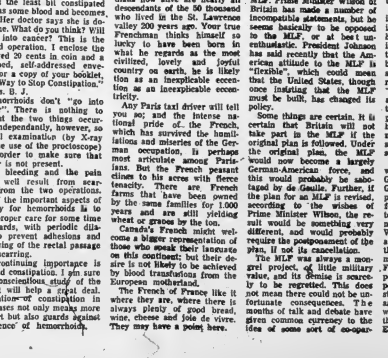
MLF Fleet Said Doomed

Montreal Gazette

Reports from West Germany indicate that country no longer believes in the controversial Multilateral Nuclear Force (MLF) will ever be built. Lip service is still being paid to the idea but the forces opposed to it seem to have the upper hand.

President de Gaulle has made it clear that he will take any steps available to him, even including bolters at NATO and the Common Market, to destroy the idea. Prime Minister Wilson of Britain has made a number of incompatible statements, but he seems basically to be opposed to the MLF, or at best unenthusiastic. President Johnson has said recently that the American attitude to the MLF is "flexible" which could mean that the United States, though once insisting that the MLF must be built, has changed its policy.



Some things are certain. It is certain that British Aill not take part in the MLF if the original plan is followed. Under the original plan, the MLF would now become a largely German-American force, and this would probably be substantially by de Gaulle. Further, if the plan for an MLF is revised, according to the wishes of Prime Minister Wilson, the result would be something very different, and would probably require the postponement of the plan, if not its cancellation.

The MLF was always a monogrel project, of little military value, and its demise is scarcely to be regretted. This does not mean there could not be unfortunate consequences. The months of talk and debate have given certain governments the idea of some sort of co-operative nuclear force among the largest NATO countries. Appetites have been whetted. It has become respectable to speak of nuclear members of NATO to say they ought to have a say in the nuclear force.

If the MLF is cancelled, it will be an obvious move for General de Gaulle to offer the German some form of participation in the French nuclear force. The Germans will be tempted to accept. It is at this moment that Prime Minister Wilson might take an important initiative, by proposing that the three major European members of NATO — Britain, France and West Germany — pool their resources in a European nuclear force. This would still be unwieldy, but would be an advance upon the MLF. It would also be compatible with the eventual goal of a united Europe.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Pitfalls Are Seen in Aid Program

By BERNARD DALY

VATICAN CITY (CP) — A warning against pitfalls in programs through which rich countries join to aid underprivileged countries was sounded by Canadian bishops at the Vatican ecumenical council.

"This collaboration is one of the greatest signs of divine influence in our times," they said in a written submission on a section of the document dealing with the church in the modern world.

But "these praiseworthy and much-needed programs run the risk of becoming deformed. These vast undertakings can become new forms of power and of domination. . . . The gifts of nations may be misused to strengthen the influence of the donors rather than to promote the welfare of the less privileged."

Debate closed on this section of the document before the views of a number of Canadian bishops could be presented orally. Their opinions were submitted in writing.

WEIGH CAREFULLY

Under council rules written views are weighed as carefully as oral ones in the redrafting of texts.

The section on which the Canadian delegates put forward their views deals with the world's cultural, social and economic problems. The draft text on these matters is a general review of the encyclical of Pope John, Mater et Magistra (Mother and Teacher).

The text says that increasing socialization, hope for a better world and increasing awareness of human solidarity and unity are three dominant factors in life today.

It adds that all people must have a "just share" in social progress without distinctions of race.

FACING LIFE WITH CONFIDENCE

It happened during the first evacuation of children from bombarded areas of London, England. A train was about to leave, and it was packed with boys and girls. Many of them had never been on a train, and most of them had never been in the country. The parents of small boy and girl had just bid their precious children goodbye and left them standing on the station platform.

The little girl began to cry. She was afraid, because she didn't know where she was going. Her little brother, brushing his own tears away put an arm around her. Attempting to give his sister comfort, he said, "I don't know where we are going, either, but the King knows."

In this topsy-turvy world of ours, most of us are inclined to wonder at times, if men and nations have lost their sense of proper direction. In the midst of emergencies, problems and perplexities, we will be able to face life with calmness and confidence, if we remember that our King, Jesus Christ, is well aware of where we are going!

Bethlehem Reminder to Man God Cares Enough to Be Near

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

How can God possibly be concerned with individuals? His universe is so vast and we are so small. You are but one person among billions of people, and the earth on which billions of your kind dwell is but one negligible planet among billions of heavenly bodies. The scientists invite us to suppose that the earth could be reduced to the size of the period at the end of this sentence, the diameter of which is about one-fiftieth of an inch. Imagine that everything else in the universe were reduced proportionately. On that microscopic scale, with the earth the size of a period, the sun would be only 196 feet from the earth. The nearest star would be 1,005 miles away, and the farthest known galaxy of stars would be nearly 82 billion miles away. Such would be the size of the universe if the earth were a little more than pin-point size. Mighty vast, isn't it?

To many people a universe of such boundless spaces and staggering distances is frightening and bewildering. They would find it far easier to have faith in God's personal interest in them if the world were small and cozy The fathomless depths of space make the Creator remote and impersonal. How could God care for one human being when he has such a creation to supervise?

CRAVE TO KNOW—

While we rejoice in the immensities that stretch our thoughts, and glory in the beauty, symmetry, orderliness and power that reveal to us might and skill, such an awesome picture as creation leaves us dissatisfied because we still know so little about the Creator's nature. He is mighty, but is He interested in people like you and me? God is great, but is God interested and loving? The physical universe tells us something about the Creator, just as a painting awards da Vinci tells us something about that artist's sense of draftsmanship, perspective, feeling for composition and color. But a painting leaves us dissatisfied as to the character of the artist, whether he was cowardly or courageous, stingy or generous, mean or kind. So, our picture of the universe tells us much less about God's nature than we need to know. While we are awestruck by what God has done, we crave to know what kind of God did it.

Then we turn to another world that reveals something of the character of God. It is that little world, within a big world, the village of Bethlehem and its cattle stall. The Gospel of Saint Luke tells of an angel joyously announcing to fear-smitten shepherds, "Fear not; for, behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger." At the manger of Bethlehem, we see God revealed as self-giving, as gentleness and as a love that we cannot find in the farthest stretches of the Milky Way nor discover in the infinite spread of galaxies that dwarf the one in which our universe is set.

The Babe of Bethlehem did for us what astronomy cannot. He showed us the character of God. He grew to love supremely well, to be gentle when hard-ness and retaliation seemed called for. He was concerned for others when they were self-serving and negligent of Him.

A GOOD AS CHRIST

Since th stream can rise higher than its source, and nothing God has made can be better than the God who made it, we know that God must be as good as Christ. So the early Church proclaimed Christ's birth as glorious good news. At last believers in God could announce with glad certainty what God was like. They said that in spite of God's awful might and lofty goodness, far above anything man could know or be, God is here on earth. "The Word became flesh and wel t among us." What is God like? "God is Christlike," they sang. The world is governed by the Lord of Love."

And ever since the Babe of Bethlehem completed his mission on earth, the core of Christ's in faith has not been the belief that God exists, but that a loving God lives among us. That is the meaning of Bethlehem.

When life is drab, commonplace and unpromising, remember Bethlehem. In your dullest, most ordinary and most monotonous moment. God is as near you as he was to the dingy, lack-lustre, gray townsfolk, bathed in sun-baked clay set along the narrow, cramped, unpleasant-smelling streets of that unspecacular little town of Bethlehem where nothing important ever happened. But life brightened that far-off night for those who knew that God had come among them.

Is anything in the world irredeemably dull or common place? God can make Bethlehem's streets with starlight and touch a manger with sudden glory and make it baby's bed. Such a Savior? Christmas points to the exciting, divine possibilities of any life when God comes into it. Remember Bethlehem.

When loneliness torments you, remember Bethlehem. When God seems far away and distant, when your woes exceed griefs, your problems and perplexities, remember the manger and the Holy Family.

ALONE IN CROWDS

Joseph and Mary on that first Christmas night were alone in a place of crowds; and there is no greater loneliness than that felt in the midst of strangers, as any little child, separated from his parents and lost in a mob of Christmas shoppers, knows only too well. You apparently they had no relatives in Bethlehem, or they would have gone there with the wife for-off and impersonal. How could God care for one human being when he has such a creation to supervise?

Breast-Feeding Of Babies Is Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP)—A doctor said Friday that women in the upper economic brackets who forego breast-feeding their babies are doing harm—not so much to their own children as to those of poorer mothers who follow the example.

Dr. W. H. Sebrell, Jr., of Columbia University, said the impact is particularly marked in underdeveloped countries but also is felt in slum areas in the United States and elsewhere in the Western world.

Sebrell spoke at a press conference held to summarize conclusions reached at an international conference on prevention of malnutrition in pre-school children. He said women who forego breast - feeding but lack the money or knowledge for proper bottle - feeding "are wasting one of the best protein foods there is" and thus hurting their babies.

Sebrell continued:

"We doctors[illegible] used to worry about mothers keeping babies at the breast too long . . . (because of possible harmful effects to the mother) . . . but now we are concerned about mothers weaning the babies too soon."

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION

In your column back in November 1950 you had a recipe for Christmas cake. I had wonderful luck with it, but alas! my copy is lost. Mrs. C.C.R.

ANSWER

Delighted to repeat this.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE 1950

One lb. butter or margarine, 2 cups light brown sugar, 7 medium-sized eggs, 4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons each mace, cinnamon, baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup canned crushed pineapple and juice, 2 lbs. washed and dried currants, 1 lb. chopped nuts (either blanched almonds or walnuts or pecans, 1 lb. seedless or chopped seedless raisins, ¼ lb. chopped dates, ½ lb. thinly sliced strips citron peel, 2 teaspoons almond flavoring.

Cream the shortening until very pale, then gradually beat in the sugar; 5 minutes beating is advised. Beat the egg yolks until very light and fold thick into the creamed mixture. Add crushed pineapple and juice, prepared as said and fruits which has been rolled in a little additional flour. Sift in the sifted dry ingredients, and beat very well, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, and add almond flavoring. Pour into cake pans which have been lined with 3 thicknesses of buttered brown paper. Place large shallow pan containing water in bottom of oven. Place cakes on shelf above it in oven at 275 deg. Fahr. and bake for from 3½ to 4 hours, adding water to pan as needed. Cool cakes in pans in which they were baked, then remove from pans and wrap in waxed paper, leaving paper lining around them. Wrap in heavy toweling and store in airtight crocks for about 2 weeks before cutting.

QUESTION

My husband wants me to make your steamed Fig Pudding given in one of your columns in 1952.

ANSWER

Your husband has a long memory.

STEAMED FIG PUDDING

Bright gold in color and universally popular.

Beat until creamy 1 cup fine suet and 1 cup sugar, then beat in 2 eggs, one at a time. Sift 1 cup flour and 3 tablespoons orange or pineapple juice. Put through grinder and add to flour which have been steamed and dried if they were not moist when bought. Grate orange rind and add 1 teaspoon powdered nutmeg. Mix together 1¼ cups fine dry breadcrumbs, 2 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Add these. Then fold in 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into well-greased large mould and steam for 4 hours, being sure water in steamer is kept up to at least 1" level.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"That's always been your trouble—you're afraid to think BIG!"

Line on Life

Forgiveness Requires Love Which Is Mature

Nothing greater can happen to a human being than that he be forgiven. And there can be no great love of things, ideas or persons without an understanding of the central, ethical role which forgiveness should play in human affairs. Like any other important quality of life, the depth of our love may be childishly superficial, or robustly mature. Some people are forgiving, but only in a juvenile way; their love, then, must be equally infantile. Others have penetrated more deeply the truest meaning of forgiveness; their love, therefore, is more mature, highly communicative, sometimes even beautiful and reverent.

PRIMITIVE STEP

A primitive step in this longer direction is that act of forgiveness which can excuse an error but once: it awaits the next mistake, in order to pounce on the "sinner" who can never be forgiven twice. Primitives jump to conclusions without waiting all the evidence. Mature love asks patience: it bids us to wait and to tolerate. This is what family love can offer: it waits and tolerates.

Sometimes we think that we have learned the meaning of forgiveness, but all we have really achieved is a temporary truce. Too many of us pardon our neighbours but not without seeking to exact tribute. Gleefully, we set down a catalogue of preconditions for our compassion. But forgiveness is incomplete if we can only offer punishments which fit the crime and not real love.

Truly to forgive is to achieve the interminable art of love. True forgivenss is unconditional, it exacts no tribute, requires no moral barter. Forgiveness is the divine answer to the very question implied in human existence, for we are, all of us, creatures who are fallible. This is why no man can truly love unless he accepts forgiveness as a way of life. For the deeper our experience of forgiveness, the greater our love.

RECONCILIATIONS

Forgiveness means reconciliation in spite of estrangement, reunion in the face of hostility, acceptance of the unacceptable, reception of the rejected. If we are not to kill the things we love, we must learn to help rather than reject, receive rather than defy, embrace rather than revile, those whose lives we touch.

Mother's Helper

A FAMILY WALK can be most satisfying to everyone involved. Let the children set the pace, and be ready to follow them on any side trips which invite investigation without risk. Turn the same old neighborhood territory ein yield new interests to sharp young eyes. Take along a sack for any possible treasures collected along the way.

Ann Landers

Speaking to Erring Mother Will Only Widen Breach

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm a teen-ager who has a 45-year-old problem. My mother.

Mother went to work in a plant where almost all the employees are men. Six months ago she dyed her hair blonde. A few weeks ago she started to wear stretch pants to work. She looks so cheap I'm ashamed to have anybody know she's my mother.

I began to write only about the way she looks but now I might as well tell you what is really bugging me. I'm afraid my mother has a boy friend. She leaves the house every Tuesday and Friday night after supper and tells Dad she is on a committee for the plant.

ANN LANDERS

Should I come right out and tell my mother she is making a big fool of herself and to get back to normal? — ASHAMED DAUGHTER.

* * *

DEAR ASHAMED — You can't say anything to your mother that will "get her back to normal." Your criticism would only produce an even wider gulf — and it's pretty wide already.

Conduct yourself like a lady even though your mother is setting no example. And keep quiet.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have been a widow for 14 years. Last year I began to spend some time with a well-to-do gentleman. He has taken me to many nice places. After being lonely for so long I don't mind telling you I enjoy his company.

A few months ago this man hinted that I should reciprocate by taking him to dinner and to the theatre occasionally. I did pay for the dinner and theatre tickets twice, but I can't keep it up. Frankly, it's too hard on my budget.

The gentleman likes my cooking and I've invited him to my home for dinner several times.

What I need to know is this, Ann. Have customs changed in the past 30 years? Is it possible that today a woman is supposed to pay a man's way now and then? Will you advise me? — MIDDLE AGED LADY.

* * *

DEAR LADY — If you invite the gentleman to your home for dinner you are doing all the reciprocating that is required. He sounds a wee bit tight, Dearie. I call it a touch of "shell-out failer."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I was interested in the letter which appeared in your column recently about the telephone pest. I thought your cut-off phrase was effective but I'd like to suggest another cut-off phrase which has worked wonders for me.

Several years ago I was pestered to death by a distant relative who had a habit of phoning me several times a day — and always at the most inopportune times. I became resentful and upset because this woman took advantage of me. I consulted my minister. He listened sympathetically and asked,"Can't you have something on the stove?"

I replied, "No — not all the time." He said, "My wife has — pots and pans."

That was five years ago and I've kept pots and pans on my stove ever since. Maybe you'd like to pass on the suggestion. It's the greatest "invention" since they started to slice bread. — LIBERATED.

* * *

DEAR LIB — Welcome to the free world. Telephone pests are a breed unto themselves and I am in favor of any type of insecticide that works.

* * *

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ALBERT COLLEGE

(A Story of a Church School)

"A school must always be a part of its environment." — Dr. Waldo E. L. Smith.

* * *

"Here's an imaginary letter written by an imaginary guest visiting Albert College sometime during the era 1884-1914. It reads in part:

"As you know, I was invited to attend the 'Prom' and arrived in time. I was met at the station and taken to really impressive college buildings. I'm told in 1889 the unfinished attic of the college was rebuilt and refinished as a complete storey. A little later the new wing was added to provide class-rooms, offices, art rooms, laboratory and a museum. This was possible because of the generous help from the Massey family. There's a lovely chapel, too, as well as a new gymnasium.

"Well, everyone was in a gay mood. I shared a room with one of the students who is a senior. His room-mate was called home for a few days on account of illness in the family. The students here all look after their own rooms. Each are double and one's room mate is known as "the old lady".

"Students also provide their own lamps and coal oil. While no fires are allowed in the rooms, except by special permission, it's hard to remember the fine-making instinct. Everyone turns out to the water for morning and the meeting for chapel. It's quite a thrill to see about what is known as "hot water".

SPORTS MINDED

"He told me how sports-minded Edgar is, being somewhat of an athletic headquarters. He showed me the big tennis stadium which has an athletic instructor as well as the athletic studio where young men are coached in various manly sports. Visiting teams play against Belleville's best and Albert College always enters teams in hockey, basketball, soccer and now basketball with the city leagues. In 1905 he informed me, the college soccer team won the Intercollegiate little while the basket ball team of that year won the city champion-ship. In fact, he said, they say that the first game of basket ball in Canada was played in the college gymnasium. Anyway, we pay for all our own sports equipment, including uniforms, so our champions hip. He is read the story of the birth of Christ.

SPORTS MINDED

"He told me how sports-minded Edgar is, being somewhat of an athletic headquarters. He showed me the big tennis stadium which has an athletic instructor as well as the athletic studio where young men are coached in various manly sports. Visiting teams play against Belleville's best and Albert College always enters teams in hockey, basketball, soccer and now basketball with the city leagues. In 1905 he informed me, the college soccer team won the Intercollegiate little while the basket ball team of that year won the city champion-ship. In fact, he said, they say that the first game of basket ball in Canada was played in the college gymnasium. Anyway, we pay for all our own sports equipment, including uniforms, so our champions hip. He is read the story of the birth of Christ.

"Has the college gymnasium a professional athletic director?' I asked him.

FAMOUS athlete

"'No, a member of the faculty usually takes charge,' he answered. Then he spoke about Guy Curtis who is the school's most famous athlete. He's one of those exceptional athletes who has become a legend, for he excelled in every sport. When he went on to Queens as a student, he led its rugby team to its first championship, and put the university in the limelight. He's immortalized in the university song 'Queen's College Colours'.

Remember Captain Curtis and the conquerors of Yale. . .!'

"We arrived back just in time for dinner. The air is full of anticipation, for the 'Prom' is later this evening. "

Says Girdles Are Ugly and Uncomfortable

LONDON (AP) — Dress designer John Bates—whose clients include Princess Margaret—spoke out Friday against girdles and other foundation garments.

"No woman should wear a foundation garment," he said. "They're ugly and uncomfortable."

But what should the plump girls do?

"A woman may be large," said Bates in an interview, "but she needn't be fat. Exercise is the thing. If she'd spend the money she spends on corsets on a good exercise course she'd be better off.

"Muscles matter. All women have them. They should learn to use them."

Nothing Seems Out of Place In Strange Greenwich Village

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

NEW YORK —South through the canyons of Seventh Ave. and Broadway, past the exotic industries and import houses that seem to exist only here, the taxi weaves through a kaleidoscope of typical New York commerce.

Suddenly and unpredictably, it emerges in a tree-lined street of sedate apartment houses and quiet residences. Ahead on 5th Avenue looms Washington Arch and the beginning of the place everyone knows — even those who live here. This is Greenwich Village, a true semi-countrified village surrounded by teeming Manhattan.

The blind men trying to describe the elephant would be at home in Greenwich Village. It is slums and exclusive residents. It is old-time Italian immigrants who don't understand the beatniks, and beatniks who don't understand the Italians. It is whatever those who live there choose it to be.

It is also one of the oldest and most historic parts of New York. When the city was mainly the lower tip of Manhattan, the prosperous fled north and established country residences, mainly around what is now Washington Square. Many still stand, and the asking prices are reputed to be between $200,000 and $300,000. A single building on what is still sometimes called "Genius Row," Madame Blanche's boarding house at one time or another was home to O. Henry, Theodore Dreiser, Eugene O'Neill, Frank Harris, Edward Arlington Robinson, Gelett Burgess and Stephen Crane. Henry James, of course, lived on Washington Square, and so did Rose Franken, John Don Passos and Edith Wharton.

HISTORIC PAST

The square — once a potter's field and gallows grounds — was, and is a great social still is, the campus of New York University; in a building no longer used, Prof. Samuel F. B. Morse invented the telegraph and Samuel Colt, the single action revolver.

Today, most of the buildings around Washington Square is an land institution known as Sailor's Snug Harbor, a retreat for retired seamen founded by the son of a privateer.

Just off the square is Washington Mews, a type of street common to cities like London but almost unknown in America, outside of Greenwich Village. Homes here once were the stables of the rich who lived on the square. The cobbled street is closed to traffic, and it is cozy and quiet.

Also around the corner is MacDougall St., the village as tourists think it is. And it is — tries hard to think of itself. Beneath the old red brick tenements, still boasting what is left of the bewildered old Italian settlers, are the coffee houses, beat joints, book and record shops and antiquarians. Most are housed in studiedly ratty basements.

The nightclubs—mostly liquorless, to cater to the extremely young who are trying themselves the true denizens of the village—have hand scrawled signs vaguely hinting at entertainment. Few artists live in MacDougall Mews, or more: either they can't afford them, or they can afford better.

SOME ARE GENUINE

Some of the coffee houses, however, are genuine. Cafe Alexandria, Va. Bienzi dates to before beatnik days, when Italians knew and appreciated coffee houses. The Cafe Borgia has marble tables and wrought-iron chairs, like an old-fashioned ice cream parlor. Best known and most European is the club-like Cafe Figaro at Bleecker and MacDougall Sts. Here old - fashioned Tiffany glass lamps and newel posts surround the all-day chess players, dawdling artists and newspaper readers.

A few pushcarts, Italian groceries and bakeries still mark the old-time influence, but the unique Greek revival homes on the twisting streets recall an older and broader history.

The notorious Mayor Jimmy Walker lived on St. Luke's Place, a street where gas lamps still function. Around the corner is 75½ Bedford St., the narrowest (7½) house in New York, once the home of Edna St. Vincent Millay and also of John Barrymore.

These odd streets, so different from the gridiron arrangement of uptown thoroughfares, are also perfect examples of the warehouses and stores that create a commercial, noisy atmosphere all around. Despite the prising enclaves turn up such as the ancient Spanish-Portuguese Synagogue cemetery. Its crest courtyards are seen one of them on Grove St. was the setting for one of O. Henry's most famous stories, "The Last Leaf."

Almost every building has a history. A triangular square off West Seventh St. was the site of Peter Stuyvesant's house, his crooked Gay St. — you can't see it from the street — was used as the setting for Ruth McKinney's "My Sister Eileen." Even the Women's Detention Prison at Greenwich Ave. is an oddity designed as it was to look like an apartment house to avoid forbidding one. In a tiny court known as Patchin Place, E. E. Cummings lived.

DEFIED PROHIBITION

McSorley's Ale House stands in Greenwich Village too. Serving only porter and ale, its threshold has never been darkened by a woman. The oldest tavern in the city still in existence in New York, it blandly and peacefully functioned right through prohibition.

On Sheridan Sq., a tiny tile plaque marks all that remains of the Hess Express, the result of a surveyor's error. Down the block is a one-time pharmacy that sold so many paper-back books it eventually converted into what is probably New York's largest one. Still open, it on Waverly Pl. stands the Jefferson Democratic Henry's city's oldest clinics, where Edgar Allen Poe was a patient.

Two of the most curious houses in the village are on Barrow St. One, called the Doll House, has only three small apartments once, and is one of the very few detached single residences on Manhattan Island. Next to it stands an odd pink building with a curved facade and steep gables that originally was planned as an artist's residence. Like every other strange sight of Greenwich Village, it doesn't seem too out of place.

COBBLES REMAIN

Cobblestones, reputedly laid by Hessian prisoners of war during the American Revolution, still pave Prince Street in Alexandria, Va.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD JAMES BAILEY

Bailey – Cronkright

Plainfield United Church was decorated with standards of white chrysanthemums for the wedding of Carroll Luella Cronkright, to Gerald James Bailey of Roslin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bailey.

Rev. G. A. Southall performed the marriage ceremony. The wedding music was played by Mrs. M. Harrison, who also accompanied the soloist, Mr. Ken Elmy, during the signing of the register.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown of white peau de soie. The bodice had a portrait neckline appliqued with Italian lace, and the back was fashioned with a full length train of peau de soie. Her waist length veil was held in place with a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a white Bible with red Sweetheart roses and white, satin streamers with red rose buds.

Miss Diane Cronkright, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Bailey of Roslin, sister of the bridegroom and Mrs. Carol Dafoe, Plainfield.

The attendants were gowned alike in sankie length dresses of red velvet. The bodice had a boat neckline, short sleeves and cummerbund at the waist. They were red velvet wedding ring hats with shoulder length veils, and shoes of red satin. They carried bouquets of white shasta mums.

Little Tracee Brennan, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing an ankle length dress of white velvet with white cummerbund and white rosette headpiece. She carried a basket of white poms and red roses.

Billy Brennan, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer dressed in red velvet pants and vest with white shirt and bow tie.

Groomsman was David Geen of Oshawa and the ushers were Robert Bailey of Roslin, cousin of the bridegroom, and Steven Cronkright, Belleville, nephew of the bride.

A reception was held at the Plainfield L.O.L. hall where the bride's table was set with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with two doves beneath a wedding bell. Silver candelabrum were on either side of the cake.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a double knit sheath in cranberry shade, white accessories and white gardenia corsage.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a teal blue velvet sheath dress with jacket, white accessories, and white gardenia corsage.

The young couple left for a motor trip around Lake Ontario to Niagara Falls with the bride travelling in a red velvet dress, grey coat with black fox collar, black accessories, and corsage of red roses.

Guests were present from London, Brampton, Oshawa, Belleville, Foxboro, Thomasburg, Kingston, Roslin, Halleway and Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will reside at Roslin.

Showers were given in honor of the bride at the home of Mrs. A. Carleton, Roslin, with co-hostess Miss Isabel Beatty; at the home of Miss D. Cronkright, Belleville, Mrs. Stella Cronkright co-hostess; and at the home of Mrs. L. Brennan, Plainfield with Mrs. Carol Dafoe, co-hostess. A presentation of Blue Mountain pottery was made by the manager and staff of the Royal Bank, where the bride is employed.

Cross-Canada Survey

$161 Million Bet on the Ponies

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Losers may find it difficult to believe, but 1964 was a great year at Canada's racetracks. Betting on the thoroughbreds soared to $161,515,913 and set national record for the 15th season in a row.

It was a healthy jump from the $153,506,144 that bettors shoved through the pari-mutuel windows in 1963.

Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia reported provincial betting records. Manitoba, the only other province with thoroughbred racing, missed a record in a photo finish.

The four Atlantic provinces have only harness racing which is not covered in the thoroughbred figures but is compiled later.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed 18 tracks were in action a total of 407 racing days, compared with 18 and 403 days last year.

All but two of the tracks reported 1964 betting at an all-time high. The exceptions were Winnipeg's Assiniboia Downs, only thoroughbred track in Manitoba, where the handle of $8,328,665 was just $21,000 off the 1962 record, and Toronto's Woodbine.

ONTARIO BETTORS BUSY

Lucky horse - players took home about $134,000,000 of the total amount wagered. The tracks kept $15,500,000 for purses and profit, provincial governments took a tax bite of $11,200,000 and the federal government collected about $800,000 as fee for supervisory services. They include film patrol, saliva tests and RCMP surveillance.

As usual, Ontario's three big tracks accounted for about 60 per cent of the national betting total. Fans at Fort Erie, Toronto Woodbine and Toronto Greenwood backed their choices with $99,464,918 in cold cash, compared with $96,483,152 last year.

The Ontario racing season was unchanged at 196 days. Attendance was down slightly at 1,667,080 blamed chief only some conflict with harness racing dates, but per-capita betting rose to $59.31 from $56.71.

Montreal's Blue Bonnets Raceway, only track in Quebec, took in $18,562,205 for an increase of nearly 14 per cent over the 1963 betting total. Attendance on the 43 race days, same number as last year rose five per cent to 391,462.

A $3,000,000 expansion and renovation program is under way at Blue Bonnets this winter and track officials predict a big gain in every department for 1965. Weather was a problem this season, crippling attendance on 10 days.

Although it missed the record, the take at Assiniboia Downs was three per cent above 1963 on an identical 42-day season and the final day saw the one-race betting mark broken twice.

Saskatchewan's three tracks reflected the general rise in Prairie prosperity resulting from the massive wheat crop of 1963 and the subsequent export sales.

Lou Davies of Edmonton, general manager of the Western Canada Racing Association, also credited the dazzling performance of Northern Dancer, Canadian horse that won the 1964 Kentucky Derby, with stirring new racing interest in the West.

Whatever the reason, Saskatchewan folk flocked to the tracks and put down $2,198,729, compared with $2,025,063 the year before.

It was much the same story in Alberta where six tracks took in $16,744,394 for a gain of $1,423,730.

The 18-day season was unchanged in Saskatchewan but Alberta tracks had 88, one day more than in 1963.

B.C. BETTING UP

British Columbia added three days to its 108-day race program of 1963 and watched $19,228,105 roll in from eager fans. This was up from $17,947,287 last year.

Most of the gain was at Exhibition Park, Vancouver, which drew more than 560,000 fans in 56 days.

The picture by province, with 1963 figures bracketed:

Quebec: Blue Bonnets, $15,-$31,405,360 ($28,264,495).

Ontario: Woodbine, $39,042,-550 ($39,912,596); Greenwood (formerly Old Woodbine), $28,-826,295 ($28,306,061); Fort Erie, $31,485,369 ($29,264,495).

Manitoba: Assiniboia Downs, $8,328,665,9665 ($8,075,153).

Saskatchewan: Regina, $1,314,129 ($1234,685); Saskatoon, $839,178 ($760,496); Prince Albert, $.35,43 ($29,902).

Alberta: Edmonton, $9,568,048 ($8,411,538); Calgary $6,782,543 ($6,330,932); Lethbridge, $414,-781 ($356,273); Hillarville, $23,-098 ($9,284); Lake McGregor; $9,016 ($6,318); Stettler, $5,952 ($5,518).

British Columbia: Vancouver, $17,458,498 ($16,225,037); Victoria, $1,739,263 ($1,709,028); Prince George, $18,028 ($1,478); Williams Lake, $19,218 ($7,724).

Christmas Toys The Noisiest Ever

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Christmas morning may be noisier than usual in Canada this year if the small fry gets the newest models in playthings.

Dolls talk and burp, trucks roar, outlaw artillery fire plastic ammunition.

Realism is emphasized in war toys. Helmets, hand grenades, fearsome-looking bazookas and machine-guns are reported outselling standard toy guns, although old-style forts, toy soldiers and play guns are also moving.

A new soldier is as elaborate as some of the new dolls for girls. About six inches tall, with movable arms and legs, he has uniform changes, a supply of weaponry, tents and camouflage.

One Toronto department store buyer says fashion dolls, about a foot tall, with complete wardrobes, are popular again.

Noise - making dolls talk—"I'm sleepy, put me to bed"—when a string is pulled. A push-button on another type makes the baby grow, with a key to wind it back to short cut again.

Another baby doll fed with make-believe milk burps when patted.

The buyer says many of the more popular toys this year are in a high-price category. Many have got on the "I want" list as a result of exposure on children's shows on television.

A big, battery-operated truck will go forward and in reverse. Lights flinking. It tows a wrecked car that has replaceable fenders and bumpers.

Some trucks have a dump maker which is also available, apparently for attaching to an ordinary bicycle, giving it a roaring, heavy-motor sound.

In the midst of all the mechanical wonders, educational and hobby toys are selling well. A buyer in one store that specializes in standard toys says the trend to educational toys is several years old and still growing.

Building sets of both new and familiar types, some in special larger versions for pre-school-ers, are popular. For older children, plane and ship model kits are strong, including elaborate motor-driven models.

Montreal Bookshop Looks Like a Miniature Museum

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP)—New life has come to a century - old building in the downtown Montreal area because of a trade that specializes in lives long ended.

The building becomes as a modest two storeys between a massive shipping office and a dark structure housing a tangle of telegraph services. Across the street is a modernistic garage and the Bonsecours Mews beneath the gloomy portals of the Montreal Stock Exchange's home, which presents a squat, neo-classical face to the world.

But the compact premises up the street, originally used as a business place of a firm dealing in wine and lamb - skins offers high arched windows and a spick-and-span sheen of fresh paint as a relief to the eyes of gloom-bound passersby.

Inside, one spacious floor of the nine - gleaming establishment at 22 Rue de l'Hopital houses books and paintings, old letters and ancient prints—the flotsam of history.

Here trades a bookseller and art dealer who advertises himself as offering "divers articles both rare and curious pertaining to the antiquarian business and particularly those dealing with subjects of Canadian and American interest."

Customers come in search of anything from 17th - century maps to literature about the snow-sleighs of old Quebec.

SELLS TO U.S.

Most of the sales are made to libraries and universities Many items end up in the United States where money and organized historical research give the shop a bigger market than that available in Canada.

The William P. Wolfe bookshop looks for all the world like the interior decorator's idea of a pearance that blends well with the rooms for the surrounding district.

This is Old Montreal, the riverfront site of the first settlements. Attempts now are being made to preserve and restore structures and streets dating back to the 17th century.

Rue de l'Hopital takes its name from a hospital operated in the neighborhood by Jeanne Mance, a fabled Frenchwoman who nursed the sick of pioneer Montreal in the years after 1642.

William P. Wolfe himself is a mild, carefully tailored connoisseur of the printed word and all things historical.

The 54-year-old Mr. Wolfe was born in Winnipeg but came to Montreal at an early age and went into commercial printing.

As he developed his own business, he began collecting books produced by notable printers or remarkable as examples of quality press-work.

Gradually his collector's range widened to include a variety of rare volumes, old pamphlets, broad-sheets and prints of bygone days.

WORKED IN BASEMENT

By 1958, he had become a full - fledged book - dealer, running his business from the base ment of his home.

The tall white walls of his new quarters look down on show - cases filled with prize items.

There's a volume decorated by the noted Quebec painter Clarence Gagnon. Then there are the fine bindings of long-dead political celebrities and the geographically crude, but esthetically graceful products of ancient map makers groping for an outline of the coasts of the new world to the west.

The books stacked nearby range from hard-to-find editions of Dickens and Mark Twain to the old and modern, English and French, on the country and people called Canada.

Then there's letters that once sent anywhere from $10 to $1,000, some valuable for the light they throw on the customs of the past times, others as documents penned by the historically significant.

Sir John A. Macdonald is here and so is his wife, while Simon McTavish of fur - trade fame and the laugh-specialist Stephen Leacock also make an appearance.

Finally there are the prints and pictures, many by which Mr. Wolfe stocks as windows on the world of old Canada rather than for esthetic reasons.

Early Canadian artists abound — unknown names to most of their latter-day compatriots, vaguely familiar to a few, but objects of passionate search to a vigorous minority of collectors hot after history's leavings.

Television Season Has Been Rough on Long Run Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This television season has been rough on long run series as viewers flock to the new attractions.

Now in its fourth year, Dr. Kildare is considered venerable by television standards despite its youthful star, Richard Chamberlain. The hearts - and - fluorescops show was mangled in the early ratings by the beguiling new Bewitched. But Kildare is climbing back to its rating health, thanks in large measure to a three-part series about the young doc's Rome adventures.

The recovery was duly noted and appreciated by Chamberlain. Some of his fellow actors say that it is no longer advantageous for him to remain in the series, but he doesn't think so.

"I'd like to see it go five years," he commented on a rare day off from shooting. "At any rate, I wouldn't like to see it go off a loser. There are better ways of doing it."

Admittedly, he is sometimes hard put to maintain his enthusiasm.

"Just last week I had to shake myself up," he remarked. "I suddenly realized I had been sleeping through the season. Now I have to find ways to keep myself awake. It's not an easy matter.

"The trouble with Kildare is that he is so set, so rigid. I look for those moments when he can lash out and be a man of action. Unfortunately, they don't happen very often. Most of the time he is the quiet observer."

Still, Chamberlain is pleased with the way his career has gone and shows no restiveness under his MGM contract, which gives the studio complete control over his professional destiny.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Wouldn't it be just "lovely" if some genie would remove that creaking old ark on the Market Square and replace it with Oshawa's new $1,200,000 ice palace and civic auditorium?

A six-year job of work by a public committee was climaxed last night when the keys of the new auditorium were handed over by Hizzoner the mayor of Oshawa.

The auditorium's 3,000 seats and standing room capacity of 5,000 was jammed at the official opening ceremonies.

Oshawa's old arena was burned down in 1953 with, I understand, all hockey equipment and other rink paraphernalia.

Since then Oshawa's hockey clubs of varying calibres have had no mother arena to house them, but have had shuttlecock Wren Blair as a popgun to guide 'em.

Proud Oshawans claim their new winter and summer edifice is a combination of Maple Leaf Gardens, Kingston Community Centre and the Peterborough Memorial Centre.

The ice surface is 200 by 85 feet, same as Maple Leaf Gardens, and the all-covered arena seating is ten rows high. There is glass all around the sides and ends, a divided penalty box and an outside press box that will accommodate twenty typewriter and microphone slaves.

Blair told an interviewer the other day that Oshawa is the only city in Canada that raised more than $1 million through payroll deductions. Business and professional people donated certain amounts toward the building of the arena over the last three years.

The building is situated on 26 acres of land about 100 yards from Highway No. 2. It is just off Thornton's road south, which is the back lane between Oshawa and Whitby.

The building is modern in every respect and includes meeting rooms and dressing rooms equipped with blackboards for coaching purposes; a skating lounge and an all-purpose room at the south end over the lobby which is designed "hopefully" to have a swimming pool adjoining it.

E. R. S. McLaughlin, chairman of the building committee, said realization of the auditorium "was a team effort among the 20-man committee." It collectively donated $14,000 to the building fund.

He said the slogan of the campaign was "Let's Build It For Ourselves—by Ourselves." The people of Oshawa came through.

The new Oshawa Civic Auditorium will, as long as it stands, be a steel and concrete monument to the public-spiritedness and community effort of the people of the city.

It is another proof of what civic pride, co-operation and hard work will accomplish under well-organized administration. It is worthy of emulation by other cities who at the moment are in dire need of such an accomplishment. And I don't have to leave the sports desk to name you one.

Over 30 years ago the village of Wellington, population 800, felt the lack of a covered arena. Open-air skating on West Lake and village ponds was all right for the pioneers, they felt, but progress called for something of an enclosed nature.

A committee was formed of village business men and others. It lost no time getting matters under way and within a short space of time final plans came out of the discussion room and off the drawing boards.

One hundred villagers signed notes for $100 each, payable at ten dollars a year over a period of ten years.

Construction costs in those days were a mere pittance compared to those of the present. The arena which has a 900 capacity was built for, I believe, $7,500—and it is still doing business, with artificial ice equipment added.

Within a few short months following the decision to build the arena, the building was ready for its purpose.

Physically, it's the cat to the queen of the Maple Leaf Gardens but it has served—and is still serving its purpose. But its presence proves—as does Oshawa's fine building—that if a community puts a collective shoulder to the wheel, nothing within reason is impossible.

Office Whoopee Like Whooping Crane -- Nearly Extinct

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The office Christmas party today is in about the same plight as the whooping crane.

It isn't extinct—but it's in danger of becoming so.

Many young people aged 25 to 30 have never seen a real old-fashioned office Christmas party.

"What were they really like?" they ask curiously about this time of year. "Were they really as wild as the old-timers say they were?"

That depends. The memories of the survivors of office Christmas parties are as undependable as those of the veterans of any other war, and a tendency to gory up the picture develops as the years pass.

Actually, in the old days (say a quarter of a century ago) many office Christmas parties were so sedate that not a single member of the staff wound up with a black eye or broken bone. You might not even have had to call the cops.

But the classic, old-fashioned office Christmas celebration—at least as it is fondly recalled by many—was somewhere in between a Roman orgy, a Sioux scalping raid, and the attack on the Bastille.

HIGH TIME

Some, or all, of the following events might happen:

Somebody fulfilled the dream of a lifetime and put gin in the office water cooler.

At least 15 employees went up to the boss and told him what they really thought of him—and the boss made a mental note to start off the new year by giving 15 merit raises in pay.

In attempts to break up one fist fight, four more would start.

The big game was to play catch with the office Christmas tree.

Six middle-aged married men suffered ankle sprains chasing the girls from the stenographic pool from desktop to desktop.

The guy who won an Indian head wrestling grip to kiss the prettiest secretary as a reward.

By 10 p.m.—the party was supposed to end by 7 o'clock—the place looked as if it had been hit by a hurricane, and the office boy was sent out for four more bottles.

By midnight the boss was wearing mistletoe in his hair, had his arm around the janitor and was promoting him to executive assistant.

At least five husbands didn't get home until Christmas morning.

One fellow had to be dissuaded from trying to cool off by hanging from the windowsill by his fingertips.

FAR AFIELD

Another fellow wouldn't be heard of until the third of January. Then a telegram would arrive from Montreal or Rio de Janeiro saying: "Where am I? Please send money."

The question arises as to why these annual staff frolics have been virtually shut out in most business firms.

Some say it was because of the declining morals of wives. Some say it was because of a growing tendency by employees to file suits against management for injuries and other mishaps suffered at the parties or on the way home afterward.

But others find a simpler explanation for the doom of the old-fashioned office Christmas party: The younger generation doesn't have the stamina to endure them, and the older generation doesn't have the strength left to enjoy them properly.

"When they said you were a real swinger I thought they meant something else."

Claims N. S. Deer Herd Down Considerably to Ten Years Ago

By FRANK SULLIVAN

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Harry Whebby remembers when he could sit on the sun porch of his hunting lodge and watch deer strolling on his land.

The sight isn't as common these days, however, and it's one reason why the 46-year-old hunter and guide is so strong for conservation.

Whebby, a Dartmouth contractor, has been a guide for 28 years, mostly in the eastern part of Nova Scotia around the Musquodoboit area where his two-storey lodge at Meaghers Grant has been host to visiting Canadian and American hunters.

The outdoorsman, whose five-foot-10 frame is packed with 214 pounds of solid muscle, often goes for an 18-mile walk before driving the 35 miles from his camp to construction jobs in Dartmouth.

His observations on such strolls have convinced him that the province's deer herd has decreased to a fraction of what it was 10 years ago.

He says: "I used to see at least 15 times as many deer as now he says, blaming the drop on the growing population, "winter kill," and, most of all, the fact that hunters are allowed to shoot does.

He says a closed season on does is needed for three years "to give the herd a chance to get its breeders back." During this period, hunters should be allowed to shoot only one fourpoint buck a year.

PLAYED HOCKEY

A former hockey player (he played centre and defence with Sydney Millionaires of the old Cape Breton senior league from 1933 to 1942) and a harness racing buff (40 acres of his land have been cleared for grazing for more than 30 horses he and his brother Eric own), Whebby has conservation interests as big as all outdoors.

"Our sports fishing is definitely going backwards," he says. Netting of salmon by trap nets in saltwater estuaries is not letting enough salmon up the rivers to spawn and "we're taking out more than the fish are putting back."

He worries that some commercial fishermen make their living by trap nesting at the estuaries but maintains that if too many salmon are taken before entering the river to spawn "there won't be any left for them either."

Another drain on the salmon population, he says, is the continuation of the ancient system of granting berths to fish salmon by net in certain harbor waters. For a small fee a fisherman has exclusive right to one small section of salmon water, a privilege that remains until his death.

But Whebby says there must be changes, especially in rivers two or three weeks, during which no salmon should be netted. He says netting can be as to river spawning grounds.

TROUT NEED HELP

He also advocates a later opening of the season on sea trout which in most Nova Scotia rivers is April 15. What is happening now, he says, is that "slink trout" (trout travelling seaward in spring) are being caught before they have a chance to fatten up.

If the season were postponed to May 1 it would allow the young trout to reach the sea where they would feed and grow sturdy before returning upriver about mid-June.

As has the hungry slink trout, having spent the winter in the sea, "bite at anything." Fattened fish, though tougher to catch, would offer better sport and a more delectable prize.

Noting that Nova Scotia this year had the first moose season in 27 years, Whebby says he was sorry that hunters were permitted to kill females. A herd is only as good as its breeders and to allow hunters to shoot cow moose is "ridiculous."

He suggests that its bring moose hunting back to the province it should import moose—perhaps for a year at a ratio of three cows to one bull—from Newfoundland to "mix with our own herds."

QUESTION: We propose to travel in the United States this next summer. What are the regulations about taking a dog with us? Also, where could we write for information on camping sites, etc., in the Cape Cod area? Any information would be appreciated. — Mrs. G., Picton.

ANSWER: To take a dog to the U.S., you must have a veterinary's certificate of inoculation for rabies and distemper shots, and the dog must be kept on a leash at all times. Tent and trailer sites in the Massachusetts state parks and forest are available April 15 to October 1 at $2.50 per day. For more information on camping sites, please write to the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The OML office has Campground Directories, but these are for members only.

QUESTION: Please furnish me with the distance from San Francisco at this time of year. I wish to cross over at Detroit. — A. B., Belleville

ANSWER: First of all, you will need three maps, Northeastern, North Central and Southwestern. The Ontario Motor League suggests the following route in winter with Detroit as your cross-over-point. Take 401 to Windsor and Detroit, 94 through Jackson and Kalamazoo, 29 and 13 to Gary, then 80 to Des Moines. Then it's 6 to Council Bluffs and Omaha, 80 and 34 to Grand Island, 30 through Sidney, Cheyenne and Laramie, 80 from Rawlins and on to Salt Lake City, 40 through Wells, Elko and Winnemucca, then 80 to Sacramento and on to San Francisco.

QUESTION: What difference is it in our dollar at this time in Florida? — L. J., Belleville

ANSWER: In the main body of the State, there is no difference, as we are all under Eastern time. However, in the extreme west corner of Florida, from a short distance west of Tallahassee, it is Central time, one hour back.

QUESTION: I understand that the state of Georgia is notorious for having a high number of arrests and fines for speeding through Georgia. Is this true? If it, is only just over the limit. Is there any way that we can get down to Florida without going through Georgia? — D. K. W., Belleville

ANSWER: This state was unpopular with motorists for some time on account of so many of them being fined for going over fences. This has been changed now, and we are happy to report, through the American Automobile Association, that travellers can now drive through this state and not have to worry about being stopped for petty offences. But a word of caution: drive carefully, and obey the laws and all traffic regulations, as this is something that cannot be changed over night. The best driving from the Washington way to drive through Georgia, is agree good outside of Ontario's No. 17 to Savannah, and on to Jacksonville.

QUESTION: Is my car insurance good outside of Ontario? If not, what must I do to see to it that I have proper coverage? — Miss J., Trenton.

ANSWER: Contact your insurance agent with all particulars as to where you are going, and for how long. We advise our members who are travelling to U.S. territory to check their insurance policy with them, just in case you have to show proof of insurance.

QUESTION: Which is the best way to go to Port Arthur and Fort William, and how far would it take at this time of year? — L. W., Madoc

ANSWER: The best route for your trip to Port Arthur would be the Trans-Canada Highway, Take No. 7 and 12 northwest to Waubausheme, then 103 and 60 to Sudbury, and 17 west to Sault Ste. Marie and on to Port Arthur. This route is well plowed at all times and sanded where necessary. The Ontario Road Map may be obtained at the local Ontario Motor League office. This is a 1,100 mile trip, and the average driving time is 30 hours.

QUESTION: We are driving to Florida, and would like to obtain tourist books on all of the hotels and motels in that state. Could you tell me where I can get these? — M. R., Belleville

ANSWER: The Ontario Motor League Office has these tour books for information, but if you write to the Tourist Bureau at Tallahassee, Fla., they would be pleased to send you all the information you require. These booklets will supply lists of hotels and motels, with the rates per person, etc.

Varsity bombed McGill University Redmen 17-5 at Toronto while the Carabins came from behind to edge visiting Laval University of Quebec 6-4.

The understatted Redmen were no match for the Blues, who were spurred by the three-goal efforts of Steve and Hank Monteith and Gord Cunningham and outshot McGill 39-16.

The victories left Varsity and the Carabins in a first - place tie in the nine - team loop.

The Redmen were missing three of their top players, stranded by snow in Montreal.

Don Arthurs scored twice and the other Toronto goals came from Bryan Thompson, Grant Moore, Brian Jones, Bob McLellend, Wayne Antoniazzi and Murray Stroud.

For McGill, Rich Ripsterin with two, Ross Hunter, Fred McBride and John Tibbits were the scorers.

Regina's Bob Shaw Hired By Argos

-Three-Year Contract

BOB SHAW

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Shaw has left his coaching job with Saskatchewan Roughriders of the—Western Football Conference to take on a similar post with the Eastern Football Conference's perennial stepping stones, Toronto Argonauts.

Argonaut general manager Lew Hayman said Friday Shaw has accepted a three-year contract. Neither Hayman nor Shaw disclosed salary arrangements, but reports were that the job will pay $20,000 a year with a $5,000 bonus if Argos reach the EFC playoffs.

Shaw's appointment ended a month of speculation about who would succeed Nobby Wirkowski as Argo coach. Assistant coaches Joe Restic of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Jim Champion of British Columbia Lions had been mentioned but Hayman liked Shaw "because he had two years under the gun at Regina."

Ottawa Rough Riders' Frank Clair had earlier been touted as the man for the job but Clair and the Argos fell apart on a point of coaching autonomy. Clair had sought more player control than the Argonaut front office was willing to concede.

WON'T INTERFERE

"In the actual administration of playing personnel—who they are, where they play—I never interfere with the coach," Hayman said. "But there has to be some point of control.

"I'm a business as far as I'm concerned. I've coached with two National League clubs and that's the way they operated. Some people want the last word but that can be a detriment."

The Argonauts, who haven't made the playoffs since 1961 and won only four of 14 games last year, probably began to consider Shaw seriously after his third - place Roughriders overcame a 26-point lead to oust Calgary Stampeders in the 1963 WFC semi-finals.

Coming from behind hasn't been Shaw's strong point in recent years. Three years ago, the last time they were in the EFC final, Argos blew an 18-point lead and lost to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in overtime.

LOST TO CALGARY

Shaw brought the Roughriders home in third place again in 1964 but couldn't reproduce his cliff - hanger against Calgary and lost out in the semi-finals.

"I think the Toronto coaching job gives us a great opportunity," he said. "Right now I'm too unsettled to comment about any plans I might have. I can't think straight. So much has been happening."

Hawks, Wings High light NHL Twin Bill

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With a third of the season gone, weekend action could start separating the men from the boys in the close National Hockey League race.

The big question is whether New York Rangers can stand the pace. They're hanging on to fourth place, two points ahead of surging Chicago Black Hawks.

New York plays second-place Canadiens in Montreal tonight and is back home against third-place Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday. Both Canadia- teams are skating hard. In other NHL action, Chicago visits league-leading Detroit Red Wings tonight and plays host to them Sunday. Tail-end Boston Bruins visit Toronto tonight and play host to Montreal Sunday.

The big scoring punch for New York is being supplied by the French line, Camille Henry, Phil Goyette and Rod Gilbert- who make up the highest scoring line in the league.

Another question is whether Detroit is that good.

CREDIT CHECKING

Boston coach Milt Schmidt believes there isn't a better checking team in the league and his captain, Ed Shared by Bruins' general manager Lynn Patrick who says:

"If the Wings continue to skate and check the way they have, they could very well repeat as champs. The rest of the season. Detroit surprises me every year, this year more than ever."

Detroit coach Sid Abel is promoting Norm Ullman, Bill Gadsby and Gordie Howe center for mid-season All - Star team selections, Ullman for the first time, outstanding defensive player, and Bill Gadsby for the Norris Trophy, best defenceman.

High-flying Bobby Hull of Chicago is expected to produce some of his hopes. Hull has scored 21 goals in 23 games.

Montreal coach Toe Blake, satisfied with Canadiens' performance in their 3-2 victory over Toronto Wednesday, plans no lineup changes. Bob Pulford is not considered a likely starter for Toronto because of an eye injury suffered last weekend.

Americans Win Over Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rochester Americans scored in every period to hand Baltimore Clippers a 4-1 defeat Friday night in an American Hockey League game after their 7-game victory in five meetings this year.

Dick Gamble gave Rochester a 1-0 first period lead with a break-away goal at 18:10.

Rookie Ron Stankowski beat Baltimore goalie Gilles Boisvert with a backhand shot in front of the crease at 1:07 of the same period.

Gordon Labossiere deflected Aldo Guidolin at 16:42 to put the Clippers on the board.

Early in the third period, Wally Boyer scored for Rochester on a shot from Les Colvin to conclude the scoring.

Stampeders Name New Head Coach

CALGARY (CP)—Jerry Williams, 41, defensive backfield coach of Calgary Stampeders, Friday was named head coach of the Western Football Conference club by general manager Rogers LeHew.

JERRY WILLIAMS

Williams, with 13 years experience as a player and coach in the National Football League replaces Bobby Dobbs, who resigned Nov. 22 at a club party after LeHew was named general manager.

Williams, who joined the Stampeders in February, 1964, after helping Philadelphia Eagles win the NFL championship as a defensive coach in 1960, said he was "very satisfied" with the terms of his contract.

"Our offensive line is going to have to be improved and it might be that the quarterbacks who have to go deep will need more speed," Williams said.

LeHew said the Stampeders have hired "four or five new players" for the 1964-65 season but would not name them.

Williams, an outstanding two-way halfback at Washington State College, joined Los Angeles Rams in 1949 and later went to the Eagles as a player and coach.

BOOG EDGES MICKEY

District Hunting Was Tops

TORONTO (CP)—Deer hunters across Ontario have had better luck this year than last, says the department of lands and forests—and success the last few years has been in the order of 20 per cent.

The best hunting was north of Tweed, Ont., about 30 miles north of Belleville, where the rate rose to 28 per cent from 18 last year. Another bright spot in the latest report was a three-day season in southwestern Ontario. In Simcoe district, 22 townships were open, some for the first time in years.

"There are far more deer living in our agricultural countryside than many people realize," the report said. No complaints have been received from either hunters or landowners. More than 1,300 hunters were tallied in the Simcoe area during field checks by the department but no heavy concentrations of hunters were reported.

The deer hunting season closes Dec. 15, in the northern section of the province but the northwestern section -remains open until Jan. 3. Success in these areas has been good and the department predicts it will probably exceed last year.

Manitoulin Island reported a success rate of nearly 30 per cent, slightly higher than a year ago. The department attributes the good season to favorable weather and a mild 1963-64 winter.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The last-place Welland Blacks of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior league discovered Friday night that it doesn't pay to tackle a league-leading club with only 10 players.

The Blacks found out the hard way, as they dropped a 13-3 decision to Guelph Regals. The game was played in Guelph and the win was the 10th in a row at home for the pace-setters.

In Friday night's other game, Woodstock Athletics took over sole possession of third place in the league standings with a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over Galt Hornets.

The win for Guelph moved them into a comfortable four-point lead over Galt in the standings. It was the Regals' 14th win in 18 games.

Don Duke and Dave Lucius led the attack for the Regals with three goals apiece. Jack McIntyre and Rick Hay scored twice and the other goals went to Ray Ross, Pete Bettiol and Bill Wheeler. John Groulx, Joe Kish and George Montagus scored for the Blacks.

In Woodstock, the Athletes had to score four goals in the last period to break a four-game losing streak.

Dino Leggio scored twice and added an assist to pace Woodstock. Gord Sampson, Bernie Laurance and Toby Black also tallied. Earl Hatt, Earl Hatter, Joe Hogan and Larry Pfaff scored for the losers.

Christmas Day Should Be Special - Doris Says

DEAR DORIS — Last year on Christmas Day I sat the table in the dining room and of course with good table linen and company dishes. We were alone.

My husband disapproves of this. He thinks we should just eat in the kitchen and proceed as on any other day. I'd appreciate other people's point of view.

We will be alone again this year. Sometimes I'm tempted to give in. Then again I have enough pride left that when special days come I like to use the dining room and everything that goes with it. What have we got these good tablecloths and dishes for?

Then on the other hand I get discouraged and often think: "If he doesn't want good dishes, why not sell them? We aren't getting any younger!" — G.W.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR G.W. — "Good Christian men, rejoice!"

I have an invalid friend who saves up all the incoming cards to open, with her husband, on Christmas morning. This makes it a special day for news from friends, even though they are stuck alone at home. They listen to Christmas on radio and TV, receive phone calls, eat off a special cloth and best dishes. And love it.

Another friend takes Christmas to an aged aunt, complete with joke-filled stocking, turkey, gifts. Auntie always makes her special pudding, decorates and gets out the good table linen.

By all means, for this special day, get out of the kitchen and put on company manners. My guess is your stick-in-the-mud husband would be disappointed if you didn't stick with your guns.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — Last night with I was going to a friend's house to get help with my Latin, my Dad said he would drive me. Then he said he would wait 15 minutes.

After about ten minutes he knocked at the door and made me come home. Now Doris tell me, how much Latin can you learn in ten minutes?

Our teachers are constantly telling us that if we don't understand something to seek help right now. Why do parents interfere when they can't do anything to help themselves?

I'll get shot if I flunk — WANT TO PASS BUT NEED HELP.

• • •

DEAR WANT TO — Next time wait, and say how long you'll be. Be sure that this all takes place early in the evening.

But you can't always lean on your friends. Write for my leaflet "How to Study" (enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and state an appointment with your home room teacher for advice about how to make the grade.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — A friend has had tragedy in the family recently. We have exchanged Christmas cards. What is correct under these circumstances? — UNCERTAIN.

• • •

DEAR UNCERTAIN — A specially selected card expressing a wish for the bereaved one for peace of mind, comfort, and good cheer, would strike the right note. Or the card could be fairly plain and carry your own written in message of good will.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I'm going with a fellow who told me he used to take fits. All the other girls who went with him left him after he told them about this. He still has to take pills twice a day just to be cautious.

How serious is this and could it happen again any time? Could the children be affected by this if there are any? — WANT THE FACTS.

DEAR WANT — People fear the unknown. My medical consultant advises a heart-to-heart talk with your friend if you care about him. Find out the nature of his illness and what would be best to do to help him if he had a seizure. Many cases of epilepsy are now completely or almost completely controlled by drugs. Sometimes there is nothing more than a momentary blackout. The disease may or may not be inherited, depending on the individual type.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — We have very difficult parents. Every Friday and Saturday night when we want to go out for a few hours they say, "No, you are too young to be roaming the streets at night." Even if it is only until 8:30, they still refuse.

Many of our other friends who are also 13 get to go out at night. Why can't we? They act as if we're still in grade two.

Also there is nothing to do, and what a drag! — JAILBIRDS.

DEAR JAILBIRDS — I don't go for street-roaming either. Find out what's going on inside some more-than-respectable institution, like a church, or a Y. And how you'd be coming home. Then you'll have a case.

Home doesn't have to be a drag. Unless Mom and Dad are saying "Stay in but don't bother us!" — which is unreasonable — they'd help you bring a friend or two in. Maybe even a whole party, sometimes. Try it.

Parliament At a Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

FRIDAY, Dec. 11, 1964

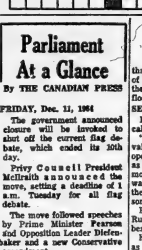
The government announced closure will be invoked to shut off the current flag debate, which ended its 30th day.

Privy Council President McIlraith announced the move, setting a deadline of 1 a.m. Tuesday for all flag debate.

The move followed speeches by Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and a new Conservative amendment.

The amendment would refer the flag question back to a committee with a recommendation the Red Ensign be adopted as a national flag.

Mr. Pearson said his party backs the committee-proposed maple leaf flag and asked the Conservatives to let this come to a vote.



Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals had no mandate to call for a national flag without "a vestige of the Union Jack."

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) urged the Conservatives to let the matter come to a vote.

Creditiste Leader Caouette asked the government to use closure because of "petty politics" by Mr. Diefenbaker.

MONDAY, Dec. 14

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to continue the flag debate. The Senate meets at 8 p.m.

SENDS MESSAGE

Prime Minister Pearson cabled congratulations.

"The Canadian government values the friendship and cooperation of our two countries as fellow members of the Commonwealth and we look forward to a strengthening of these ties between us," Pearson said.

President Anastas Mikoyan of Russia also sent his country's best wishes.

Kenya got its independence as a dominion last year after 68 years of British rule. As a republic it no longer will be constitutionally tied to the British monarchy.

Kenyatta, believed to be 74 years old, is the undisputed master. A British colonial governor once called him a "leader of darkness and death" but during the last few years he has won respect as a leading African politician.

In 1952, he was sentenced to seven years in jail for alleged Mau Mau terrorist activities. It was nine years before he was freed.

His African National Union Party swept to victory in the 1963 elections and he was sworn in as the country's first prime minister.

24-inch-long rocket containing high explosives—sent its missile whistling across the river.

It was the second time an explosive device had been directed at the United Nations. July 22, 1949, a light plane dropped a home - made bomb on UN headquarters, then at Lake Success, Long Island, but it exploded harmlessly about 100 feet above the structure.

WOMAN IDENTIFIED

Almost simultaneous with the bazooka firing, a woman later identified as Gladys Peres, 27, of Jersey City, N.J., a Cuban native, sprinted toward the building, knife in hand.

Two policemen overpowered her after a struggle. She said her intention had been to kill Guevara. She was dragged screaming to a police car.

She was charged with assaulting a policeman, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and illegally carrying a weapon.

In Union City, N.J., Friday, police and the FBI arrested four anti - Castro Cubans and confiscated two machine guns, ammunition and a hand grenade.

Children Under 16 Were Given Cigarettes

SASKATOON (CP)—Two ministers in Saskatchewan's former CCF government have confessed that the welfare department under the CCF gave cigarettes to children under 16 in reform schools.

Woodrow S. Lloyd, former premier, and A. M. Nicholson, former welfare minister, both confirmed this at a press conference Thursday.

Mr. Lloyd, now opposition leader, said the department regarded itself as a "parent" in issuing cigarettes to the children.

Mr. Nicholson said the children were all confirmed smokers. "The experts advised us that we couldn't stop them smoking. We issued cigarettes . . . so that they wouldn't be tempted to try other means to get them."

They were answering Herb C. Pinder, Saskatchewan industry minister and Liberal candidate in the July by-election, who said children between 10 and 16 were given six free cigarettes a day.

No Evidence Of Pay-Offs For Protection

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Police Commission has found no evidence of payoffs for police protection in connection with a former police matron, Mayor William Rathie said Thursday.

"There is no evidence of any nature whatsoever to substantiate these charges," he said.

Diana Eldridge, 30, had applied to the Exchequer Court of Canada to allow as a tax deduction about $20,000 she claimed she paid to police and city officials for protection while running a call-girl business in 1950 and 1960.

The court disallowed the claim.

The Golden Years

New Day Dawning for People Who Want Retirement Jobs

By THOMAS COLLINS

The patronizing nonsense in the use of the talents of retired people is beginning to crack up.

At last, communities are understanding that they have in the retired a pool of brainpower they can have for about ten cents on the dollar. And are beginning to use it.

Indignant letters have been coming to me for a long time from do-good organizations, social welfare people, and community empire builders because I have discouraged retired people from giving their talents to volunteer organizations. The reason for the discouragement was fairly simple. The volunteer groups were treating the retired like children or social welfare cases, and in some instances, were using $20,000-a-year assessmen to stuff envelopes for fund drives.

The writers of the indignant letters may be reforming. But more likely, new and more perceptive community groups are moving into the picture.

Here is a roundup of the new look in the use of retired people, gathered from communities around the country:

Retired people with financial backgrounds, such as bankers, savings and loan officers, accountants, etc., are being recruited as treasurers of volunteer organizations. One council high school and college students on setting up school banks or credit unions, and in lecture them; to set up financial structures for major fund campaigns such as those of the Community Chest; to be investment advisers to smaller institutions that have cash on hand.

Retired industrial workers with knowledge of mechanical and electrical things, familiar with tools, are being hired to teach crafts at the junior high and high school level to do the same in juvenile correctional institutions and prisons; to serve as engineers or maintenance men in public buildings all the way from the schools to City Hall — repairing the furnaces, the plumbing, the appliances, and the pool of cars, trucks, and busses.

Retired insurance people, if they know anything about life or health insurance and pension plans, are being called into the higher ranks of schools, institutions, and welfare organizations. They are used to teach insurance to high school students; to advise employees or clients on insurance; to work out overall insurance programs for the groups hiring them.

Retired people experienced in the food business (restaurants, wholesale and retail food businesses) are being used to run cafeterias in schools, institutions, and industrial plants; or to be buyers for such cafeterias.

MANY OPPORTUNITIES

There are many more. Retired military people, nearly all of whom have specialties, are being used as teachers and advisors to youth, frequently in the same fields. Retired teachers are moving into the private schools and are waiting in the wings for the big War on Poverty programs. Retired auto workers are becoming garage mechanics.

Retired people aren't children or social welfare cases, and in the main they don't want a life for quite a while yet. Most of them just want some thing worthwhile to do, on a place with what they have done, and many of them would about as soon work for a volunteer community organization as for pay.

Even when they want pay they usually don't want much, some of the asking only $200 a month.

What these people don't want, and won't take for long, is to be convalesced by middle-aged women who direct them to stuff envelopes and then rush off to a committee meeting. Which, up until now, has been the problem.

W.I. MEET

The Bannockburn and Eldorado Women's Institute held their Christmas meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Ivan Sine with 15 ladies and four children present.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner by the president with the business and correspondence following.

Mrs. Harley Blackburn was in charge of the program which opened with the singing of several Christmas carols followed by a reading of Christmas long ago. Mrs. Invell favored by a reading a Christmas carol and a reading was given by Mrs. Floyd Blackburn. A reading was given by Mrs. Chambers which dealt with a lady who belonged to the Institute for 50 years. Mrs. Blackburn also conducted an amusing contest which everyone enjoyed.

The meeting closed with the singing of other Christmas carols, after which refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistant.

SANTIAGO (Reuters) — Chile rejected Friday British claims over the Antarctic, saying that neither Chile nor Argentina contested them legally valid. announcing the American agreement for an increase in assistance. A proclamation of joint plans hinted the war soon will be extended beyond South Viet Nam's frontiers.

Fighting in South Viet Nam claimed the life of another American Friday. A U.S. army officer killed in a Viet Cong ambush was the seventh U.S. combat fatality in four days.

A U.S. spokesman said the officer was killed as he attempted to guide armed helicopters toward Viet Cong mortar positions.

A series of Communist attacks on three district towns in Chuong Thien Province, about 100 miles south of Saigon, resulted in heavy South Vietnamese casualties. A U.S. spokesman said 30 South Vietnamese were either killed or wounded at Doc Long district alone.

Man Kills Wife, Four Children, Then Himself

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP)—A 43-year-old man, who according to police had been treated for a mental condition, went berserk Friday night, killed his wife and their four children and fatally wounded himself after setting fire to their home.

Police said the man, John Offenberg, killed his entire family with a .38-calibre revolver. He also shot the family dog and a parakeet.

Police were summoned to the home by Offenberg's father-in-law who said Offenberg had telephoned that he had killed two of the children.

When police arrived, Offenberg yelled from behind a closed door: "Call the hospital, I want an autopsy on my self."

Then they heard a shot.

When officers broke down the door they found Offenberg in the hall. The bodies of three children were upstairs, another was in the living room and the body of his wife, Mary, 41, was in the kitchen.

An upstairs bedroom was afire.

The children were identified as Patricia, 10; Wayne, 8; John, 8, and Susan, 3.

PIGEON DISSENSION

There is a great conflict of ideas regarding the desirability of encouraging pigeons around our city parks and squares or discouraging them. Certain people, mostly the definitely elderly and the definitely young, are all for keeping them in, and pocketfuls of bread crumbs are daily handed out to these really pretty, tame birds. Meanwhile, the majority of city dwellers throughout the world are complaining bitterly about the way the public buildings, and private homes also, are being defiled up by them. Now comes word of the discovery that there is a disease which can be and is passed on to human beings. And while all this is going on scientists are doing everything in their power to think up new ways and means of killing off the pests.

Years ago some cities tried to control pigeons by having women before most people were awake in the morning to shoot the birds while they were perched on the ledges. A sticky substance smeared on ledges of public buildings has proved a very common trick to discourage pigeons from landing, and some Canadian churches have used a repellent jelly on any possible resting place. Still others have put on electric shock have been laid along ledges of large buildings in several cities. Another new method used that shoos the birds away but does not kill them is of the sonic or noise type. You merely fly to another building.

DOUBT EFFECTIVENESS

Two years ago a law was made in Paris stating that it was illegal to feed the pigeons that have for so long gathered around important buildings, and nets are placed to trap the birds each day at dawn. The prisoners are carried out to the countryside by trucks. We doubt the effectiveness of this.

Everything is reserved in Moscow (or was five years ago), where there are laws against killing these birds, and about 25,000 pigeon breeders.

Carrier pigeons have been used at least since 1150 B.C. and are still found valuable in time of war. In Second World War messages were sent from both sides by pigeons carrying the important information under their wings or attached to their legs. The Allies trained Peregrine falcons to intercept German pigeons. Onl- in 1956 did the U.S. army change over entirely to using electronics instead of birds. In Switzerland, these carrier pigeons have been used to tell of skiing accidents, giving both the district and nature of the accident.

There are still pigeon fanciers in our midst, and both homers and racing pigeons are common.

Your Car

E. EUGENE R. MILNOR

Interpreting Mechanic's Diagnosis

When you're having the front-end of your car aligned and the mechanic mentions caster, camber and toe-in . . .here's what he means.

The camber angle, measured in degrees, refers to the outward tilt of the front wheels at the top. In other words, with positive camber, the wheel tops are farther apart than the bottoms. Correct camber places the wheel bottoms in the best position to accept the load.

Caster, also measured in degrees, is the backward tilt given the wheels by inclining the kingpins back. Its purpose is to keep the front wheels pointed straight ahead.

Toe-in settings are in fractions of an inch, they point the wheels in so that they are closer together at the front. Proper toeing is needed to compensate for the effects of the camber angle . . . otherwise, front wheels tend to run out in opposite directions.

No. 2. asks: "If the gas used is changed from premium to regular, should spark timing be set ahead or back?"

Regular gas burns faster than premium — thus spark timing should be retarded.

From B. J.: "Lately, I can hear a strange chirping noise for the first five minutes after the car is started . . .then it disappears. What could this be?

Sometimes, a slight chokeshaft looseness causes the choke valve itself to vibrate strangely when it is in certain positions.

T. P. writes: "When the generator fails to charge the battery is it usually the voltage regulator's fault?"

It just as easily could be the fan belt, generator, wiring or the battery itself.

From J. M.: "I have an unusual problem with my car. The engine never runs better than 60 or 120 degrees, even in warm weather and heavy traffic."

Your problem would seem to be a minor one — nothing more than a faulty temperature gauge which doesn't give a true reading.

Violent Crime Can Be Cut If Community Takes Steps To Reduce Aggressiveness

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP)—Crimes of violence can be reduced if the community takes steps to reduce aggressiveness on both sides in the war between society and the criminal, experts at a criminology conference said Friday.

The criminal may be discouraged from using weapons, for example, by reducing aggressiveness in law enforcement, altering patterns of sentencing in the courts and making sure systems of punishment and correction work, the experts suggested.

Law professor Norval Morris, an Australian expert in crime prevention and treatment now at the University of Chicago Law school, and Thomas B. Lodge, director of criminology research for the British government, both stressed the need for more studies to increase knowledge of crime and to make the treatment of criminals more effective.

Here for a seminar at the University of Toronto's centre of criminology, Dr. Morris and Mr. Lodge were guests at a luncheon held by Allan Grossman, Ontario minister of reform institutions.

VIOLENT CRIMES FEWER

In an interview, the visiting experts noted that crimes of violence are much less prevalent in England than in North America and said this results partly from less aggression in the English society.

Mr. Lodge said factors contributing to the relatively lower rate of violent crime in Britain include the facts that British police generally are unarmed, it is more difficult to obtain guns in Britain than in North America and the courts systematically impose much heavier sentences on those who carry arms than on unarmed offenders.

Dr. Morris noted that the Australian contingent with the United Nations peace-keeping force in Cyprus decided to operate without guns on the ground that the likelihood of violence was thus reduced.

Both experts agreed that differing social patterns in Britain and North America have more to do with the different rates of violent crime than such factors that the British police are unarmed.

"North America has a more complex social structure than Britain, there are more tensions and therefore more aggression," Dr. Morris said.

Conservative Member Dies

LONDON (Reuters) — The death of an opposition Conservative member of Parliament Friday brought the number of vacant seats in the House of Commons to six.

Cmdr. C. E. M. Donaldson, who died in hospital here following surgery, won the Scottish constituency of Roxburgh, Selkirk and Peebles in the Oct. 15 general election.

The other five House of Commons vacancies have been caused by members being granted peerages and elevated to the House of Lords since the general election.

Flag

and 174 speeches during the summer in debate on the government's proposed flag of three red maple leaves on a white ground with a vertical blue band at each side.

It has used up 16 days and 82 speeches so far in the pre-Christmas consideration of the flag recommended by an all-party Commons committee—a design with a single red maple leaf on a white field flanked by red panels.

Thus the flag has been before the house, either actively or in the wings, for a good chunk of this marathon session's record 209 sitting days.

The New Democrats, opposed in principle to use of closure, planned to meet Monday to decide how to vote on the motion. Mr. Knowles said the entire party may decide to oppose the motion, or agree to hold a free vote.

However, Creditiste Leader Real Caouette asked the government to impose closure after Leon Balcer, Mr. Diefenbaker's Quebec lieutenant, asked Mr. Pearson to do so.

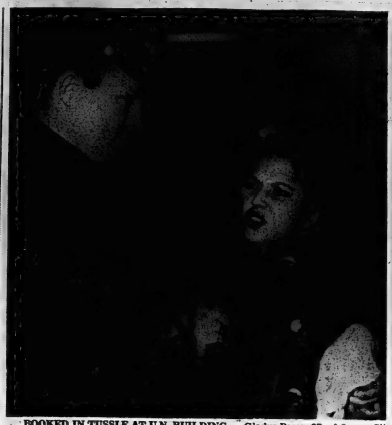
Support of a single minority party would ensure passage of the motion if all Liberal members support the government.

Closure was first used in 1913 by the Conservative government of Sir Robert Borden to ram through the bill creating the Royal Canadian Navy. Former Liberal Prime Minister Mackenzie King used it in 1926 to halt debate on a customs scandal and Conservative Prime Minister R. B. Bennet used it in the early 1930's to push through an unemployment assistance bill.

Friday's drama unfolded before packed Commons galleries with the prime minister endorsing the committee design and calling for an immediate vote on a flag that "stands for Canada."

"The opposition has a right and a duty to oppose, to criticize, to clarify, to hold up, but does not have the right to prevent a decision," the prime minister said. "I repeat, if it can do this then the parliamentary system has come to grief."

He asked whether accepting a national flag lacking symbols that represent "very differences" to a large part of the population was "too much of a sacrifice for the rest of us to make in the interests of unity in this country?



"Well, I suggest it is not a sacrifice at all, especially when the symbol takes the form of the maple leaf which, over the years, has meant so much to every Canadian in war and in peace."

Facing the Opposition leader, he closed with an appeal for Mr. Diefenbaker to "rally around the decision" when it was carried and "put his great authority and prestige behind this decision, whatever it may be."

Mr. Diefenbaker, making his second flag speech in as many days, said his party was not trying to impose a flag on any province.

"He (Mr. Pearson) puts up the old argument that we who oppose this are therefore opposed to Quebec.

"That argument I hurl back at him and into his teeth."

458 Witnesses Attend Assembly On First Day

CAMPBELLFORD — Courage was the prize requisite to success in their well-known preaching work, 458 Jehovah's Witnesses were told on the first day of their convention at Campbellford yesterday.

Mr. Laurier Saumur, District Supervisor for the Witnesses, emphasized this during his talk "Speak the Word of God with Boldness," based on Acts 4:31. He cited such examples as the Apostles Peter and Paul, who preached in spite of vigorous opposition.

Other features of last night's program included a model Ministerial Training School, at which five student speakers addressed the audience, and received commendation and counsel on their public speaking ability. Two of the students, Gerald Mumby and Orville Summers, were from Belleville.

A service meeting, designed to improve the preaching activities of Jehovah's Witnesses, followed. Mr. Thor Jensen, from Belleville, demonstrated well, using the Scriptural illustration of a mirror (James 1:22-24), how each individual should analyze his own ministry, in order to speak the word of God with boldness.

All members of the public were invited to view the two-hour film "Proclaiming Everlasting Good News Around the World," slated for tonight at 7.15 at Campbellford District High School. "The film is designed to give a true insight on the various forms of religion existing in the world, and draws some startling conclusions," Mr. Robert Joy, local spokesman for the Witnesses explained.

More than 800 persons are expected to attend the assembly during its three-day program, including 100 from Belleville.

The convention will be climaxed on Sunday by the public talk "Our Divided World—Is It Here to Stay?" by Mr. Saumur.

Peron Ordered To Quit Politics Or Leave Spain

MADRID (AP)—Juan Peron's ill-fated move early this month to return to his Argentine homeland brought an ultimatum today from the Spanish government: Give up politics or leave Spain within a month.

The government also expelled all Peron's political collaborators for helping engineer the abortive try to return to South America.

Manuel Fraga, minister of information and tourism, said the ultimatum would be handed to Peron Sunday in a letter. He did not make its full contents public.

Sources close to the former dictator expected that he would abide by the ultimatum. Peron had been under pressure from his Argentine followers to return this year. Some sources said Peron now can point out that he had tried to return but failed—and resume his comfortable life in exile.

Peron, 69, flew to Rio de Janeiro Dec. 2. But Brazilian authorities, who said they were acting at the request of Argentina, ordered the airline to return Peron to Madrid.

Peron was granted residence in Spain in 1960 on the understanding he would not publicly involve himself in politics.

Peron, who ruled Argentina from 1946 to 1955, and his third wife, Isabel Martinez, have a luxurious villa in Madrid.

British, Aussie Warships Fire On Indonesians

Intruders Driven Away In Straits of Malacca

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—The first two sea skirmishes between Indonesia and Commonwealth forces protecting the Malaysian Federation took place Sunday night in territorial waters off the coast of Singapore.

In one, the Australian minesweeper Teal returned fire from two small boats believed to be motorboats or motorized sampans.

In the other incident, the British frigate Ajax fired several rounds at an unidentified, fast - moving vessel after sighting six ships intruding into Malaysian waters on its radar screen.

In the Ajax action, the unidentified ship turned back into Indonesian waters. There was no report on whether it had been hit.

The incidents occurred in the Straits of Malacca, the stretch of water separating the peninsula of Malaya from the huge Indonesian island of Sumatra.

Malaysian defence ministry officials said the Ajax was not fired on at any stage by the intruding craft.

But in the Teal action three Indonesians were killed and two were wounded. Four other Indonesians were captured.

The Teal suffered serious damage to the Australian minesweeper which picked up the Indonesian vessels on its radar screen during an anti - infiltration patrol.

One of the Indonesian vessels escaped in the Teal action but the Australian minesweeper recovered a quantity of arms and ammunition and some Indonesian papers from the other.

One source said the fact that Ajax fired meant that the unidentified craft failed to respond to a challenge and intruded directly into Malaysian waters.

A navy spokesman said the incidents indicated an increase in Indonesian activity in the Straits of Malacca.

How to Stop A-Spread Key Topic

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — How to stop the spread of nuclear weapons was a key topic for speeches today in the continuing policy debate in the UN General Assembly.

Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki was expected to condemn the nuclear multilateral force proposed by the United States for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The next speaker, Indian Foreign Minister Swaran Singh, planned to ask that the nations of the world conclude a treaty to prevent proliferation of nuclear weapons, a subject India has put forward for the assembly's agenda.

In a speech in New York Sunday, Harlan Cleveland, U.S. assistant secretary of state, said: "Something surely can be done . . . to see that no further nations will develop their nuclear capabilities."

Addressing the United States Pugwash conference on United Nations, he said China's new nuclear bomb "is unmistakable" and "within the next few years, half a dozen countries, or perhaps as many as 10 or 12, could readily develop their own nuclear weapons."

In a memorandum to the assembly Oct. 10, India complained of "the increasing capacity of a large number of countries to make nuclear and thermo-nuclear weapons."

BLASTED MLF

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Vaclav David both have blasted the MLF from the assembly rostrum.

In a disarmament memorandum Gromyko submitted in connection with his speech, the Soviet government called for an agreement denying non-nuclear countries access to nuclear weapons "either directly or through military alliances."

Communist China got another sponsor today for its latest bid to seat it in the United Nations in place of Nationalist China.

Romania joined in a request that the assembly's agenda include an item titled "restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations."

Eleven countries are backing the proposal, made originally by Cambodia. Eight are African and Asian countries following up a demand for the Cairo non-aligned nations conference for a UN seat for Communist China. Romania is the third Communist country to join the list, after Albania and Cuba.

Coins Which Fall From His Bar Finance Visit by Santa Claus

NEW YORK (AP) — William Rosado and Frank Senior felt the soft white beard to learn more about this Santa Claus than all the other children were screaming about.

William and Frank are blind.

They were two of some 60 children who had a meeting Sunday with one of the most bountiful Santas that any child, underprivileged or otherwise, is ever lucky enough to encounter.

The Santa with the white beard and the red suit was Dave Dividison, of the New York bureau of The Canadian Press. He had been elected for a handsomely corpulent waistline that didn't need padding, and for his merry blue eyes.

But the real Santa Claus was the one who has hovered in the background of similment theatre on the Lower East Side.

tant on 48th Street, near Sixth Ave.

The beneficent Santa Claus is known as Danny.

Today Danny will become Danny the bartender, who is different from other good bartenders mainly in his quiet insistence that the coins that fall on the floor be put in the kitty for next year's Christmas party.

Every year the kitty comes to hundreds of dollars. Not only do bar customers drop a lot of coins — they also have soft hearts.

This year many of the children at Danny's annual party were brought by a group known as the "Key Women of Harlem." Others were selected by a Roman Catholic priest in Danny's old "Hell's Kitchen" neighborhood on West Side, and the rests were supplied by the Henry Street Settlement House on the Lower

Hectic Week Coming

By RONALD LEIBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is bracing for a hectic week, starting today with showdown votes on closure, the Red Ensign and the maple leaf flag in the Commons.

The votes, extending into the early hours of Tuesday, likely will be followed by these developments:

—A new flag fight in the Commons, this time over the official status of the Union Jack.

—Opening of a protracted flag debate in the Senate, which could extend into the new year.

—Opposition members pressing for the first Commons question period in two weeks to grill ministers over surplus purchases, and the administration of justice.

—Opening of a public inquiry into Conservative allegations of bribery by one ministerial assistant and coercion by another in a narcotics case.

The cabinet and the various parties met over the weekend in emergency strategy meetings before the Commons opening at 2:30 p.m. today. All caucuses were summoning all MPs to Ottawa.

Before the House launches its 33rd day of bitter debate on the flag it has governed, Government House Leader McIlraith or another minister plans to move that the debate be ended by a closure he enforced to end the Commons flag impasse.

Opposition MPs have threatened to filibuster, technically to make the closure motion inoperative if they can't defeat it outright.

The Liberals are expected to win the vote on closure with the support of the 13 Creditistes, Quebec Conservative

CJBQ Plans Special Flag Vote Coverage

Radio station CJBQ will carry complete coverage of the flag debate in the House of Commons this evening, with special reports direct from the Press Gallery in Ottawa at 6.35 and 10.15 p.m. The reports will probably be by Ken Mason, CBC parliamentary correspondent. Special reports after 10.15 p.m. will be relayed as received from Ottawa and the station will remain on the air this evening until the final vote has been taken on the flag.

Robert Temple, MP for Fastings South, this morning announced that the final vote will be taken about 1 a.m. The radio station plans to provide a special station identification announcer Dave Charles or Bob Delaney from Ottawa after 12.30 until the final vote.

Goldwater Sees Nixon Likely Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Barry Goldwater said today to former vice-president Richard Nixon and Governors Mark Hatfield of Oregon, George Romney of Michigan and William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania a "political test" of tenders for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

He said he thinks that as of now Nixon "has the biggest hand upon the wheel."

'Spirit of Dunkirk' Appeal Made to Labor Conference

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's appeal to the Labor Party's victory conference Saturday with a let's-get-cracking speech that invoked the "spirit of Dunkirk".

Wilson's hour - long speech stressed economic policies and problems and attacked slackers in Britain's labor force on the management or union side.

He received his biggest cheer from the 1,100 party delegates in Brighton when he angrily denied a newspaper report that he gave President Johnson a secret pledge last week that he would be prepared to have British ship sent to Vietnam, if necessary.

"Stop that as a lie," said Wilson, "Stop such pledge was given."

Wilson, however, did not say Britain will never join such a force. The government's position is "open-minded."

Wilson told the conference British proposals for "collective" action in Vietnam "are under" and preventing more fingers on the nuclear trigger were an initiative "for which our friends and allies have been waiting."

The British leader went far in support of the idea of a permanent United Nations peace-keeping force, long urged by Prime Minister Pearson.

"We are prepared to contribute not only ideas but resources to provide a practical British contribution to the peace-keeping forces of the United Nations," he said.

Wilson maintained Britain's strength is not less now than it was when it solved itself from disaster at Dunkirk in the second World War.

"I believe that the spirit of Dunkirk will once again carry us through to success. This is the mood of Britain today—the determination, the readiness, the eagerness for change which swept Labor to power and which will sweep our country to victory."

The conference concluded on an unusual note of harmony as party opponents of nuclear weapons for Britain held their peace lest they endanger the chances of the government remaining in office, with its slim parliamentary majority.

The conference chairman, Colonial Secretary Anthony Greenwood, piloted the meeting through its agenda of 400 motions without any serious floorfights. The emphasis was on domestic policy and Economic Minister George Brown closed the conference with an appeal for efforts to work out a national plan for balanced wages, profits and dividends.

The only setback for the government came when Army Minister Fred Mulley was voted off the party's national executive. His place was taken by Jack Jones, new chief of the transport and general workers union. Jones was supported by the big unions that provide much of the party's funds.

Canada Will Seek To Delay Decision On Multilateral Nuclear Force; Will Insist On Inclusion Of France

Martin Holds Conference With de Murville On Eve of NATO Ministerial Deliberations

By HAROLD MORRISON

PARIS (CP) — Canada will seek to head off a nuclear storm in the North Atlantic alliance by suggesting that varying proposals for a multilateral force be left in the discussion stage for further exploration and development.

This suggestion, to come up at the NATO ministerial talks opening Tuesday, may sting West Germany which is pressing for speedy action on a nuclear force in which it can participate.

But it would ease embarrassment for France which has warned it would wage an all-out struggle against any nuclear concept for Europe in which the United States would have vital control.

After conferring with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, Canadian External Affairs Minister Martin told reporters Sunday Canada will oppose any NATO nuclear concepts in which France finds it impossible to participate.

The two ministers voiced pleasure at the "favorable conditions" which Canadian-French relations are developing. They agreed to open negotiations soon to increase cultural exchanges between the two countries and considered the usefulness of Canada's economic mission to France.

'MUST PRESERVE UNITY'

The Canadian government's view is that NATO unity must be preserved at all costs. It would be opposed to a U.S.-controlled multilateral seaborne force, which is denounced by France as it would tend to split Europe and its North American allies.

Martin said he would urge the NATO ministerial meeting to explore ways of bringing European allies into closer nuclear participation through other channels. He would not disclose details, but it is understood he would like to see this exploration done through existing NATO machinery in a way which France would not oppose.

Martin, accompanied by Defence Minister Hellyer and a large group of Canadian officials, is reported to feel there can be no real progress on the nuclear issue at this conference without the threat of a blow-up among the allies.

It would be best to consider such matters at the committee stages, in the hope that some evolution might bring a better climate for success at the conference.

The nuclear controversy is being discussed in a number of pre - conference meetings. It likely will be played on also in U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk's talks with French Premier Georges Pompidou today and in talks between de Murville and British Foreign Minister Patrick Gordon Walker.

The dilemma of how to provide Germany with a feeling of nuclear participation while discouraging her from building her

Multilateral Force Said Stillborn, Wilson Has New Nuclear Plans

LONDON (CP) — Members of Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government reported that the NATO multilateral forces as originally planned is "stillborn" and that Wilson will make new proposals for an Atlantic nuclear force in debate beginning Wednesday in the House of Commons.

Political associates of Wilson said Sunday the prime minister is leader during his visit to Washington last week won President Johnson's support for a new British-American partnership in Asia to counter China's nuclear capacity and territorial ambitions.

One highly qualified informant said Johnson and Wilson directed their subordinates to outline a program of co-operation in Asia taking into account these points, among others:

—The practicability of building up a collective nuclear force to which some of the British V-bombers might be assigned.

—The protection against nuclear attack for such independent Asian countries as India without encouraging the spread of nuclear weapons.

—Recognition of Britain's special political and strategic interests east of Suez, where the British have bases in such key places as Aden, Singapore, Hong Kong and Malive Islands and the Seychelles.

The US and West Germany originally proposed a fleet of 25 surface ships armed with Polaris missiles and manned by crews of mixed nationality drawn from NATO nations. Members of the British government said Wilson would propose instead a nuclear alliance force under NATO control consisting of these elements:

—Britain's developing Polaris force of five Polaris submarines.

—A matching American contingent of Polaris submarines.

—Some surface ships with crews of mixed nationality to meet West Germany's demand for a part in the management of nuclear weapons.

The firing of the force's nuclear weapons would be subject to a double veto: That of the U.S. president, and of the Eu-

5 Bandits Rob Airport Freight Shed

MONTREAL (CP)—Gold bullion and other goods worth an estimated $111,250 were stolen today from an Air Canada freight shed at Montreal International Airport.

A spokesman for the airline said five armed men broke into the shed and locked up five persons after handcuffing them.

Then the men, wearing scarves over their faces, made off with the goods—gold bullion worth $81,000, coins worth $10,000, watches worth $15,000, jewelry worth $5,750, and pharmaceutical supplies valued at $1,500.

The stickup occurred at about 3:30 a.m. EST. The men broke open two locked cages to get at the supplies.

The Air Canada spokesman said the gold, weighing 204 pounds, was part of a consignment being shipped by the Canadian line and Pan American World Airways from Nicaragua to Montreal.

The watches were part of a Swissair (Swiss air line) consignment. The spokesman had no information o. the origin or ownership of the other goods.

The men locked up by the bandits were two employees of Air Canada, an employee of British Overseas Airways Corporation, a cleaner at the shed and a customs man.

Sydney Men Develop 'Fool-Proof' System to Beat 'One-Arm Bandits'

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Two young Sydney men have won a fortune during the past 18 months with a "foolproof" system that allows them to beat "one-arm bandits" at a New South Wales resort Saturday.

Police have said the system is perfectly legal.

The syndicate revealed some details but said the method that has made them rich will remain secret until a book they have written is published early in the new year.

The youthful combine, ranging in age from 21 to 33, claim their exploits could end the multi-million - pound enterprise of registered gambling clubs in New South Wales.

Sydney newspapers published the story and said the syndicate members, who declined to reveal their surnames, all "live like kings."

They would not disclose details of their winnings, but a reporter who watched them in action said wins of £200 Australian ($448) and more in three hours were commonplace.

The secret is the pull. The players hold the handle near the base and, apparently by varying the pull, can suspend the action of any reel on the machine, until there is a winning lineup.

"George," 28, married with one child, discovered the secret in January, 1964. He had never seen a one-arm bandit before and spent an hour and a half operating one machine, pulling the handle differently each time to establish the "knacks started to fall into place."

He said he taught the trick to a friend in 10 minutes. Later he showed eight other friends and business associates.

All are prosperous, self-employed businessmen. They refused to allow their surnames to be published for fear it would harm their businesses.

One member, "Barry," used his winnings to fly to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., last year for a $9,000 heart operation.

Threw Young Son Down Flight of Stairs

HAMILTON (CP) — A psychiatric examination and presentence report were ordered today for an 18-year-old mother who threw her year - old son down a flight of stairs.

In ordering the reports, Magistrate Walter Tuchie remanded Mrs. Claudette Bryenton in custody until Dec. 21.

She pleaded guilty to a charge of assault causing bodily harm.

Detective Sergeant Ernest Smedley said Mrs. Bryenton told police Donald, down the flight of 14 wooden steps in fit of rage.

She immediately screamed and went to the aid of the child," said Sgt. Smedley. "It is my opinion she acted entirely on impulse."

The boy suffered a fractured skull and was recovering in hospital today.

$10,000 Loan Begins Nightmare Of Staggering Debit, Haunting Fear

NEW YORK (AP)—In financial distress, a Yonkers restaurant owner borrowed $10,000 from a loan shark in 1957, beginning a nightmare of staggering debt and haunting fear.

The loan did not save his double-mortgaged $300,000 business, and the time he lost it a few terror-filled years later, he had paid $18,000 in interest and still owed $25,000 in delinquency penalties and principal.

Under New York law, the transaction was legal. Prosecution in such flagrant cases could only come from their criminal by-products: threats and beatings and bombings used to collect and the gangland executions which sometimes await those who fail to pay.

The one - time restaurant owner, now a salaried construction supervisor still trying to rid himself of the debt, told his story Sunday night in 1957, to a small, hot hearing room of the state investigation commission. The chief of extortion was obvious and at one point, next years, he shouted:

"You're making a martyr of me! I didn't hurt anybody! I got involved! I want to be left alone!"

Manhattan assistant district-attorney Frank Rogers told of a big builder who sought a $1,000,000 loan for a construction project and was told, "your body is your collateral."

Besides providing the underworld with huge profits, loan sharking also offers a method of taking over legitimate business enterprises.

Interest rates, known as "vigorish," soar to 25 per cent a week and higher. A Brooklyn prosecutor cited the case of a $100 which, when repaid after six weeks, accumulated $1,800 in interest—over 15,000 per cent per annum—and one transaction where the annual interest rate was 2,300 per cent.

Collection is "enforced by beatings, threats and violence," said Commission Chairman Jacob Grumet.

Two New York City police experts testified that the city's five Cosa Nostra, of Mafia, "families" include at least 121 loan sharks, many of them handling multi-million-dollar finances.

Rogers estimated the annual handle of U.S. loan sharks at $1,000,000,000.

Two Juveniles Arrested for Shooting Spree

OSHAWA (CP) — Police here have arrested two juveniles and more arrests are expected in connection with an all-gun shooting spree that destroyed store windows, Christmas decorations and car windshields in Oshawa's business section Sunday night.

Police said 10 more juveniles and a 18-year-old are involved in a series of car thefts, breakins, attempted break-ins and property damage that have been "terrorizing the business section."

Sunday's incident in which damage was estimated at $5,000, started when the vandals struck broke into a hardware store and took a number of goods including air guns and ammunition, police said. They then drove down a main street taking pot shots. A recently completed Brewer's Retail store had its front plate glass window broken.

HORSE SENSE

Arabs say a perfect Arabian horse must hav. a neck curved like a crescent moon and a nose small enough to fit into a teacup.

TORONTO (CP) — A three-year-old Frankford boy and his aunt died today in a fire that raged through six houses in downtown Toronto.

Rene Allen, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen of Frankford, died with his baby-sitting aunt, Mrs. William (Sharon) Gaudry, 21, in a blaze that burned out four of the six brick houses near the Spadina Avenue apartment district.

Neighbors said Rene was visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Gaudry, who was out at work when the fire started in mid-morning. Sharon was Margaret Gaudry's daughter-in-law and a sister-in-law of Rene's mother, Theresa Allen.

Rene's parents moved to Frankford from Toronto three months ago. They have two other children, a two-year-old child and a two-month-old baby. Mr. Allen is a factory worker.

Twelve fire trucks and their crews were called to the fire in mid-morning and had it under control in an hour.

Factory worker Gabriel Dinardo caught two children thrown from an upstairs window of one of the two-storey brick houses. Then a 15-year-old girl jumped to the ground.

Acer Allen was taken to hospital suffering from smoke inhalation.

Police cadet Perry Crippen, first to arrive at the scene after the fire was reported, crawled along a ground-floor hallway in a rescue attempt but was forced back by flames.

Holly Farmers Injecting Trees With Hormones

VANCOUVER (CP) — The holly coming from Canada's holly farms is "hopped up."

Holly farmers have been injecting their trees with hormones so that the leaves will look fuller and the berries will stay brighter after picking.

The process is working so well that some retail stores won't even sell holly that hasn't been "fixed." And those that do are getting less than half the price for their "unfixed" greenery.

Hormone-treated holly, now on the market here, is selling for about $1.25 a pound. The untouched variety is being sold at some shops for about 60 cents.

Holly shipped from B.C. farms — Canada's only holly producers — sells for about $2.25 a pound in cities from Calgary to Toronto because of freight charges.

Most of this year's $50,000 crop will be shipped east.

One major retail florist here said he has so far been able to keep holly that has been slow but they should pick up.

"What with hormones and everything people can buy early, avoid the rush and still be sure that their holly is in perfect condition on Dec. 25."

No Evidence Of Foul Play In Man's Death

PETERBOROUGH — A post mortem was held on Saturday to determine the cause of death of a 36-year-old father of six who was found face down in a puddle of water in his back yard.

Andrew Harry Guthrie, 183 Reid street, was discovered by his wife Mary late Friday night, a few minutes after he had left the home.

Police investigation on the incident is incomplete but there is no indication of foul play.

Guthrie apparently arrived home with a friend about 9:30 p.m. after spending part of the evening in a hotel beverage room.

About one hour later the friend left the home and Guthrie apparently followed him a few minutes later.

Mrs. Guthrie happened to glance out the kitchen window and saw a body in the yard. She went out and found the body to be that of her husband.

She then ran around to the front of the house and stopped two passing motorist who helped carry the body into the house.

The fire department, under the direction of Capt. Don Bartley, was called. Their attempts to revive Mr. Guthrie failed.

Dr. Ralph Carr pronounced the man dead.

Mr. Guthrie was a foreman with New - Flex Construction Company and lived in the Peterborough seven months ago from Belleville. He was a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

SURVIVORS

He leaves his wife, the former Mary Young, and eight children, Sheryl Ann, 10; Andrew R., 9; Heather, 8; Darlene 7; William 5; and Norman, seven months.

He was the son of Robert James Guthrie and Theresa Alice Ashton, of Belleville. He is also survived by two brothers, Thomas of Peterborough and Robert of Belleville.

Mrs. Young, government employee at the Ontario Intelligencer is a brother-in-law.

Mr. Guthrie had held this attenoon from the Kaye Memorial Chapel at Peterborough with interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

New Rocket Motor Tested By U. S. in Utah

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (AP) The U.S. Air Force has finished the first research step toward a rocket motor that might give the United States a missile capable of hitting any spot on earth at a moment's notice.

Saturday's successful test-firing of a 156-inch diameter solid-fueled motor northwest of Brigham City was the third in a series of three static firings in the air force program to determine the feasibility of large, segmented motors.

All three firings were successful. Lockheed Propulsion Company built and tested the first two in California this year. The Wasatch division of Thiokol Chemical Corporation built and fired the third one Saturday.

Charles Hunter, Thiokol vice-president and launch divisional manager, said in an interview that such a powerful motor would be able to send a payload of several tons at least 12,500 miles, or halfway around the world.

The range, then, would be worldwide, depending on which direction it was fired. Minuteman's range is estimated at 6,000-8,000 miles.

The solid fuel would give the missile the same instant readiness of the Minuteman ICBM.

In fact, the segmented 156-inch motor is basically a scaled-up version of Minuteman's booster.

City Aldermen, Civic Heads Visit Museum

The Hastings County Museum was the scene of an informal reception Saturday afternoon when several members of Belleville City Council and Civic Department heads were entertained, together with members of their families.

The reception was arranged by the Hastings County Historical Society so that councillors and other civic officials could see the work being carried on at the museum.

Representing the Historical Society were president G. E. Boyce and Mrs. Boyce; vice-president T. S. Ransom, secretary Mrs. G. A. Bennett, chief museum curator Mrs. J. Sargent, assistant curator Mrs. D. D. Williamson, assistant curator Miss Cheryl Hall and Mrs. P. J. Beavis.

Christmas music was provided by a trio composed of John Barlow (flute), Ted Fowler (clarinet) and Doug Williamson (coronet.)

Among the matters discussed informally were the general operations of the museum, the Couldrey Collection (which is owned by the city of Belleville), and the future of the museum after the present lease expires early in 1968.

Earlier this year, members of Hastings County Council were entertained at a similar reception attended by more than thirty councillors, and it is expected to invite Trenton councillors to visit the museum early in the new year.

Kenyatta Opens New Institute For Socialism

NAIROBI (AP) — Kenya's President Jomo Kenyatta opened Saturday the new Patrice Lumumba Institute, a communist-supported school whose aim is to spread socialism.

Fresh from his elevation from premier to president as Kenya became a republic on the first anniversary of its independence from Britain, Kenyatta unveiled a bust of slain Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba at the entrance to the school.

Lumumba, assassinated while in the custody of Katanga secessionists under Moise Tshombe, is held to become a martyr of African leftists in what they call their fight against imperialism and colonialism.

Kenyatta glossed over the institute's avowed aim to teach and popularize socialism. He said its first objective is to teach party organizations, teachniques of political work and the aims of government policy.

Civil Service Body Asks PM to End All Patronage

OTTAWA (CP) — The president of the Civil Service Federation asked Prime Minister Pearson today to eliminate political patronage from all areas of the public service.

Claude Edwards said in a letter to the prime minister that the federation's 73,000 members feel any Canadian should be able to obtain a government job and have security in holding it on the basis of competence and ability and not as a result of political influence.

He said he raised the matter as the result of Mr. Pearson's recent letter to all cabinet ministers setting out a code of ethics in public life.

Political appointments to civil service jobs "most certainly constitute a definite infringement of the ethical and moral code which you now have set forth as a guide to members of cabinet," Mr. Edwards said.

Duke of Windsor Enters Hospital For Surgery

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Duke of Windsor starts a series of tests today at Methodist Hospital where he probably will undergo arterial surgery later this week.

The Duke was to arrive with his wife today by train from New York.

He will be examined at the hospital, one of the Texas Medical Centre, by Dr. Michael DeBakey, a cardiovascular surgeon.

The Duke, who as King Edward VIII abdicated the British throne 28 years ago to marry the duchess—the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, an American divorcee—is suffering from an aneurysm in an abdominal artery, an aide said.

An aneurysm is a balloon-like blister on the artery wall.

The 70-year-old Duke has appeared well and chipper at recent New York social functions.

The 56-year-old professor of surgery at Baylor University's college of medicine, and his team have performed 6,500 major cardiovascular procedures in the last six years.

The team has a 95-per-cent recovery record.

Six rooms on the fourth floor of the hospital's east wing were reserved for the Duke and his party, a hospital spokesman said.

"Our recent election," Rusk said, "confirmed that we shall remain steady on the bipartisan course we have followed" since the Second World War.

"This means our full commitment to the security of the NATO area and full insistence upon the rights and obligations which became ours" as a result of the war.

These rights and obligations include protection of West Berlin and the presence of U.S. forces with nuclear arms in Western Europe.

Rusk brushed aside differences within the alliance as "secondary matters."

Rebels Slaughter Six Belgians, Eat Part of Flesh

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Congolese rebels slaughtered six Belgians and ate parts of their flesh, later selling portions of their victims' bodies in the marketplace at Isangi, a Dutch Roman Catholic priest said Saturday.

The priest murdered men belonged to a group of eight employees of the Belgian Busira-Lulu Amil Produce Company. The others, a Belgian and an Italian, are still unaccounted for, though the priest said there is hope the rebels may have carried them off as hostages.

The priest, Rev. Leopold Haane, who was with the plantation workers at Isangi, said his eight were taken out of a makeshift prison Nov. 26.

Six were dragged into the jungle and put to death. After butchering the Belgians, the rebel warriors reverted to the ritual cannibalism of their forebears and ate parts of the bodies, the priest said.

Congolese townsfolk later told Father Haane that the rebels sold chunks of human flesh on sale in the town market. They marched the two other Europeans away toward Elisabethe, a town 50 miles west of Isangi.

Typographers Vote Heavily To Reject Offer

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking typographers at Montreal La Presse voted heavily Saturday to reject a settlement offer from management and to continue negotiations.

The motion was supported by 255 of the 282 union members who attended the meeting.

La Presse, largest daily newspaper in Montreal and the largest French-language daily in North America, has not published since June 5 when some 300 members of the International Typographical Union (CLC) walked off the job.

Union spokesman Romeo Mathieu said automation and wage scales remain the contentious issues.

Journalists and printing trades employees accepted management proposals Thursday and declared their willingness to return to work.

Efforts to resume publication of La Presse now hinge on a settlement with the typographers. Negotiations are expected to resume this week.

There has been no public statement from management since the strike began.

'Open House' Will Be Held In Subdivision

TRENTON — Trenton council Thursday night authorized local contractor Cecil Marchen to inform the Department of Municipal Affairs in Toronto that the town "expects" to lay a sewer main along Reid Street, formerly North Byron Street, in 1968. The authorization is worded thusly because council doesn't want to pin down the exact date, for fear other commitments delay the work. Mr. Marchen needs some sort of a firm commitment in order to permit him to go ahead with the erection of eight homes in the area. The homes, meanwhile, will be serviced by septic tanks, and Mr. Marchen will pay $1,200 per home to the town in anticipation of local improvement sewer charges. Two homes are now on the site, and the town has been paid $2,400. Open house is to be held at the subdivision this weekend.

F. L. Dunlop has applied to town council for approval of the Scaletta subdivision in west Trenton and Elcombe Street are planned, for the recently annexed area. The engineering department and he, plentifully equipped will be asked to rule on the proposed subdivision before council will approve.

Wasil Sidor also wants approval of a development in the west end of the town. Approval however, hinges on Mr. Sidor's ability to prove the low-lying area may be serviced by sewers storm and sanitary. The new subdivision will be named Westmount Gardens.

Council also found out (to its embarrassment) Thursday night that some lots on Byron Street, recently sold by the town to Thomas Rogers, are not actually the town's by clear title. However, as the "owner", an estate, has failed to pay taxes for a number of years, the town will go ahead with the deal . and hope for the best.

Mrs. Geo. Williamson Heads Blood Clinic

TRENTON — Mrs. Ernest Magnus has resigned as chairman of the Trenton Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic. New chairman is Mrs. George Williamson.

For a number of years Mrs. Magnus has headed up the local clinic. The Trenton effort has grown from a past history of "not nearly enough" to "over the quota", and a great deal of this happy history is due to Mrs. Magnus. She now finds the work too arduous, when combined with her household duties and other community service.

$2,000 Saved On Project

TRENTON — Final figures on this autumn's widening and reconstruction work on the block of Division St., between Dundas St. W. and King St. were released yesterday by town engineer, Ted Trenton.

Council had budgeted $34,000 for the work. Actual cost was $32,000, of which the department is pleased with the saving of $2,000 on the project.

CALL TENDERS

Toronto and Port Hope architects, Barnett, Reider and Creighton, have called for tenders for the construction of a new eight roomed public school in west Trenton. Tenders must be in by Dec. 28. Contractors may view plans and specifications Dec. 16 or on the firm's Port Hope office.

Plans call for the opening of the new school, in the North Byron St., area, by the start of the school year, September, 1965.

C.G.I.T. HOLDS SERVICE

TRENTON — Sunday night, the Canadian Girls In Training group of King St. United Church took over the evening service at the church and presented their annual Vesper Service. The congregation joined in the carol singing. The C.G.I.T. service was under the direction of Mrs. Peter Borland.

Readers were Sandra Smith and Elizabeth Hinchey and the candle lighter was Lindsay Vanderwater.

Solos were sung by Kathy Smithrim (The Holy Boy) and Sharyan Lange, (From Bethlehem a Mother Came).

Ken Craddock, James Uttley and Santa Claus are shown at Sally Ann Night, Saturday, at Trenton Legion Hall.

Salvation Army Gets Proceeds Of Two Parties

TRENTON — "Jimmy Uttley Night" at the Trenton Country Club Friday night saw a good 230 turn out to "sing along with Jim" the old familiar carols and make the rafters ring with their efforts. Music was provided by the Salvation Army Corps band and the proceeds of the night went to help the Army with Christmas baskets.

Jimmy was at his singingest best, and he was assisted by James Duncan and William Long. As Cpt. James Johnson of the army remarked, "there is an ecumenical council right here on the platform . . . a Presbyterian, (Duncan), an Anglican, (Uttley) a Roman Catholic, (Long) and myself."

SERVICE FRIDAY

In spite of Friday night's efforts, Mr. Uttley was still in good voice to lead the carolers at Saturday night's Sally Ann Night at the Legion Hall. The program was "emceed" by Ken Craddock with Legion soloists and choral groups joining in the fun.

Highlight of Sally Ann Night was The Great Rossini, a magician of note, who plays the night club circuits from Detroit to Montreal. Rossini started out on his mystifying career in 1936 and has collected an attractive assistant, "Lorraine," and $5,000 worth of equipment.

Saturday night, as Friday, proceeds went to the army and both nights, Cpt. Johnson expressed his heartfelt thanks. At

Good News for Canada

Unemployment in Canada at mid-November was at the lowest level for that time of year in the past eight years.

Now that is a statistic to conjure with!

Even more impressive are the details. Unemployment did not rise between October and November. It remained steady at 258,000. It is true the number of employed persons fell slightly, by 10,000, but the size of the labor force declined a like amount.

Can it be that at last we are planning our economy with sufficient wisdom and foresight to defeat the bugaboo of winter unemployment, that frustrating annual waste of the nation's human resources?

To answer in the affirmative would be overoptimistic. In part, the stability of employment was the result of the recall of auto workers who had been laid off in October because of a shortage of parts resulting from a U.S. strike. But the Bureau of Statistics and the Federal Department of Labor add a cautious note of pure sunshine: "In addition, there has been some evidence of a continuing improvement in the job situation."

Coming at a time when the stock market is jittery because of the infectious nature of a British-initiated increase in the bank rate, a tight-money omen, this report on the number of Canadians working and idle is doubly heartening. Perhaps, our boom is not going to end, after all. Bank rates are strictly second-class economic indicators, compared with concrete evidence of busy factories, mills, mines and stores.

"Democratic" Institute?

"We have found that sharp minds tend to sharpen each other," reports Dr. Jonas Salk.

If he is surprised by this, it can only be because his specialty is medicine. The average man has long taken this for granted. It is one of those self-evident truths, like the spurring effect of a real challenge and the value of encouragement.

Dr. Salk was talking about results obtained by an assembly of some of the world's greatest scientists, gathered together to conduct research in a sixteen-million-dollar institute which has been under construction at La Jolla, California.

In some institutes, the director has absolute authority in deciding precisely what work each member of the staff will do. At Salk's institute each top scientist in his field determines his own line of investigation.

This has worked out extremely well, Salk reports. Besides providing close communications between independent scientists it has sharpened minds.

This is not surprising. The organization sounds like a promising example of the value of co-operation. But it is not nonsense to call it the application of the philosophy of democracy in science?

The essence of democracy is that each and every person, no matter what his qualifications, has an equal voice in reaching certain decisions. Those working at the institute did not choose the top scientists or fellows who direct their work. They were chosen by the fellows. Not all these scientists participate in deciding what work shall be undertaken; each fellow makes the decision in his own special field. How can this be said to be a "democratic" process? It is true that the authority is not concentrated in one man, the director, but is spread amongst many specialists, but that does not make the arrangement less authoritarian.

Any research project worth its salt, or its Salk, has to be authoritarian in its organization. No good service is done democracy by demanding that it be applied in circumstances under which it is unworkable—or by twisting the meaning of the word to cover mere co-operation between a group of equals—none of whom would dream of tolerating a situation in which the mere weight of numbers of his underlings could frustrate his decisions.

Unlike true love, true friendship is completely undemanding. Your true friends like you for what you are, like you as you are, don't want to change you. And unlike a love affair, a friendship—a good one—can be taken up exactly where it was left off maybe ten years before, maybe one year before.—British novelist Pamela Frankau.

Man, when all is said and done, has nothing to say about man. Since there is no one else to pass judgment on him, he may magnify or shrink himself at will—like a madman, who, without risk of contradiction, could choose between delusions of grandeur and of inferiority. —Jean Rostland.

We Need to Be Reminded

—Stratford Beacon-Herald

The First World War began in 1917.

Slavery in North America was abolished by Abraham Lincoln in 1863.

The U.S.A. Louisiana Seaway dates from 1959.

All Canadian readers would identify the first statement as a purely American viewpoint; most readers would identify the second as an American viewpoint; there are many Canadians, we fear, who would unthinkingly swallow the third statement as being true, and fail to recognize it as being on a par, for validity, with the first two.

The First World War did begin in 1917, for the people of the United States. Lincoln's proclamation of 1863 abolished slavery in the United States; slavery had been abolished in Upper Canada in 1793, as one of the first Legislature of Upper Canada's acts.

The United States has its own official definition of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The American view is that the Seaway begins at St. Regis, New York, and extends upstream as far as the foot of Lake Ontario where it ends. If we accept the American definition, then it is true in a narrow sense to say that the Seaway is only five years old.

• • •

We get stamped by American oriented versions of history which come flooding across the border on the airwaves and on the printed page. It is useful once in a while to remind Canadians that as far as we are concerned, the First World War began 50 years before the United States got round to it; the abolition of slavery in America began 70 years before the United States got around to it; the Seaway, in the sense of a passage to the Great Lakes for ocean-going ships, is not just five years old, and was all Canadian.

• • •

The point was made in a recent address at a joint meeting of the Rotary Clubs of Port Arthur and Fort William, by the assistant Armour general manager of the Great Lakes Waterways Development Association.

"The St. Lawrence Seaway, even in its present enlarged channel form, owes its existence almost entirely to Canadian courage, vision and leadership," Mr. Armour said. For projects such as the Seaway and the building of the CPR, disclose that Canadians, staid and reserved though they may be considered by outsiders, are not only a highly competent but also an unusually imaginative people.

As Mr. Armour proceeded to point out, there was an all-Canadian Seaway from Montreal to Lake Erie, surmounting the Niagara Falls navigation obstacle, for 111 years before the enlarged Seaway was opened in 1959. The Welland Canal had a depth of only nine feet, but this was three feet deeper than the late-famous Erie Canal in New York State, which was regarded in its time as quite prosperous, a marvellous achievement. Canadians built the first Seaway themselves, at their own expense, when the disparity in economic strength between Canada and the United States was much greater than it is now.

• • •

Ontario people are entitled to take a little extra pride in the fact that although the Seaway which brought saltwater vessels to the Lakes dates only from 1848, the Welland Canal, connecting Lake Ontario to Lake Erie, dates from 1829. That the first canal, built on the initiative of residents of the province of so-called Ontario, made it possible, for ships drawing seven and a half feet of water to sail from Lake Ontario up into Huron and Michigan.

Kingston has been an ocean port since 1848, when the "Lily" sailed from Kingston for Britain. Toronto has been an ocean port since 1855, when passed downbound through all-Canadian locks and canals on the St. Lawrence, and so on to Britain.

Canadians are not more inclined to the exercise of tooting our own horn, but an occasional blast on the bugle is in order to keep the record straight.

Mae Craig's Time Bomb

Peterboro, Ont., Times

When the Civil Rights Bill was before Congress, "Judge" Howard Smith, chairman of the House Rules Committee, appeared on the "Meet the Press" television program. One of the panelists was Mae Craig, the Washington correspondent equally noted for her hats and her needling questions. Mrs. Craig demanded of Judge Smith why discrimination in the grounds of sex, as well as race or color, shouldn't be included. The ever-gallant Judge Smith with a wry smile said he'd put sex into the bill. He did and it stuck, right through the President's signature.

Now some odd results of that amendment are beginning to be foreseen. Under the auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers, a series of seminars of top business executive and corporation lawyers has been held on the subject. Among other things these conclusions have been reached:

—"Help wanted" advertisers will no longer be allowed to specify sex before July 1, 1965. If an executive wants a curvaceous blonde for a secretary and a crew-cut young six-foot ball player applies for the job, if his secretarial qualifications are equal it will be at the employer's peril that he rejects the male.

—Barbers of the opposite sex may be turning up in heretofore strictly male tonsorial parlors.

—Executive training programs now advertised almost exclusively to men, will have to be open to women.

—When the compulsory retirement limit for men is now 65 under a company's rules, no longer can women be required to retire at 62.

—On the other hand, where city or state regulations now require three or four times the washroom facilities for women as for men, the former want to get technical about it they can demand the same accommodations.

—Basically, and most important, where men and women employees are doing exactly the same type of work, from next July on they'll have to be paid exactly the same wages.

Maybe this won't cause any major upheaval. But if late next summer there's a rash of Tugboat Annies, or men turning up as housemaids, we'll have to put the blame squarely on Mae Craig and Judge Howard Smith.

Fires Fewer

Ottawa Citizen

According to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, the forest area burned over in the province last year was 27,000 acres, or only 27 per cent of the 100,000-acre average for the past 10 years. An official of the department has pointed out that although forest fires are being more widely used as they become more accessible, the number of fires is not rising proportionately; the exercise of vigilance and extreme care by the public can obviously avert most forest fires.

Gastritis Medical Name For Inflamed Stomach

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is gastritis? What causes it and what effect does it have on the system? Is it curable? What made me vomit blood? — A.B.

Gastritis is a rather loose word describing inflammation of the upper digestive tract. Strictly speaking, it means inflammation of the stomach lining. However, sometimes it is applied to most any old discomfort of the mid-section — gall bladder disease, constipation, gas and others.

An ulcer, not yet diagnosed but causing pain, burps, or nausea, might be called gastritis, and with fairly good reason since the surrounding tissues will be inflamed.

Causes of gastritis? Tainted food, for one. Or sometimes poisons which may not be deadly but will inflame the stomach. Or some infection, including the ones we call intestinal flu.

Excessive use of alcohol is a notorious cause of gastritis. Too much highly-spiced foods can result in it, too.

With a temporary case, the stomach clams down and heals itself when given half a chance. The treatment, in general, is much like that, for an ulcer: Bland food, no seasonings or spices, avoidance of alcohol, many times a vitamin supplement and sometimes a medication to neutralize stomach acid.

Probably the hardest cases to treat are those which have developed gradually over a period of many years of overeating, overdrinking, or excessive use of spicy foods.

A healthy stomach may take the abuse for years or even for a lifetime before it starts to rebel. Then the patient is inclined to relent a little here and there, outlined above, with such arguments as, "I've been drinking whisky for 30 years and I never had any trouble — that can't be the reason." So he takes his pills and vitamins and does everything except stop doing what really caused his gastritis.

The sudden and acute cases of gastritis, from tainted food or toxic materials, are usually quickly cleared up. Those that took years to develop require some time to correct.

If the inflamed surfaces of the stomach become sore and raw enough, naturally they can bleed.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is a painter who works in a turpentine shop. He is afraid he will catch TB there and give it to our baby. Is there any danger? — E. L. C.

There's virtually no danger. First, close and relatively prolonged contact is necessary to transmit the disease in most cases. Second, in the sanitariums with which I am familiar, and this includes a number of them, employees actually are safer than the average citizen, because it is the practice to see that everyone has regular chest X-rays and patients have been instructed to muffle their coughs.

I've known skilled craftsmen (including painters) who have worked in such sanitariums for 20 and 30 years in perfect safety so far as TB goes.

• • •

Note to Mrs. E. T.: Naturally second-hand clothes should be cleaned or washed before use. However, the possibility of transmitting contagious virus diseases through clothing, or through books, is very remote, because viruses are destroyed quickly by exposure to sunlight, or to dryness for a short time.

Know More, Cannot Use Knowledge

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Everybody knows about the "population explosion." Indeed, everybody is continually popping off about it, usually without grasping many of its implications. It's become a stock phrase of conventional wisdom, like "survival of the fittest" in Darwin's day.

But another explosion is taking place at the same time — one that is perhaps even more important for our future. This is the "knowledge explosion," as it is termed by Prof. Solomon Diamond, in his new book, "The World of Probability."

Reckoning the scientific era as having started in the middle of the 17th century, he estimates that from that date to the present time, the fund of human knowledge has doubled about once in every 15 years. "It means that today," Prof. Diamond says, "we know about two million times as much about the universe we live in and the creatures which inhabit it as was known shortly after the death of Galileo."

Moreover, in the next 15 years scientists will learn as much more as in all previous history. In any special field, scientific workers agree that twice as much is known now as was known in 1900, and four times as much as in 1935, "and the present pace of development is more rapid than ever."

It is the dispersal, the dissemination, the utilization of our knowledge that are lagging so far behind its acquisition. The social, political and economic policies of our command are too slow and antiquated to convey this knowledge to the proper places at the proper times.

The population explosion is not so biological problem as it is a problem in transmission and communication. In getting the knowledge to the right people in the right way. And this getting can only be done, at present, through the outmoded forms of social and political life.

The most dramatic example of the discrepancy between our intellectual progress and our social paralysis lies in the recent discovery of the principle of magnetic heat insulation. Within our lifetime, the use of nuclear generation of electricity could be in global use, ridding the underdeveloped nations of poverty—not by taking away from the rich, as in the Marxist formula, but by giving to the poor from this unprecedented surplus of thermonuclear energy.

We are on the threshold of this liberation — scientifically. But does anyone imagine that the nations of the world are ready for it, politically, or socially, or psychologically? It would require a revolution in our thinking and behaving; and while such revolutions happen overnight in science, they are bloody, bitter battles in society — for no one wants his power diminished, even in a higher cause.

Upwards of 7,000 passengers availed themselves of the Rawson Bus Service on Saturday. "It was the largest day's business we ever did," said Mr. Rawson, "despite the fact we were unable to operate from 2:30 until 5:00 p.m. owing to the congested traffic condition on Front Street. We had five buses ready for service, but it was impossible to make anything that resembled a scheduled run during that period."

"When we attempted the afternoon service on two or three occasions it took our buses 18 minutes to proceed from Victoria Avenue to Bridge and Front Streets. Our maximum scheduled time for this distance is but three minutes," added Mr. Rawson. The traffic tie-up came after arrangements had been made to clear Front Street of a heavy snowfall.

Gerald Joyce, president of the Belleville Real Estate Board, is pictured presenting Mr. James Fox with a certificate of Fellowship to the Realtors' Institute. Looking on are (from left to right) Harry Morrison, Mrs. Gerald Joyce, Mrs. James Fox and Mrs. J. E. McKinney.

Real Estate Board Members Enjoy Gala Christmas Party

The annual ladies' night of the Belleville Real Estate Board was held at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel Saturday evening with some 100 persons from real estate circles. A banquet in the 900 suite preceded an evening of entertainment and dancing.

Brief remarks were heard from head table guests Mr. Grant Sickle, Mr. Leighton Thompson and Mr. Gordon Woods, Mr. T. A. Mabold, the treasurer of the Realtors Association, gave a financial report and told the meeting that the volume of sales through the Multiple Listing Service would be approximately $1,500,000 for the year 1964. This shows a 100 per cent increase over 1963.

Mr. James Fox was presented with a certificate earned by successfully completing a three-year Real Estate educational course. The president made the presentation on behalf of the CAREB, the parent association. With the certificate goes the designation FRI (Fellow of the Realtors Institute).

Mr. Joyce reported on the activities of the Belleville Board during the past two years, which period he has been president. He reported that 90 per cent of the Real Estate Brokers in Belleville are now members of the association and can use the designation 'Realtor'. The president presented each firm represented with a certificate indicating their membership with the Belleville Board and the Ontario and Canadian Associations. Mr. Joyce noted this presentation was also of the projects he contemplated while occupying the president's chair.

Mr. Harry Morrison led the gentlemen in a toast to the ladies and Mrs. Ed McKinney replied on behalf of the ladies.

Past president Donald Whalen expressed to Gerald Joyce the appreciation of the membership for his fine efforts while holding the office of president.

The realtors favored each lady with a gift prior to entertaining them in the Madrid Room.

Arson Suspected in Church Fire

RENFREW, Ont. (CP) — An investigator from the Ontario Fire Marshal's office is expected to arrive today to probe a Sunday morning blaze that destroyed 91-year-old St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church.

It was the fourth fire in two months in this Ottawa Valley town, and both Police Chief Tom Wark and Fire Chief M. J. Legris say arson is suspected.

"The church was broken into, the alms boxes robbed and it looks very much like arson," Mr. Wark said Sunday night.

"The fire appeared to have started in at least two locations, and possibly three, in the basement," Mr. Legris said, and a basement window beneath the altar, one of the areas the fire is believed to have started, was broken.

It was estimated that the church, which seated 900 persons, would cost between $600,- 000 and $500,000 to replace. Parish priest is Rt. Rev. R. M. Clarke.

Mr. Legris, who was out of town when the fire started shortly after midnight, said arson has been suspected in all four recent fires.

The Fire Marshal's office was called in on the first two, both involving vacant buildings. The third fire, which established a Presbyterian Church Sunday school hall, caused damage estimated at $40,000. No cause has been established for any of these fires.

Leader Lon Balcer and a smattering of MPs from other parties.

Once the closure motion is passed, the speaking time of individual MPs is halved to 20 minutes each and all debate must end by 1 a.m. Tuesday, when the House must vote on any flag motion or amendment still before it.

The Conservatives look forward to an early vote on the amendment introduced Friday by William H. A. Thomas (PC —Middlesex West) for the official adoption of the Canadian Red Ensign. This vote would clear the way for a final flag speech tonight by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

19 DAYS' DEBATE

The main motion before the Commons for the last 10 days has been a recommendation by the 15-member flag committee of a red and white design—a single stylized red maple leaf on white ground with red panels on each side.

A government spokesman said a resolution will be introduced in the Senate Tuesday at 3 p.m. EST, asking the 102-seat Upper House to concur in the Commons decision.

The government hopes the flag will get swift passage in the Senate, so that the cabinet then may ask Queen Elizabeth to proclaim the new flag by Christmas.

But Senate Opposition Leader Alfred J. Brooks indicated in a weekend interview that "quite a number" of pro-ensign Conservative senators want to speak their minds.

The Senate meets tonight at eight o'clock after a two-week recess and the 34 Conservative senators will be called to a strategy caucus Tuesday or Wednesday.

The government introduced its resolution and a three-leaf flag and official status for the Union Jack on May 27. The formal debate opened June 13 and since then 256 speeches have been made in the various stages.

Conservative MPs accounted for 180 speeches, Liberals 52 and members of the three smaller parties 38.

MAC WRITING BOOK

LONDON (Reuters)—Former British prime minister Harold Macmillan is writing a three-volume book on the great changes that have taken place in his lifetime, it was announced here Saturday. The first volume is expected to be published next fall, with the other parts following at yearly intervals.

Business Suit Will Be Worn By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential styles change with the times and it may well be that Lyndon Johnson will set the pace for modern apparel by wearing a business suit for his inauguration.

A quick check around government historical sources Sunday failed to establish just when morning dress, with cutaway coat, striped trousers and double-breasted waistcoat became the "thing to wear" for presidential inaugurations.

Almost all of the inauguration pictures of this century show presidents in morning dress.

An exception is the fourth term ceremony for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1945. In wartime, it was held on the south portico of the White House and Roosevelt wore a dark business suit with a blue-gray tie. For others, however, Roosevelt wore the more formal dress with top hat.

Dwight Eisenhower set off a hat flurry it. 1953 by announcing he would wear a homburg with his morning dress. Many men broke out in black homburgs and local stores were soon out of the hats.

John F. Kennedy returned to high silk hat. That sparked another flurry. Republican senators, meeting in caucus, decided it wasn't a matter of party policy—what kind of hat to wear—and left it up to individuals.

Queen Mother My Real Pal Says Thomson

LONDON (CP)—Lord Thomson, Canadian - born publisher with worldwide interests, says he gets along "very well" with the Queen and Prince Philip, "but the Queen Mother is my real pal."

Thomson, in an interview with the Sunday Mirror, also says he has never forgotten his habit of thrift.

"I don't spend money on anything unless I get value for it," he told reporter Lionel Crane. "I travel, tourist. When I'm abroad I fly to cut down the words in cables and I still go around turning out lights."

Crane, who found Thomson "unpretentious," says he comes out openly and freely with the kind of thing that other men in his position would regard as gauche.

It is because of this quality, Crane says, that some writers depict Thomson as naive and a bit of a bore but "for my money Lord Thomson is as naive as a fox."

"I accomplished more between 60 and 65 than I'd done in the whole of my life," Thomson is quoted as saying, "and more than that between 65 and 70."

He said he came to Britain from Canada for two reasons: "My wife had died and my boy Kenneth was growing up. I wanted him to find his own way in business. I felt if I stayed he'd always lean on me." Kenneth now is head of the Thomson North American organization.

Crane says Lord Thomson now lives in a big house in Buckinghamshire, eats alone at a table for 10, listens to the radio—"pop stuff, nothing highbrow"—and reads thrillers and financial statements.

"I've gotten to like loneliness," Thomson said.

GM Executive Predicts Good Year in Trade

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors' top executive says 1963 "bids fair to be the fourth consecutive good year for the free world automobile industry."

Frederic G. Donner, chairman of the board of GM, was optimistic in his annual year-end statement, released Sunday night.

Donner predicted the U.S. auto industry would wind up with a record total of 9,400,000 passenger cars and trucks sold in 1964.

"The new high in automotive sales—4.5 per cent above the 9,000,000 sold in the previous record year of 1963, was reached in spite of work stoppages and in some instances, parts and components shortages which disrupted production and sales in the fourth quarter of the year," he said.

PRICES UNCHANGED

The GM executive said new car prices have remained "substantially unchanged since the fall of 1958 even though during this period consumer prices generally have increased more than seven per cent."

Donner said GM's capital expenditures in 1963 are planned at $1,100,000,000, about 20 per cent ahead of the 1964 level.

"Projects are that vehicle sales in the United States next year could well exceed the long - term trend estimate of 7,800,000 passenger cars and 1,400,000 trucks and approximate the levels reached in 1964.

"Outside the U.S., car and truck sales reached an estimated 10,900,000 units in 1964 and should exceed that figure next year."

Donner was the first of the auto industry's top executives to make his year-end forecast. Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co., will issue his Tuesday.

Dear Susanna:

Not having a steam iron, I find that an empty window cleaner spray bottle - one with a fine squeeze type spray, is excellent when filled with water, for creating a fine mist when froning or pressing.

The same bottle is great for wetting trading stamps. Spread a newspaper, and lay out the stamps glue side up. Spray them lightly and stick them in the book as quickly as you can pick them up!

Mrs. Herman Dobson.

Which reminds me of something very seasonal. When you come to decorate your packages with Christmas seals, or if you haven't already stamped and sealed your cards, don't give into the impulse to give them all a quick lick just to get the job over with - for if you do, you'll start to get that old nauseating wish - I hadn't feeling after about the thirty-ninth lick.

Instead, pretend you're some president's secretary and sit yourself down in a business-like way with a sponge in a shallow dish of water. If we run all the glued surfaces over the sponge this way we'll be saving our poor tired tongues for much more important work - like talking.

Intell Staff Holds Annual Yule Party

Upwards of 90 members of the staff and their guests enjoyed the annual Christmas party of the Ontario Intelligencer Saturday night.

The Yule-tide get-together was held at the Shrine Club where stewards Noble Leo Martin, Mrs. Martin and their assistants served a delectable turkey dinner.

Staff consensus was the party was the "best yet" thanks to the fine arrangement of Mrs. Kenny Chambers and her committee.

There were no speeches. City editor Claude Tice had it easy as master-of-ceremonies. Humor was injected at one time when "fictitious" telegrams addressed to certain staff members were read.

Dancing to the rhythms of the Doug Asselstine trio rounded out the enjoyable evening. Novelty dances brought prizes to lucky winners.

Albert College Guild Lists New Executive

When Albert College Guild gathered in the Old Manor for their December meeting it was the spirit of Christmas, in a perfect setting.

Thanks for the charming arrangement of gay decorations that delighted the group throughout the afternoon, go to Mrs. W. H. Finkle and Miss Helen Sulman.

The president, Mrs. Frank Davidson, welcomed the members, the wives of the governors of the college and other guests.

Mrs. George Moore, who arranged the program, led the worship service. The theme was "The Festival of the Home." Mrs. Moore stressed God's way of performing a great task, through the birth of a baby; also that the hope of the world still lies in the Christian home.

Mrs. Moore introduced the guest speaker, Major Homewood, telling of the fine qualifications she brings to the work of the Salvation Army, first in India, and now in Canada, in this city. Her parents were missionaries in China. She received her university degree in nursing, later specializing in public health.

The group listened with interest and pleasure to Mrs. Homewood's story of Christmas in India, celebrated with a blend of western and eastern customs.

For their first Christmas they were stationed in a residential school, with an enrollment of 200. The Indian custom of having new garments for a special season, presented a big problem, until, to their delighted surprise the small brought a cheque for one hundred dollars from a baker in an Ontario town who had often provided buns for their Salvation Army Christmas hampers.

Carol singing had a large place in the Christmas program and proved a wonderful way of proclaiming the Christmas message.

Mrs. J. Demeza, accompanied by Mrs. K. Bird, sang a well-loved Christmas song.

On behalf of the members, Mrs. E. Hickey expressed thanks to Mrs. Homewood, Mrs. Demeza and Mrs. Bird.

During the brief business session the convener of the nominating committee, Mrs. E. M. Hubbs presented the slate of officers for 1965 as follows:

Past president, Mrs. F. Wilson; president, Mrs. F. Davidson; 1st vice-president, Mrs. C. W. Smith; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. H. G. MacKay; recording secretary, Miss Faye Young; assistant, Mrs. H. Barlow; treasurer, Mrs. R. Denyes; press secretary, Miss Madeleine Young; pianist, Mrs. K. Bird; assistant pianist, Mrs. T. F. Townsend; maintenance committee, Mrs. T. C. McMullen, Mrs. W. H. Finkle and Mrs. M. Sprague; social committee, Mrs. N. Brown, Mrs. Dinent, Mrs. MacPhail and Mrs. M. Trotter; membership committee, Mrs. F. Pringle; program committee, Miss Helen Sulman, Mrs. Hyde, Mrs. E. Hickey, Mrs. G. Moore, Mrs. C. Howie, Mrs. W. Graham. Mrs. T. Franks and Miss G. Tucker, and nominating committee, Mrs. E. M. Hobbs, Mrs. F. Wilson and Mrs. E. Fleming.

The social convener, Mrs. Noble Brown and her committee served the delicious goodies of this festive season. Mrs. Winifred Graham and Mrs. S. Cronk presided at the tea table.

Theatre Guild Is Engaged In Producing Radio Plays

After the interesting and exacting workshop given by Norma Springford in the autumn, members of the Belleville Theatre Guild decided to put their energies to work with the enthusiasm and new out looks she had inspired in them. The result appeared in the production of two workshop plays recently presented at the Loft Playhouse.

The Guild met with many difficulties during the production on this one, too few backstage workers and far, far too few male actors. Working with people who had never played together before and who in some cases had no stage experience whatsoever, the Guild yet put forth an acceptable, creditable, and (according to the audience) enjoyable performance of the two plays — The Old Lady Shows Her Medals, directed by George Brickwood, and "Queens of France," directed by Gordon Collins. Those taking part were Karen and Peter Williamson, George and Ann Brickwood, Irene Turnbull, Flo Yanover, and Gene Blanks, Jerri Slater, Lorraine Fell, Helen Sulman, Richard Blanks and Maurice Sine.

The Guild is now engaged in the production of a few radio plays, and hope to be able to produce a three act play in the spring. The Guild needs all the support that say alive community owes to the performing arts and welcomes all those who are interested in active participation.

Church Groups

THE ALLIANCE CHURCH PIONEER GIRLS

Amid a beautiful setting of lighted poinsettia, holly wreaths and Christmas trees, the Colonist Group of the Pioneer Girls held their Christmas dessert party recently with their mothers as guests, in the lower auditorium of the Alliance Church.

Mrs. C. Fenton, chief guide of the Colonists welcomed the guests and turned the program over to Chief Linda Parks. A carol-fest, led by Mrs. F. Allan, was much enjoyed by all and this was followed by the reading of the Scripture by Sharon Parks and a duet by Cathy Thompson and Rhea Green.

A symposium panel of seven girls in costume, presented the Christmas story in an effective manner. They took as their topic of discussion, "Who Is Jesus?"

At the conclusion of the program, the girls presented their mothers with lovely plaster of paris poinsettia candle holders which they had made in their group meetings previously.

A delicious lunch of assorted desserts, cakes and cookies was served by Miss H. Dyck and Mrs. J. Chumbley.

LAND DEAL

U.C.W. Meetings

CENTENARY — The December meeting of Centenary United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. A. Christopher with an attendance of 20.

The president, Mrs. A. Christopher opened the meeting with a Christmas poem. The worship service was led by Mrs. E. Hart and Mrs. R. Edmondson assisted by Mrs. H. Hancock, Mrs. B. Harder, Mrs. F. Meens, Mrs. L. Pearson and Mrs. Roy Nobes. The past president, Mrs. L. Pearson, presented Mrs. R. Edmondson with a life membership in the United Church Women. Mrs. R. Thrasher presented the pin and Mrs. E. Hart the certificate. Mrs. Edmondson, although completely surprised thanked the members for this honor bestowed on her. Mrs. D. Holton who was unable to be present will be presented with a life membership at a later date.

Nuns Cast Off Antiquity By Substituting Modern Dress to Represent Order

By NORMAN ROWLAND

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—The nun, identified since the middle ages by her black, rumsomore garb, has begun to cast off antiquity to keep pace in this world of the atom.

Two young Roman Catholic sisters here belonging to the Order of St. Ursuline are substituting modern dress for their traditional, medieval-style habit.

"I feel like I've been freed and let out of armor," said Sister Immaculata, who now looks more like an airline stewardess than a servant of the church.

Her snappy new outfit consists of a straight, black skirt that strikes the leg just below the knee, and a black weskit over a white, long - sleeved blouse.

The order's motto, Only for the Glory of God, is sewn on the weskit. Headquarters of the order is in Paola, Kan.

Sister Immaculata's partner in new fashion is Sister Stephen, who designed the outfit. Both teach at Bishop McGuinness High School in Oklahoma City.

NUN 'MAD'

"I feel like I have gender again," said Sister Immaculata after wearing her new outfit, for several days.

"I once took some courses at Marquette University," she said, "and they gave me a card on which I was supposed to check my sex—man, woman or sister. It made me mad!"

The experiment in fashion, given impetus by the Vatican council in Rome recently, was authorized by Sister Immaculata's superior, Mother Charles McGrath of Paola.

Sister Stephen said the community may vote on whether to adopt the change next August.

Reaction from priests and other nuns generally has been favorable.

One admiring nun from another order commented: "I pray to God we're next."

Sister Stephen predicted that all major orders in the U.S. will make drastic changes within the next five to 10 years. Some already have started a trend.

MODIFY HABITS

The Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul in St. Louis modified their habits in September, raising the hemline six inches from the floor and making other alterations.

Most of the negative comment we've heard came when we said what we were going to do," Sister Stephen said. "One priest told me, 'you know you're going to look older, don't you?'

"I'll admit I thought a little about that. Every woman, even if she's a nun, has some vanity," she said.

Besides making them feel so, if they have a personal identity, both nuns agreed the new habits are more practical and comfortable.

Oklahoma's hot summers are particularly hard on nuns wearing the traditional habit.

"You perspire so much," Sister Stephen said. "You wake up wet, you work wet, you go to bed wet."

SCHOLASTIC LINK

REGINA (CP)—Tarnia Worboy, 14, restricted to her bedroom by a waist-high plaster cast, is learning her school lessons by intercom. Injured in a basketball accident, she now receives all lessons from nearby Sheldon Williams collegiate through the electrically operated intercom.

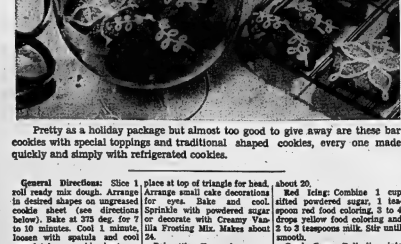
AVONDALE NEIGHBORS-AID

Mrs. Della Wiley was the hostess for the Christmas meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid.

A goodly number of old friends and new were present in the gaily decorated recreation room where a pot luck dinner was enjoyed, after which there was an exchange of gifts.

Necessary items of business were transacted, followed by a special prayer and a moment's silence in memory of a former member, Esther Elder.



A beautiful Christmas story was read by a chartered member, Pearl Holmes.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent with games and visiting with one another.

The January meeting will be at Marion Anger's home on Avondale Road.

HEADLINE FASHIONS

MONTREAL (CP) — The new and the different make the headlines, "but the classics are what sell best," says Mary Philips, head of the public relations department of a British coat manufacturer. She says that in Canada, the U.S. and England "fashion editors tend to pick the same, more extreme styles, but the general public goes on buying the classics."

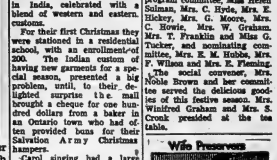
Fancy Christmas Cookies

Pretty as a holiday package but almost too good to give away are these bar cookies with special toppings and traditional shaped cookies, every one made quickly and simply with refrigerated cookies.

General Directions: Slice 1 roll ready mix dough. Arrange in desired shapes on ungreased cookie sheet (see directions below). Bake at 375 deg. for 7 to 10 minutes. Cool 1 minute, loosen with spatula and cool completely on cookie sheet.

Angels: For each, cut a narrow strip from two sides of cookie slice, leaving a triangular piece for "body." Place cut pieces at sides for wings. Make a ball from ¼ of another slice; place at top of triangle for head. Arrange small cake decorations for eyes. Bake and cool. Sprinkle with powdered sugar or decorate with Creamy Vanilla Frosting Mix. Makes about 24.

Poinsettias: For each, arrange 5 half-slices with points together, straight edges facing the same direction. Bake and cool. Outline edge of cookies with red icing and place a yellow gumdrop piece in the centre. Makes about 20.



Red Icing: Combine 1 cup sifted powdered sugar, 1 tablespoon red food coloring, 3 to 4 drops yellow food coloring and 2 to 3 teaspoons milk. Stir until smooth.

Candy Canes: Roll slices into pencil-like strips 4 inches long. Shape into canes and bake. Frost baked Candy Canes with Creamy Vanilla Frosting Mix. Make stripes with red icing (see recipe above.) Makes about 60.

Cheesecake For Holiday Dessert

By MARY MOORE

High on the long list of baking to do for Christmas was a tantalizing new method for a cheesecake with a clear red glaze over red fruit for a topping. I made it, served it to eight and had a proud moment when two of the guests said "Best I ever tasted" and one of the men had three servings.

This cheesecake would be beautiful on a Christmas buffet table or as a dessert for Christmas dinner or the featured item for a Christmas dessert party with coffee.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Steamed Wieners on Sauerkraut; Mustard Sauce; Mashed Potatoes; Sliced Cucumbers in Sour Cream; Raisin Rice Pudding with Top Milk; Tea.

HOLIDAY CHEESECAKE
(Serves 12 to 16)
Crumb Crust

1¼ cups graham cracker crumbs, rolled or ground, powder fine, (you need half of 13½-oz. box graham crackers), ¼ cup melted butter, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon mace.

Filling

16 oz. white cream cheese (two 8-oz. packages — room temperature), 8 oz. cottage cheese, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups granulated sugar, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, well-packed (from 1 large lemon), 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Topping and Glaze

1 cup dairy sour cream, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, one 15-oz. package sliced fresh frozen strawberries (20% sugar), 4 teaspoons arrowroot flour (or cornstarch — arrowroot gives a clearer glaze), 2 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon red food coloring, whipping cream.

To Make Crumb Crust:—If you have a blender it is simple to make the graham crackers into crumbs in it— dropping broken pieces through aperture at top as knife rotates. Or put through grinder 2 or 3 times or roll with rolling pin until powder fine. To the 1¼ cups crumbs add the melted butter, sugar and mace. Mix well. Press onto sides and bottom of spring-form pan. This takes patience for you want a thin even coating which reaches about 2" up sides of pan. Chill crust.

To Make Filling—In beater bowl beat together until velvet smooth the cream cheese, cottage cheese and salt, then gradually add the sugar until blended.

Beat in eggs, one at a time, until smooth. Stir in lemon rind and vanilla. Pour into chilled crust in spring-form pan. Stand pan on cookie sheet and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 70 minutes, or until risen at centre. Remove from oven. (Do not turn off heat yet.)

To Make Topping—Mix together the sour cream, sugar and vanilla and spread evenly over hot cake. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes longer. Turn off heat and leave cake in oven 30 minutes longer. (Cake falls at centre—but don't be discouraged for this turns out alright). Remove cake from oven and cool. Remove outer spring-form but leave cake on bottom of pan. Cool and chill.

To Make Glaze—Drain thawed fresh frozen strawberries through sieve thoroughly. Measure juice. You should have nearly 1 cup. Note: If desired fresh frozen raspberries may be used instead of fresh frozen strawberries.) Mix together the arrowroot flour (or cornstarch), sugar and stir in the strained juice and red food coloring and cook, stirring, over medium heat until thick and clear. Cool. Arrange drained sliced strawberries evenly over top of chilled cheesecake. Pour cooled red glaze evenly over top, pushing it right to the edge. This may be done 3 hours in advance of serving time.

Stand cheesecake on large serving dish (leaving it on spring-form base) and decorate bottom edge with piping or puffs of whipped cream. Pass remaining whipped cream to serve over each portion at the table. Sensational

Note—If you are very pressed for time this cheesecake may be made 24 hours in advance.

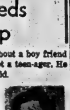
Ann Landers



Nervous Eater Needs Professional Help

DEAR ANN LANDERS — What can I do about a boy friend whose chief interest in life is food? Sidney is not a teen-ager. He is 24 years old and plenty overweight, I might add.

Sidney never holds my hand in a movie because he is too busy shovelling popcorn into his mouth. At football games, while other couples hold hands, Sidney must have his hands free — for the hot dogs and potato chips. Even when he drives the car one hand is in a bag of jelly beans.

The other evening while we were watching TV Sidney was munching on leeches nuts till I thought I'd lose my mind. When I saw him to the door he said, "I'd kiss you goodnight, dear, but I can't seem to get rid of this salt water taffy."

I could compete with another female, Ann, but how does one compete with food? Help, Please. — TENA.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR TENA — Sidney sounds like a nervous eater. And he could eat himself into an early grave unless he resolves the problems that are driving him to food.

A 24-year-old man who is so busy with salt-water taffy that he can't kiss his girl goodnight needs professional help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Some people I work with didn't like the advice you gave the stepmother who despised her husband's 16-year-old daughter.

When the stepmother wrote, "My husband is on my side" I knew what the poor kid was up against. You said the stepdaughter would be better off in a foster home. This was a pretty bold piece of advice but you were right.

My stepmother yanked me out of dancing school after two lessons because I was a "clumsy cow." After three voice lessons she decided I was tone deaf I had four piano lessons and then my parents knocked off because I was "too dumb" to learn. I wasn't too dumb to do the washing and ironing and scrub the floors.)

In the 12 years I buttered my bread in that house my father never said one decent word to me. If it weren't for the moral support of two wonderful high school teachers I would have headed for the river. You were right and don't let anyone tell you different. — ALSO STEPPED ON.

DEAR ALSO — Dozens of readers did tell me different but my position is unchanged.

The hostility of the stepmother and the total absence of sympathy on the part of the father persuaded me that the girl didn't stand a chance under that roof — and I said so.

At times my advice makes many people angry but I'm not trying to win a popularity contest. I'm trying to help those who need it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Jack has asked me to marry him but something is holding me back. He loves children and I don't want to be bothered.

The thought of having a family upsets me. My figure is great and I don't want to lose it —even temporarily. I become sick to my stomach when I think of feeding and diapering the little brats. Being stuck at home with them would be a drag.

Jack talks to strange kids on the street and can pick up any dirty, ragged little kid and love him to pieces. I'm sure he'd insist on a family.

Should I marry Jack under these conditions? And don't suggest a psychiatrist. I won't go. I just want a yes or no. — HONEST BABE.

DEAR BABE — It would be a dirty trick to marry Jack And it would be an even dirtier trick to the children you might bring into the world. Stay single or find an oddball like yourself.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women's Institutes

MARMORA W.I.

MARMORA — The December meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Naylor with a good attendance.

The meeting was chaired by the president, Mrs. George Empey. The financial report showed that $73 had been realized at the Christmas bazaar and bake sale.

The sum of $50 was allocated to the Public Library and $10 donated to Marmora Legion to assist in Christmas baskets. Cards to community members in hospital and bereaved had been sent. A letter was read from leaders of "Focus on Finishes" that a class will be held beginning January 14th.

A contest was won by Mrs. H. W. Sabine; an apron by Mrs. E. Post and box of assorted cookies by Mrs. Cecil Neal. A reading on "Early Christmases in Canada" taken from the Farmers' Advocate was read by Mrs. L. Green.

Gifts were drawn from a hidden source and were displayed by each.

Church Groups

ST. JAMES THE MINOR C.W.L.

STIRLING — A happy holiday spirit was much in evidence at the meeting and several visitors of the Catholic Women's League of St.-James the Minor parish, Stirling, held their annual Christmas party. A well decorated tree piled high with gifts was the centre of attraction. Mrs. J. Forestell, president welcomed one and all, especially the newcomers to the parish, and hoped they would return again.

A brief business meeting followed with Mrs. Stan Meeks, chairman of the party committee, reporting that all was in readiness for the children's Christmas party to be held on December 20th, after Mass, in the recreation rooms. Every child, including high school students, will receive a gift and bag of candy.

The euchre card parties, organized by the ladies will resume again, early in the new year, with all proceeds going toward parish expenses. Several new card tables have been purchased for these affairs.

Mrs. J. Doran, hostess for the delightful party, presided over two games which were won by Miss Alice O'Donnell and Mrs. Gerald Kerby, after which Mrs. S. Meeks and Mrs. Ray Burley gave suitable Christmas readings.

Rev. J. McCarvey, director, was presented with a gift from the League.

The evening concluded with the ladies exchanging gifts and enjoying a social hour.

Successful Living

Self-Discipline Must Be Learned the Hard Way

DEAR DORIS — I am 17 and in love. I am the only one in my family so therefore I am spoiled rotten. I want my own way all the time and I get it.

Back in June I gave in to Al. I know I shouldn't but it did happen. Now I would like to get back on my former basis with him and really need help.

My advice to teen-agers is: Don't go steady. Try not to spend too much time alone. Because you could be like me, and say it could never happen to you. But it did. And you will regret it all your life like I will. — FULL OF REGRET

DORIS CLARK

DEAR FULL — Repairing the damage, backtracking on your relationship, is close to impossible. The only other alternative is to give Al up.

Might I suggest that you try taking your own advice and avoid the situations which make intimacies possible? You'll have to learn self-discipline the hard way.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — I am a widow 42 with three teen-age children. When we had car trouble two fellows picked us up and helped us. Took us to dinner at a hotel.

My daughter told me who they were, and they were both single. I just couldn't help looking at this one fellow. Now I have seen him in town quite often and I can say the love in my heart just burns for him.

Is it proper for a woman to write to a man first? Some friends of mine have told me he is interested and asked about me, but they say he is shy. I do wish he would get brave and ask me out! — NOT-SO-MERRY WIDOW.

DEAR NOT-SO- — No better time than merry old Yule to drop a Christmas card bearing a message about being home for tea and a Christmas cookie. Or a happy month via Christmas cake. Have a try at turning bashfulness to bravery.

• • •

DEAR DORIS — My fiance and I are getting married in January and we have a problem concerning our reception. His religion does not believe in dancing, drinking and smoking. As far as drinking is concerned, we are having the reception in the church hall and liquor is not allowed.

The question is this: How do we keep both sides of the family satisfied and still have the church wedding and reception that we want? — BRIDIE.

DEAR BRIDIE — Surely the church-hall reception means, to both sides, no liquor! And did you know that bride's counsellors advise against alcohol, at the most sophisticated of weddings?

How about a tremendous bowl of non-alcoholic fruit punch on the table? This would be the toasting beverage. If dancing is just out, a solo, a quartette, (perhaps barbershop style) even a general sing-song, could provide agreeable entertainment following the toasts.

Don't forget that bride and groom must arrange a time to circulate among the guests. Parents on both sides can help strangers to meet and mix. Ask them to help you create the good fellowship and well-wishing which is the essence of a successful wedding party.

Says Sir John Was Alcoholic For Five Years

TORONTO (CP)—The sugar-coated version of Sir John A. Macdonald and the Charlottetown Confederation conference should be dropped and Canadian history students taught the truth about the gathering, Frank McKinnon, principal of Prince of Wales College in Charlottetown, said Friday.

Mr. MacKinnon told 450 delegates at the Ontario Curriculum Institute's annual meeting that students should be informed that Sir John, Canada's first prime minister, was an alcoholic for five years.

He said they should also be taught that the Charlottetown conference, besides helping to bring about Confederation, included five days of eating, drinking and partying by the Fathers of Confederation.

Mr. MacKinnon criticized educational techniques which he termed precast, prefabricated, ready-mix, instant, predigested and sugar-coated.

Citing French classes as an example of why school curriculums should be redesigned, he said that "there are thousands of young people studying French who could never carry on a conversation with a French - speaking youth."

In areas of Canada remote from Quebec, "teaching French is a joke because a real French-speaking Canadian is never seen from one year to the next," he said.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford population was augmented considerably on Saturday when the Santa Claus parade and the Jehovah Witness Assembly were being held on the same day.

The Santa Claus parade in Campbellford on Saturday was a pleasing and in some aspects a disappointment.

First the music, six bands had been repeatedly advertised, and only three bands appeared, in all due appreciation to young players, two of the three were amateur, but the Drum Corps Legion Band from Cobourg added greatly to the musical appreciation of the parade.

Missing from this year's parade were the Trenton Air Force band, a pipe band, and the Campbellford Citizens' Band. The home town band is looked for and welcomed and missed when it does not appear, as was evident among the viewers.

Changes also appeared in the nature of the floats, only a few portrayed the Mother Goose nursery rhymes which children understand and love, but all were colorful and it was evident a lot of time had been spent to make them attractive.

Campbellford, three service clubs, Rotary, Lions and Kinsmen, were represented by floats, the Rotary with Little Red Riding Hood, the Lions with Old 57 engine, car and caboose, the Kinsmen with the Flintstones.

Campbellford fire department won a prize depicting The Three Little Pigs.

The Shriners from Belleville and Peterborough presented the Camel Herders, a colorful pageant of sheiks, with a mock camel. This entry portraying life in The East, while perhaps not so well understood by children may have stimulated their imagination. A prize was awarded on the basis of the best costumes.

Special mention should be made of the Stapley family's contribution to the parade, which was three antique cars in almost perfect condition. An old steam engine with its piercing whistle, conveying a fleet on which were members of the Campbellford Senior Citizens' Club enjoying read card games.

The prize for the best float went to Sharpe's Market portraying a family enjoying Christmas dinner and party.

St. Mary's School portrayed the Nativity scene.

Included also in the parade were various other decorated vehicles bringing to public notice health and welfare organizations, a number of clowns, "Sad Boy" in prison stripes carrying a live coon perched on his head and shoulders, a couple of fire trucks seen in more exciting moments and some purely local advertising floats.

Visitor to Campbellford and riding in the parade was Russell Howe, M.P.P. of Cobourg.

Judges for the prizes were Mrs. W. Pope, Mrs. W. F. Scott and Mrs. Jesse Locke.

The marshals in "ye olde English" costumes were John Cowell, William Mackenzie.

Santa passed out bags of candy and children under twelve were treated to a free show at the Aron Theatre.

Film Showing Highlights Three Day Convention

CAMPBELLFORD — Jehovah's Witnesses sponsored a film showing in Campbellford over the past weekend which attracted an audience of 648. This was a high point of the three-day convention held in Campbellford District High School.

"Proclaiming Everlasting Good News Around the World" was the film's title. Produced by the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society during a series of conventions in 22 countries in 1963, the film centred around the theme of the influence of ancient Babylon on religions and cultures around the world.

Alleging a common Babylonish origin for many practises in both Heathendom and Christendom, the picture featured striking similarities in temples, doctrines and forms of worship.

For instance, belief in a trinune god was shown to be common to both "Christian" and Pagan religions.

The narrator, Mr. Laurier Saumer, district supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses, claimed other evidences of Babylonish influence were belief in inherent immortality of the human soul and a hell of fiery torment.

Scenes of large conventions with different races and nationalities mingling happily, supported the Witnesses' claim to having overcome the divisive barriers of races and languages by a return to what they claim to be "pure Bible religion, untainted with Babylonish practises."

Mr. Saumer encouraged his audience to take up a careful Bible study to enable themselves to clearly identify "Babylon the Great" as the world empire of false religion and to escape from it before its impending destruction.

The convention had drawn delegates from points as far as Belleville, Bancroft and Peterborough. They reviewed progress made over the year and made plans for expansion during the next six months.

AUSTRALIAN CURRENCY CHANGE — In February 1966, Australia will switch over to decimal currency from its present English-style system of pounds, shillings and pence. The changeover will bring Australia into line with most other countries in the world. These are the final designs in plaster models which will be used in making of the coin dies. They may undergo minor technical modifications. The designs, for the reverse side, are from left: 50-cent piece with a coat of arms; a 20-cent piece with the Platypus; a 10-cent piece with a lyre bird; a 5-cent piece with an Echidna (or spiny ant-eater); a 2-cent piece with a frill-necked lizard; and a 1-cent piece with a feather-tailed glider. Australia Joins Dollar Bloc

By ROBERT COLEMAN
Canadian Press Correspondent

MELBOURNE (CP)—D (for Decimal) Day is coming up for Australians in February, 1966. When it comes, the nation will switch over to decimal currency from its present English-style system of pounds, shillings and pence.

The changeover will bring Australia into line with most other countries in the world. It will be ahead of Britain and New Zealand, both planning similar switches.

Although Australia still uses the pounds, shillings and pence of its mother country, it is not on parity with the British sterling pound. The Australian pound has a lower value and is worth about $2.40 in Canadian dollars.

In the present system there are 12 pennies (pence) to the shilling and 20 shillings to the pound. For convenience in the changeover the new Australian dollar will be the equivalent of 10 shillings (two dollars to the pound).

This means the cent will be equal to 1.2 pence, five cents will be equal to sixpence and 10 cents equal to the present shilling.

NO $2 NOTE

In the new currency, coin denominations will be one, two, five, 10, 20, and 50. The notes will be $1, $2, $10 and $20. There will be no $5 note.

The Reserve Bank, government officials and a specially set up decimal currency board have been wrestling with the problems of the conversion for several years. In doing so they have tackled a task of huge magnitude.

The conversion will cost millions — office machinery, such as cash registers, accounting machines and typewriters will have to be converted. So will vending machines, coin machines of various kinds, parking meters and the like. But economists say the saving to industry will make the cost well worthwhile.

Education of the public has begun already, starting with the schools. But some confusion is expected in the early days of the changeover. At first there will be a shake - down period with both currencies being legal tender.

The public generally has accepted the principle well, though there are bound to be some initial grumblers. Most people realize the advantages to be gained from the decimal system, but some have pointed out it is bound to bring some price increases—and this will be true.

Some of the coins are already being minted. There is some doubt whether the notes will be ready in time, and it is possible notes of current design expressed in dollars may be used.

The first name chosen by the federal cabinet for the main unit of decimal currency was "royal." When followed a request by the government for suggestions which drew such ideas as "Austral," "Quid" (nickname for the pound) "Roo", "Deener" (nickname for the shilling), "Emu," "Kelly" (after Ned Kelly, legendary Australian outlaw) and many other absurdities. Many, of course, suggested "dollar," but the government wanted something different.

The decision brought a torrent of criticism on the prime minister, Sir Robert Menzies, some rudely claiming the newly-knighted prime minister has given way to an excess of patriotism to the Crown.

Finally the cabinet bowed to public opinion and the name "dollar" was substituted.

The banknotes will include a likeness of the Queen.

The coins will all bear an effigy of the Queen on the obverse ("head") side. It is the one recently approved by the Queen for use on all coins of Commonwealth countries where appropriate.

"Roo", "Deener" (nickname the coins, will carry designs of Australian wildlife.

Some critics of the new coins deplored replacement of the old-style Latin legend "Elizabeth II Dei Gratia Regina F.D." with the straight-forward "Elizabeth II — Australia" and the date. Some church leaders complained about omission of "F.D." (Defender of the Faith.)

Youth Jolts Pravda Editor

MOSCOW (AP) — A Russian youth who wrote that he does not want to fight American soldiers was denounced Sunday in the Soviet youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda.

The youth apparently jolted the editors with this statement: "I know that our uncles in military uniform now understand the word 'enemy' to mean 'GI'. Well, let them—this is their work. But I don't want war. And I don't want to kill people who haven't done me any harm."

Writer Leonid Likhodyev argued in reply that Soviet military leaders weren't calling U.S. soldiers the enemy. It is really the American "uncles in military uniform" who are calling Russian soldiers the enemy, he said.

Health Officers Battling Sharp Resurgence of VD

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian health officials are combatting widespread ignorance about venereal disease in an attempt to stem a sharp resurgence of VD in the last nine years.

Statistics show the incidence of cases has risen at the fastest rate among teen - agers and young adults. The federal health department recently published a slim pamphlet to educate young people about VD.

Called, Confidentially, to Teen-Agers, the pamphlet warns that syphilis "when not adequately treated, may cause heart failure, blindness, paralysis, mental deterioration and may eventually lead to death."

The pamphlet adds that gonorrhea can cause sterility or arthritis. Dr. S. E. Acres of the health department said in an interview that demand for the booklet has been brisk from provincial health agencies and voluntary organizations.

In simple language, the booklet argues for good moral conduct and urges young people to see a doctor quickly if they suspect they are contracting VD.

Doctors blame the VD increase on a loosening of moral standards, increased mobility of the population and a lack of public concern.

Last year 2,785 cases of syphilis were reported in Canada, compared with the post-war low of 2,038 in 1958.

Before penicillin was in use to treat the disease, figures were much higher for instance, 16,475 cases were reported in 1944.

But officials say the availability of penicillin caused many people to drop their guard about the seriousness of contracting VD.

REPORT FEW CASES

United States surveys, which are believed to apply to Canada as well, show that only 10 to 11 per cent of all cases are reported.

This would mean that the actual number of syphilis cases in Canada last year might be closer to 30,000.

Of last year's reported cases, 645 were infectious syphilis—in an early state that can be contracted from male-female contact. Homosexual behavior in metropolitan areas also contributs to the spread of infectious syphilis.

Non-infectious syphilis continues to harm the body but cannot be passed on through personal contact. It can, however, be passed on to babies at childbirth.

Since 1958 the syphilis rate has quadrupled to 4.2 cases per 100,000 population from 1.2.

In the 20-39 age group it has increased since 1960 to 15.4 per 100,000 population from 10.9 for males, and to 5.8 from 2.5 for females.

Gonorrhea increased to 19,411 reported cases last year from a post-war low of 14,300 in 1955.

Troops Aid In Floods In Wales

SHREWSBURY, England (AP)—Hundreds of troops with amphibious vehicles were mobilized in Wales and the west of England today for relief operations after disastrous weekend floods.

More than two inches of rain in 24 hours sent the Severn and Wye Rivers overflowing their banks, flooding thousands of acres of low - lying land.

In Newtown ot. the Severn, hundreds of homes and stores were flooded seven to eight feet deep. Aberystwyth, a Welsh coast resort with 10,000 population, was cut off by road and rail.

A 23-year-old girl was swept away by flood waters at Aberhonfig, Glamorgan shire. At Hamstall Ridware, Staffordshire, a 20-year-old man was lost from a capsized ferry.

A major alert was called for mid - morning, when flood waters were expected to send the Wye over the top by as much as 18 feet above their normal level.

WETTEST SUNDAY

Manchester is famous for the English is synonymous with rain, had its wettest Sunday since 1916. Over two inches of rain in 18 hours.

Hundreds of families were forced to flee their homes in farming valleys.

Reg Kinsey, manager of a Newtown supermarket, spent the night on top of an icebox trapped by the waters invading his store.

The Flintshire village of Bangor - on - Dee was five feet underwater.

Heavy snows blocked roads in north and west Scotland. Fierce winds over the Atlantic delayed all Sunday flights into London from New York.

Liberal Member Calls for Change In Criminal Code

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Marvin Gelber, Liberal member of Parliament for York South, called Sunday for changes in Canada's Criminal Code to make distribution of hate literature and incitement against groups a crime.

Mr. Gelber said in an interview the Criminal Code at present does not meet "the serious problems" of that literature and incitement against ethnic and religious groups.

He later spoke in the first of a series of anti-discrimination programs sponsored by the B'nai Moses Ben Joda Synagogue Sisterhood Education Committee.

The problem of free speech and the law has not been critically examined in Canada since the 1930s, he said. The Common law crime of sedition should be narrowed to fall within the 1951 Code.

While wanting to "preserve the great traditions of free speech which is the cornerstone of our democracy," he said, there should be a critical examination within these traditions of the items dealing with "sedition, spreading of false news and the distribution of information to bring them into line with the current views of society."

"...I believe we should recapture the common law view that incitement against groups is a crime."

Mr. Gelber said it is not necessary for Canadians to move away from the traditions of law in dealing with the problems of its within our heritage of freedom to protect freedom (of groups) through wise legislation."

"While the rights of free speech must be protected, so too does the right of groups to "a peaceable enjoyment of society," he added.

World Spotlight Algeria Suffers Internal Injuries

The Associated Press spotlight this week describes Algeria two years after she gained independence from France. It also discusses a new breed of Chinese on the horizon, the introduction of an extradition treaty between Brazil and the United States and Japanese cost-of-living increases.

ALGIERS (AP) — This new "window to Africa" can become beautiful one of the most beautiful spots on earth, but today it is torn by a thousand conflicts.

Algeria has a coast line that matches the beauty of the south coast of France, or the north coast of California. The climate is balmy. Palm trees, orange trees, lemon trees are right in the Mediterranean shoreline. The hills are full of grouse.

Algeria is an hour's flight from the heart of Paris and Italy, but sometimes is 500 years away in time. In other respects, it is a modern country, with railways and big cities.

The French and many other Westerners insist Algeria is the best spot of any on the earth to reach African countries still tottering on their feet after freshly gained independence. Communist leaders think so, too.

Many foreigners in Algeria, but not all, believe President Ahmed Ben Bella's government is likely to be around for more than army seems to be with him. He has liquidated or exiled several important enemies in the struggle for power and has stirred up new resistance as well.

Algeria won its independence two years ago after a seven-year rebellion.

DIRECTED THE COUNTRY

For 130 years the French had directed the country, reaping the best land, owning most of the business. There were a million of them, women, children and 300,000 men who provided the administrators, the big merchants, the land operators, the city and government officials, bankers, teachers, builders and artisans.

Then, suddenly in 1961-62, they were gone, by mass. Barely 100,000 French remain, and those for the most part have a feeling of insecurity created by secret arrests, property seizures and harassments that go on despite the government's expressed desire to cultivate close ties to France.

Streets and sidewalks in Algiers are swept and washed regularly. Cafes are crowded every day. Stores and restaurants are run by Algerians.

Movements of foreigners are restricted, but tourists and others can wander freely almost any place.

The vineyards are free of weeds and the vines well trimmed. Vast tracts of land, heeded to winter grain, look like new grain fields should look.

The real troubles run deeper, with desperation of the government 90 per cent of the administrative and technical personnel. That cannot be replaced soon.

PHONES MIXED UP

A sample is the foul-up in the Algiers telephone system. Suddenly a whole section will be cut off, and when service is restored, all the numbers are different.

The big hope for the country is Sahara oil and gas. The fields were developed during the revolution and Ben Bella wants a bigger share of the proceeds than the country has been getting, to develop the country.

Last year the Algerian share of the oil revenue was about $50,000,000. Ben Bella wants it at least doubled in contracts now under negotiation.

Even with the revenue from the oil, development of the country will be slow. Ben Bella emphasized his government's prime interest in the Commonwealth and there the French with cooling ardor for the family of nations.

The procedure for calling Commonwealth conferences is for the various premiers to be polled quietly on their desires and on the dates—the so-called soundings.

Wilson is expected to see Pearson again in January after the British premier's second round of talks with President Johnson in Washington on the Atlantic Alliance. Wilson also is scheduled to return a recent visit by Prime Minister Shastri of India.

Naples Beauty Ready to Gun For Killer

NAPLES (AP)—A brunette beauty of the Naples underworld sat dry-eyed and motionless as she heard a court announce a reduced sentence for the man who killed her husband nine years ago.

The only sign of emotion from "Pupetta" (Little Doll) Maresca was a narrowing of her blue eyes and a tightening of her pretty lips.

She had written a letter to the presiding judge herself vowing to kill Carlo Gaetano Orlando, the man convicted of slaying her husband, if he were not sent back to prison.

Orlando, the first been sentenced to 30 years in prison on a charge of doing the killing on his own. The sentence was set aside on appeal and a new trial was ordered.

Today, Saturday's verdict, in court sentenced him to 21 years for homicide without premeditation.

Pupetta, now 29, has served nine years of a 13-year term for killing Orlando in self-defense. She said he had hired Orlando to kill her husband, Pasquale Simonetti.

MARRIED TWO MONTHS

Simonetti and Pupetta, celebrated in Naples for her beauty, were married only two months when he was killed in July 1955. She went gunning for underworld boss Orlando Ercolano.

She told a court she was convinced Esposito had ordered her husband's murder in a dispute over underworld rights in a struggle for control of the Naples produce market.

Orlando denied being hired to kill. Testifying recently in the courtroom where Pupetta was brought from prison to face his ness, he said Simonetti reached for his belt during a heated discussion.

"I thought he was going for a gun," said Orlando. "It was him."

In her letter to Judge Vittorio Tangari, Pupetta begged him to convict Orlando.

"Otherwise," she wrote, "he only has three years to live. When I get out of jail in three years, I will kill him and then kill myself. That would rest on your conscience for the rest of your life."

Commonwealth Prime Ministers Likely to Meet

LONDON (CP)—A new conference of Commonwealth prime ministers appears to be in the cards for this coming January, diplomatic government sources said Sunday.

It is "natural" to expect such a conference during a new Minister Wilson's Labor government has taken over from Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservatives, they said.

That was their reaction to a report in the Sunday Telegraph reported that Wilson has "decided to begin the first soundings aimed at holding a conference with his brother premiers as early as possible in the new year.

A spokesman at 10 Downing Street said Sunday the report is "only speculation" and "there is no arrangement as yet for anything." He said he does not know whether Wilson discussed such a meeting with Prime Minister Pearson on his Ottawa visit last week.

But the spokesman emphasized his government's prime interest in the Commonwealth and there the French with cooling ardor for the family of nations.

The procedure for calling Commonwealth conferences is for the various premiers to be polled quietly on their desires and on the dates—the so-called soundings.

Wilson is expected to see Pearson again in January after the British premier's second round of talks with President Johnson in Washington on the Atlantic Alliance. Wilson also is scheduled to return a recent visit by Prime Minister Shastri of India.

aing to worry about their future.

Subconsciously they are, becoming far more strongly aware than ever before of the power that could play a big part in deciding their future—Communist China.

Peking's efforts on the ideological, scientific and guerilla fronts have been partly responsible for this awareness.

But they're also aware, as nowhere more apparent than in this tiny refugee-packed colony just perching on the doorstep of the Red giant.

Most of this colony legally goes back to Peking in 33 years, when a 99-year lease expires.

The British government's grim prospect of being enveloped by Peking is not appealing. After all, they pulled out, most of their parents left China to escape from communism.

But the reality there is no escape. The educated one per cent with money and contacts will probably get to the United States, England or Canada.

The other 99 per cent that makes up a sort of middle class has a chance of going to Formosa, or Communism.

But for the majority, this colony is the end of the line. This is the next face a wall of hopelessness.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A "not welcome" sign for American fugitives will be officially posted in Brazil's ports and airports Thursday.

The move - delayed extradition treaty between the two countries goes into effect then, stripping Brazil of its role as a haven for fugitives who come here will be suts," says one U.S. official.

Under the treaty, Brazil is obliged to return any U.S. citizen accused or convicted of committing, in the United States, participating in any of 32 crimes. These range from murder to piracy, robbery and bribery.

The United States is likewise bound to return Brazilian citizens for these offenses.

NO DEATH PENALTY

Neither country need return any of its citizens charged with a person under penalty of death or in danger of being put to death for his crime or persons convicted of political crimes. Brazil does not have the death penalty and insisted on that clause.

A combination of the lack of an extradition treaty, Brazil's warm climate, its easy-going people and frequently co-operative police has made Brazil a haven for wanted Americans.

One source estimates that in the last five years, at least a seven or eight fugitives a year found their way to Brazil.

The new treaty with Brazil as Brazil has slowly lost its status as an extraditio-proof paradise, with the end of unfavorable publicity over some big time American fugitives who have been arrested and extradited decided to do something about the situation.

While they legally couldn't ship anybody home, the police found they were able to persuade fugitives to leave Brazil fairly one-way trip to New York instead, of a possible jail sentence.

TOKYO (AP)—Not long after Eisaku Sato was installed as premier last month, a group of businessmen called on him and asked an embarrassing question:

Why is it that you can think of raising salaries of Diet (parliament) members when you haven't yet stopped prices from rising?"

Sato later confessed he found political opponents easier to deal with than the housewives, the leaders of growing complaints he was right.

Indignant over price increases, housewives have taken to the streets to stage protest demonstrations. They say the salaries are simply that than the band's pay is not keeping pace with costs.

Consumer economists trace the upward price spiral to 1960 when former premier Hayato Ikeda introduced a program to double the national income in 10 years and kicked off an unprecedented spending spree to expand production facilities. That led to labor demands which helped push up wages and prices, the economists say.

Whatever the reasons, the pay doesn't stretch quite as far as before.

Hence an answer is found, Sato may expect more visits from housewives' groups—and more embarrassing questions.

Indications Ont. May Opt Out of Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario residents have yet to learn what is in store for them as far as a federal or provincial pension plan goes, but indications last year by Premier John Robarts that the province may opt out of the federal Canada Pension Plan have brought mixed reactions from other provincial leaders.

"I will make it clear to the people of the province our position on pensions," Mr. Robarts said Friday night. However, he did not name a time for an announcement.

The Ontario premier said he did not want to "go at it piecemeal" and that it is clear "we are going to have to make a choice."

Saskatchewan's deputy premier, A. H. McDonald, said in a survey conducted by The Globe and Mail that the national plan is weakened by Quebec's absence.

"With Ontario out it, could hardly be called a national plan," Mr. McDonald said.

Premier Walter Shaw of Prince Edward Island agreed with Mr. McDonald. He said the large provinces would be detrimental to the smaller provinces.

Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia said that if Ontario opts out, Ottawa should "put up the pieces and let the other provinces know just what it will mean to them financially.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said his province would not follow Quebec and Ontario out of the federal plan.

Acting Premier A. J. Hooke of Alberta said he could see no reason why Alberta should not participate in the plan but added that his government believes the plan could operate without Quebec and Ontario.

Could Exchange Hydro Power Says Premier

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario could derive an extra 1,000,000 horsepower in electrical power as a result of the two proposed power projects on the Hamilton River in Labrador, Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland said Sunday.

The extra power for Ontario could come from nearby sources in the United States in return for Labrador power transmitted through the Atlantic provinces and New England states, Mr. Smallwood said in a television interview.

The fiery Newfoundland premier arrived in Toronto Saturday for talks on the project with chairman Robert H. Winters and deputy chairman Edward Cass of the British Newfoundland Corporation Limited, (Brinco) the company set up to develop power and other resources in Newfoundland and Labrador. Mr. Smallwood will be in Montreal today.

The company is currently studying methods of distributing an estimated 9,000,000 horsepower from the two, proposed hydro - electric projects on the upper and lower Hamilton River.

Mr. Winters, Strike, chairman of the Hydro - Electric Power Commission of Ontario, said Ontario Premier Robarts will be held with the power agency regarding the possible exchange described by Mr. Smallwood, and there were no plans for a meeting between Hydro officials and the Newfoundland premier during his visit to Toronto.

J. Mervyn Hambley, general manager of Ontario Hydro, said:

"The inter - connections are there. I am sure it could be a practical thing, but whether the economics would make say sense is another question."

HAM TV ON AIR

TORONTO (AP)—Japan's first amateur television station has received government permission to begin broadcasting. The 22-member TV club operates a 50-watt transmitter with a range of about three miles. The hobbyists broadcast on a frequency beyond the range of ordinary TV sets.

Makarios Has Emerged Stronger Than Ever as Leader of Greek-Cypriots

NICOSIA (AP) — When the Cypriot crisis erupted a year ago, sending alarms of war throughout the Mediterranean, it threatened to end the political career of Makarios III, both as both president and Greek Orthodox archbishop of the Island.

Now the stalemated crisis has subsided into a maze of manoeuvres at the United Nations, fighting has been reduced to an occasional stray shot and Makarios has emerged stronger than ever.

"Many people, particularly Westerners, tend to think that if Makarios were removed, the Cypriot problem would become simple and solve itself," says one well - informed diplomat. "That is a miscalculation, and a dangerous one. Makarios is the only leader on this island.

"His political moves—anonymous letters to the West—are genuine in the same way. They reflect what the Cyprus people feel.

The greatly - outnumbered Turks of Cyprus damn Makarios as a dictator and refuse to most of the island's 480,000 Greek-Cypriots, the 51-year-old churchman is still the hero.

The son of a shepherd, Makarios regards the Cypriots as his flock and he has emerged from the presidency to perform marriages and funerals, baptize children and preside over services in Nicosia cathedral.

A few Cypriots still denounce Makarios for alleged links with Zurich agreements which give Cyprus limited independence from Britain. Instead of full freedom or enosis (union with Greece). But since 1959 they many have come to regard him as the savior of the island.

George Grivas, the former underground hero who now is the island's military commander - in - chief, fought four years for union with Greece and turned against Makarios when he has already settled for independence. He began agitating loudly for enosis last summer. He has since faded into the background while Makarios, swinging with the tide, has openly re-embraced enosis.

Despite his reputation as a skilled politician, Makarios at times seems to be making difficult or unpopular decisions.

As a result leader to oppose atheistic communism and feels himself basically a West ern man. He has kept the Communist party of Cyprus thrive to a point which many Cypriots consider dangerous, in return for the party's support.

Before the days of Greek unity movements in Britain, Britain, Makarios preached the tenets of Gandhi but lacked the confidence to launch a passive resistance campaign he wanted. Instead he was swept along on the tide of events.

Makarios is not a superstitious man, but he places great importance on the fact that December 13 is his name day.

Makarios is the least - protected leader in the world. He rode the east, where armed guards generally surround the top men.

"I hope that in the near future better counsels will be created for Cyprus so that it may be relieved of my presidential duties and come myself to my purely religious functions," he says.

38 Soldiers Killed In Plane Crash

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP) — Thirty-eight soldiers including two American advisers died in the crash of a paratroop transport plane are reliably reported to have been training for operations against the Communists outside South Viet Nam.

The two American deaths and that of another U.S. serviceman in a ground action against the big ar four days in the West —are genuine in the same way. They reflect what the Cyprus Army.

The C-123 paratroop plane crashed into a mountain Friday night after taking off from Da Nang Air Base 70 miles south of North Viet Nam.

Officials would make no comment on the crash. However, highly reliable sources said the troops were training for commando action outside Viet Nam, presumably in North Viet Nam or against Viet Cong supply lines through neighboring Laos.

The plane smashed into 1,600-foot Son Tra Mountain, known to Americans as South China Sea, Radar in a South Vietnamese army base at Da Nang, a coastal city 380 miles northeast of Saigon.

The American killed in ground action Sunday was with an armored column that was attacked 25 miles south of the North Vietnamese border. A U.S. spokesman said 11 South Vietnamese troops were killed in the engagement, 39 were wounded and 17 Viet Cong bodies were found.

Four Viet Cong terrorists mined an American officers' barracks at Thu Dau Mot, 15 miles north of Saigon, before dawn today, killing a South Vietnamese passerby and wounding four American officers and six South Vietnamese civilians.

In Saigon, meanwhile, the government announced fiber persons participating in illegal demonstrations would be jailed for up to three years and street demonstrators for up to 10 months. The announcement was intended to head off Buddhist marches against the government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

Main Economic Issues Still to Be Negotiated

TORONTO (CP) — Company and union negotiators today were hopeful of reaching the outside economic issues of wages and pensions — in drawn-out contract talks affecting 23,375 workers in a strike against General Motors of Canada. Limited. The strike started Sept. 3.

Representatives of the United Auto Workers (UAW) and the company in sub - committees met during the weekend on non-economic issues — including grievances concerning production standards.

The company spokesman said Sunday night there were indications that the sub - committees would finish their work today and talks could proceed in the master contract committee.

The sub - committees worked until after midnight Sunday on specific sections of the over-all three-year agreement to cover the workers in five Ontario centres.

But the main wage issue — parity with United States auto workers — will be discussed until the sub-committees adjourn. The union claims the Canadian wage level is 50 cents to $1 an hour below the U.S. level.

Master contract talks began Friday after local plant differences were settled for 14,500 employees at GM's Oshawa plant, 6,275 at McKinnon Industries in St. Catharines, 1,130 at the GM transmission plant in Windsor, 1,000 at Frigid Products of Canada in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough and 60 at General Motors Diesel Limited in London, Ont.

Phone Service Between Cities Is Disrupted

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Telephone service between Toronto and Montreal was disrupted on Saturday night and early Sunday when a car ran off the road and hit a telephone pole, severing the direct distance dialing cable and toppling six poles.

Telephone Company officials said DDD service was disrupted for about two hours from 10:15 p.m. EST when the car, driven by Burton Spence, 27, of Brockville hit the pole.

Mr. Spence, driving alone, was reported in fair condition Sunday in Brockville Hospital with a fractured jaw, concussion and bruises.

Bell officials said the impact broke a pole and the cable and its weight pulled over five other poles.

Liberal Member Calls for Change In Criminal Code

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Marvin Gelber, Liberal member of Parliament for York South, called Sunday for changes in Canada's Criminal Code to make distribution of hate literature and incitement against groups a crime.

Mr. Gelber said in an interview the Criminal Code at present does not meet "the serious problems" of that literature and incitement against ethnic and religious groups.

He later spoke in the first of a series of anti-discrimination programs sponsored by the B'nai Moses Ben Joda Synagogue Sisterhood Education Committee.

The problem of free speech and the law has not been critically examined in Canada since the 1930s, he said. The Common law crime of sedition should be narrowed to fall within the 1951 Code.

While wanting to "preserve the great traditions of free speech which is the cornerstone of our democracy," he said, there should be a critical examination within these traditions of the items dealing with "sedition, spreading of false news and the distribution of information to bring them into line with the current views of society."

"...I believe we should recapture the common law view that incitement against groups is a crime."

Mr. Gelber said it is not necessary for Canadians to move away from the traditions of law in dealing with the problems of its within our heritage of freedom to protect freedom (of groups) through wise legislation."

"While the rights of free speech must be protected, so too does the right of groups to "a peaceable enjoyment of society," he added.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The trouble with this sports business somebody always wants to talk "shop" even at the height of a delightful party such as this newspaper staff enjoyed Saturday night.

At a corner "jam session" somebody brought up the question of pensions for pro hockey players. The best answer to that was written by Henry Boxborough in a recent edition of the Maple Leaf Gardens official program.

In early hockey history, Roxy writes, there were Stanley Cup champions whose sole reward was a 14-carat gold watch, engraved—but the player had to furnish his own chain. Understandably, in 1964 the cup winning Maple Leafs received $3,500 as a player's share of Stanley Cup success.

In 1907 Hod Stuart, Montreal Wanderers, who was drowned while diving off a tower in the Bay of Quinte just off the tournament dock, received a salary of $1,250.

There was more evidence of insecurity in early hockey. Didier Pitre, Montreal Nationa, got $110 a week for 11 weeks in 1909. He was fined two dollars for each practice missed. Cyclone Taylor signed for $1,300, plus a similar amount of outside services.

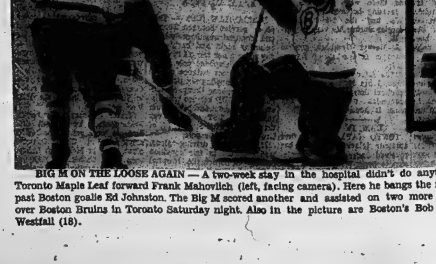
In 1913 all salaries in the National League were reduced to between $300 and $500. Later rink and ice facilities improvements caused salaries to jump.

Hockey, the pro type, appealed to the youth of the country but it lacked long life and insecurity. Often ten years the outlook was dreary, especially to those who had "loved up" to their salaries.

In 1947 the NHL governors, says Roxborough, became aware of the security problem and instituted an NHL pension plan which in the opinion of many pension experts is unmatched in the continent.

When it began the players contributed $900 per annum. The NHL added varying sums which averaged $65,000 per year. After ten years the governors also matched the player's premium of $900 per man. Finally it was agreed that the annual contributions by both players and league would be raised to $1,500 per annum.

How much does a participant receive? The amount depends on length of service and age when payments begin. They vary from $75 monthly to a player with three years' service who begins retirement at 65. The participant with 20 years service who retires at 65 receives $1,650 monthly for the rest of his life with 10 years guaranteed.



An average case, says Roxy, is the player who has ten years' service taking his pension at 55. He will receive $437 monthly for life with ten years' payments guaranteed.

Death benefits show a similar variation. If the participant deferred pensions benefits until date of death, and if, after ten years' service he should die at 65, his beneficiaries or estate would receive over $91,000. Or, in an extreme case, if the participant had 20 years' service, the Fund, if the player died at 65 would pay death benefits exceeding $182,000.

But the Pension Plan does even more. There is provided free to all players, from the time the participant begins playing in the NHL until the date of his retirement or transfer to another league, a $20,000 life insurance policy.

It also has provision in the event of total or permanent disability, for payments at the rate of $354 monthly with a maximum limit of $20,000. This insurance is on a 365-day 24-hour basis and is convertible to any standard policy of the issuing company without necessity of medical examination.

The NHL governors has also recognized that junior executives of clubs together with referees, linesmen, trainers will also have years of plenty and years of famine. For them, the NHL has founded a separate pension plan in which it matches, and in certain instances where salaries are lower, doubles the contribution of the participant.

BIG M ON THE LOOSE AGAIN — A two-week stay in the hospital didn't do anything to slow down Toronto Maple Leaf forward Frank Mahovlich (left, facing camera). Hawks Grab Pair * * * Habs Take Over Top With Twin Wins * * * Hull Scores Two

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"We just fell asleep in the second period and they did the same thing in the third."

That was coach Toe Blake's explanation Sunday night after Montreal Canadiens scored four unanswered third-period goals t. defeat Boston Bruins 5-4 and extend their first-place lead in the National Hockey League.

Montreal, down 4-1 after the Bruins scored four times in the middle frame, showered the Bruins with 20 shots in the final and earned their seventh victory in eight games. The Canadiens' weekend sweep started with a 7-1 trouncing of New York Rangers Saturday night.

The Black Hawks ran their victory string to four games with a 3-2 decision over the Red Wings in Detroit Saturday night and a 5-0 victory against Detroit Sunday night in Chicago.

Toronto Maple Leafs climbed into a second-place tie with Detroit, walloping Boston 6-3 at home Saturday night before they ran Rangers 3-3 in New York Sunday night on a goal by Ron Ellis with just one second left in the game.

CAUGHT MONTREAL

The Bruins caught Montreal in the second period with goals by Reggie Fleming, Tom Williams, Ted Green and Dean Prentice. Montreal's only reply was Gilles Tremblay's ninth goal of the season.

In the final 11 minutes of the game Dave Balon scored twice to spark the Montreal rally, poking the winner behind Ed Johnston at 19:09. The other scorers were Ralph Backstrom, Henri Richard, and Claude Provost.

The Canadiens went on their biggest scoring spree of the season Saturday night, blasting seven of 30 shots past New York goalie Marcel Pallie. Richard scored twice, Balon once and Provost earned three assists.

Gilles Tremblay, Claude Larose, Jean - Guy Talbot and Backstrom also collected first scoring. Vic Hadfield ruined Charlie Hodge's shutout bid early in the second period.

Bobby Hull scored twice in Chicago's back-to-back victories over Detroit, running his total to 22 in 25 games and pushing his lead over teammate Stan Mikita to five points in the individual scoring race. Hull has 34 points.

Hull broke a scoreless tie in the second period at Detroit and goals by Doug Mohns and Phil Esposito sent the Hawks ahead 3-0 five minutes later. Ted Lindsay scored twice for the Wings.

OPENS THE SCORING

Stan Mikita opened the scoring in the first period at Chicago and John McKenzie scored two minutes later. McKenzie added his second of the night later in the final frame after Hull and Fred Stanfield had put the Hawks up 4-0.

The twin victories launched the Hawks into fourth place, one point ahead of New York and two points behind Toronto and Detroit.

New York's misfortunes on the weekend cost each Ranger $250, the bonus promised by the front office if the Blueshirts could accumulate 26 points in 27 games. Their loss in Montreal cost them that and the tie against Toronto dripped them into fifth place.

Ellis scored in the final second at Madison Square Garden. The Rangers had taken a 3-1 lead in the second period on goals by Rod Gilbert and Earl Ingarfield. Dave Keon cut the deficit to one goal late in the middle frame.

Camille Henry and Ron Stewart had scored in the first period.

Two - goal performances by Frank Mahovlich and George Armstrong powered the Leafs to victory over Boston. Ellis and Billy Harris also scored for Toronto while Johnny Bucyk contributed two goals and Wayne Maxner a single for Boston cause. Bucyk's second goal came on a penalty shot.

Canada's Nationals Blanked By Russ

Dominate Every Phase

TORONTO (CP)—The powerful Soviet national hockey team trounced Canada's national squad 4-0 here Sunday to give the Russians two victories in the first two games of a scheduled eight - game Canadian tour.

The crowd of 13,045 watched the fast-skating Russians dominate every phase of the game almost from the starting whistle. They outshot, outhustled and outskated the Canadians and were at no loss to use their bodies.

Vyacheslav Starshinov sparked the Russians with two goals. His last, midway through the final period, came at the end of a three - way picture play.

Yevgeney Mayorov and Juri Jakusher got the other Russian goals.

Viktor Konvalenko started the game in the Russian goal but a leg injury in the first period forced him to retire in favor of Viktor Tulmachev.

The game was indicative of what is in store for the Canadian national team in the world tournament at Tampere, Finland, March 4-14 next year. Especially noticeable was the ragged Canadian defensive unit and a lack of accurate shooting.

CANUCKS SHORT

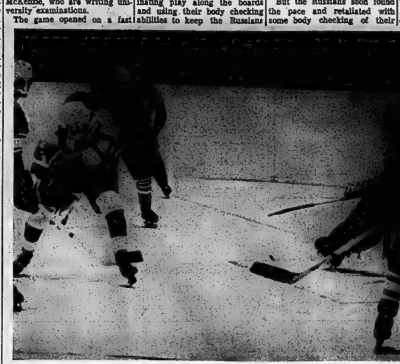
But the Canadian team played without the services of several key personnel. Brian Conacher, a member of Canada's Olympic team which wound up fourth in the Olympic championships at Innsbruck, Austria, earlier this year was sidelined with an injury.

Also missing were Bob Forban, Ken Broderick and Barry McKenzie, who are writing university examinations.

The game opened on a fast note with the Canadians dominating play along the boards and using their body checking abilities to keep the Russians from breaking away.

But the Russians soon found the pace and retaliated with some body checking of their own. The Canadians also began to ease up on their forechecking, giving the Russians a chance to use their excellent stick handling and passing abilities.

Just after the midway mark of the first period, Boris Mayorov broke down the Canadian blueline and drop - passed to Starshinov, who fired an ankle-high screen shot past goal tender Don Collins.



The Russian attack again just 20 seconds later when Starshinov fed Mayorov a perfect pass into behind Collins' net. Mayorov, standing unguarded about six feet in front of Collins, beat the goaltender cleanly.

With less than a minute remaining in the second period Jakusher fired a backhand shot as he fell to the ice from a bodycheck and counted Russia's third goal.

The third period was lackluster as the Russians played cat and mouse with the Canadians. Especially noticeable in this period was the effective defensive unit which kept Canada from getting a single shot on goal on a number of occasions while the Russians played a man short.

Starshinov finished the scoring on a three - way passing play from Veniamin Alexandrov and Eduard Ivanov. Alexandrov fed the puck from the point to Ivanov in the right corner and he relayed it to Starshinov, standing unguarded in front of Collins.

The Canadians were given a two - minute bench penalty for having too many men on the ice. It was served by Ross Parke. Referees Hugh McLean and Lou Mashio handed out 12 minor penalties, seven to the Russians.

RUSSIAN SPARKPLUG SCORES SECOND GOAL — Vyacheslav Starshinov (extreme left), sparkplug of the Soviet National Team fires in his second goal of the game and the fourth for the Russian team in the exhibition game in Toronto Sunday with Canada's National Team. The Russians shut out the Canadian team 4-0 for the second win on their eight-game tour. At right is Russian forward Veniamin Alexandrov. Others are unidentified. (CP Wirephoto)

Browns Take NFL Eastern Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Browns took all the starch out of the National Football League race 24 hours early but the American League will go right down to the wire to crown an Eastern Division champion.

Browns ended the suspense in the NFL's eastern race Saturday by taking New York Giants apart 52-20 for their first dividend title since 1957 while St. Louis Cardinals, who needed a Cleveland defeat to stay alive, sat helplessly by their television sets.

So the Cards, already assured of a post-season playoff bowl appearance Jan. 3 against the western runners-up, contented themselves with a 36-24 victory over Philadelphia Eagles Sunday.

Baltimore Colts, the western champions, breezed to a 45-17 romp over Washington Redskins in what amounted to a workout for their championship game against the Browns Dec. 27.

Green Bay Packers won the second playoff bowl spot by a whisker, finishing in a tie with Minnesota Vikings in the Western Division standings as a result of their 24-24 tie with Los Angeles Rams but getting the edge on the strength of two earlier wins over Minnesota.

The Vikings finished with a 41 - 14 triumph over Chicago Bears.

Rounding out the NFL schedule, Detroit Lions bombed San Francisco 49ers 34-7 and Dallas Cowboys edged Pittsburgh Steelers 17-14.

The significant game in the AFL schedule saw Buffalo Bills whip Denver Broncos 30-19 to take a half-game edge over the idle Boston Patriots in the East with another week to go. The two contenders meet head-on at Boston in the season's finale.

San Diego Chiefs, already assured of the western title, let down badly against Kansas City, taking a 49-6 lacing that assured the Chiefs of second place, while Houston Oilers downed New York Jets 33-17.

Frank completed 12 of 23 passes for 302 yards and, more important, connected for five touchdowns and scored one himself for Cleveland.

Jim Brown tied the league record with his 102th touchdown and gained 90 yards on 20 rushes.

TITTLE FINISHED?

Quarterback Y. A. Tittle of the Giants set an NFL record by playing in his 179th game but connected for only one score in what may have been his farewell.

Lenny Moore scored two Baltimore touchdowns and brought his total to 20, breaking the record set by Jim Taylor of Green Bay in 1962 and Ray Berry caught five passes for a career total of 506, three more than the record held by Bill Howton of Green Bay and Dallas.

The first-place teams produced two of the league's top three point scorers with Moore winning the title with 120 points to 115 for Lou Groza of the Browns and Jim Bakken of St. Louis.

The Cardinals and Philadelphia scored 17 points in the second period—another NFL record.

Bart Starr of the Packers also broke a league record on the final day of the season, completing 26 passes without an interception for a string of 225 in a row. The record of 208 was set by Milt Plum in 1959-60.

Queen's Defeats McGill

Varsity Remains Unbeaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As teams in the Senior, Intercollegiate Hockey League pause for Christmas examinations, University of Toronto Blues are the only undefeated, untied team in the league.

The Blues won their fifth consecutive game Saturday night in London, defeating University of Western Ontario Mustangs 7-3 in a chippy game.

In Saturday's other game, Queen's University Golden Gaels coasted to a 9-0 win over the undefeated McGill University Redmen of Montreal at Kingston.

League - leading scorer Hank Monteith and Grant Hoarty each scored three goals to lead the way for Toronto. Don Arthur scored the other goal for the Blues in the first period.

Brian Conacher, a member of last year's Olympic team and slated for action in the 1965 world championships with Canada's national team, scored two goals for the Mustangs before having to leave the game with a knee injury in the third period. Brian Bennett was the other Mustang goal-getter.

Toronto drew 10 of the 18 minor penalties handed out by referee Hugh McLean. In addition, Jim Blue was picked up three 10 - minute misconducts and a game misconduct. Gord Cunningham received the game misconduct for arguing about a tripping penalty in the second period.

Bob Pond, a member of the 1962 Canadian champion McMaster University Marlins, scored three goals to pace Queen's to their win over McGill.

Marty Larton, John Rattey and Dave Keogh also scored for the Gaels.

Patterson KO's Powell

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A lean, sharp Floyd Patterson, two - time former world heavyweight champion, knocked out Charley Powell in 3:21 of the sixth round of a scheduled 10 - round bout Saturday night and apparently convinced himself he is on the rebound.

"I am on the road back," said Patterson after the fight in which he floored the San Diego veteran two times prior to the knockout.

Patterson, currently the World Boxing Association's second ranking heavyweight challenger, used the bout as a warm-up for a scheduled 12-rounder with Canadian George Chuvalo of Toronto in New York Jan. 29 or Feb. 1.

Patterson weighed 197 for the bout, his second since suffering two one - round knockouts in heavyweight title fights with Sonny Liston. Powell weighed 213.

It was Patterson's third straight victory since he lost to Liston. He previously knocked out Italy's Sanio Amonti and decisioned Eddie Machen in bouts in Sweden.

Hornets, Athletics Win Guelph Strengthens Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The top two teams in the Ontario Hockey Association's senior division used the league doormat during the weekend to strengthen their positions.

Second - place Galt Hornets allowed Welland Blacks a goal in the first period but went on to whip the cellar club 6-1 Saturday night. The next night, first - place Guelph Regals struggled to a 3-2 victory over Welland.

In the other weekend action, Woodstock Athletics consolidated their hold on third place with a 8-4 decision over Oakville Oaks, the fourth-place contender.

Guelph now has 30 points, four up on Galt and 12 ahead of Woodstock. Oakville has 14 and Welland, with four victories in 17 starts, has eight.

Galt got a three - goal performance from Pete Kovalchuk with Bob McKnight, Joe Hogan and Ivan Tennant getting the others. Vance Millar gave Welland a 1-1 tie in the first period.

Sunday night, Keith Worrall scored two for the Regals and Jack McIntyre got the other. Dick Balint and Bob Seager scored for Welland.

Woodstock whipped in three consecutive third - period goals at Oakville Sunday night—after the Oaks had tied the score 3-3 early in the period—to provide the margin of victory.

Special Patrols Are Formed to Protect Kids

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard ordered special patrols to St. James's Park today to protect children from a baby snatcher who throws his victims into a lake.

The park, just across the road from Buckingham Palace, is a favorite airing ground for Prince Edward, infant son of the Queen, and his four-year-old brother Prince Andrew.

Detectives said that in the last week five children have been pitched into the lake near the park's teahouse. All were fished out safely, and the attacker—a man in his early 30s—ran off in the confusion.

Squealing on Ed Sullivan

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Ed Sullivan has a problem. And so do millions of viewers who tune in his Sunday night vaudeville show on CBS. It is that engulfing chorus of high - pitched squeals evoked every time he presents a young, male singing group, particularly English.

It is hard to say whether the noise is more annoying to the home audience or to Sullivan.

Recently the Sullivan show has tried to do something about it.

On all tickets to the show it put this notation: "Children under 18 years of age will not be admitted unless accompanied by a parent or guardian," with at least one of the latter for each three children.

Previously, the age limit for mandatory parental accompaniment had been 16.

Sullivan lays the blame for the situation squarely in the laps of adults, not just their offspring.

BLAMES PARENTS

"It's the parents who are responsible for this," Sullivan asserts grimly. "It's the parents of these kids who create this imbalance in our audience and we are actually pretty helpless. They write in and we issue the tickets to them and they are the ones who turn them over to their youngsters.

"We can't keep ticket holders out of the audience, because they turn up in groups, properly accompanied by an adult. The first time we had booked the Beatles, we heard from just about every distinguished family in this area, most of them saying 'My daughter HAS to have tickets.'"

Sullivan explained that the young fans of the rock 'n' roll groups receive advance word when their favorites are going to appear. Press agents, fan clubs and radio disc jockeys tip them off.

That first Beatles show last winter attracted the largest audience in the history of the Sullivan show—almost 74,000,000 according to a Nielsen estimate.

BEATLES DRAW BIG

"Generally, however, our (Nielsen) ratings don't reflect the appearances of these groups—except for the Beatles. Our ratings are just as good without rock 'n' rollers as they are with them—except for the Beatles. The others just aren't strong enough."

Sullivan and his staff try to control disruptive squeals. He lectures the youngsters like a Dutch uncle before the dress rehearsal and before the show.

"I tell them to stop trying to compete with the leaders in this thing—some of them seem to set the whole thing off. And I warn them not to talk back to comics on the stage and I tell them to stop squealing when I put my hand.

"Kids," he added gently, "are generally fair."

Sullivan says he has been a close observer of the scream phenomenon since the days of early Sinatra. Shortly after his first Beatles appearance, he observed that when the teenagers were told there would be no cameras turned on the audience—"no shots of their eating and writhing"—it helped control things.

AT THE BELLE — Laurence Harvey and Lee Remick are reunited in Carol Reed's "The Running Man", after successful perpetration of an insurance fraud. Percy Kilbride Was Puzzle To the Hollywood Crowd

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He wanted nothing more than to be left alone.

Percy Kilbride was a puzzle to the Hollywood crowd. He had been an actor most of his life, starting in his native San Francisco before the earthquake. He had played hillbillies on radio stock companies all over the West, getting stranded in some of the towns.

He finally made it to Broadway, and became a standard character man. His wry, nasal voice, his wide-eyed comic manner and his acting ease became familiar in a succession of comedies. He was content in the semi-anonymity of his acting career.

Then came the movies.

He was generally cast as a taxi driver—he didn't drive—or a farmer—he had always been a city fellow. But the most noted casting, and the one that ended his career, was as Pa Kettle. A lifelong bachelor, he had to play the rural patriarch of a dozen kids.

HATED ATTENTION

The Kettle series made him famous, and he hated it. He had always lived near Hollywood Boulevard and he enjoyed taking long walks. Now he could not proceed a block without being stopped by an autograph-seeking tourist.

The series finally became intolerable for him. He was required to perform violent stunts which his frail frame could not endure. And after playing a variety of characters during his career, he found no pleasure in portraying Pa Kettle in film after film.

Despite the blandishments of more money and better working conditions at Universal, Kilbride quit. For eight years he lived quietly in Hollywood, meeting cronies occasionally, but mostly occupying himself with his solitary walks. He developed a determined gait that helped to discourage tourists from detaining him for autographs and conversation. He merely wanted to be let alone.

He submitted reluctantly to an occasional interview. The last one was a few months ago, when he met the press. He talked vaguely of doing another play or movie, but there wasn't much conviction in his voice.

I asked if he had always lived alone.

"Well, not always," he replied with his sly grin. "When I was in stock, we used to 'switch' a bit. I mean, supposing a girl was going on tour with the company. In order to save on expenses you might just 'sketch' for a season. It worked out well for both."

CBS Starts Drastic Program To Cure Drooping Ratings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The CBS television network, leader in audience popularity for the last couple of seasons, has started a drastic program designed to cure its drooping ratings.

Network programming executives spent the last several days tearing up and rebuilding their evening schedule. It is the most extensive mid - season rearrangement of programs by a network yet, affecting more than a dozen shows. The changes start tonight.

In an effort to aid Beverly Hillbillies, which plummeted from last year's No. 1 show to 18th in the most recent Nielsen ratings, CBS Reports was yanked from its old lead-off spot Wednesday nights and replaced by two comedy series.

The public affairs program never attracted big audiences. Henceforth it will be the windup program Monday nights—the 10 to 11 spot where Slattery's People, a fairly good dramatic series, has been languishing.

CBS obviously hopes that Slattery's People will have an easier time Friday nights, opposite NBC's Jack Paar, where show has not had impressive ratings this season, and pits work competition from ABC for only the first half hour.

The Reporter, a dreary dramatic series, expires along with the disappointing Mr. Broadway, resulting in two 60-minute holes in the schedule. CBS will bring back a standard variety show, On Broadway Tonight, for Thursday and will shift a flagging variety show, The Entertainers, from a week-day to Saturday night.

Hardest assignment goes to a new dramatic series called For the People, which will be pitted against NBC's Bonanza, the nation's most popular program. It will tell its court-room stories from the point of view of the prosecution.

Scouting activities

Changing times was the theme of the discussion at the conferznce in Fort Hope. The new program is to be boy centred instead of adult controlled that is if a troop or pack wants to do something different the leaders are to decide whether it can be done with the aid of the group committee. The boys are to be allowed to express their ideas as to what they want to do. To try and get more interest in the auxiliaries and group committees we work together with families of the boys. As each new cub or scout joins a troop or pack a representative from the group committee and the auxiliary visits them and explains to them the functions of each group. If the sponsoring body is lacking in interest we invite a member of the sponsoring body to do small favors for us.

FOR CHANGES

Boys of seven if in grade III can join a cub pack. Boys of 11 if in grade V may stay in pack or go up to troop. The cubs and scout ages are seven or eight to 11 for cubs. Scouts 11-14. Older scouts 14-16 and rovers 16-22. Cubs do not have to be nine years old to receive their first star now and they do not have to be 10 to receive their second star. The new cub uniform will be grey but the boys are to wear the green jerseys and blue pants as long as there are any available. The cub badges some are being changed and a few more added carpenter, interpreter, musician, reader, skater, troubadour and woodsman. There are also to be a few multistage badges added. Such as first aid, St. John Ambulance starts in cubs and is passed in the four stages from cubs through to rovers. Swimming is also a four stage badge. Starting in cubs. Life saving will be a three part badge starting in scouts.

To make meetings more interesting use articles from Canadian Boy Magazine Parents rights and have the boys put on a program and invite the press. Scouting is paid for by the community group's apple day and the united appeal. The leaders and their assistants give of their time free in the interest of the troop or pack. Boys in cubs and scouts are taught to be prepared for all emergencies and how to work together as a group or a team.

WAYS TO RAISE MONEY

Auxiliaries can raise money by bazaars, teas, card parties, rummage sales, coffee parties and many other ways.

It was suggested that all auxiliaries have a motion moved and seconded that the auxiliary pay the president's expenses for conferences.

There were a number of ladies present from the Belleville district and we wish more had been there as the day was very interesting. They were as follows: Mrs. Farrell, Mrs. D. Jones, Mrs. A. Fort, Mrs. J. Grey, Mrs. Hodgson, Mrs. E. Jones, Mrs. R. Schanschorn, cub master at 14th, Mrs. Gatcum assistant cub master at 14th, Mrs. P. C. Corbboye, Mrs. Bodley, Mrs. Terry assistant cub master at 18th and Mrs. H. Wood cub master at 13th. There were also several young lady cub masters and their assistants from the area present.

There will be a city wide paper drive in January by the cubs and scouts of Belleville. Also save all your good six-quart baskets and the cubs and scouts will pick them up.

Red Cross Soc. Works on Annual Project

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the Deseronto Red Cross Society was held at the home of Mrs. H. Trasune with Mrs. G. Walker presiding.

Work is being done on the annual project of boxes for Christmas for the Senior Citizens and Shut-ins. These must be ready by December 20. Donations of treats for this project would be appreciated as approximately 80 people are to be remembered.

Assistance was given by the Red Cross Workers at the last two fires in Deseronto. Hot coffee and sandwiches were also served to the firemen.

Mrs. D. Lawson, chairman of the Blood Donor committee, reported a wonderful response from residents of Deseronto and area to the Clinic held in Napanee.

Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Walker attended a meeting in Napanee when the guest speaker emphasized the need for continued support of the blood clinics. She stated that 25 bottles of blood are used in one heart operation and that every 27 seconds someone receives a transfusion. Over 97 per cent of the work is done by volunteers.

In 1963, 52,000 bottles of blood will be needed.

A Red Cross Home Nursing Course will be started in the New Year. This is a 15-week course to be held on Thursday nights.

I wish to personally thank all those who voted for me or worked on my behalf on the recent election in Thurlow Township. I extend to all my sincere thanks with Best Wishes for the Holiday Season.

Poland's Regime Has Installed New Ministers

WARSAW (AP) — Poland's Communist regime has installed new ministers of internal affairs, culture and shipping in the biggest cabinet reshuffle in years.

The changes Saturday followed a recent session in which Party Chief Wladyslaw Gomulka and Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz have balanced conflicting factions in the ruling party and government.

Mieczyslaw Moczar, 50, a former underground commander and security chief regarded as favoring stricter police controls was promoted from deputy minister to minister of internal affairs.

Lucjan Motyka, 50, party chief in the sophisticated university city of Krakow, was named the new minister of culture. Polish intellectuals tend to respect Motyka. They are likely to welcome him as a replacement for minister Tadeusz Galinski, embroiled in controversy the past year over controls on writers and publishing.

The third change saw the former foreign trade minister, Janusz Burakiewicz, 48, move up to minister of shipping. This appeared to be a promotion of more strength to Polish shipbuilding, now heavily committed to deliver cargo vessels to the Soviet Union under the 1965-70 five-year plan.

Stanislaw Darski will quit as shipping minister because of old age but will continue to advise the government, Cyrankiewicz told Parliament.

Darski, in his memories, is one of the few cabinet ministers not a communist party member.

Moczar's promotion is certain to be regarded by many Poles as symbolic of the renewed police activity that has occurred since the 1963 reorganization at the end of the Stalinist period in 1956.

The internal affairs ministry runs the police and Moczar was head of the security police in 1963.

NATO Will Hold Separate Parley On Nuclear Arms

Prickly Issue Dodged By Meet Opening Today

PARIS (CP)—The NATO ministerial council met here today at the opening of a three-day session the first since the downfall of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Communist China's first atomic test.

A crisis over the U.S. proposals for a NATO nuclear multilateral force (MLF) appeared to have been averted. Informed sources said the NATO ministers agreed to discuss the nuclear problem of the entire 15-member alliance at a separate conference early next year.

However, the French were understood to have repeated their strong opposition to both the MLF and the alternative proposals made by British for a broader, Atlantic Nuclear Force (ANF).

The nuclear integration of the alliance was expected to be discussed today at a separate meeting of the American, British and West German foreign ministers. Informants at the session said the three men would also cover "related problems" in their talk at the British delegation's offices at NATO headquarters.

REVIEW EXPECTED

The major areas of discussion in the council meetings were expected to be a review of East-West relations in the wake of the changes in Russia's leadership and of China's first A-bomb explosion.

Other subjects to be discussed in the conference included:

1. The situation in The Congo and in other underdeveloped countries.

2. Relations between Greece and Turkey, strained over the Cyprus dispute. Both are NATO members.

3. The war in South Viet Nam to quell the Communist Viet Cong.

4. A report from the supreme allied commander in Europe, U.S. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer on the alliance's military readiness.

Informants said that Canada urged its NATO partners to launch a searching review of NATO objectives.

MAKES REQUEST

It also asked that any further bargaining on a nuclear force be held within the framework of NATO and not through some separate body that could bypass France and other dissenters.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin of Canada reported to have given Canada's position as Closure Forces Decision At Last In Bitter Debate; Flag Now Before Senate

Packed Galleries Are Shocked By Pearson-Diefenbaker Clash

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the longest and most bitter debates in modern Canadian parliamentary history ended at 2:12 a.m. EST today when the Commons voted 163 to 78 to give Canada a red-and-white maple leaf flag.

The final vote, brought on by the government's use of the debate shutting closure rule came after a fierce clash between Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that shocked the packed galleries.

Today the Senate opens debate on a government-sponsored resolution seeking its endorsement of the new flag as a replacement for the Canadian Red Ensign, never formally recognized but flown for years as the country's national emblem.

• • • •

Senate approval and a proclamation by the Queen remain before the new flag can be hoisted. There was no firm indication of how long the 102-member upper house would debate the issue.

Meanwhile, the House today moves on to another motion seeking adoption of the Union Jack as a Canadian symbol marking allegiance to the Crown and membership in the Commonwealth.

JAM GALLERIES

More than 600 tense, eager spectators jammed the public and official galleries for the historic vote that wrote the finish to 33 days of Commons debate on the flag question.

At stake was a recommendation from a special all - party committee that the flag consist of a single red maple leaf on a white ground with a red panel at either end.

It was backed by 121 Liberals, eight Quebec Conservatives, 18 New Democrats, six Social Credit members and 12 Creditistes. Opposition came from 73 Conservatives, three Social Credit MP's, one NDP member and a lone Liberal — Ralph Cowan, York-Humber.

Moments before the roll-call was started, Mr. Pearson made a final appeal to the Conservatives to avoid a divided vote.

"I do not ask them to vote for it," he said. "I ask that there be no recorded vote so there will not be in the position in this House of having honorable members vote against what will be our national flag."

DEMAND COUNT

The Conservatives immediately demanded, and got, the formal recorded count.

The outcome had been predicted for weeks, but there was an audible sigh through the high - ceilinged chamber when Clerk Leon Raymond announced the tally.

After a momentary hush, Liberal MPs leaped to their feet and began singing O Canada in versions of English and French versions.

The singing built up to a crescendo. Spectators in the galleries rose to join in and the galleries, swept up by the tide of emotion, followed suit.

Only a handful of Conservatives marched angrily through the rear curtain. One of them, Chester MacRae (York - Sunbury), remained seated for several minutes before wheeling into the aisle to stamp out.

After O Canada, MPs sang God Save the Queen lustily.

OTTAWA (CP) — The scene probably will never be forgotten by the 600 persons who crowded the galleries Monday night to see the House of Commons, with an emotional outburst, bring the great flag debate to an end.

For 9¾ hours Canada's elected representatives exchanged passionate pleas, maudlin memories, angry accusations and biting bitterness until, in the early hours of this morning, the clamps of closure squeezed out the debate.

Closure found Opposition Leader Diefenbaker jabbing an accusing finger at Prime Minister Pearson trying to shout through the Commons din with a final, emotion-charged plea for unanimity.

"Why cannot my right honorable friend forget the passions, the prejudices and the bitterness of the fights of the past few months and rally around this Canadian flag and make it the emblem of unity in this country?" the flushed prime minister asked.

"I do not ask them to vote for it," he said. "I ask that there be no recorded vote so there will not be in the position in this House of having honorable members vote against what will be our national flag."

Emotions High In Final Hours

OTTAWA (CP) — The scene Maple Creek) in a mild protest against the imposition of closure.

"This is a political flag—not a flag to unite the people of Canada," said Lawrence E. Kindt (PC—Macleod), as he continued the conservative argument against the new design.

Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac-Temiscamingue), who — along with all other Quebec Conservatives voted in favor of the proposed flag, issued a quiet plea for the burying of hatchets.

"That flag tomorrow will be the symbol of our country and our country will be as great as the respect we show to the flag that is ours and ours alone." If Canadians' could only overcome current divisions "we do not deserve to survive."

Mrs. Margaret Konantz (L—Winnipeg South) issued her quiet appeal: "I plea to all members to put an end to this debate and behave like reasonable and mature adults and bring this question once and for all to a decision."

If Parliament adopts a new flag, said Gene Rheaume (PC—Northwest Territories), he would like the best to promote it in the North. But his heart wouldn't be in it.

Gradually the arguments stiffened as the day and night wore on, and only occasionally were they softened with a sad backward glance at the Red Ensign.

The government "has lost its senses" in imposing closure, charges Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle).

Robert C. Coates (PC—Cumberland) referred to a "sad-looking flag" seen by a "sad-looking government" for a "sad-looking people."

Then the pace of votes progressed, the desk - pounding grew heavier and the remarks more pointed.

The government was guilty of "contempt, arrogance and dictatorship," said Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River). Desks overturned around him, and other party members jumped to their feet to continue the attack.

But the assault was checked by speakers from other parties, who all sought their turn. Most of the conservative - speakers supported the new design in varying degrees and this tended to blunt Conservative impact.

Late in the debate, when members and spectators appeared to grow weary, Eric Winkler (PC—Grey-Bruce) almost brought tears to the eyes of some—and his own voice appeared to crack—as he spoke about the Red Ensign.

"With all sincerity, I do not think we will ever live down the fact that we are removing something which men who have given their lives honored as part of Canada's Christian and democratic heritage."

From then on, the air tightened.

The drama struck when Credit Leader Real Caouette stopped speaking with nine minutes remaining before the 1 a.m. cut-off time. The opposi-

Three Ships Will Winter In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Three of four ocean-going ships that were unable to leave the St. Lawrence Seaway after it closed for the season Dec. 5 are moored at the turning basin in Toronto harbor where they may remain for the winter.

A fourth ship, the Flying Independent, flagship of the Liberian-flag Commander Line of New York, has tied up at Chicago.

A spokesman for the Toronto Harbor Commission said Monday the crews of the Olav Gorm from Denmark and the Orient Merchant from Greece are currently staying aboard ship. Crew members of the Van Fo of Formosa were waiting aboard ship for instructions from home, if it was likely they also would winter in Toronto.

A spokesman for Peacock Shipping and Trading Limited here, agent for both the Danish and Greek ships, said if has not been definitely decided that their crews will remain here until spring. Arrangements might be made to return some or all of them by plane.

All crew members are allowed to go ashore at will as they are during a regular stopover.

Bill to Incorporate B. C. Bank Killed by Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate banking and commerce committee killed the Bank of British Columbia incorporation bill Monday night, opening a schism between the federal Parliament and the legislature of British Columbia.

The Senate committee vote of 17 to 7 cut across party lines on a motion by Senator A. K. Hugesson (L—Quebec) that the bill should not pass until Parliament has considered the question of provincial government ownership of bank shares.

There is no legal barrier to such ownership now, and the B.C. legislature endorsed the provincial government's move to become a shareholder in the proposed new Bank of British Columbia.

"I am quite certain the politicians will press on," said B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner made a last-minute plea for adoption of the bill, after assuring the committee on behalf of Premier Bennett that the province would not buy an interest in the bank until Parliament has written a new bank law for the banks.

British Columbia originally intended to subscribe up to 25 per cent of the proposed new bank's $300,000,000 capitalization. Later, Premier Bennett told the committee the province would only buy up to 10 per cent interest in the new bank, and perhaps not that much.

Mr. Bonner said the other B.C. interests in the new bank want to get going now, rather than wait for the new Bank Act.

Senator Norman Paterson (L—Ontario) delivered a heated denunciation of the provincial government's interest in the new bank. He said it is dangerous to have any government controlling large natural resources own part of a bank.

Tremblay There When Favreau Got Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Norman Mathews, counsel for the RCMP, said today that RCMP Commissioner George McLellan, gave his full report on bribery charges to Justice Minister Favreau in the presence of Immigration Minister Tremblay.

Mr. Favreau had told the Commons that he had spoken to Mr. Tremblay about the secret RCMP report but he gave the House no indication that the immigration minister was present when he received it from the RCMP commissioner Aug. 14.

Mr. Mathews made his statement during legal argument before the first sitting of the judicial inquiry investigating charges by Eric Nielsen (PC—Yukon) of bribery and coercion by ministerial aides in a Montreal narcotics case.

The opening arguments before the commission heard by Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court concerned whether the RCMP reports should be produced immediately or after witnesses had been heard.

Chief Justice Dorion ruled that at this stage of the inquiry he must reject the motion. to have the RCMP report placed before the hearing immediately. However, he indicated it is likely to come in at a later stage.

Radical Changes Proposed

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Radical changes in Parliament's working schedule were proposed to the Commons Monday to ensure MPs a week in their constituencies for every four weeks in the capital through most of the session.

Under a setup suggested by the Commons special procedures committee, most of Parliament's detailed study of the government's multi-billion dollar spending program would be made by nine committees.

Parliament would adjourn two weeks in every five to allow half the MPs to work on spending in five of the committees while the other half went home to deal with riding affairs. In the second week, four more committees would take up the work, manned by the MPs who had made their constituency visit.

Attendance would be required a. the committee meetings, enforced as it is now in the Commons—a $120-a-day penalty for absences beyond 21 days as reported by the MP himself.

The procedures committee recommendations were introduced in the commons by H. A. Olson (SC — Medicine Hat), chairman of an all - party subcommittee on Parliament's committee structure.

WILL ASK APPROVAL

Mr. Olson gave notice that he proposes to ask the Commons to endorse the recommendations some time after next Wednesday. He would give no indication when that will be.

Among the major recommendations in the report:

1. The main spending estimates to be automatically sent to the nine committees. These now are usually considered in detail by the Commons although sometimes a department or two goes to a committee for detailed examination at the government's request.

2. A 20-day limit on the Commons debate on the spending program. At-present there is no fixed time limit.

3. The nine standing committees should have a maximum of 30 and minimum of 15 MPs. Some committees now have as many as 60 members.

4. Appointment of alternate members should be made when the committees are set up.

Court Hands Down Most Important Civil Rights Decision in Ten Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court unanimously has given its most important civil rights decision since it declared public school segregation unconstitutional 10 years ago. Its 1954 decision was also unanimous.

The court Monday upheld the constitutionality of a key section of the much fought-over 1964 Civil Rights Act which forbids racial discrimination in places of public accommodation this way:

Hotels and motels must serve all races if their customers or food move in interstate commerce. There may be some exceptions that don't affect interstate commerce. They'll be few. The court didn't spell out details.

One of the main and most persistent arguments against the 1964 act was that telling businessmen they had to serve all kinds of people would deprive Americans of personal and property rights. The act was passed after a record senate filibuster and signed into law by President Johnson last July 2.

It ran into some quick defiance and test cases were rushed to the court. Monday's unanimous opinion was written by Justice Tom Clark.

Negro leaders, while jubilant over the court's ruling upholding the controversial public accommodations section of the act, were silent on the defiant attitude today over whether full compliance with the ruling would follow.

President Johnson, noting that the ruling has been "encouraging widespread compliance hope the court rulings will result in increased compliance. Other leaders, Negro and white, called for compliance.

John Lewis, chairman of the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee which has been instrumental in many sit-ins throughout the South, hailed the decision as "sterling." Civil Rights Act and sit-in demonstrators as a landmark.

"The decision vindicated the thousands of demonstrators who made the civil rights bill not only possible but imperative," Lewis said.

There was a distinct possibility that further demonstrations would occur at a Birmingham, Ala., restaurant which was involved in the court rulings. The rulings involved the Heart of Atlanta Motel and Ollie's Barbecue in Birmingham.

Moreton Rolleston, president of the motel corporation, said the decision was "a sad day for individual freedom." His motel has accepted Negro guests ordered to by a lower court. He had appealed that ruling.

A lower court ruled that Ollie's Barbecue did not come under the law because it does not engage in interstate commerce. But the Supreme Court overturned this decision.

The court also ruled that states must dismiss at - in charges now that the Civil Rights Act is law.

About 130 sit-in cases still pending in Nashville, Tenn., about 100 in Atlanta, about 350 in Jacksonville, Fla., about 40 in Birmingham, several hundred in Jackson, Miss., and still more hundreds throughout the South will be affected.

Alabama's segregationist governor, George Wallace, called the ruling a "staggering blow to the free enterprise system and the rights of private property owners." He called for continued resistance.

The Life of Riley Is Ended, Wm. Bendix Dies of Pneumonia

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor William Bendix is dead. And as in a way, is Chester A. Riley the pug-faced, soft-hearted factory worker he made famous in television, radio and the movies.

Bendix died Monday in hospital of lobar pneumonia, complicated by a stomach ailment. He was 58.

During his career, Bendix masterfully played characters ranging from brutal villains to everybody's pal.

Born in New York City Jan. 14, 1906, he flopped as a bal boy for New York Giants baseball team—wouldn't let him out for spring training. He didn't do much better as a semi-professional baseball player, singing waiter and grocer.

He joined the Federal Theatre Project in the mid - 1930s, but had to survive six flops before hitting as the policeman in William Saroyan's The Time of Your Life in 1939.

Santa Claus Coming by Special CN Train Saturday Morning

Santa Claus has been arriving by reindeer for as long as children can remember — and in recent years he has been coming in by plane and parachute.

But on Saturday morning the Jolly Old Fellow is coming to Belleville by special train and will stay off his car at the Canadian National station at exactly 10:30 a.m.

It is expected that some 3,000 CN children and their friends will be on hand to see the white-haired gentleman.

After being officially welcomed by Lorne Brisbin, road foreman and train master, for the Rideau Area, Santa will go to a specially roped off area in the station where the children will have an opportunity to talk to the kindly old gentleman and receive a variety of treats.

Stan Willson, branch manager, passenger sales, Belleville, said the children will also receive a special coloring sheet and crayons with an invitation to enter a drawing contest. Drawings returned to Mr. Willson at the station by January 15th will be judged and the best effort will receive a special prize.

In this it's to the CN station Saturday morning to see Santa arrive — by train.

Post Mortem Shows Drowning Cause of Death

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Coroner Ralph Clark said Monday night a post mortem showed that Andrew Harry Guthrie, 33, formerly of Belleville, died as a result of drowning in a shallow puddle in his back yard Friday night.

Dr. Clark said there was no indication of negligence or foul play, and no inquest will be held.

Guthrie, father of six, was found by his wife, Mary, lying face-down in the yard a few minutes after leaving the house. She told police she called firemen who were unable to revive him.

Dr. Clark said the post mortem showed water in the trachea which caused the drowning.

Leo Lucciola Is Elected Labor Council President

Belleville and District Labor Council elected its 1965 executive last night.

Serving during the coming year will be Leo Lucciola as president; Arthur Gilroy, first vice-president; Max Cooney, second vice-president; Frank Daniels, secretary - treasurer; Daisy LaRue, corresponding secretary; John Harris, sergeant-at-arms, and Gerald Cunningham. Eilene Loucks, Gordon Hutchinson, and Rachael Mollison as executive members. A fifth executive member will be elected at the January meeting.

Labor can win a seat on the city council, Gerald Cunningham, unsuccessful candidate in the recent city election, told the assembled members. The last election, for which he said he was ill-prepared due to a late start, was he feels, a strong indication that the people will support a Labor candidate.

Mr. Cunningham received 1231 votes, 600 short of the winning vote for the seventh council seat.

He said that it is not impossible to win.

COUNCIL ACTIVE

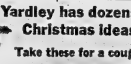
CLC representative for the Belleville area, Henry Nokes, congratulated the Labor Council on its performance during the past year.

Compared to the councils of the last few years, Mr. Nokes said the council was active and properly represented the people of the Belleville district.

Last year's president Gerald Cunningham attended the College of Labor and passed with a rating of excellent, a feat accomplished by only five of the graduating class.

This, Mr. Nokes said, is a credit to Mr. Cunningham and the council as a whole.

Mr. Nokes asked that the council continue its participation in community welfare programs and suggested a committee to approach the unions and stress the importance of delegates attending council meetings.



Both the Belleville Professional Firefighters Association and the Carpenters' Union have asked to re-join the council.

Letters of welcome and the information necessary for re-affiliation will be forwarded.

The council approved a token donation of $10 to the Wolverine Tube Union in London, Ont., still on strike after approximately six months.

Classification Talk Given

"I have five children and ten or twelve grandchildren because I married at 19 and couldn't afford them," was guest speaker Jack Belanger's remarks to members at Monday's Rotary luncheon.

Education wise, Mr. Belanger explained he attended the University of Toronto for a year but by repairing their electrical equipment.

The Belleville Electrical Company owned by Mr. Belanger began in Toronto in the mid 30's, moving to Foxboro where its "city slicker" owner, as he described himself, raised pigs geese and chickens for a hobby, and later, in 1959, moved into Belleville.

From his humble beginnings the business grew until today it employs close to 50 people, consists of two separate companies and draws business from Brockville, Port Hope, Picton and Bancroft.

Rewinding and repairing electric motors and equipment, anything from sewing machines to 250 h.p. motors — is the specialty of the company.

In today's average home Mr. Belanger estimates there are between twelve to thirty motors, used to run everything from the electric toothbrush to refrigerators and rotating TV antennae.

Frederick Adsett, Rotary Chairman of the Crippled Children's Committee from 1963 to 1964, was presented with a plaque in appreciation of his work.

Brigadier Wilfred Hawkes, Divisional Mid-Ontario Commander for the Salvation Army and Rotary's newest member, was introduced to the audience by Virgil James.

Wednesday evening a supper for the blind will be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Light Intersection Of Highways 7, 37

Ribuilt last spring, the intersection of Highways 7 and 37 will be lighted by next spring. The old "T" intersection was replaced last year with a "T" shape, bringing Highway 37 out about 250 yards west of the original intersection, and concrete curbs were built.

Plans for lighting the intersection were approved recently by Highways Minister Charles S. McNaughton, according to Hastings East M.L.A. Clarke Rollins, and work will begin immediately. Because of frost conditions, the installation may not be complete before spring.

Closure

again joined by gallery spectators. A backbench Liberal then t t loose with a "hip, hip hooray" that was echoed along both sides of the chamber.

With that, MPs began streaming noisily into the corridors and a momentous parliamentary day ended.

It began shortly after 2:30 p.m. EST Monday when Privy Council President George McIlraith introduced the rarely-invoked closure motion. He had given notice of this Friday.

Forced to a formal vote, closure was adopted 152 to 85 with 31 opposition members supporting the government. That meant all speeches were cut to a maximum 20 minutes from 40 and a debating dead-line of 2 a.m. Tuesday was automatically set by the rules.

Debate rolled through the afternoon and evening, a string of Conservatives repeating their party's stand for retention of the Red Ensign and attacking the closure motion.

FIRST SINCE PIPELINE

It was the first use of closure since 1956 when a former Liberal government used it to ram the famous pipeline bill through the Commons.

Four of the five party leaders got into the final round of debate.

NDP Leader Douglas praised the government for its decision to back the single-leaf flag of the committee had rejected the three-leaf design originally proposed by Mr. Pearson and his cabinet.

But he accused the government of rushing the flag issue to meet Mr. Pearson's "childish" Christmas deadline.

Social Credit Leader Thompson said the flag selected by the committee is "far from ideal" but deserved support. He could see no alternative to closure.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette lashed at the Conservatives, terming them the real separatists in the country for their filibuster tactics against a distinctive Canadian flag desired by most people in the country.

Mr. Caouette spoke until 12:51 a.m., just nine minutes off the closure deadline. Then began the events that led to uproar.

RISE TOGETHER

The prime minister and Mr. Diefenbaker rose simultaneously to speak, each seeking to have the final word in the debate.

Speaker Alan Macnaughton, faced with making a choice, noted that the two speakers preceding Mr. Caouette had been Conservatives.

Therefore, he would recognize a Liberal, "the prime minister."
